Rotarian Charles Dolan has brought out a new form of address of welcome to visiting firemen and other club guests. Tired apparently of the ancient bromide used by the majority of clubs, Charlie surprised his fellow clubmen and guests with the following when called upon to tell the visitors how glad the Rotary Club was to see them:

"Boys, I'm talking to the guests. I come here every Monday at noon. I see the same old faces, some smiling, some grouchy, some happy, some not. Every week it's the same old scenery. Today I happen to be sitting opposite a guest, and you don't know or can't imagine the good the change of facial landscape has done me.

Thiis face ate differently, it smiled differently, it acted differently. So for the luvamike, fellows, when you are around this way again, drop in. You don't know how much good you do, and I'm sure the change of scenery will do you as much good as it does me."

IT'S INEVITABLE

Despite the fact that the war and the law have endeavored to make man's lot easier, he still grouses. It's in the blood. He groused at world conditions in 1938. Came the war and he's growling about its cost.

He raved about the moths eating his trousers inside the cuffs. Came the cuffless pant, and the one-pant suit, and what does he say about it? He swore at the family for sugar left in tea-cups. Now he's dissatisfied with one-half pound per week. He groused at Junior for using too much gasoline and rubber in the good old days. Now he's mad because he can't do it himself. He cussed the gas stove. Now he's mad because they froze the stocks of electric stoves. He raved at the big sign across the street that used to keep him awake. Soon he'll be grousing because it's too dark in the room to see the light switch. He roared about the congestion of highway traffic, now he cusses because no cars come along to give him a lift when he hitch-hikes to the golf course.

He swore at married life and rued the day he took a wife. He gets a divorce, growls about getting his own meals and then gets married again.

He's a funny guy, this genus homo.

THE FRENCH THOUGHT THE WAR WAS OVER

A clandstine paper published in France cheers up its readers with an occasional joke. One was about a very small man who punched a German soldier who trod on his foot in the Paris underground, when another passenger, this time a big man, gave the German a kick in the rear.

To the officer at the Kommandantur the small man explained that he suffered severely from corns and just could not help himself when the German trod on his foot. Turning to the big man, the German officer said, "I understand his reason but why did you kick the representative of the glorious Reich in the rear?"

"Well," replied the big man, "when I saw the little fellow punch him I thought the war was over."

WEIGHING GAIN AND COST IN SOLOMONS

By EDWARD BOMAR.

Admiral King's warning reminder that victory and war experience must be paid for with "considerable losses" deserves as much stress as his gratifying report that an initial landing has been accomplished in the Solomons.

Even before the United States Naval commander-in-chief gave the first definite tidings from the scene officers familiar with the hazards involved were grim as they awaited an intimation of the price of a triumph in blood and warships.

Balanced against the score made against the Japanese when they were on the offensive, the loss thus far of a single cruiser plus the damaging of other warships is more than reasonable.

King's advice that the operation now in progress is one of the "most complicated and difficulty in warfare," suggests, nowever, that it may be only a down payment.

Even when such an assault can be carried out with overwhelming strength and with benefit of surprise, to dislodge a determined foe who has had months to dig in ranks in difficulty near the top of all problems a commander may face.

Narvick Costly.

Beginning with the British sea attack on Narvick in Norway, the costly nature of such an amphibious enterprise has been dramatized repeatedly—by the German conquest of Crete, and by Japanese wounds in the battles of Macassar and the Java Sea and most recently off Midway.

Even in the Philippines, where the invaders completely dominated the air and sea and were opposed ashore by a relatively weak land force, they paid heavily at Lingayen Gulf and at Legaspi.

Then too, as the admiral noted, the Solomons venture is the first of the kind for the United Nations. The Japanese and Nazis had months and in some instances years in which to perfect their teamwork between air, sea and land forces. Prior to Pearl Harbor, the Japanese had practised their technique since 1937 against almost helpless China.

King's disclosure that the offensive benefited from an initial surprise is itself a surprise. Large naval forces cannot usually be hidden from aerial observers alert to any sign of enemy activity. Berlin's report that a violent storm was raging at the outset could be a clue.

Carriers Risked.

The navy and marines had to take the chance which always exists in war that the attacker rather than the defender may be surprised, as exemplified by the lacing the Japanese took approaching Midway. No certain means exists to gauge in advance the intensity of resistance to be encountered.

Another pertinent observation is that one or more American aircraft carriers probably were risked inasmuch as fighter planes were essential and these could be transported to the scene only by this means from the nearest Allied-held territory.

Assuming accepted military principles were followed, the attack was carried out by a force at least three times as strong as it was believed the defenders would be. Such a margin must be enjoyed for a fair chance of success, it has been said by Major-General Holland M. Smith of the Marines, commander of the Amphibian Force of the Atlantic Fleet. Another dictum is that a small amphibian operation is likely to be worse than useless.

The offensive was undertaken therefore —with full realization that without the most extreme good fortune, substantial losses would have to be reckoned with, in accord with recognized principles of "calculated risk." After Pearl Harbor and Bataan there will be no quibbling over the price of victory.

THE COST

Ask France how gentle is the Hun
With people he has overrun.
Ask Holland what men sacrifice
Who purchase peace at Hitler's price.
Ask Norway what the tyrant
For every guarantee he makes
And then compute to us the cost
If ever should this war be lost.

First they would strip us, one and all,
Of church and school and meeting
    hall,
And almost with the second breath
Order our leaders put to death.
Next there'd be hostages to die
In groups for one who might defy
Some brutal German's trifling
    whim,
Unless his friends surrendered
    him.

This is the sort of peace that comes Accompanied with German drums.
All joys of right and freedom cease
Where Germans set the terms of peace.
Horror and arrogance and greed
Follow where German arms succeed
And even worse would be our plight
If we should lose to pagan might.

What if the bills for victory
    mount,
Today that's not the cost to count.
Let's count the terms of peace
    they'd use
If ever we the war should lose;
Let's count the cost in horrors vile,
In loss of everything worth while,
In death, in fear, in filth, in sin
If freedom's fight we fail to win.

YOU'D BE SURPRISED!

TREASON, TREASON!

The recent conviction of a German-born citizen at Detroit on charges of treason emphasizes the small number of convictions for treason in the courts of the United States.

Most of the framers of the federal constitution had themselves been technically guilty of treason against the British government and they wrote into the constitution provisions that make it difficult to convict anybody for treason.

"Treason against the United States," says the constitution, "shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court."

The word "treason" came to us through French from Latin "traditionem," meaning a delivering up or betrayal.

At the time of the American Revolution all sorts of crimes, misdemeanors and felonies were classed as treason.

Violation of one's allegiance to sovereign or country was known as high treason.

The framers of the federal constitution were so used to the enforcement of laws against treason for political purposes that they decided to give the crime the narrowest possible definition.

Most of the states followed suit and similarly defined treason in their constitutions.

Some of the leaders of the rebellion led by Daniel Shays in Massachusetts before the adoption of the federal constitution were convicted of treason under state law, but Governor John Hancock pardoned them all.

Under federal law all participants in treason are principles and there are no accessories.

Soon after George Washington became President several men were convicted of treason for their part in the "Whisky Rebellion" in western Pennsylvania, but the President pardoned them.

A few years later John Fries was indicted, tried, convicted and sentenced to death for his part in the "Window-Tax War" in eastern Pennsylvania, but he was pardoned by President John Adams.

Aaron Burr was tried for treason but acquitted.

John Brown was tried, convicted and executed for treason under Virginia law.

Jefferson Davis was held in prison for two years, but he was released on bail and never tried for treason.

During the first World War there were numerous treason trials but no convictions.

It is an interesting fact that, although the federal government took the position that everybody who actively joined the Confederacy was guilty of rebellion and treason, not a single Confederate or former Confederate was ever convicted of treason.

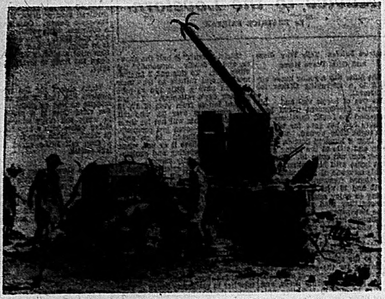
1942 MARATHON

DOWN IN THE MOUTH



One of General Rommel's famous 88-mm. anti-tank guns is pictured after it had been struck by his explosive shells fired by New Zealand 25-pound field guns during a battle on the desert. Note how the Germans blew up the barrel of the gun before abandoning it. This picture backs up the statements of officers returning from the desert who have said that the Nazi 88-mm anti-aircraft gun could be dealt with.

ON THE GROUND AND IN THE AIR, THESE GUNS PROMISE SUDDEN DEATH TO NAZIS

Issue of Our Newspaper Gets Around

How an issue of the Ontario-Intelligencer crossed and recrossed the Atlantic Ocean is being told by Wm. D. Stewart of 5 Pine Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart have three sons serving overseas with the Canadian armed forces all being connected with anti-aircraft units. Lawrence Stewart is with the 5th A.A., Ross with the 2nd. A.A. and Jack —with the 4th A.A.

Recently Mr. and Mrs. Stewart received a photograph of the headquarters staff of the 5th A.A. to which Lawrence Stewart is assigned. The strange incident surrounding the reception of the parcel was revealed when the Stewarts unwrapped the picture only to find an issue of the Ontario Intelligencer had been used to wrap the photograph securely.

Incidentally the newspaper had been mailed to Lawrence by Mrs. Stewart some months ago in order to keep him acquainted with the activities in the old home town. Thus an issue of this "Great Family Journal" crossed the Atlantic Ocean, bringing news of home to the boys in the 5th Canadian Anti-Aircraft unit and subsequently arrived back from whence it commenced a journey of nearly 6,000 miles.

Aleutian Bridge Strategic Area

Let us take a map of the Pacific and stick three little flags at three points, one at San Pedro, the American naval base in California, the second at Dutch Harbour, the outermost of the Aleutian Islands off the coast of Alaska, the third at Midway, the American island out in the Pacific. Towards the end of April 1935 the biggest manoeuvres known up to that time were held by the American fleet within the triangle marked by the three little flags. In naval circles these manoeuvres became known as problem No. 16.

One hundred and fifty-three men o'war, including 12 battleships, took part in these manoeuvres, coming from San Pedro and Pearl Harbour towards Hawaii. Simultaneously 48 seaplanes flew from Pearl Harbour to Midway, a distance of 1,200 miles. The whole fleet, commanded by Admiral Josef M. Rees of the U. S. navy, included 157 surface vessels, 477 seaplanes one naval airship, 4 aircraft carriers and 55,000 officers, ratings and pilots. During the manoeuvres the American forces approached to within 700 sea miles of the island of Paramoshir, belonging to the Japanese Kuril group of islands.

These manoeuvres were the final rehearsal for the American navy's operations in June of this year, round Midway and the Aleutian Islands. On June 3rd at 6 a.m. four Japanese bombers, accompanied by 15 fighter planes, attacked Dutch Harbour, "the key to Alaska's defences," to quote the words of an official U. S. speaker. This attack, which only succeeded in setting fire to a few warehouses and left the great water-tower and electric power works intact—all the other military installations such as gun emplacements, casemates, etc., are sunk deep into the moss-grown rocks of Unalaska Island—was intended as a diversion. Almost simultaneously a Japanese fleet advanced upon Midway, only to incur the most appalling losses after the battle in the dangerous Coral Sea. About the same time the Japanese also carried out land operations in the western Aleutian Islands.

These operations began exactly six months after the attack on Pearl Harbor on December 7th, 1941. On that day the westernmost of the Aleutian Islands, Attu, was occupied. Since then two other islands of the group, Kiska and Agattu have been seized.

-What are the Aleutian Islands? They are the bridge between the Asiatic and American continents. They are strung out over a thousand miles of sea between Kamtchatka and Alaska. There are about 150 of these islands. Like a chain they lie across the 90 kilometres of the Behring Straits; they form the links between which the waters of the Pacific pour into the ice-bound Arctic Ocean. The Behring Straits and the neighboring waters are covered with ice during eight months of the year and, although the Aleutians are situated roughly in the same latitude as Berlin, their climate is that of the Polar regions. No tree grows there, only mosses, lichen and low bushes. The extinct volcanoes which, at the time they were active were responsible for the breaking of the bridge of land between Kamtchatka and Alaska now serve as a guide for navigation — when they are visible.

Normally they are not visible, for the islands are lost in a blue mist almost all the year round. The mist is generated by the mingling in that region of the warm Kuro-Shivo stream with the icy Polar waters. This fog and the innumerable rocky reefs above and below the water make navigation extremely dangerous. Moreover the fog makes air-operations and observations from aircraft very difficult. The more credit is due therefore, to the United States air force and submarines which up to June 4th, had sunk in the neighborhood of the Aleutian Islands three Japanese destroyers, one cruiser and a transport, and had damaged nine other ships, including an aircraft carrier.

Is the strategic importance of the Aleutians such as to justify these operations?

Let us first consider the problem of supplies for Russia. The sea route from Seattle on the west coast of the U.S.A. to Archangel on the White Sea is only 1,000 miles longer than the Atlantic route over the Barents Sea and Murmansk, where German U-boats are lying in wait for American and British convoys. Navigation across the Behring Straits is possible only for 100 days in the year whereas the Atlantic route is free of ice all the year round. Nevertheless, even in 1939, the Russians had already transported half a million tons of goods by the far eastern route. Transport by this route could not, of course, be expanded indefinitely but the amount of goods carried might be considerably increased. The ships coming from Seattle need not come as far as Archangel; they need only sail to the mouth of the Lena in Siberia, which is connected by a motor road, starting at Yakutsk, with the Trans-Siberian railway. Thanks to a chain of wireless and meteorological stations in the Arctic desert and a number of good landing-grounds, carrying supplies to Russia by freighter-planes is not difficult, and in the case of a Japanese route could be used to supply Russia with American bombers.

Although many signs seem to point to it, it is impossible to say whether Japan really contemplates such a war. The Neutrality Pact would not prevent her from attacking Russia, any more than it prevented her partner, Hitler, from doing so. In the event of war against Russia Japanese submarines based on the Aleutian Islands could, of course, considerably interfere with traffic to and from America.

It would appear, however, that the Japanese have occupied Aleutian islands for reasons of defence rather than attack. Only three days after the occupation of Attu Tokio hastened to explain that "the Japanese military operations in the Aleutian Islands are solely aimed at the reduction of American bases of operation which menace Japan. They cannot be construed as threatening the integrity of Soviet territory.'

Actually, Japanese discussing the strategic value of the Aleutians, always say that America "has now lost her last chance of a direct expedition against Japan," but they never suggest that their approach to Alaska and the west coast of Canada and the United States across the Aleutians might have any value for an offensive action. German commentaries also speak of the advance of Japanese defensive positions, never of the possibility of an attack. This was said by Colonel Gehrts on June 13th in a broadcast from the Zeesen wireless station; the "Frankfurter Zeitung," the "Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung" and the "Berliner Borsen-Zeitung" had said the same thing on June 11th.

If nevertheless American observers demand that the Japanese be driven out of the Aleutian Islands, it is because of the damage Japanese submarines might do if they advanced under cover of the fog towards the west coast of the American continent. Actually a Japanese submarine shelled Vancouver Island on the night of June 20th and the coast of Oregon the following night. The results of the shelling were that on Vancouver Island a coastguard station was slightly damaged and in Oregon no damage was done at all. Moreover it is by no means certain that this submarine operated from a base in the Aleutian Islands.

The most probable explanation is that Japan has decided to occupy the Aleutian Islands because, in spite of the considerable reserves, she is incapable of taking advantage of the Soviet Union's commitments in Europe to push her own interests in the Far East. "Dagens Nyheter" wrote recently: "It is important for Japan to prevent Soviet territory from being used as a base for air attacks on Japan." In this light Japan's occupation of the Aleutian Islands must be regarded simply as a preventive measure.

Field Marshal Reichenau, who died suddenly in peculiar circumstances, was one of the Nazi experts for Far Eastern questions. In 1937 he worked out a plan of attack for the Japanese against the west coast of Canada and the U.S.A., based on the Aleutian Islands. When he talked of the occupation of the chain of islands 1,100 miles long, an officer of the naval staff, Commodore Schniewindt, interrupted him with the remark: "Such an operation would only be possible if the American fleet had first been destroyed." This authoritative view of a German sailor has been confirmed by the heavy losses the Japanese fleet has already sustained, amounting to some 300 ships. It is, in view of the circumstances, doubtful whether Japan would risk an open battle at sea. —Mont. Star

Leadership Training Campers Direct Service At St. Paul's Church

Stirling, (Special) Aug. 10.—Great interest was shown in a special service at St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, on Sunday when the congregations of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and St. Paul's Church joining for the usual summertime union service were hosts to about a hundred members of the Bay of Quinte Leadership Training camp with the latter group taking complete charge of the service.

A full choir representing both churches was directed in the leadership of congregational singing by Mr. G. L. Clute, organist and choirleader of the home church who presided at the organ throughout the service. Mr. Arthur Duncan, soloist of St. Andrew's Church sang a baritone solo "Teach Me to Trust Thee More" (Elsie Duncan Yale). LAC. Ormande Benson of R.C.A.F., Ottawa, also contributed a splendid solo "Jerusalem" with Miss Isobel Brown of Perth, playing the accompaniment on the piano. The service was directed by Mr. Stephen Saywell of Ottawa, assisted by Rev. Floyd Honey of Baltimore, director of Bible Studies, Rev. David D. Gray of St. Paul's Church and Rev. C. G. Parks of Whitby, Dean of the Oak Lake Camp, who presented an inspiring message. In his fine address directed mainly to the young people present, Rev. Park urged each to become a living example of the Christian faith in word, manner of life, and love. "The power of words as used in propaganda", he said, "is greater in this conflict than bullets. It must be remembered that words float forth on the breeze like seeds. Make sure that our words are uplifting and pointing to the righteous way of life. We shall thus draw others into the realm of Christianity".

In addition to the two congregations represented nearly one hundred campers were present for this fine service.

Little Benny's Note Book

Us fellows were sitting on Puds Simkins's front steps talking and arguing and enjoying vacation and claiming anything was better than having to go to school, no matter how hot, and Skinny Martin, said, Oh boy this is the life, nothing to do but sit around in the open air on a weekday and wait for more weekdays with no school on them.

You cant beat vacation for a swell time of the year, I said, and Sid Hunt said, And the best part of it is, it lasts so long.

It must be something like Heaven when it comes to lasting, Puds said, and Lucky Leroy Shooster said, Some funny things happen in school, though. Do you remember the time Miss Kitty asked who could name 4 seasons ,and Raymin Levy said Salt pepper vinegar and mustard? he said.

Making everybody laugh like everything just remembering it, and I said, How about the time the committee from the Board of Education was visiting the class and Glasses Magee couldn't stop sneezing and the rest of the class couldn't stop laughing? Wowie was that something, I said, and we all laughed and yelled at the very idea, and Puds Simkins said, Yeah, and that time when Miss Kitty read us a poem about the faithful dog and asked if anybody had any questions, and Shorty Judge asked her if you snuck up behind a faithful dog in the dark and bit him, whether he wouldn't bite you back.

And we kept on laughing at different funny things that happened in school, such as Puds Simkins choking on a bite of apple behind his geogriffy book and Dave Brunswick hitting him on the back to stop the choke and Puds hitting him back again and starting a fight, and Skinny Martin said, Oh well, I guess school's not such a bad place.

Making us all feel almost homesick for it, but not quite.

A holdover for fall seems to be the silk dinner suit, liked in moire, satin and bengaline. A new silk bengaline in inky black has big jewelled buttons on the fitted jacket and is worn with a printed georgette blouse in shocking pink, gray and chartreuse print.

Limitations specified for woollens serve to bring back the black wool frock with black satin trimming. Whole plastrons of black satin, wide appliques on the side, satin pipings, collars and cuffs mark many of the new slim daytime woollen frocks.

Good Cooking Aid to Beauty

Teresa Wright advocates good eating habits for good looks.

By HELEN FOLLETT

SINCE THE balanced diet has been exploited, vitamins tooted to the skies, we've heard less and less about food faddists. The world used to be full of them. They were in normal health, just cooked up funny ideas for themselves.

After a time they were not in normal health. They deleted certain elements that are necessary for well-being. All sorts of ill appeared because of diet deficiencies. Eye troubles among them, and complexion blemishes.

The finicky eater should train her appetite to enjoy all the good things of the table. The best means of doing that is to learn something about the delightful art of cooking. No wonder some children hate spinach it is tasteless and watery when it should be fairly solid, salted and filmed with butter.

They'll turn up their infantile noses at chops that are toughened in fat, when they'll fairly drool with joy at the sight of a chop that has been quickly broiled, is tender and rare inside. Many a mother who bawls aloud because her child refuses to eat would clear up the situation by getting better acquainted with culinary possibilities.

A good cook can make tough meat tender and appetizing by proper cooking. A poor cook can ruin the finest steak or roast that ever graced the butcher's block.

We must urge the beauty clientele to wise themselves to the benefit of good eating habits. This knowledge will cut down the beauty overhead. Cosmetics will be more responsive because they'll have a healthy skin to work on.

We need meat, fish, fowl, vegetables, fruits, cereals, dairy products. A quart of milk a day will do wonders for the teeth and the skin. An undernourished woman has a complexion that is yallery or grey and without coloring.

THE PRINCESS ACROSS THE STREET

Read me not of the bygone days
When man sought tyrant's might,
Nor say they have passed into
Lengend's lore,
And now do not meet our sight.

There are no Princess' now, you say,
Locked in a dungeon dim,
Who drink champagne with ashy lips
From a glass with poisoned rim.

Yet, in the mansion across the street
There lives a lady fair,
While sadness sits in her great, grey eyes
E're the silver is in her hair.

The pillars that arch in the ceiling high,
Are stronger than prison wall,
No key but the voice of Death itself
Kind freedom e're may call.

Near by sits her jailor, silent and grim,
With a brain of iron mould,
And a heart that has but one love in life,
The winning and hoarding of gold.

Though the gold that gleams in his lady's hair
A lover's heart would thrill,
The miser sits near the fire of love
And shakes in his old age chill.

And dungeon, darker than legends know
Where never crept Sun's ray
Was cheery and bright by that which forms
His lady's common day.

For the heart grows sad and the life is pale,
Where love never comes to cheer,
To kiss the fingers, slim and white,
Or the rose of the lady's ear.

The slender throat has never known
Fond love's impulsive kiss,
The lingering warmth whose touch is prayer.
The tender lips long miss.

And all youth's sunny, love born day,
The lady turns a band,
The ball and chain which bind her fast,
Gleam on her fair, white hand.

A diamond ball and a golden chain,
Joining Spring and Wintry Weather,
Who dared to utter the quibbled words
Whom God hath joined together.

Side by side—yet miles apart—
Who joined them, God or man?
Though miles apart,—yet side by side
Two souls since life began.

So my lady sits in her castle hall
Whose pillars arch o'er her head,
Her jailor stirs in his nap by the fire
And she wishes that-one-were dead.

Our cottage hearth has warmth and love,
Here baby footsteps fall,—
Sweeter far than Tara's strains
That float from my ladys' hall.

There are no dungeons now you say,
Yet go to the window, Sweet,
And draw the shades, lest our happiness
Pain the Princess across the street.

A nice compromise between the hatless fashion and a dinner hat is a mantilla coif of black lace held to the head by black velvet bows and falling to the shoulders.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Beatrice Fairfax Tells Why Boys and Girls Leave Home

The other day a young husky applied to a Recruiting Officer for enlistment.

He was of heroic size and his muscular development would have interested Joe Louis. Questions and answers had not gone far when a distraught little woman, weighing less than a hundred pounds, dashed in and claimed the young giant as her son, not quite 16. The boy went home with his mother.

This escapade of the young male is matched frequently by girls of 14, 15 and 16 who come to cities hoping to enjoy some of the war glamour they read about in the home newspapers. The Travelers' Aid Society keeps a vigilant eye on girls who doze on the benches at Stations trying to make up their minds what to do next. These girls are returned almost invariably to the anxious parents.

Allowing for the glamorous tales one reads about war—of overnight heroes made by daring deeds, and pictures of girls in becoming uniforms doing thrilling and daring things—one realizes the overwhelming urge of youngsters to get a finger in world affairs.

These boys and girls want to get going. Such grim necessities as money, a change of clothing, the prospects of a job do not occur to them when they leave comfortable homes to take chances with the unknown.

"Strict parents" is half the answer, and "deadly monotony" the other half. To this end I implore mothers and fathers to let their children have a little fun as part of their day's rationing. I get myriad letters from girls of 17, 18 and sometimes over 20, who tell me their parents will not let them have company—even girl company. They're not allowed to go anywhere, this, believe it or not, when the girls are working and contributing to the family support.

What's to be expected but that a youngster, a normal boy or girl, will take chances with the unknown against the monotony and loneliness of life unrelieved by youthful contacts?

The other day I had a desperate letter from a woman whose 17-year-old daughter was regularly sent to bed at nine o'clock in the evening. The girl waited until she heard the key in her mother and father's room turn in the lock. Then she'd sneak downstairs, meet a waiting boy friend who would take her to roadhouse dance. The mother thought her daughter should be sent to a reform school, but I suggested that the reform might just as well set in at home.

For a girl to seek her amusement at a roadhouse dance seems lamentable to me. But what do you thing of a home in which no allowance is made for youthful high spirits and the craving for fun that is in every fibre of a youngster's being?

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Should She Take Vacation Trip With Her Boy Friend?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been going with a boy for some time, but we are not engaged At his parents' request he has asked me to spend my vacation (he has his vacation at the same time I do) with him at the home of his family. The trip there is eight hours by train.

Do you think that it is proper for me to accept this invitation? And do you think it is proper for me to go on the train with him, and if so, should I allow him to pay my train-fare?

I must admit that I am very much perplexed about this, for we live in a rather small town, where there would certainly be a great deal of talk if we were to spend our vacations together.

Lucille

I wish you had told me what your family thinks about this plan, for after all your mother and father should really make the decision. If they like and trust this boy, approve of your friendship with him, I see no reason (unless you have omitted telling me any reason) why you should not accept an invitation to visit this boy's family.

However. . .and this is most important . . . the boy's invitation, even if at his parents' request, is not enough of an invitation. It is most necessary that you also receive a direct invitation from his mother. You can easily and graciously make this clear to the young man by telling him that you and your mother would appreciate having his mother write to you assuring you that your visiting her would be welcome and convenient. There must be nothing casual or indirect about this invitation, especially since you are not engaged to the young man.

So if your family approves, and you receive the proper kind of invitation, I see no impropriety in your accepting the invitation.

Also if all the circumstances are upstanding, you might also properly take the train trip with him, if it is a day journey. If you're a girl of poise, you will have common sense enough to be your own chaperon . . . and there will probably be plenty of passengers in the car to be chaperons too!

However, if you and your family think there might be even a breath of criticism about your travelling with this young man, it would be vastly better for you to wait a day or two and then take the trip alone. Either way you should pay for your own ticket (buy a round-trip ticket, so to eliminate any question about the return ticket payment).

Courtesy Tip

Keep your mind open and alive. Then you can always find something to talk about . . . no matter how difficult the other person seems to be, no matter how shy he or she is, no matter how boring, no matter how selfcentred. It's fun to ferret out one enthusiasm that the person has . . . and then capitalize on your discovery.

Mess Room Chatter Of Canada's Airmen

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

With the R.C.A.F. Somewhere in England, Aug. 11 (CP)—Attention Oshawa. An orphan squadron of the R.C.A.F. overseas wishes to be adopted by a Canadian city and the Ontario auto centre is at the top of the list of prospective candidates.

The squadron is a spitfire unit with representatives from all parts of the Dominion. It is taking an active part in the air war and has a fine record of enemy aircraft downed.

A number of squadrons have ties with Canadian cities but this one has neither a "home town" nor a nickname. And because of the wide dispersal of him towns and of its members, it cannot claim any particular one for its own.

A mess meeting brought forth the suggestion Oshawa might be the centre of population in Canada, although this produced considerable argument.

Lending strength to the Oshawa argument was the fact that it is the home town of the 22-year-old C.O., blond Sqdn. Ldr. L. V. Chadburn, a native of Montreal.

The fliers would like to incorporate in the squadron crest part of the coat of arms of whatever city does adopt them.

Wings abroad, the overseas newspaper of the R.C.A.F., published this report from a squadron correspondent:

Aircraft "R" flew away headed in a general direction. Nobody thought anything of it. "R" was loaded to the roof with paraphernalia, including fishing tackle. Still nobody thought anything of it. But when agents began coming in from our agents on the coasts, we thought of it. Our sources are everywhere and are as reliable as Yorkshire weather. "R" was seen cruising lowly and slowly over northern waters with PO. Rix hanging out the rear trolling. Sir, what did you think you would catch?

A reliable source vouches for this one:

An R.A.F. aircraft recognition expert was delivering a lecture to a group of airmen when a plane roared high overhead.

"Now that," said the lecturer, thankful for a practical example, "is one of our own."

You've guessed the rest. A bomb exploded nearby and shook the lecture room.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Always In My Heart"
"First Belleville Showing"

A sensational young singing star has captured the hearts of Belleville's theatre goers in her motion picture debut "Always In My Heart" now showing at the Capitol Theatre.

Gloria Warren, fifteen year old soprano has taken thousands by storm in her first screen vehicle, and her introduction to Belleville audiences installed her as an immediate favorite

The glorious voice of the young girl, whose personality glows on the screen throughout the entire length of the picture marks her as a singing star of the first magnitude. Cast with such veteran motion picture luminaries as Walter Huston and Kay Francis, the story is a perfect setting for the newest singing sensation that has flashed across the motion picture horizon in some time. Her voice has a clear beautiful quality. Gloria handles difficult arias and simple melodies with the ease of a Metropolitan opera star. In addition she has a sweet beautiful simplicity a girlishness that fairly leaps out of the screen at you, a dark attractive beauty that provides a personal background for the glorious voice that is heard in generous measure throughout the entire film.

Gloria Warren will do. She has beauty, charm, personality and youth together with a voice that should take her to the peak of a singing career.

The story, "Always In My Heart" is a fitting vehicle for the debut of the young singer. Gloria has plenty of opportunity to not only display her singing talents but bring it a histrionic ability that is usually rare in young actresses. She is unaffected. She typifies the young sweet girl, whose secret of attractiveness is just being herself. The story carries through to its interesting climax with sustained action, a heart-throb or two, plenty of music and a romantic angle that is sufficient background for the story.

Walter Huston and Kay Francis in the featured roles again do give outstanding performances, while Borrah Minevich, a musical act that the screen does not show often enough provides an additional musical touch that rounds out a fine story. Patty Hale, child star provides plenty of comedy. "Always In My Heart" is fine entertainment and should be seen by every music-level in Belleville. Added feature is "U-Boat 29".

AT THE McCARTHY

"Eagle Squadron"

Be among the hundreds to state that you have seen "Eagle Squadron" at the McCarthy Theatre, for if you perhaps only see one picture in a year, "Eagle Squadron" should be your picture for 1942.

In making "Eagle Squadron," producer Walter Wanger has notably achieved the screen's first authentic story of this second great war both in the air and on the land.

From the English fighting front comes this story of American fighter pilots who joined the Royal Air Force long before their own country's entrance into the war. Their swift Spitfires have written many a heroic chapter in the war of the clouds since then.

The fact that many incidents in the picture are based on exploits of the real Eagle Squadron lends to the Wanger production a dramatic authenticity seldom achieved on the screen.

Performances are Noteworthy

The long and imposing cast of players contributes, performances fully as noteworthy as the theme of their story. In the leading role, Robert Stack portrays a young Californian who joins the Eagle Squadron, and through his adventures and his romance the story is unfolded.

Opposite him, in the character of a member of the Women's Auxiliary Air Force, is Diana Barrymore, who makes her screen debut in this picture. Miss Barrymore, daughter of John Barrymore and the youngest member of her famous "royal family" of stage and screen, proves by the performance that she is a notable newcomer to the cinema.

Likewise worthy of praise is the work of such well known players as Jon Hall, Eddie Albert, Nigel Bruce, Evelyn Ankers, Leif Erikson, John Loder, Edgar Barrier, Isobel Elsom, Gladys Cooper, Paul Cavanagh, Richard Davies, Jill Esmond, Gene Reynolds, Alan Hale, Jr., and many others. "Eagle Squadron" in fact, has the record number of ninety-eight speaking parts and all of them are poignantly dramatic.

The authenticity and realism of the film has its counterpart in the warm human story of the fighter pilot and the WAAF girl. In their line of duty, the screen unfolds modern war in the clouds, a night raid by the dreaded British Commandos of headline fame, and the women in this war who fly transport planes, operate radio communications to the fighter and bomber pilots, and fire anti-aircraft guns.

AT THE BELLE

"Swamp Water"

Awesome Okefenokee Swamp of Georgia, dread and mysterious, is now the locale of a fine motion picture. 20th Century-Fox's "Swamp Water," the film slated to open today at the Belle Theatre, is the strange and unusual story about the amazing people who live near the wilderness that is Okefenokee.

Many are the legends about the swamp. Few who entered it ever lived to return to civilization to tell of their experiences. Most of the missing were "gator-et," for Okefenokee has some of the most vicious alligators on this continent. But its forbidding appearance, the awe in which it is held by the natives made it ideal as a hiding for criminals. Hunted killers made this their home. There they hid from the law until they could make good their mistake—or until the alligators or deadly cottonmouth snakes got them.

The gifted pen of Vereen Bell caught the mood of the swamp and the people whose lives it affected in an unusual story. And the editors of the Saturday Evening Post, impressed by the strange story, published it as a serial. So great was its reception by readers that 20th Century-Fox decided that the directorial genius of the famous French director, Jean Renoir, was needed to bring it to the screen.

Walter Brennan, Walter Huston, Anne Baxter and Dana Andrews are featured in "Swamp Water."

"Castle In the Desert"

Charlie Chan is on the trail again in 20th Century-Fox's latest film, "Castle In The Desert," which is slated as the companion feature attraction.

Sidney Toler portrays the suave Oriental sleuth in the thrill-packed mystery drama which is laid in the arid wastes of the Mojavo Desert.

An excellent supporting cast includes Arleen Whelan, Richard Derr, Douglas Dumbrille, Henry Daniell and Edmund MacDonald. Sen Yung as Chan's "No. 2 Son" provides the comic relief in the tense action-packed mystery.

The Belle mirror of world events will also be exhibited.

Operation May Not Give Complete Relief From Symptoms

When an ailment becomes so serious that an operation is necessary naturally the patient and his family may feel that after the operation he should be free of symptoms. And this is true in most cases.

There are some ailments in which operation saves life but because the patient inherits or has acquired certain tendencies, some of the symptoms remain even after the operation. This is particularly true of ulcer of the stomach and of the duodenum (the first part of the small intestine into which the stomach empties). It is called peptic ulcer. Thus these patients are advised to follow the peptic ulcer diet and to try to avoid excitement and emotional disturbances insofar as they are able to do so.

Similarly with the removal of the gall bladder. While the great majority of these patients obtain almost complete relief from symptoms there are a certain number who do not and they must follow certain habits of diet and living to keep free of symptoms.

In the American Journal of Digestive Diseases, Fort Wayne, Indiana, Drs. R. H. Moser, B. D. Rosenak, and R. J. Hasterlik, Indianapolis, report their investigation of 49 patients who returned to the clinic because of the persistence of dyspepsia symptoms following the removal of the gall bladder containing stones. Strange to relate, these physicians found that the symptoms before operation or the condition of the gall bladder found at operation, did not show which patients would have symptoms after the operation and which patients would get complete relief from symptoms.

There was one striking fact observed and this was that when the patient had dyspepsia only during an attack, then relief was likely to follow from the operation.

Another fact discovered was that in 33 of the 49 patients other conditions were present besides the stones in the gall bladder. Some of these conditions were irritable large intestine, inflammation of the stomach, and allergy or, sensitiveness to foods.

There are two lessons to be learned from the above investigations. First, even when gall stones are present they may not be entirely to blame for the symptoms, though the gall bladder is better removed. Second, the patient should be told that complete relief is not always obtained by removal of the gall bladder.

THE WORLD TODAY

By De WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Word that the United States Marines are holding their own in the Solomon Islands in the face of strong Japanese counter-attacks carries us as far as we are entitled to venture in figuring out how the battle goes for the fighting forces which are staging the first major offensive action of the United States.

This brief report comes from Australian Prime Minister John Curtin. It isn't much, and we shall be well advised not to try to read into it more than it indicates, namely, that at the time of the announcement we were getting on with the job, and that the enemy resistance was heavy.

Excellent Model of Restraint

The business-like official account thus far rendered by Admiral Ernest J. King, Commander-in-Chief of the United States fleet, provides us with an excellent model of restraint. It hazards no guesses about the outcome, for that veteran sea-dog knows full well a battle is never over until the sound of the last gun has died away.

There's one thing we shouldn't overlook in Admiral King's account — his statement that "Considerable losses, such as are inherent in any offensive operation, must be expected as the price to be paid for the hard-won experience which is the essential to the attainment of far-reaching results." Presumably by "losses" he refers to both men and equipment.

Amphibious Operation Difficult

The amphibious operation being carried out under the command of Vice-Admiral Robert Ghormley, commander in the South Pacific, is one of the most difficult and dangerous which war provides. That is landing of men from transports in the face of a heavy enemy defence. We are seeing in miniature an attack such as would be involved in an invasion of France across the English Channel.

The land fighting thus far reported seems to have been centred on the islands of Tulagi and Guadalcanal, in the south-eastern part of the Solomons which dot the ocean like the spill from an upset pepper-pot. These two islands are of great strategic importance.

Tulagi Harbor

Tulagi possesses a vast harbor which would provide anchorage for a Japanese armada. Guadalcanal was being prepared as a great airbase The Japs have been landing there for several weeks now, to disappear into the jungle where they have set natives to work building airdromes.

However, while these two dots in the sea appeared to be the storm centre, the operations spread throughout the whole area comprising the Solomons, the Bismarck Archipelago and New Guinea for Allied warplanes were hitting here, there and everywhere. Not only were they covering troop landings but they were reaching far afield to slash at Jap airdromes and so protect the ground forces from Nipponese air attack as much as possible.

Purpose of Offensive

This offensive seems to be aimed at driving the enemy out from strongholds which provide the Japanese with bases for attack on that country. Possession of these islands also would provide a foothold for further Allied offensives. And, either by design or circumstances, the drive may, if successful, act as a "second front." To discourage the Japanese from attacking Russia. Furthermore any operation of this sort helps China.

Cy Barriage's Ninth Inning Triple Gives Vets Two Runs To Beat Bombers 5 to 3

Vets Shell Smith From Bombers' Mound, but Only Out-Hit Losers 7-5 in Tight Game

HITS ARE SCARCE

Cy Barriage's mighty triple to right, that was productive of two runs, gave the Army and Navy "Vets" a 5 to 3 win over the Mountain View "Bombers" in the Belleville and District Softball playdowns at the Exhibition Park last night. It was the second consecutive win for the Vets, who advanced to the league finals by eliminating the Bombers in a best-in-three series. There was one out and two aboard when Barriage produced the moneyed hit, that advanced the Vets into the league championship series versus the No. 5 ITS Flyers, which opens Wednesday night.

Besides Barriage's run-producing ninth inning Merriwell-styte blow, the Vets' shortstop played sterling ball in the field and personally halted a third-inning Bomber rally with a brilliant defensive. Otherwise it was Connie Harris's' effective five-hit pitching that subdued Skipper Ray Barrett's Bombers, as the local moundsman twice rose to dizzy heights to blank the Bombers in innings when they got the first two batters aboard, but failed to tally. Then Harris limited the Bombers to five safeties, which is tall hurling after taking into consideration he had allowed the eliminated Bombers only three safe blows in their previous try.

Stingy With Hits

With the opposing pitchers being rather stingy with their base hits last night, the Vets only counting seven, fielding bordered on the sensational at times. Freddie Smith went to the mound for the Bombers, but was relieved by Bernie Rihbany in the seventh, with Rihbany temporarily halting the rallying Vets only to fall victim and become the losing pitcher in the ninth.

St. Louis opened the scoring for the Vets with a double in the second, going to third on a fielder's choice and scoring after Kiser's long fly was caught. The Vets added two more in the sixth after Henn singled and went to second when Cy Barriage drew a walk. St. Louis fouled out to Porter on an attempted bunt and Green hit to Christie at short. Christie tried to force Henn at third, but Fenlon missed the throw and Henn scored, Barriage racing to third and scored on Ethier's fielder's choice play.

The Bombers rallied to score three in the seventh and knot the count. Cullen opened with a single and went to second when Ethier bobbled Rihbany's infield drive, all safe and both advanced a base on a passed ball. Christie strolled jamming the runways, but Fenlon forced Rihbany at third, but Cullen scored. Tartagalia came through with a timely double to score Christie and Fenlon to knot the count, but the Vets rallied to get the next two.

Came the thrill-packed ninth that opened with Harris helping his own cause with a single. Jim Barriage laid down a bunt for a safe knock, but Henn was hit by a batted ball and out. Came Cy Barriage who provided the much-needed moneyed hit, a triple to score in the bottom half of the ninth, although Christie, the first batter, walked.

Feature Plays

The Vets counted four hits off Smith and three in the ninth off Rihbany. Jim Barriage's running catch of Christie's long fly in the fifth, and fast Vet two-ply play in the second and Barriage's fake throw to trap Christie between third and home in the third were the feature defensive plays for the winners, while Iveson's running catch of Cy Barriage's Texas leaguers in the third and Porter's fine back-stopping stood out for the Bombers. Now it's the Vets and the Flyers in the City League finals.

WHITE SOX WIN

Dodgers Win to Increase Lead Over Cardinals, Who Lose to Pittsburgh 6 to 4

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Association Press Sports Writer

There doesn't seem to be much Boston Red Sox or anybody else can do to catch New York. But the Red Sox get another chance today to slow them down and renew a few personal duels at the same time.

As the Red Sox moved into Yankee Stadium for a three-game set, they clung to second place in the American League by a lone percentage point but trailed the defending champions by 13 games—Just one shy of the margin the Yanks held at this stage in their runaway campaign of 1941.

Although the Yankees divided a doubleheader with Philadelphia Athletics yesterday, they tacked a full game on to their lead with the help of Washington Senators who swept a twi-night twin bill from the Red Sox, and Chicago White Sox, who whipped Cleveland again last night.

Sox Win Ninth

It was the ninth straight victory for the White Sox and it enabled them to step into fifth place ahead of the Detroit Tigers.

One duel the customers will be looking for in the Yankee-Red Sox series is that between Ted Williams of Boston and Joe Gordon of New York for the batting crown which the Red Socker now wears. They are one-two among the hitters of the league, with Gordon only seven percentage points behind.

The Senators pounded Oscar Judd and Mace Brown for 11 hits in taking the first game from the Red Sox, 9-3, last night, but the night second game was a pitching duel in which Walt Masterson of the Senators triumphed over Joe Dobson, although the Nats were out-hit, 5-4. A single by Stan Spence and a double by Bruce Campbell decided the issue in the first frame.

At Chicago, the fast-travelling White Sox collected only five hits off Chubby Dean while the Tribe clipped Joe Humphries for 11, but the Sox won, 3-1. Dean walked in the run that put Chicago ahead to stay.

Yanks, A's split

The Athletics tripped the Yankees and Red Ruffing, 4-1, in the opener of their double bill, but Ernie Bonham pitched the champs to a 3-2 decision in the nightcap.

In the National League, Brooklyn Dodgers blanked Philadelphia 6-0, in a two-night affair and increased their lead to nine games over St. Louis Cardinals, who went down before Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-4, in the only other contest of the day.

Kirby Higbe handcuffed the Phils on four hits.

The Pirates, who drove Mort Cooper off the mound in a 16-inning tie game last Saturday, routed him again yesterday in the fifth inning of the playoff of that deadlock.

ARMY GRABS HITCHCOCK

Golf an Old Man's Game?

Chicago, Aug. 11—(AP)—Marlene Bauer, eight years old, and Alice Bauer, 15, performed a sister act in the current women's western amateur golf tournament yesterday.

Marlene, a 70-pounder who came here from Aberdeen, S.D., with her sister and father, Dave Bauer, wallops her drives up to 150 yards and shoots her approaches with finesse. She putts well, too.

The sisters entered the South Dakota State meet this year. Both qualified. Little Marlene lost her first match but Alice went on to win the title.

The eight-year-old is only four feet three inches tall so her father, a golfing professional, specially built her clubs. Marlene has been playing since she was three and shoots consistently in the 80s and low 90s.

Alice shot a 92 today and missed qualifying for the championship flight by three strokes.

And little Marlene, one of the last to finish, came trudging in as dusk fell over the course, her blue slacks covered with mud, to "I--gess--I shot--a--a--a hund- confess haltingly:— red and fifty five."

Newark Wins With Homer In 19 Inning

Derry Hits for Circuit as Bears Down Jersey City 3-2 in Longest Game of Year

SYRACUSE WINS

Shed a tear for Hughie East. The Jersey City pitcher allowed only two runs in 18 innings yesterday but was touched for a homer by Russ Derry in the 19th that decided the International League's longest game of the year in favor of Newark, 3-2.

It was the longest contest in the league since Montreal defeated Buffalo, also in 19 innings, in 1933 and came within one frame of the record. That was set back in 1913 when Jersey City and Toronto battled through 20 scoreless innings.

Once before, on July 5, 1908, the same two teams collided in a 19-inning fray but that time it went into the record books as a scoreless tie.

Two-run Homer

Newark got its first two tallies in the sixth when Bud Metheny dumped one over the right field fence with one on. Jersey City squared accounts in the seventh on consecutive singles and Sid Gor- Rucker, Gibby Brack and Sid Gordon.

After that the clubs fought on even terms until Derry's blow. George Washburn started on the mound for the winners but gave way to milkman Jim Turner, late of Cincinnati, in the 13th.

The weather man permitted only one other game, Syracuse Chiefs defeating Baltimore, 1-0, for their fourth straight shutout. It was also the third consecutive game the Chiefs have won by a 1-0 score. Clayton Lambert was the winner this time with the deciding tally coming in the third as Chico Rodriguez singled Chris Hartje home. Hartje had singled and went to second on Lambert's sacrifice.

Syracuse hurlers now have held their opponents scoreless for 40 consecutive innings. The victory lifted the club from a tie for sixth into undisputed fifth place, only a full game out of third in the tight race for playoff berths.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Association Press Sports Columnist

New York, Aug. 11—(AP)—If the Dodgers get involved in any more feuds, they'll have to change the name of Ebbets Field to the "dust-off bowl". . .Of course, nobody can prove that a "beaner" is intentional, but Ford Frick's latest idea of fining the managers as well as the offending pitchers should help calm things down a bit. And if that doesn't work, how about forfeiting a few games?. . . Records of the Hambletonian support the contention that the favorites nearly always win trotting-horse races, but we wonder if that isn't because the folks who follow the trotters know more about horses than the frequenters of running-horse parks. . .Baseball season must be over; on a recent visit to Iowa, Dizzy Dean told scribes that he'll be back in baseball "for sure" next year.

Family Stuff.

Clarence Mitchell, Jr., son of the old-time big-league spitballer, has just joined the Oklahoma City Indians, who were down to 13 men and expecting to lose more . . .Bill Killefer, Jr., whose dad used to catch Grover Cleveland Alexander, has won an appointment to the naval academy. Bill, Sr., now coaches the Phils.

Cleaning the Cuff.

Biggest headache (but not the biggest head) in town these days belongs to Harry Markson, Mike Jacobs' publicity chief. He has three tenrounders on Thursday's card to ballyhoo, but every time Harry writes about one fighter, the managers of the other five holler for equal consideration.

CASUAL COMMENT by K.J.C.

SO IT'S THE VETS AND THE Flyers in the City Softball League finals for 1942.

Last night Skipper Gerald Barriage's Vets pushed the Mountain View Bombers into the discard, thanks to Cy Barriage's ninth inning triple, that was productive of the winning runs, and some-top-flight spot pitching on the part of Connie Harris.

Incidentally Ray Barrett's Bombers only collected eight hits off Harris' deliveries in the last 18 innings, which doesn't exactly stamp the Prince Edward County airmen as possessing too much offensive power. And five of those bingles came with Harris' five-hitter last night However, the Bombers have been most welcome in our city softball league circles and it is hoped Skipper Barrett and his Bombers will be in a position to resume their diamond hostilities in the local loop another season. They're really good sports and it was a pleasure to include them in the local circuit.

IN THREE SEPARATE INNINGS last night the Bombers got their first two batters aboard the runways but only managed to score on one occasion, the seventh when they scored all three of their runs. The Vets played strong defensive ball when in the clutch and also came through with timely hits and these are the two prime factors that made the difference in the teams. True enough Barriage's hard-hit triple bounced away from rightfielder Cook when he slipped on the wet grass, but those are the breaks of the game. Connie Harris only appeared in four games all season, but has pitched three play-off games almost within a week and although tying one, allowed only eight hits in the two games he won to advance the Vets into the league finals. When the Vets and Flyers tangle in the league finals for the right to advance into the O.A.S.A. playdowns the fans will see two strong defensive clubs, each boasting of a trio of outfielders who can "go get 'em," while their inner works is equally as evenly matched. Here again the breaks may prove the deciding factor.

SOME WEEKS AGO THIS CORNER suggested a home and home softball series between the Peterbore and Reliance hockey teams might prove interesting as well as profitable. Out in the Liftlock City the softball moguls have already financially assisted the Peterboro Kinsmen Club's war charities and here would be a good feature to stage in favor of the Kinsmen "Fag Fund." When first suggested Scribe Fred Craig heartily endorsed such a series. On the roster of the Plaza softball team in Peterboro are such puck celebrities as Jim Ellis, Art Heal, Bun Kingdom, Don Crowe, Joe Blewett, Eddie Starr, Earl McNab and others. On the Reliance softball team are such hockey names as Archie Major, Tilly Donihee, Tims Williams, Pete Horeck, Reg Chipman, Gene LaBonne and Don Bowen and it would be interesting to watch the boys battle it out without body checks and hockey sticks at their disposal. It would be interesting to see Art Heal or Tilly Donihee scintillating around the keystone sack, rather than fazing passes around their opponents' goalmouth. Looks like a natural for an exhibition sport attraction here.

A MILESTONE IN THE MAJOR league career of Billy Herman, of the Dodgers, went unheralded recently in a game with the Reds. The occasion came when catcher Lamanno, of the Reds, dropped the ball trying to tag Herman at the plate, points out Pat McDonough, of the New York World-Telegram.

"As it turned out, this was just another tally, as Brooklyn won by a four-run margin. But Herman will be delighted to learn that it was the 1,000th run scored by him in his Big Time career. There are only five other active players in the league with run totals in four figures, the Waner brothers, Mel Ott, Dick Bartell and Jimmie Foxx.

"Herman thus won a nip-and-tuck race with Joe Medwick to the 1,000 mark, Ducky reached that total the next evening, when he opened the fourth inning against the Reds with a single through second and rode home on Camilli's double against the scoreboard.

"Three players now on the active lists in the American League have each scored 1,000 runs and made 2,000 hits—Charley Gehringer, Joe Cronin and Roger Cramer. The last-named just recently attained his 2,000th base knock."

REMEMBER WHEN LIONEL Conacher, who for many years was Canada's outstanding athlete, made his retirement from sport definite five years ago today? The "Big Train" of football, hockey and lacrosse, Conacher entered politics and now is a member of the Ontario Legislature. He was recently appointed Director of Athletics for the Royal Canadian Air Force with the honorary rank of Squadron Leader. "Connie" made his appearance in Belleville sport circles at both hockey and baseball, appearing here with the old Toronto Canoe Club juniors and the Hillcrest senior ball club, twenty years ago.

"DUSTERS", OR THE GOOD old fashioned bean ball, have crept into the National League to such proportions that President Ford Frick had to announce recently he would tack a $200.00 fine on the manager of a club permitting "dusters". It all came about following last Saturday's game between the Braves and the Dodgers when pitchers Whit Wyatt, of Brooklyn and Manny Salvo of Boston, really meant business in this bean ball outbreak. The Wyatt-Salvo efforts rose to such heights that players from both benches swarmed the playing field and threatened riot and bedlam. After much difficulty the problem was ironed out by the umpires following which Wyatt was fined $75.00 and Salvo $50. Rumblings have been heard before this season regarding the use of the bean ball —in the National League. President Frick made a wise move when he laid the onus on the managers and threatens to fine them in the event of repetitions. There is no place on a ball diamond for rough, dirty play.

THIS AND THAT—THE PASSAIC N.J., professional footbaii club will not function this fall, they folded for the duration owing to the lack of playing personnel....With Cliff Melton laid up the New York Giants purchased pitcher Bill Voiselle from Oklahoma City....Tommy Colden's SWACO lassies tangle with Leo Barrett's Deacons in a play-off struggle at the Exhibition Park this twinkle-tide....Dick Fowler, former Toronto pitcher, bested Red Ruffing yesterday, as the Athletics beat the Bronx Bombers 4-1, but Ernie Bonham was too good for the A's in the second game and the teams split a dual bill....Looks as though the Great Lakes Naval Training camp gridders will enjoy a larger playing schedule than most of the Big Ten Conference teams....So serious is the hockey conditions that President Frank Sargent has called two meetings of the C.A.H.A. to be held in Toronto soon, Aug. 21st and 22nd to be exact....As the Red Sox invade the Yankee Stadium for a three-game stand starting today, the eyes of the baseball world will be focussed on Ted Williams, leading batter in the American League, and Joe Gordon, of the Yanks, who is only seven points behind Ted... Ingersoll Oscar Judd was charged with the Red Sox loss yesterday... When Newark and Jersey City battled 19 innings last night it recalled the famous C.O.B.L. 19 inning struggle here in 1926 when Jack Oulette and Al Heckman went the route....Them was the days.

Foxboro Wins Sidney Township Softball Title

Spotting their rivals the first games in a best of three series Foxboro rallied to win two straight and the right to hold the Sidney township softball championship for the second year in succession as on their home grounds they defeated Centenary 16-3 in the final game of the season.

Eking out a close decision in the first game of the series Centenary proved no match for the Foxboro lads in the next two games and were defeated by wide margins as last year's champions found their batting togs to hit Freddie Waite's offerings freely.

Grant Wright hurled effectively for the victorious Foxboro nine and afforded good support by his teammates kept Centenary bingles well scattered.

For the winners "Wimpy" Gay stood out offensively conking out three triples, while Campbell, Walt and Peacock were also effective with the willow. Centenary hitters were not so successful with Wright's offerings and were only able to bunch their hits for single runs in the second, fourth and sixth.

Batteries—Centenary—Waite and Rogers. Foxboro—Wright and Walt.

TOO MANY WOMEN FOR SAM

Philadelphia, Aug. 11 — (AP)— Samuel Paoli has eight reasons for joining the United States navy. "If you had as many sisters as I do and were the only boy in the house," he told the recruiting officer, "you'd want the navy, too. Why, it's a wonder some of 'em didn't trail me — Oh, Oh—". The recruiter followed his gaze and counted eight beaming girls lining up the hallway.

Search Ruins Of Collapsed Warehouse For Bodies Of Men

Milwaukee, Aug. 11 (AP) — Grime-streaked rescue squads, fighting their way inch by inch through tons of broken glass and debris uncovered today the body of one of the 12 men believed to have died when a warehouse collapsed in suburban Wauwatosa.

Frank Dreyer, warehouse employee, identified the body as that of William Schaedlich, 47, Milwaukee. The body, badly crushed, was found about 14 hours after the accident occurred.

[illegible] other men, trapped with those feared dead, were rescued almost immediately and escaped with minor injuries.

Others of the 25-man crew working in the building when it collapsed said there was no warning. The men who were engulfed had been eating lunch just inside a loading door on the first floor.

The Forsyth Leather Company leased the building to the Joseph Schlitz brewery a week ago, according to Sol Abrams, the general manager. Abrams said the building had been tested, and he had been assured it would carry double the load that was to be put in it.

SEES MENACE TO MIDDLE EAST

British Military Source Believes Nazis Will Try to Go Down to Tiflis

London, Aug. 11 —(CP)— A British military source said today that the Allied hold on the Middle East was gravely menaced by the onrushing German forces in the Caucasus and Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's German-Italian army in Egypt's western desert.

"Infinitely more" is at stake than preservation of Russian oil fields and British bases in Egypt, said this source.

"These objectives are only incidental to the German drive to isolate Russia and Turkey, dominate the Middle East and land bridge joining Asia, Europe and Africa, and unite with Japan to exchange the booty of three continents," this source said.

He expressed belief the Germans will try to drive down to Tiflis with special tank and mountaineer troops while the remainder of their forces in south Russia push eastward toward the Caspian Sea.

From Tiflis they would be within striking distance of Iraq and Syria.

At the same time, the position in Egypt was causing some anxiety in military quarters, which said a drive through Alexandria and Cairo to Suez, then northeastward toward Syria and Iraq was an indispensable part of the vast German pincers campaign in the Middle East.

The German-controlled Vichy radio reported that separate German columns had driven to within 40 to 50 miles of Novorossisk, Black Sea naval base, and in the area of Maikop, 60 miles northeast of Tuapse.

Hunt Intensified For Scrap Metal

London, Aug. 11 (CP).—The hunt for scrap metal in Britain has reached a new peak of intensity.

Since Lord Beaverbrook returned to Britain with the news that the United States would need all its scrap for its own war plants, officials of central and local governments have combed the country for every bit of old iron and steel that could be found to meet the demand for an extra 40,000 tons of scrap weekly.

The government in its latest drive has concentrated on persuading Britons to rummage in attics, cellars, garages, garden sheds, back yards, farm yards and barns for stray metal. It is believed that 500,000 tons of scrap can be found in Britain's 360,000 farms and an inestimable amount in the millions of homes in cities.

The ministry of works has sent out teams of men and women who ransack one region after another for scrap. A fleet of trucks is attached to each team to carry off the metal as soon as it is found. With each team there is a loud-speaker van with a woman speaker who addresses gatherings in market-places and clubs.

Boys have done an especially good job. In one village they collected a mile-long string of old keys. The keys were strung along a street and since rubber, too, is needed a line of hot water bottles kept the keys company.

John Cassidy, Tweed, Honored On His 95th Birthday By His Relatives at Family Reunion

Had the ancient Cassidy's of Weckla, near Dublin, Ireland, looked down on the grounds of James Trudeau's River View cottage near Tweed last Sunday, they would have thrilled with pride at the sight of descendants gathered for the fifth family reunion.

For in the veins of the Cassidy descendants flows the blood of fine old Irish stock, mingled with that of hardy Canadian pioneers who hewed their homes out of the living forest of Hastings County.

The reunion had a double meaning. It honored the 95th birthday of venerable John Cassidy whose sturdy frame is scarcely bowed by the passing of a near century. In his keen eyes gleams the light of the early pioneers. His physique shows little of the toil that marked the efforts of the men who brought this district from a lusty young infant to part of a proud nationhood.

Hastings County in general, and Hungerford in particular, are the "ould sod" to John Cassidy. He was born in Centreville, Addington County, 95 years ago when highways were forest trails, and the family transportation an ox-cart, a wagon, or their feet.

His father, Thomas Cassidy, came to Canada and Hastings 96 years ago from his native Irish Weckla. He brought eight lusty-voiced brothers and two sisters, all of whom settled in Hungerford. A year later, John was born. At present he is the remaining member of a family of five.

Plenty of Hard Work

The "Irish" in him brooked no defeat. He settled down, as did the young men of his day to the task of raising, providing for a family. His was not the advantage of scientific farming or lumbering methods, His not the subsidy of governments. His the lot of hard toil, of incessant wresting from nature the necessities of life, and his the ultimate victory.

Six husky sons and five attractive girls were raised in the Cassidy household. All failed to be attracted by the lure of faraway pastures, and all settled in the Hungerford district in and around Tweed and Stoco.

There was a gleam of pride in Mr. Cassidy's eyes on Sunday as 150 of his descendants offered him felicitations on his natal day. And well there might be, for he is the antecedent of 69 grandchildren and 58 great-grandchildren.

The reunion and birthday party was held under the supervision of Mr. Jack Trudeau, Belleville, president of the Cassidy family organization, and who has been its head since its inception five years ago.

The afternoon was spent in games and contests and a basket lunch was served on the grounds of the cottage.

Among those in attendance who are not directly connected with the family were the Rev. D. A. Cullinane, parish priest of Tweed; Rev. F. LaMarsh, Tweed; Rev. J. V. Meagher, Stoco, and Mrs. John McGiah, Erinsville.

The business part of the picnic resulted in Mr. Trudeau being re-elected president for 1943 George Cassidy, vice-president and Miss Monica Murphy, secretary-treasurer. All the Cassidy sons and daughters constitute the board of directors.

CHINESE PAPERS VOICE SUPPORT

Express Sympathy for Indian Nationalists and Appeal for Peaceful Settlement

Chungking, Aug. 11 (AP).—The Chinese, who stand to lose from strife in India, expressed their support today for the Indian nationalists in editorials regretting the arrests of their leaders and appealing to Britain to seek a peaceful settlement.

The newspaper attitude reflected the opinion of Dr. Sun Fo, president of the legislative Yuan, who declared last night that "Chinese sympathy is entirely with the Indians" in their struggle for independence.

A government spokesman expressed China's readiness to do anything in her power to bring a settlement in India lest the situation hamper the allied war effort and especially the movement of supplies to China.

No Steps Indicated.

The spokesman declined to indicate what steps Chungking had in mind. Asked whether sympathy shown the Indian nationalists by the Chinese press might impair Chinese-British relations, he said: "We hope our relations won't be affected in the least."

Some editorials argued that India's demand for freedom was in line with the Atlantic charter concerning the rights of all peoples to choose their own forms of government.

"The British-India problem forms a link in the common war," said the newspaper Ta Kung Pao. "Once this link falls out it will affect the united front as a whole."

India is a vital bridge between China and her sources of supply abroad.

"China is not only sympathetic toward India but, because of military reasons, is concerned over what happens in India," the newspaper added.

Appealing For Forbearance

"Events in India might prompt Japan to change her plan of attacking Siberia and, instead, attack India. We wish fervently to appeal to the British government to control its emotions and show political wisdom by looking for a genuine solution...."

The official Central Daily News, also appealing for British "forbearance," declared the arrest of Mohanda K. Gandhi and his aides "does not solve the India problem which, if permitted to pursue its own course of development, will not only affect the war in the Pacific but also the war as a whole."

The desire for independence "is the desire of the whole Indian nation, therefore the arrest of a handful of Congress leaders and the use of force worsens rather than improves the situation," said the China Times.

A Chinese spokesman, asked whether China regarded the release of Gandhi as a prerequisite to a British-Indian settlement, said "the Chinese government has no idea as to the procedure for reaching a settlement."

"Any suggestions now," he added, "might not be helpful."

He said that although legally the Indian problem is a domestic British problem, it is the moral concern of all of the United Nations, and bore directly upon the future prospects of a better world order.

Chinaman Pays Fine for Violating Parking By-law

What is believed to have been the first case of its kind ever presented in a Belleville police court was heard today when a member of the local Chinese colony was arraigned and charged with violation of the city one hour parking limitations in the downtown area.

However, Magistrate J. L. Lloyd didn't even have the opportunity of seeing the Chinese, who walked into the police station clutching a police sticker found on his parked motor car on Front Street yesterday and readily admitted the infraction. Acting Chief Harman accepted a plea of guilty and $2.00 which covered the fine and costs after the accused remarked: "Me plark too long allee lightee."

The body of the court was devoid of a gallery when Magistrate Lloyd's Tuesday court opened here today, a lone inebriate, Acting Chief Harman and a press reporter standing at attention as court was officially opened. The inebriate was given 14 days in jail in default of a fine levied. Several motorists fattened the city's coffers by paying $2.00 including costs for violation of the city parking bylaw, while Edward Potter had paid a speeding fine of ten dollars before court opened.

Fewer Cookies, More Potatoes For British Folk

London, Aug. 11 —(CP)— Food Minister Lord Woolton ordered plainer living today, to the point of eating fewer cookies and more potatoes, to conserve shipping space for "more vigorous prosecution of the war."

Cookies will be rationed after Aug. 23, potato consumption will be encouraged and bakers will be asked to use less sugar and dried fruits. To ease the restrictions the weekly sweet ration will be increased from two to three ounces.

Lord Woolton explained that additional ration reductions had been averted by importation of a large percentage of boned beef, dried eggs and the adoption of a standardized loaf of bread.

MOB DESTROYS TOWN HALL AT NEW DELHI

RUSSIAN RESISTANCE STIFFENS ON ALL FRONTS

Troops Open Fire On Unruly Crowds In Self-Defence

Tension in Bombay Shows Signs of Easing Although Many Trucks Were Looted

MARTIAL LAW POSSIBLE

London, Aug. 12 (CP).—The India Office issued a statement today saying "authorities in India have the situation completely in hand and it is emphasized that any picture of widespread disorder in that country is utterly distorted."

By PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Bombay, Aug. 12 — (AP) — British authorities called increasing numbers of troops and police into action today to cope with spreading violence and it became a question how long martial law could be forestalled in turbulent India.

The worst trouble spot was New Delhi where an official statement described the situation as "ugly" and said a mob had burned and virtually destroyed the town hall and troops had fired on civilian crowds yesterday.

The four-day-old tension persisted also in Bombay but the situation at noon seemed to have calmed down somewhat with the rioters showing signs of tiring although some government trucks were looted of their food loads.

No Accurate Check

There was no accurate count of the cost of life since Sunday when India's aspirations for independence suddenly erupted. The casualty lists in Bombay alone reached at least 31 dead and more than 250 wounded.

Since the clashes began as the sequel to the arrest of Gandhi and other Hindu leaders after the All-India Congress Party made him general of a planned non-violent campaign to break British rule, 500 or more other Indians have been taken prisoner.

Armed security forces have opened fire on milling throngs in at least eight places across India; the wreckage of burned buildings, smashed glass and overturned vehicles has piled up, and a paralysis has begun to grip the country's trade.

Whipping Act In Force.

Martial law is a step which so far has been withheld although civil authorities have responded with a firmness exemplified yesterday's announcement that the "whipping act" had been put to use and the blunt warning of Sir Roger Lumley, governor of Bombay province, that "no monkey business" would be tolerated.

Nevertheless, unruly demonstrators at New Delhi, described officially as "a large crowd of millworkers" put the torch to the town hall and burned down the income tax office.

The communique said a Moslem sub-inspector of police was murdered by a crowd and tthat "on frequent occasions police and the military were forced to open fire in self-defence".

Groups of more than five persons have been prohibited in New Delhi, "strong military reinforcements have arrived and troops are patrolling the city", it said.

Indian reporters close to the All-India Congress said its members, for the most part, still are standing apart from the rioting and that many are concerned over the turn to what Gandhi had insisted was to be only a non-violent demonstrations of mass disobedience.

Unconfirmed Rumor Says Formosa Bombed By Allied War-Planes

Aircraft Carrier Eagle Sunk in Mediterranean

Large Part of Crew Saved Admiralty Announces — At Least One Enemy Submarine Sunk in Same Area

London, Aug. 12 (CP)—The aircraft carrier Eagle has been sunk in the Mediterranean but a large part of the 22,600-ton warship's crew has been saved, the Admiralty announced today.

The Admiralty said at least one enemy submarine operating in the same area as the 24-year-old carrier already had been sunk, indicating that the Eagle went down fighting.

German broadcasts last night said four torpedo hits sent her to the bottom in the western Mediterranean.

The Eagle carried a customary complement of 748 men and 21 or more planes.

The vessel was begun in 1913 as a battleship, the Almirante Cochrane, ordered by Chile from a British yard.

Work ceased with the outbreak of the First Great War, and in 1917 the Admiralty purchased her from Chile and redesigned her as an aircraft carrier. She was commissioned and given trials in 1920, but was not finally completed until 1924. She was completely refitted in 1932.

As long ago as Jan. 18, 1941, the Italians said they sank the Eagle between Crete and Tobruk, Libya. Last June 2 the German radio reported an unsuccessful attack on the vessel off Gibraltar.

Officers and crew of the Eagle were joyously acclaimed in June, 1929, by the Spanish nation after the carrier rescued Maj. Ramon Franco and three companions from their plane, forced down off the Azores during a trans-Atlantic flight to New York. The plane had drifted for seven days and the Spanish government had virtually given up hope for the men when the Eagle saved them.

Maj. Franco, a brother of Gen. Francisco Franco, was one of the leaders in the Spanish Civil War. He was killed in a crash in the Mediterranean on Oct. 30, 1938.

San Diego, Calif., Aug. 12 —(AP)—"It's positively ridiculous," grumbled Vice-Mayor Fred Simpson as city councilmen studied a state sales tax bill of $4,003.28 on parking meters. R.C.M.P. HAS NOT MET WITH ANY ARMED OPPOSITION

Commissioner Wood's Answer to Report Emanating From Ottawa Source

CLOSE INQUIRY MADE

Ottawa, Aug. 12 (CP).—Commissioner S. T. Wood of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police said today his force "has not met with any armed resistance in the province of Quebec or elsewhere" in carrying out personal deliveries of call-up notices or in dealing with deserters from the armed forces.

The commissioner had been asked for comment on a report, from a source closely associated with those enforcing the call-up regulations, that R.C.M.P. constables delivering call-up notices in the Quebec city area had met armed resistance in several instances in recent weeks.

This same source had confirmed an Ottawa newspaper report that a "deserter from the army" had fired shots in the direction of R.C.M.P. constables conducting investigations near East Aldfield, Que., 40 miles north of Ottawa, "for draft dodgers".

Asked today for a statement on the incidents, Commissioner Wood said:

"The Royal Canadian Mounted Police has not met with any armed resistance in the province of Quebec or elsewhere."

That statement, he said, was so far as he knew a reply to questions about armed resistance in R.C.M.P. operations not only in connection with the call-up regulations but also in the handling of desertions from the armed forces.

East Aldfield Incident.

Questioned specifically as to whether his statement was to be taken as a denial of the East Aldfield incident as well as the reported Quebec resistance, Commissioner Wood said:

"We are not altogether definite on the East Aldfield business. It is not certain that there was any intentional shooting."

The commissioner said that close inquiries had been made by Ottawa headquarters of the R.C.M.P. following publication of reports of incidents involving enforcement of call-up regulations by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the statement that there had not been "any armed resistance" was based on those inquiries.

Stories "Absolutely Untrue".

Told that reports had been heard that one or more R.C.M.P.. men had been wounded while dealing with call-up and desertion cases, Commissioner Wood said: "That is absolutely untrue".

Montreal, Aug. 12 (CP).—A Royal Canadian Mounted Police inspector said today that "as far as "C" division is concerned, we have never

Increased Activity by Nazi Surface Raiders, Subs Expected in S. Atlantic

London, Aug. 12 (CP).—Large-scale offensive by German surface and submarine raiders against the heavy and increasingly important allied merchant traffic in the South Atlantic was predicted today by informed British naval sources.

Reports from neutral and axis sources in the last 24 hours indicated, it was said, the attacks already had started.

These sources cited Rio de Janeiro's receipt of SOS messages reporting an enemy surface raider 1,000 miles off the Brazilian coast and the German high command's claim of yesterday that 45,231 tons of shipping bound for Egypt had been sunk recently by German submarines ok the American and West African ocasts.

Not only is the South Atlantic the chief supply route to India and Egypt but under present conditions it is probably the most important means of sending supplies to Russia via Iran.

Wheat and beef from South America also traverse the new danger area en route to Britain.

A naval source reported a number of armed axis merchant raiders had reached the South Atlantic from ports on the Bay of Biscay since the fall of France.

Two were destroyed by the British cruisers Devonshire and Dorsetshire in December, 1941.

Dispatch of another axis merchant cruiser to the area and increased submarine activity there indicates that as anti-submarine defences along the North American coast improve the German major undersea effort may be transferred to the new hunting ground.

Possibility the German surface raider is one of the two surviving pocket battleships, the Admiral Scheer and the Luetzow, or a cruiser of the Hipper class, is slight, said a naval source.

Nor did he think it likely a Japanese warship had ventured into the South Atlantic.

The Germans, he said, would be more likely to risk a merchant cruiser than a warship, because a surface raider takes great risks and the Germans would be reluctant to gamble another of their diminishing squadron of heavy warships.

This source said that submarines would be the greatest danger in the South Atlantic, because the South Atlantic is "very crowded" and the chances of a surface raider being sighted were "very great".

Bitter Hand-to-Hand Fighting Features Solomon Is. Battle

By MURLIN SPENCER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Allied Headquarters, Australia, Aug. 12 —(AP)— United States marines battled on today in bitter hand-to-hand clashes to broaden hard-won toeholds in the Solomon Islands while supporting Allied airmen struck effective new blows upon Japanese bases and shipping along a 3,000-odd-mile front.

Progress of the fighting was hidden in official silence but the latest information, issued in Washington, was that operations are continuing in the area of Tulagi, palm-dotted, two-mile-long island in the southeastern Solomons.

More definite word is not expected until a let-up in the operations permit Vice-Admiral Robert Lee Ghormley, Allied commander in the South Pacific who is in charge of the offensive, to send a detailed account over his now-limited and overtaxed communications.

Attack Opens Offensive

But whatever the situation, the United States Navy, in a statement in Washington, hailed the landing of the marines on the shores of Tulagi as having "opened the doors to an Allied offensive in the South Pacific."

From this it was taken that the land, sea and air assault which began five days ago was making headway.

Allied headquarters, still silent on the main operation, told of the fourth air attack within as many days upon Rabaul, big Japanese base on New Britain; destruction of two and possibly five Japanese zero fighters over New Guinea; another raid on Japanese ships south of Timor, Netherlands East Indies; and an attack upon the Kei Islands.

Airdrome Hit

A headquarters communique said Allied planes striking by night at Rabaul, which is northwest of the Solomons, scored hits near airdrome runways from which Japanese aerial assistance could be sent to the Tulagi defenders.

The air clash over New Guinea occurred near Samarai, on the southeastern tip of the island on a line directly west of Tulagi. Allied airmen either destroyed or damaged all seven Zeroes encountered.

Allied fliers failed to determine results of their attack on Japanese ships south of Timor, where a cargo ship was sunk and another merchantman and a destroyer were damaged in another raid Monday.

Wharves were hit at the small port of Toeal in the raid on the Kei Islands, occupied late last month by the Japanese. They lie north of Australia.

Official Statement

In its announcement dealing chiefly with results of new raids by navy ships and navy planes in Japanese-held sections of the Aleutian Islands, the navy dismissed the action in the Solomons with the brief sentence:-

"While the action in the Tulagi area of the Solomon Islands continues, nothing further can be reported at this moment."

In the Aleutians attack begun by navy surface craft last Saturday and continued the next day by naval bombers, guns of cruisers and destroyers knocked out shore batteries, set fires and caused heavy damage in the invaders' camp area on Kiska Island and shelled a group of ships, the navy said.

This attack, timed simultaneously with the offensive in the Solomons, left at least two enemy ships damaged and a third sunk, making a total of 21 vessels knocked out since the Japanese made their appearance in the Aleutians.

Warns Fire Chiefs Of Possibility Of Gas Attacks

Kitchener, Ont., Aug. 12. (CP)—Chief Harold Walton of New Toronto yesterday warned more than 100 fire chiefs here attending the 24th annual meeting of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs of the possibility of gas attacks and added "the Germans and Japanese have broken every other rule of the game, so why not this one?"

Chief Walton, who recently completed a Civilian Defence course, said Civilian Defence organizations are essential to curb the effectiveness of bombers.

Chief W. A. Spalding of Preston, Ont., president of the Canadian Association, declared "we must not feel that we are so secure it can't happen here; it can. Preparedness should be our watchword."

Seasonal Reduction In Wholesale Lamb Prices Postponed

Ottawa, Aug. 12 (CP). — Fresh lamb carcasses or cuts sold to the meat trade on or before next Saturday may be legally delivered until Aug. 22 at prices higher than those permitted by regulations effective next Monday, the foods administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board said today.

This ruling followed the board's recent announcement that after Aug. 16 spring and summer dressed lamb prices will go back under the basic period price ceiling. Similar action was taken in postponing for a week the effective date of the seasonal reduction in wholesale beef prices to make allowance for trade storage practice.

RAILWAY JUNCTION CENTRE OF MAINZ ATTACKED BY RAF

Loss of 16 Bombers Indicates the Attack Was More Than Ordinarily Heavy

FRENCH COAST HIT

LONDON, Aug. 12 — (CP) — Mainz, German rail junction on the Rhine, was attacked last night by a strong force of R. A. F. bombers, an authoritative statement said today.

Members of two R. C. A. F. bomber squadrons participated in the night's operations.

Sixteen bombers are missing from this assault — indicating it was of more than ordinary proportions.

Mainz is centre of important Nazi machinery and chemical works.

"Preliminary reports indicate the attack was particularly successful", said the British statement.

The raid followed a one-night, weather-enforced gap in the R.A.F. offensive againset Germany.

Other R.A.F. squadrons hit the French coast in an assault which began at Calais and spread southward. British residents along the southeast coast watched the fireworks from this side of the Channel.

German nuisance raiders meanwhile bombed points on the south coast of England and in the Midlands. One German bomber was destroyed.

London had an air alert which lasted 30 minutes but no gunfire was heard and no bombs were reported dropped.

"Ordinary" British Raids Exceed Nazis' Heaviest in Tonnage

London, Aug. 12 (CP)—An R.A.F. colmmentator said today the bomber command now is hammering Germn targets with such force that the bomb load for the "ordinary" raid on Osnabrueck the night of Aug. 8 exceeded the tonnage dropped by the Germans in the heaviest attack on Britain the night of April 16, 1941.

Between July 12 and Aug. 8 the R.A.F. has made 13 night raids on German targets, one employing 600 bombers and 10 employing between 200 and 400, the commentator said.

Osnabrueck was raided by fewer than 200, yet they dropped more than 450 tons of bombs including nearly 50 of the gigantic 4,000-pounders and 70 to 80 2,000-pounders, he said.

By contrast he said the Germans in their big raid April 16, 1941, on London dropped something less than 450 tons of bombs and a little more than 420 tons on the last big London raid May 11, 1941.

RAF Men Commandeer Italian Plane And Make Escape to Malta

New York, Aug. 12 (AP)—Four R.A.F. men who were being flown as prisoners from Sicily to Taranto, Italy, escaped by commandeering the Italian plane and flying to Malta when their guard became air sick, the BBC reported today.

The broadcast, heard here by CBS, said the R.A.F. men, two Englishmen, an Australian and a New Zealander, now had reached Cairo after "one of the most amusing escape stories of the war."

Lack of Medical Supplies at E. Front Said to Cause Many Germans to Desert

Toronto, Aug. 12 (CP).—Underground reports to the Czechoslovak news bureau in London claims lack of medical attention at the Russian front has caused many German soldiers to desert, the Czechoslovak National Alliance in Canada said in a statement issued here today.

Because of insufficient medical supplies, German wounded travel from the front lines without alleviation of their pain and citizens in Prague often hear screams of agony from troop trains passing through the city.

The report said news of these conditions had caused German soldiers to desert in fear of being sent to the Russian front.

Red Counter Blows In Voronezh, Phzev Worry Germans

Red Counter-Blows Reported Slowing Up German Advance In Maikop Oil Fields

STALINGRAD SITUATION

London, Aug. 12 (CP). — Notwithstanding German claims of sweeping' successes on the Don bend-Caucasus front, British military sources declared today that Russian resistance is stiffening on all fronts.

Russian counter-attacks in the Voronezh and Rzhev areas, south and northwest of Moscow, respectively, are beginning to worry the Germans, it was said.

The sources expressed belief that today's German assertions are greatly exaggerated and they said, too, that such announcements often are made largely for political effect on the home front.

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Moscow, Aug. 12 (AP)—Russian troops withdrew grudgingly, and still fighting furiously, into the wild lands of the Caucasian foothills today as the German army lunged on between the Black and Caspian Seas—its greatest prizes still ahead.

German columns were moving westward, almost within gunshot of the Black Sea naval stations of Novorossisk and Tuapse, and southeastward toward the rich oil fields of Grozny and the Caspian Sea beyond.

Rolling new reserves and equipment into the struggle, the Germans confronted the Russian forces at Krasnodar with numerically-superior forces and launched attack after attack, today's midday communique said. Krasnodar is the main obstacle on the road to Novorossisk.

Nazis Try to Cross River

"The Germans are trying at all costs to cross to the southern bank of a river," the midday communique said. More than 1,000 Germans were killed and 12 tanks destroyed in this effort, the Russians said.

(The river mentioned probably is the Kuban, which flows from Krasnodar into the Black Sea north of Novorossisk.)

Edging along the Rostov-Baku railway the Germans reached Cherkessk, 70 miles southeast of Armavir and less than 200 miles from Grozny. Red Star reported the Russians had avoided a German snare to surround them in the Cherkessk region, but that fighting there was heavy and both sides suffered great losses.

The armies fought under a burning sun and the heat was intensified by blazing houses and woods over large areas, Red Star said. Whole cities were flaming as the Germans expanded their operations to new districts.

Pravda noted the extreme pressure in the south with the statement "Great are the spaces of our country, but we have no place to retreat".

Counter-Attacks Slow up Enemy

Russian counter-attacks were reported slowing the German advance in the Maikop region, studded with oil derricks, but the Germans were gathering all their strength for the drive forward, Red Star said.

Extreme concern was felt about the German advance to Cherkessk.

The Germans were less than 150 miles from Ordzhonikidze, the northern terminus of the Georgian military highway which winds through the mountains to Tiflis, capital of the almost fantastically-rich Trans-Caucasia. There, at Baku, it produced most of Russia's oil.

The midnight communique said the Russians were fighting "heavy defensive operations against advancing enemy troops" at Cherkessk and Maikpo, a lesser oil centre now generally conceded to German occupation.

The break-through at Maikop was a direct threat to the Black Sea naval port of Tuapse, 60 miles to the southwest, and also placed troops defending the larger base at Novorossisk to the north in jeopardy. There, too, the battered Russian defenders were in difficulties.

At Krasnodar, on the road to Novorossisk 60 miles to the southwest, the Russians were forced to withdraw after Germans ground through their defence positions.

Picture Brighter Near Stalingrad

The picture was brighter on the approaches to Stalingrad and the Volga farther north. The Russians said they were inflicting tremendous losses on Germans attempting to break through south of Kletskaya, about 75 miles northwest of Stalingrad.

Southwest of Stalingrad, near Kotelnikovski, the Germans were throwing every weapon available into the battle and the Russians were responding in kind. The Russian communique said "the enemy was forced to go over to defensive operations" in one area.

A neutral official in Istanbul said yesterday a German propaganda "Inspector" had indicated to him that Germany may have reached most of her 1942 objectives in Russia. He said the German spoke of erecting before winter an "Eastern wall" which would run across the Northern Caucasus Mountains, up the Caspian coast and the Volga River to Stalingrad and then roughly along the present front to Leningrad.

2,000 Nazis Killed by One Mortar Unit

The mid-day communique said 2,000 Germans had been killed in nine days by one mortar unit in the terrific fighting around Kletskaya.

Red Star declared that German drives from Kletskaya and from Kotelnikovski had been stopped after the Nazi columns had made some progress. Northeast of Kotelnikovski, huge German tank forces supported by planes were thrown at the Russian lines and broke through Soviet defences.

Russian forces were regrouped and soon put the Germans on the defensive, Red Star said.

In some places around Kletskaya, the Germans made from five to 10 frontal attacks within 24 hours, the army organ reported, adding that the Don River should become the barrier in this decisive battle.

The mid-day communique said the Germans had been disclosed from two populated places south of Voronezh on the upper course of the Don and that several Nazi counter-attacks had been repulsed.

Pelley Gets 15-Year Term for Sedition

Indianapolis, Aug. 12 (AP)—William Dudley Pelley, founder and leader of the Silver Shirts of America, was sentenced today to 15 years in prison in the first major sedition case since United States entry into the war.

Judge Robert C. Baltzell imposed the sentence after denying a defence motion for a new trial.

The 52-year-old Pelley, whom government Attorneys called "a beidicts Arnold" in their prosecution, was convicted a week ago of 11 counts of criminal sedition in connection with publications of the Fellowship Press, Inc., which he headed.

In passing sentence Judge Baltzell said he believed Pelley should be imprisoned "for the duration."

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

TOMATO SEASON LATER THAN USUAL

Retarded by a cool wet spring and late planting, the tomato season will be fully two weeks later than usual in opening at district canning factories, it was stated this morning by an official of the Belleville plant of the Canada Packers. The local canning plant anticipates beginning their season's pack during the last week in August.

Ordinarily farmers transplant their tomatoes into the fields near the 24th of May, but this year in many cases it was the 10th and 12th of June before all plants were out. Crop prospects point to an approximate 75 per cent yield with some fields being exceptionally good and others poorer than usual.

The question of help to assist in packing the current tomato crop is expected to be troublesome, especially if the season opens with a rush.

SQDN.-LDR. CRESSWELL TO RETURN TO ENG.

Squadron Leader T. D. Cresswell, who has been on loan to the R. C. A.F. from the Royal Air Force for the past three years, is returning to England shortly, it was learned today. S/L Cresswell has been attached to No. 6 Bombing and Gunnery School, Mountain View, since that station was opened and is one of the most popular officers on the staff.

He will officiate at the graduation of wireless air gunners which takes place at the station on August 14th, and at which LAC. J. A. Sword, 61 Foster Avenue, is expected to receive the rank of sergeant and his air gunner's badge.

Squadron Leader Cresswell has gained a large number of Canadian friends both within and outside the service since his tenure of office here as chief of the ground instructional staff. He has proved a capable and highly entertaining after-dinner speaker and his services in this capacity have been much in demand in this city and district.

Cyclists Must Display Licences

Belleville police today stated that owners and riders of bicycles in use not equipped with bicycle licence plates, as provided under bylaw, would be prosecuted without further warning.

"Under the city bylaw all bicycles must be equipped with licence plates and the rider must carry a receipt for the same on his or her person. There is an increased number of bicycles being ridden on our streets, many of which are not equipped with licence plates. The police have been instructed to apprehend and charge all cyclists found in violation of this bylaw", announced Acting Chief Arthur Harman today.

It is compulsory by law that bicycles be equipped with a headlight and at least a rear reflector also, while the riding of more than one person on a bicycle at the same time is also unlawful.

500 Airmen From No. 5 I.T.S. To March Thru City

Residents of Belleville are to witness the parade of some 500 airmen from the No. 5 Initial Training School of the R.C.A.F. early Thursday morning according to statements issued by Wing Commander Snetzinger, Commanding Officer of the unit, to city police authorities today. Upwards of 500 men and officers of the No. 5 ITS. base will parade from their quarters at the old Ontario School for the Deaf into Belleville and north on Front St., returning by way of West Moira and Yeomans Sts. Acting Chief Arthur Harman was notified of the intentions of the parade today, while Sergeant Sid. Hunter of the Ontario Traffic Patrol, was asked to provide a motor police escort. The parade will be headed by the Initial Training School trumpet band. Although parades of Canada's armed forces have not been very numerous in Belleville during the present conflict, during the First World war parades of soldiers were seen daily in Belleville, as army units were mobilized here.

Body of Thos. Parson Found in Basement Of Homestead Ruins

The body of Thomas Parson, 38, farm hand who lost his life Tuesday in the early morning blaze that destroyed the farm homestead of Mr. John Connor, Oak Lake, was recovered from the ruins of the dwelling Tuesday afternoon. The body was recovered in the basement under the portion of the house used as a kitchen.

Mystery still surrounds the origin of the blaze that claimed Parson's life and destroyed one of the finest farm homestead in Sidney township, but the fire is known to have started in the annex to the main body of the house used as a kitchen and over which Parson slept. Other members of the family were sleeping in the main part of the house and when the fire was discovered the room over the kitchen was already blazing. Contrary to former reports there was no answer from Parson's room when attempts were made to arouse him following the discovery of the fire.

P.U.C. Will Co-operate With City in Installing Sinclair St. Water Main

The Belleville Public Utilities Commission will co-operate with the city in the installation of complete sewerage and water facilities in Sinclair Street, it was decided at a special meeting of the Commission yesterday.

The special session was called by Chairman George A. Reid for the purpose of deciding on what should be done for potential householders on this street insofar as sewerage and water is concerned.

Two new houses are being erected, it was stated, and others are likely to appear in the future. The Commission voted unanimously to complete the installation of water mains along the entire street from Catharine to Bridge Streets. Immediate work will entail a cost of $1,066. One half of the street already has these facilities.

The city has been working for some time on the installation of sewers, and this is expected to be completed in the near future.

While the commission was unanimous on the question after some discussion, it was pointed out that the work by no means establishes a precedent. Similar requests for other parts of the city will be judged strictly on merits.

"Building means progress." Chairman George Reid stated, "and this commission should encourage building at all times."

Installation of water mains on Dufferin Avenue will get further consideration. A City Council committee had waited on the Commission with this question in view, the chairman stated.

"This commission will work 100 per cent with the city in this case" he said. "and if the city can get permission to install sewers along this street, this commission should go all the way with the council."

Yen for Action and Adventure Strong Appeal of Parachute Service

Ottawa, Aug. 12—(CP)—The Belfast-born commander of Canada's 1st Parachute Battalion and the 10 men already chosen for the force are temperamentally attuned, apparently, to their new job of seeking adventure from the skies.

At least, that was the impression given in interviews yesterday when all agreed a yen for action and adventure is the strongest single stimulus to enlistment in the force which will train at Shilo, Man., after the organization cadre has taken preliminary instruction at Fort Benning, Ga.

The slim, blond man who commands the parachute troops, Maj. H. D. Proctor of Ottawa, will leave tomorrow for Fort Benning after selecting two officers and another 10 men to complete his party of six officers and 30 N.C.O.'s which will comprise the foundation of the force.

Maj. Proctor, who flew in from Halifax to take the new post, said paratroops may be called upon to serve "where it is difficult to get men to the spot by ordinary methods." For instance, they might be used to seize a bridgehead where a river was to be crossed or to swoop down upon an enemy headquarters in the rear of battle lines.

Second-in-command is Maj. R. F. Routh, 26, of Montreal, a member of the reconstructed Royal Rifles of Canada. He confirmed an earlier announcement that the battalion is to be 30 per cent French-speaking. Lieut. H. K. Robinson, 28-year-old Montrealer, was on leave yesterday but will be back in time to leave for Fort Benning with the others. The fourth officer so far selected is Lieut. Thomas W. R. Brier, 28, of St. Johns, Que.

COMMANDS PARATROOPS

Major Hilton David Proctor, 31-year-old Ottawa man and former Bisley marksman, who has been named commander-elect of Canada's new hand-picked body of paratroops, the 1st Canadian Parachute Battalion. Major Proctor leaves this week for Fort Benning, Georgia, with a group of 26 officers and N.C.O.'s who will be instructors of the new shock-troop unit.

Red Cross Work Rooms Here Present Lively Scene to Visitors

Distributing, Receiving and Packing of Articles Goes on Daily

BUSY CENTRE

350 More Sheets Ready for the Russian Red Cross Relief

As a gift from Red Cross headquarters chevrons were received by the local branch yesterday, to be worn on the sleeve of the smart blue smocks which are the uniform of the Red Cross staff workers here. The chevrons are in red and white and each represents a year devoted to Red Cross work during the present war. Many of the workers will receive three, as they have devoted their time tirelessly for Red Cross during that term, others will be awarded two, and those who have completed one year will receive one chevron.

Busy Scene

The local Red Cross headquarters presents a busy scene from early morning till late in the evening. The offices and depot for distributing and receiving of work are downstairs. The system of bookkeeping, for materials and finished articles, is very up to date and the officers can tell at a glance just how much work is out, and when its return in finished garments can be expected. For the wool work there is a separate department. Here wool is given out, finished articles received, inspected, and in some cases, altered. An accurate record is kept of every bit of wool, from the time it is received from headquarters until it is returned there in finished form.

No Waste Here

Nothing is wasted at the Red Cross rooms. Every length of string is saved. Odd pieces of wool are made into afghans, and yesterday afternoon a very lovely one was brought in by the Tabernacle Church group, a sample of what can be achieved with left over wools. The material from the tearing of sheets is put away for waste and sent to munition plants where it is greatly in demand.

Everything is systematic and well arranged. The local branch receives every three months from headquarters its quota of work, sewing and knitting. The various units in city and country and the individuals linked with the local branch follow this program until the quota is filled, and shipped and work is begun on another quota. In this way Red Cross workers know that the piece of work they are engaged on is especially important at the moment and is in demand to fill a specific need. This avoids the overlapping of work.

On the second floor of the Red Cross headquarters in the city, is the sewing room where machines keep up a steady whirr all day long as volunteer workers maintain a top-speed out-put of work. Long tables for the cutting out of garments and for the packing of bales complete the equipment and here various groups of workers take charge as their "day" at the Red Cross rooms comes around. In spite of the tremendous amount of work accomplished, the atmosphere is gay and informal, the sound of laughter in some cases almost drowning out the noise of the sewing machines.

The work of sewing sheets for Russian Red Cross is going ahead at a fine rate, but volunteers for this special work will be warmly welcomed. Yesterday three hundred and fifty sheets were ready for packing. Many have been distributed to those who work at home, while others come to the Red Cross rooms to stitch the sheets. Over twenty-five hundred remain to be done and the women are eager to have this quota completed as soon as possible to keep up. Belleville's reputation for industry and co-operation in emergency calls.

Cheese Box Situation Here "Not Wholesome" Declares Chief of Dairy Products Bd.

Directors of Cheese Producers' Association Discuss Supply of Boxes at Meeting Held Here

NO SHORTAGE OF MATERIAL

Declaring the cheese box situation here "not wholesome" J. F. Singleton, Chief of the Dairy Products Board, Ottawa, told the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association directors at the first quarterly meeting held at its head office in Belleville, that Ottawa had, within the last few days offered Central Ontario box makers 40,000 flats or three carloads of box veneer "with not a single taker."

The veneer was available in Quebec, he said, and was offered at $1.80 per thousand flats delivered at the nearest station. The offer was not accepted by a single maker in the district.

"One of the most healthy things you can do here," he advised, "is to start an assembly plant of your own, even if you never turn out a single box. Your situation here is not wholesome."

Because of the fact that Eastern Ontario box makers had been getting rejected airplane veneer, Mr. Singleton said, a plant at Thurso, Quebec, was now prepared to make elm cheese box veneer. This plant is a large one, capable of turning out large quantities.

Paper boxes are available, and could be used in a "pinch" he stated.

Local Problem

The cheesebox problem was purely a local one, it was pointed out at the meeting. The Quebec Co-operative is making boxes at 28c delivered to any point within fifty miles.

Director Ed. Pyear, Stirling was of the opinion that veneer is not as short in this district as people are led to believe. "There is something more to this situation than that," he said.

"I am told veneer is available here, but there is an acute shortage of labor," association secretary Joss told the directors.

Western Ontario directors had been told that plenty of veneer was in this district, but it had a price. The box situation should be handled, they declared, but if the price is allowed to rise it will cause dissatisfaction throughout the province, especially where makers furnish everything and work under contract.

Explaining the situation here, Director W. H. Montgomery, Prince Edward County, told the directorate that the trouble is confined to the Belleville area. "Other directors have had no trouble in the eastern and western parts of the province," he said.

He made it clear that the Belleville Cheese Board had not backed the box makers but something had to be done as cheese was lying on the shelf.

"So far," he said, "the Producers' Association had handled the matter here, importing two carloads of boxes, with two more on the way."

J. H. Ebbs, Perth, Ont., association president who was in the chair, stated that "we may have to go into this box situation. We do not want to but if we are pressed, we will." He officially welcomed the directors in their first official visit to this city.

Expect Opposition to Testing

L. C. Lackner, Ontario Dairy Commissioner, Toronto, referring to the proposed testing to be done by makers, warned they might do it next year. "A lot of trouble was experienced with testing during 1941 due to labor shortage," he said, "and we are determined to try to get the makers to do this work next year."

President Ebbs suggested that a lot of opposition would be met in this regard and it was up to the leaders of the industry to back up this plan.

The executive had had a busy quarter, he stated, and the only trouble was the cheese box situation.

The directors and guests numbering some thirty lunched at the Bay of Quinte Country Club prior to the official business meeting held in the office of Secretary S. L. Joss.

Visitors included besides Messrs. Singleton and Lackner, Mr. John Freeman, associate member of the Dairy Products Board, Montreal, and Mr. Bryan L. White, editor of the Ottawa Farm Journal, Ottawa.

Kiwanians Hear Interesting Address On Bees by Mrs. M. H. Kerr, Roslin

Introduced to the Belleville Kiwanis Club members at their regular luncheon meeting by Gordon Barclay as being "the outstanding woman bee-keeper in the Province of Ontario," Mrs. M. H. Karr, apiarist in the Roslin district for the past 26 years, presented a very interesting address on the life and habits of bees as she addressed the Kiwanians on Tuesday.

Bees are almost human in their habits of life, according to Mrs. Keir, and she did not approve of referring to the inhabitants of her 326 skips as "insects."

Bees are not native to Canada but were introduced to this country from Germany, although the Italian bee is the most popular in Canada today. The active season of the bee ranges from April to the first of December. "A great many people," stated Mrs. Kerr, "think that all there is to bee-keeping is to buy a few skips of bees and place them in their backyards—and let the bees do the rest." The reverse was actually the case, she said.

The mystery of the bees "swarming" was explained by the fact that their present home becomes overcrowded and the bees seek to establish another hive. If, however, the hive has been depleted by a hard winter or for other reasons the bees do not swarm. "We should admire the bees in their sacrifice of the home for the future of their race," commented the speaker.

Bees have a great respect for their queen and reserve the best of the honey and create the best "home" for the queen of their swarm. Mrs. Kerr mentioned that recently she had ordered 150 new queens from the United States for replacement in her colony.

Truth in Proverb

The old adage "busy as a bee" had truth for its foundation according to Mrs. Kerr who stated from observation that the average honey bee would make as many as 30 trips in an hour to a nearby flower bed from which to gather nectar. Worker bees will sting only once and then die.

An interesting point of Mrs. Kerr's address was her statement that bee stings are being used by certain doctors to effect a cure for arthritis and for rheumatism. The practice originated in France about 1875 but of recent years had seen rapid development. Artificial stinging by bee poison with a hypodermic needle had been developed, she said.

Bees and bee-keepers are being called upon for greater efforts to supply additional bees-wax for the war industry, according to Mrs. Kerr. Normally Canada's bees-wax production was 320,000 pounds but the need this year is half a million pounds, while next year the objective has been set at 750,000 pounds. Bees-wax is used in the manufacture of explosives, in the making of parachutes and in building corvettes.

Speaks on Guns

Mr. Donald Mathews, formerly with the Chrysler Motor Corporation, but loaned to the Sorel Gun plant at Sorel, Quebec, for the duration of the war, guest of President Jack Trudeau at the luncheon, favored with a brief description on the development of the now famous gun plant where 25-pounders are being manufactured. Another guest at the luncheon was Mr. H. Patterson, Kiwanian from Ottawa.

Charlie Richardson moved that a letter of appreciation be forwarded to the Red Cross ladies who assisted in making the Kiwanis Blood Donor Tag Day such a success. As a result of the appeal 375 blood donor volunteers had offered themselves, he said.

Jack McVeigh again asked the co-operation of the members toward putting the Kiwanis Karnival over with its usual fine success and urged that prominence be given to the fact all benefits are for the Blood Donor Clinic. Jack McIntosh, chairman of membership, was congratulated by President Jack Trudeau on the success of his local membership campaign. In a province-wide Kiwanis Membership campaign, Belleville stood 10th., according to Mr. Trudeau.

Mr. J. V. White expressed appreciation to Mrs. Kerr for her fine address, while Harold Carruthers acted as song leader during the singing of several popular and new numbers. Leo Riggs was at his accustomed position at the piano while Anthony Cekota acted as sergeant-at-arms.

Nazi Bomber Reported Over West Iceland, No Attack Made

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 12 — (AP) — A long-range German bomber was reported over Western Iceland yesterday afternoon but attempted no attack, army authorities announced.

An alarm was sounded on the north coast in Akureyri, Iceland's second largest city, with 5,000 population. No planes were seen, however.

SAYS FINNS OFTEN DISCUSS PEACE WITH RUSSIA

Toronto, Aug. 12 (CP).—BBC said today that Dr. Julio Passikivi, former Finnish envoy to Russia, told Danish journalists in Copenhagen that in Finland the question of peace with Russia is often discussed.

Thousands of women who have never seen the inside of a canning factory are being asked to spend the next six to eight weeks lending a hand to preserve food for Victory!

Bountiful Ontario crops of fruit and vegetables must be saved as food for Canada's armed forces, for our allies and for our families. They must be preserved promptly in the hundreds of clean, well-operated canning plants of the province.

The seasonal type of workers usually available to canning factories have been absorbed almost entirely into year-round war jobs. This leaves Ontario food processors desperately short-handed unless local women will leave their homes for a few weeks to lend a hand.

So act now! Get some of your friends together and volunteer your next few weeks to your local canning factory for this bigger job. It's a very necessary war job that's as useful, as pleasant and as patriotic as the making of munitions, and the job will be over for this year in about two months. If further information is required, write Farm Service Force, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

The inspector, who declined to permit use of his name, was commenting on a report from a source closely associated with those enforcing the call-up regulations that R.C.M.P. constables had met with such resistance in delivering call-up notices in Quebec city.

The inspector said, that his statement could be taken as an official announcement from "C" division, which includes all of Quebec province except an area near Ottawa.

No Armed Resistance.

Quebec, Aug. 12 (CP).)—Maj. G. O. Bigaouette, Provost Marshal of Military District No. 5, said today that none of his men har ever met armed resistance from youths attempting to evade their call-up for military service.

Maj. Bigaouette was commenting on a report from a source closely associated with those enforcing the call-up regulations that Royal Canadian Mounted Police constables had met with such resistance in delivering call-up notices in Quebec city.

"If my men were meeting such resistance I would give them rifles to defend themselves," Maj. Bigaouette said. I would not risk the lives of my men; I would arm them. And I can tell you that I have two patrols of men out now and they are not even carrying billy clubc."

Maj. Bigaouette said he talked to R.C.M.P. officers here and they denied that they had ever met armed resistance "either in the city or in the vicinity".

No "Panic" Buying of Soap And Butter Reported in City

There was a slight increase in the sales of soap and butter here following rumors of rationing of these articles, but the situation did not reach the "panic" and "rush" proportions said to have taken place in Kingston and other neighboring centres.

Maybe the Belleville housewife is more level-headed than her counterparts in other large centres but nothing of the nature of a "Kingston Panic" or a "Peterborough Stampede" affected merchants here.

True, there were a few people who appeared to be jittery in their shopping activities but level heads intervened and impressed upon them the fact that the alleged rationing of soap and butter were nothing more than wild rumors.

The new tea ration is gradually being taken in her stride by the average housewife here, it was stated today. There were some attempts at mass buying shortly after the Wartime Prices and Trade Board handed down its ration edict but these were of a minor nature and did not develop into serious proportions.

Restaurants generally proffer a cup of tea instead of the habitual pot, and no repeaters.

Waitresses politely inquire if a patron desires sugar and if the amount is not specified, he gets three small lumps, which are supposed to be used in the beverage and not placed in a handy pocket for future reference or a friend who has a decidedly sweet tooth.

This practice has been more or less noticeable within the past few days but vigilant restaurateurs are keeping it down to a minimum.

90 DAILY PAPERS SERVED BY 'C. P.'

News-Herald, Vancouver's Morning Newspaper, Becomes Subscriber to The Canadian Press

Vancouver, Aug. 12 — (CP) — The News-Herald, Vancouver's only morning newspaper, Tuesday became a subscriber to the news service of The Canadian Press, Canada's daily newspaper co-operative.

The total of dailies receiving the CP service over its coast-to-coast network of leased wires now stands at 90. The Canadian Press also provides its service without charge to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and, through its subsidiary Press News Limited, serves 30 private radio stations on a transcontinental radio wire.

Welcoming the News-Herald in a letter to be published in today's edition, A. R. Ford of London, Ont., President of The Canadian Press, wrote that the 25 years of the news co-operative's growth was "reflected in its working agreement for news exchange with The Associated Press — also a co-operative—and with Reuters, the great English news service. Through its connection with these services CP has unrivalled facilities for world wide coverage in these trying days."

Steel Shortage Blamed on 'Lack Of Real Expansion

Washington, Aug. 12. —(AP)— Chairman Harry Truman of the Seate Defence Committee today attributed the steel shortage which he said is hampering the United States war production to a lack of "real expansion" in the steel industry.

Truman, after more than six months of inquiry, told reporters he had concluded there was no real expansion in the industry, but merely an "integration" of the plants of the big companies, while they "choked" the smaller rolling mills out of existence.

He said Donald Nelson, director of the War Production Board, "should exercise his authority and reorganize the iron and steel division of W.P.B." to get action.

Truman said his committee had learned that not a new iron mine or blast furnace had been built in any new place, although Lower California, the State of Washington and British Columbia contained an abundance of untapped raw materials.

FIRE AT MIDLAND FOUND ACCIDENT

No Evidence of Sabotage— Need of Adequate Fire Protection Pointed Out

Toronto, Aug. 12 —(CP)— Although the $186,000 fire at Midland, Ont. July 14 was accidental with no evidence of sabotage, Fire Marshal W. J. Scott, K.C., in a report to Attorney-General Gordon D. Conant late yesterday said "its spread was due in a great measure to the failure of the plant management to provide adequate fire protection."

Fire Marshal Scott referred to the management of the Midland Boat Works, where two naval vessels under construction were destroyed with a loss of $132,000. The loss at the boat works was $36,000, of which only $15,500 was covered by insurance.

"In the words of the manager of the plant, they were so interested in production of boats for the navy, that the proper protection against fire or the means of that protection was almost completely overlooked," said Mr. Scott.

The fire was spread by a high wind, estimated as 65 miles per hour, which carried burning embers as far as a mile away "plus the fact that the town of Midland had only one fire pumper which had to remain at the main fire, leaving the homes throughout the town to burn, excepting those saved by citizens with garden hose and water buckets until help arrived from the Penetang brigade."

Protection Against Fire

Mr. Scott said the Dominion Government has elaborate agencies for the protection of war industries against sabotage "but it is important to keep in mind that fire is equally destructive, whether it is caused by sabotage, by arson or by accident, and is equally damaging to the means of production of the weapons of war."

Attorney-General Conant, commenting on the report, said while there was some satisfaction in knowing the fire was not the result of sabotage, "the suggestion that our war industries are not adequately protected against fire is rather disturbing."

Another Slap at Axis

Sleek an trim, bearing the name of one of America's naval heroes, is this destroyer, the U.S.S. Burns, shown sliding down the ways for its initial bath at the Charleston navy yard. It will soon be on the prowl of enemy U-boats now operating against the Allied Nations.

Five Children in One Family Have Tonsils Removed on Same Day

Some kind of a record was established at the Belleville General Hospital on Tuesday morning—and this same record might very well defy its equal in any part of the Dominion—when five children, four daughters and son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Tebworth, 46 Geddes Street, were admitted for tonsilectomy operations.

The children, ranging in age from nine to 15 years, were all operated on within minutes of each other by Dr. G. S. Cronk, and all five children are home this morning enjoying the regular Tebworth family routine.

"We just thought we'd have it over with all at once," commented Mr. Tebworth to the Ontario Intelligencer this morning, "with five of them the ordeal would last quite a while and we didn't want it to string along."

As it is the Tebworth children will all be ready for the opening of the fall school term in September, their tonsils forgotten. Of the five children only Lois felt any ill effects of her visit to the hospital. She felt disinclined to get up this morning but the other four, including the son who was out riding his bicycle, were up and around as usual.

Wing Cmdr. Snetsinger Installed as New O.C. at No. 5 I.T.S.

With fitting station ceremonies, Wing Commander A. J. Snetsinger, E.D., new officer commanding No. 5 Initial Training School, R.C.A.F., assumed his new command this morning. He succeeded Squadron Leader J. M. Dobson, who has been transferred to Claresholme, Sask., as chief ground instructor at No. 15 Service Flying Training School.

Command of the school was officially handed over to the new commanding officer with the station personnel drawn up on parade Squadron Leader Dobson briefly addressed the assembled airmen expressing his appreciation of their co-operation and wishing them luck in the future.

Wing Commander Snetsinger replied briefly, and the ceremonies concluded with a station march-past with Squadron Leader Dobson taking the salute. The assembled airmen gave the former commanding officer three lusty cheers prior to his leaving the parade ground. He left today for his new post in the west.

The new C.O. comes from No. 1 Training Command headquarters at Toronto, where he was chief of the personnel staff.

It's the same with the Colonel, too...

To Private Willie Gillis, Jr., who hasn't issued a command (yet) and who is very good at peeling apples, the Home Town Newspaper is a welcome package, indeed.

Willie's Colonel, who hasn't peeled apples for a long time (if ever) and who is very good at issuing commands, comes from another town. But it's just as hard for him to get along without the news . . . especially the news from home.

It's the same with the Captains and the Majors and the Generals. And with Ensigns and Admirals, too.

It's the same with people on the home front. With Bankers and Clerks, Clergymen and Machinists, Teachers and Students, Housewives and Business Women . . . and Workers in the War Plants.

It's the same with you and me.

No matter who we are or where we are or what we do, we all have one thing in common: we want the newspaper . . . because we want the news.

Today, when so much is happening so quickly, this constant hunger for the news, this universal need for the newspaper is stronger than ever.

We need newspapers today not only for the news they bring, but for the guidance they give us; for the advice, instruction and information . . . in the ads as well as the news columns . . . which help us adjust our lives to these critical and constantly changing days.

We need newspapers to be well-informed. And a nation that is well-informed is a more secure nation, a better prepared nation, a more democratic nation . . . a nation more sure of progress and Victory.

Offensive in Pacific

The Allied offensive which has been taking place in the Solomon Islands in the Pacific is the first attempt at invasion by the United Nations and has been marked with success as landings have been made and are being held in the face of strong Japanese counter attacks. The importance of the naval-marine invasion [illegible] to make it possible that this struggle may mean the turning point in the battle of the Pacific.

Japan whose aggression has taken her far from home is finding more and more strong the forces of the United Nations in the Pacific. She has had several unpleasant experiences, as in the Coral Sea and at Midway, which have been Allied successes, and held up the Niponnese as the lulls which followed those battles showed. The strength of the attacking force in the Solomons is a further proof of growing ascendency of the Allied forces. In the air there is a great improvement over conditions when the Japanese first began their course of aggression last December.

A Democratic King

King Haakon of Norway who reached his 70th birthday a few days ago has the distinction of having been chosen by popular election. When Norway and Sweden dissolved the union which had existed between the two crowns and the King of Sweden ceased to be King of Norway, Prince Carl of Denmark was offered the Throne of Norway and he accepted only on condition that a plebiscite would be held to determine whether Norway would be a monarchy or a republic. When the people voted of their own free choice to make the ancient Norwegian throne for centuries held by the kings of Denmark and Sweden a symbol of complete Norwegian independence, Prince Carl took the name of Haakon as his royal name. This was in emulation of the medieval Norwegian monarch who has been known in history as Haakon the Good. As his motto Haakon chose the words "Act for Norge" ("All for Norway").

King Haakon VI is a thoroughly democratic king who has endeared himself to his people.

A Lesson to Saboteurs

Six German saboteurs who arrived in the United States bent on sabotaging the United States war effort have been executed as spies and the news has been sent to Germany. However the German government tries the news of the action of the United States in putting to death these men who had come from Germany after training in a school of sabotage to wreck the American war plans will reach the Germans at home and the effect will be all to the good for it is a stern warning to other devotees of Hitlerism of what they may expect if they set out on the same course as these executed men set out on some time ago. They have been dealt with fairly and with a firm hand and there is no sympathy for them.

Nazis have demonstrated at all times that they have no respect for anything, they are lawless in spirit and obey only one thing, the evil that they have adopted. The Nazi's hand is set against civilization. Crimes of all kinds against civilization they have committed, such as shooting civilians in the streets. All is a part of that cruel and brutal system of which Hitler is the head. It respects only brute strength.

The saboteurs could have caused loss of property, injury to the Allied war effort and the death of American citizens and soldiers if their plans had not missed fire.

Their death is a warning that a democratic people can strike with hard blows at saboteurs. It will teach other saboteurs or saboteurs in sympathy, if not respect, at least fear, for the Hun is subject to fear else he would not try terrorism on others.

Peacetime expectations could never have reached the point of achieving what is being achieved in these days through the war development of aviation. The ferry service is a proof of the great expansion which has taken place in aviation even since the war began. In the nature of things there is a very intense development as speed and improvement are essential so that the ultimate in flying may be achieved in the war.

A chap named Paul, to whom I bow,

And through my being sunshine scatters
Anent those primly fiscal matters,
Suggesting happily for some
A nifty moratorium
Of debt which pleasantly relaxes
The stress of paying income taxes.

That chap named Paul knows more than I
About such things, and that is why
He stirs in me an optimism
That's all devoid of criticism.
Besides, there's quite a lot of stuff
I yearn to leave upon the cuff.
Oh, glowing future, suave and mellow!
Why worry for the other fellow?

That chap named Paul I'm strongly for,
Although perhaps some creditor
May find himself a bit dejected,
While I am calm and uncollected,
And think, as probably he might,
About that adage, old and trite,
(I can't recall another neater)
Of paying Paul by robbing Peter.

SUGGESTIONS

Dan A. West, director of the consumer division of the Office of Price Administration, Washington, has listed some of the things civilians can do to offset high prices and shortages . . . . Use your credit union to buy next year's coal now. . . . If price of meat takes a jump, can you substitute eggs or fish? . . . Learn how to make wool last longer and how to give it mothproof storage. . . . Patch raincoats and rubbers. . . . Organize shopping groups to save rubber. . . . Transportation pools to save gas. . . . Form neighborhood exchanges to pass on outgrown children's clothes. . . . Share your washing machine. . . . Start community canning projects. . . . Learn to eat nourishing and not just filling foods so you'll stand the war strain better.

To which we might add—Honor your neighbors ration cards. Stretch your own rations so you don't have to borrow. . . . They haven't rationed shoe leather, yet—walk for that pack of cigarettes and save rubber and gas. . . . When you do ride, take the neighbor. . . . Don't believe any rumors about further rationing until you hear it officially from the radio or see it in the press. . . .

The railroad official looked up from the application blank and said, "Have a seat, Mr. Rancke."

Mr. Rancke sat down.

"Now let's see," said the railroad official, "you've applied for a job as a dispatcher at one of our railway crossings. What would you do if you saw two trains racing toward each other, on the same track?"

"Why, I'd immediately throw the switch and send one of them on to another track," replied Mr. Rannke.

"What would you do if the switch was jammed?"

"I'd send a message by wire to the receivers on the two trains," answered Mr. Rancke.

"What," asked the official, "if the wireless was out of order?"

"I'd grab a red flag, rush out to the tracks and signal the engineers to stop."

"Yes, but what if they didn't see you?"

"Then, I'd call my sister," said Mr. Rancke.

"Call your sister?" exclaimed the official. "What could she possibly do?"

"Nothing," smiled Mr. Rancke. "But she loves to watch railroad smashups."

SLEEP

Sleep is that benediction of the night
Which ends disaster and makes error right;
That gift of comfort for the troubled breast
Which soothes fatigue with an unbroken rest;
That boon of poor men, rich men cannot buy,
Which toil allows and fame cannot supply.

Sleep is the sweet reward which all desire;
The sought for bliss which money cannot hire;
The deep forgetfulness of pain and care
Which those with conscience clear may freely share;
A night of freedom from life's endless woes
Which many a man of little fortune knows.

Who for the day is wealthy, plain appears,
Fame prints its favorites in the book of years,
But humble dwellings sheltered safely keep
The names of those enriched with restful sleep,
The tired, worn bodies, granted this delight:
The joy of sleeping soundly through the night.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

The Divided Mind of Mr. Gandhi

New York, Aug. 12—Time and again great revolutionary movements have regenerated into mere rebellions and by so doing died. Rebellion is inflamed by real evils. It is a spirit of resistance to an existing state of affairs. Revolution, however, is positive. It is the creation of new state of affairs, more suited to the spirit and needs of the times.

Mr. Gandhi had the choice of being a rebel or a revolutionary. He has chosen to be a rebel.

Revolutions may be violent or non-violent. That is not their essence. But there never has been a non-violent rebellion, and neither will Mr. Gandhi's be. Twenty-four hours after he orders civil disobedience without violence, his people riot, and Japan openly offers armed intervention. The rebellious spirit, which Mr. Gandhi has unchained, is much stronger than Mr. Gandhi's pacifism.

Were Mr. Gandhi a genuine revolutionist, he would take an entirely different advantage of the situation of his country. His first aim would be to integrate his movement into the great world movement. Instead of fixing his eye single-mindedly upon the ancient enemy, the British Empire, he forces in the world. Colonial Imperialism is breaking up, by consent, on the one side, and is being rejuvenated on the other.

Offered Opportunity

By a combination of circumstances the allies of Britain have become the greatest anti-imperialist powers; China, Russia, the United States. This fact offered Mr. Gandhi his historic opportunity. That was to align himself against the new imperialisms, but at a price, a price to be guaranteed by China, Russia, and the United States. He had this chance when Cripps went to India. His opportunity was to participate in the war against the aggressive young imperialists, Germany and Japan, for the price of Indian freedom.

But the spirit of a rebel and a doctrinaire pacifism prevented him from being a revolutionary statesman.

In statemanship as in life there are scales of truth and value, and destiny is in the choices made. The superior mind makes its choices under the largest possible aspects. It takes all the elements into account. A choice governed by resentments is never a wise one—and never revolutionary.

In 1917 Lenin was a sworn enemy of the Kerensky Government. But when Kerensky was threatened by approaching Tsarist troops under Korniloff, Lenin called up all his followers to fight with Kerensky against Korniloff, postponing his quarrel with Kerensky. Had he acted otherwise Kerensky might have been crushed—but so would Lenin. Lenin didn't like the alliance, but he was a statesman.

Facing the Facts.

In all the democracies, left-wing groups are dissatisfied with their status in society. Doctrinaire agitators could argue that now, when the governing authorities in State and industry are under the pressure of war is the time effectively to strike. But American and British labor leaders have realized that to pursue class politics in this moment would lead to the destruction of democracy and therewith to the doom of the working classes in the democracy. So they did not cut off their noses to spite their faces.

The question at issue in Indian affairs is not whether the free India movement is or is not justified. It is the question of whether the policy adopted to obtain that freedom is or is not intelligent. Mr. Gandhi had the duty to ask himself certain leading questions. They are:

1. What would happen to a Free India if China were crushed by Japan?
2. What would happen to a Free India if Russia were crushed by Germany?
3. What would happen to a Free India if, in the event of an Axis victory, the British world system were dismembered as booty for a world of conquerors?

Factors Swept Aside.

These questions pose the actual situation which confronts a weak India which cannot face the world single-handed and alone. Even the United States would not choose that position—and there is some difference between the United States and India.

Instead of answering any of these questions, Gandhi has chosen to sweep them aside, clinging to a doctrinaire, single-track, rebellious objective. He has chosen a simple and self-righteous line. "In the event we fail I offer my life." But how about the lives of the millions of Indians? History cares nothing about Mr. Gandhi's individual life. Mr. Gandhi's personal purity is no justification for the confusion of his mind. He is for non-violence and creates violence; he is for non-aggression and attracts aggression; he is for the victory of Russia and China and strengthens Japan and Germany; he is for the workers all over the world, and aids their enemies. And all because he hates the British Empire!

Because Mr. Gandhi is confused, it is not necessary that we become confused. I am for the freedom of India—but not at the cost of the freedom of the rest of the world. And if Mr. Gandhi is foolish enough to confront his natural allies with that choice, he is bound to receive only one answer: We have sympathy for India, but we will not commit suicide for her.

BEATING THE DRUMS

An English judge named Denison, according to Blackstone, defined a drummer as a soldier with a drum.

The drum was one of the first musical instruments invented by man and it has played an important function in battle for thousands of years.

In the old days of volunteer armies men were literally called to the colors by drums.

When we call a travelling salesman a drummer we are comparing him to a muster captain calling the men to war. "Drumming up trade" is a reference to the old practice of attracting customers with a drum.

John L. Clem, who rose to the rank of major general in the U. S. army and who died in 1937 at the age of 86, was known as "The Drummer-Boy of Shiloh."

The legs of cooked fowls are called drumsticks because they are fancied to resemble the sticks used to beat a drum.

A typical drum is a percussion instrument consisting of a cylindrical frame with parchment, vellum, metal or other material stretched tautly over both ends, which are known as drumheads.

Nowadays any summary trial is called a drumhead court-martial. Originally, however, the name was given only to a summary and hasty court-martial called to try an offense committed on the battlefield or during a march. Most of the forms and ceremonies were dispensed with and such a trial was little more than a kind of military lynch law. The name was suggested by the fact that such court-martials were often conducted around a drum, the only thing available for use as a table.

A muffled drum is one that has been covered with cloth to deaden the sound for use at the funeral of a soldier or person of distinction.

A tambourine is a small, single-headed drum with jingles on the sides.

A metal drum in the form of a hemisphere is called a kettledrum.

The most common military drum is known as a snare or side drum. It is a comparatively small, double-headed drum because catgut strings are stretched across the lower head to give the instrument greater resonance. The name "snare" refers to these catgut strings.

The largest of all drums is called a bass drum. It is cylindrical, has two heads and produces a deep tone.

It is believed that "drum" is of Dutch origin and that it was originally an attempt to render the sound made by this instrument.

Many primitive tribes in Africa, South America and other parts of the world have what is known as a drum language. The Bantus have developed their drum language to the point where they can carry on sustained long-distance communications by means of drums.

HOW TO MAKE YOUR WARTIME DOLLARS DO MORE FOR YOU
Here are practical answers to many of today's family money problems

ARE YOU wondering how you can stretch your pay cheque? Is it hard to make your wartime income take care of higher taxes, War Savings Certificates and contributions to war charities, in addition to your regular living expenses?

Many men and women have found help in Household's practical booklets on money management and better buymanship. These are 24 illustrated booklets which we publish to help our customers get more out of their incomes. We feel that many other families may find these publications helpful at this time. So we are now making them available to Canadians everywhere.

These booklets will tell you: (1) How to plan your spending to make your wartime dollars do more for you. (2) How to judge quality and compare values when shopping.

You can make your money go considerably farther if you decide just how you're going to spend each pay cheque before you spend it. Decide what you must have and what you can really do without before you start to buy. The Budget Calendar tells a simple way to do this. It's altogether different from ordinary books on budgeting.

The Better Buymanship booklets discuss the buying of food, clothing and home furnishings from the standpoint of the consumer. They tell you what materials give the best service, how to recognize the best "buys," how to know when a price is fair. You become your own judge of quality and value.

For many years we've had daily contact with families with money problems. From our experience and study have come these booklets. We believe that you will find them full of practical suggestions for stretching your wartime dollars. The information is unbiased, dependable and up-to-the-minute.

You may obtain any of the Household booklets you wish for 2½ cents each in stamps to cover mailing costs. (Budget Calendar sent free.) Eight of the twenty-four booklets in the series are described below. Why don't you choose the booklets which interest you and send the coupon today?

August Weddings

HOBART—LANTHIER

St. Joseph's Church, Ottawa, was attractive with Kentia palms, ferns and tall standards of white gladioli for the wedding at nine o'clock Saturday morning of Marguerite Gwendolyn Lanthier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson J. Lanthier, to Sydney Freeman Hobart, son of Mr. M. T. Hobart and the late Mrs. Hobart. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. E. Armstrong.

Mrs. J. L. Gueguen played the wedding music and during the ceremony, Miss Louise Bray sang an "Ave Marie" and "Panis Angelicus", and later during the signing of the register, Miss Bray contributed "Just For Today".

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Lanthier, as maid-of-honor and by Miss Frances Lisle, as bridesmaid. Flight Lieutenant J. T. Hobart, R.C.A.F., was best man for his brother. The ushers were Dr. Ray Linen, Mr. Norman Morrison, of Toronto, and Mr. J. L. Lanthier, Jr., brother of the bride.

The bride wore a floor length model of white chiffon, made on flowing lines with a sweetheart neckline and delicately embroidered bodice. The sleeves, full at the shoulder, fell into a band at the wrist. Her wispy veil of French tulle illusion fell beyond the skirt in graceful lines and was held in place with a bridal tiara of French flowers. She carried white gladioli in shower, the white ribbon streamers adorned with tiny sprays of bouvardia.

Her halo hat of matching material was adorned with French flowers in pastel tones. She carried an arm bouquet of peach shade gladioli and hyacinth blue sweet peas.

The bridesmaid wore orchid net trimmed with Chantilly lace, a flowered hat in matching tones, lace mittens and carried a sheaf of gladioli in mulberry shade and pale orchid sweet peas.

Mrs. Lanthier, mother of the bride, wore a jacket dress of mist grey Lariche crepe with a gored skirt and marquisette yoke and tiny buttons were used as trimming. Her hat of dove grey stitched felt was a Molyneux model, trimmed with a feather mount, shading from fuchsia to violet.

Mrs. Hobart was in pale blue printed sheer with navy blue accessories. Her corsage bouquet was of Premier Supreme roses.

Following a reception and wedding breakfast held at the home of the bride's parents, the couple left for the Laurentians. The bride travelled in a tailored suit of frosted blue wool boucle, opening over a blouse of eyelet embroidery. She wore a Robin Hood hat of matching material. On their return, they will take up residence in Ottawa.

Nervousness a Factor in Producing Ulcers

It is difficult for person who develop stomach or intestinal ulcer to believe that their "nervous" living may have something to do with causing this condition. Nevertheless, there are certain authorities who claim that it is possible to pick out the type of person who is likely to have stomach ulcer by studying his living and eating habits.

It is an interesting fact that in the first World War it is reported that more soldiers were disabled by ulcer of the stomach and first part of the intestine than by all other affections It would appear that certain persons are apparently more likely to develop ulcer than others These persons are nervous and sensitive

There are some individuals who early in life begin to be conscious of their stomachs and have digestive upsets As a result they eliminate one food after another from their diets. They develop weak muscles in the stomach and bowel because they do not eat enough bulky foods and food materials move slowly through the stomach and intestines. An excessive amount of acid forms in the stomach.

Extreme dieting to reduce weight may be another factor in producing ulcer of the stomach, according to Dr. Isidore W. Held of New York. On the other hand, he thinks that some individuals who at middle age consume excessive amounts of food may also be likely to develop an ulcer of the first part of the intestine.

Thus, the use of the right kind of diet may be a factor in the prevention of ulcer, particularly in those who have a tendency to develop this condition. Persons who are extremely nervous should be urged to have actual training courses under the direction of a competent specialist in nervous diseases.

Ulcer of the stomach causes attacks of pain which come on from one to three hours after meals. The pain is in the pit of the stomach and may be quite severe. It may awaken the patient from his sleep. It it is suspected that an ulcer is present X-rays of the stomach and bowel should be taken to help make the diagnosis.

Once a diagnosis of ulcer is made, treatment should be begun at once. The patient should go to bed and stay there for at least a week. He should be relieved of worry and anxiety, and this should be continued for at least three or four weeks after he is out of bed.

Dr. Held stresses the importance of teaching the patient not only what to eat but how to eat it. He must take his food slowly; not take any food which is too hot nor too cold nor highly seasoned foods, and must not gulp down even liquids.

One suggestion is that the patient be given milk every two hours throughout the twenty-four-hours period unless he sleeps through the night. At each of these feedings he is given from ten to twelve ounces of milk with three ounces of cream. It this seems to control the pain the interval between the feedings may gradually be increased to three hours. It milk seems to cause some upset, it may be mixed with barley water. The barley is prepared by cooking it for one and one-half hours in water to which a little salt has been added.

When the severe pain has disappeared about the fourth day of treatment, one soft-boiled egg may be given every three hours during the day, together with the milk and cream. Then soft cereals are added to the diet. As time passes other foods are given, such as toast and butter, graham crackers, potato, white meat of chicken and custard. Certain alkaline substances such as baking soda and calcium carbonate may be used if the diet alone does not relieve the symptoms.

Fashion Flashes

THERE'S DRAMA in every line of those big black felt hats that this year usher in the autumn millinery season. Some hats have shirred ruchings of velvet at the edge of their big brims while others combine velvet and felt in sections.

WE'RE DOING NICELY without those elastised bathing suits. A cool beauty consists of a halter bra and wide-pleated shorts of white sharkskin printed with big splashy red flowers shading to deep pink with big green leaves.

BOUND TO SUCCEED as a best seller is the slack blouse made in one with underpants, something that eliminates those bothersome blouse tails. Nice in red or blue crepe with widely spaced white coin dots.

STYLE AND CHARACTER mark the new early fall fashions. Nice for all-day duty is a frock of black woolen in the new slim silhousette. It has a rippled peplum effect to give the effect of a suit jacket. Down the front are big black velvet appliques in bow effect with self-tie closings. Tiny stand-up collar that extends into the simulated jacket front.

IT IS NICE TO KNOW that many designers are doing hats of the "important" type for the smart matron, hats that are smart and have line but are not fussy. A good model is a hat of purple felt, its visored brim covered with grey pheasant feather pads. Similar pads form a trimming around the crown base and in front are two outspread grey wings.

THERE IS PLENTY of patent available for bags this autumn, judging by the new models Some bags have big ruffles and gussets of faille in black and red with big fabric handles.

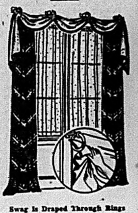
Handsome Swag Curtains Are Amazingly Easy to Make



Swag Is Draped Through Rings

Luxurious swag draperies look so impressive, but the smart style shown in our sketch is really easy to make!

The triple festoon swag is just a length of pale rose crepe you drape through festoon rings (metal or glass) that are nailed to the window casing. The ends of the length are cut on a slant.

The side draperies are a lined wine-color crepe with a pale rose geometric pattern matching the swag; deep blue with light blue, or rich green with pale gold are equally handsome.

For trimming on the swag, fringe adds richness and is easy to apply. So are charming ball fringe and ruffly pleating—all sold by the yard.

In cutting draperies and glass curtains, allow extra width for rich folds. Cut heavy materials 50 per cent. wider than the space to be covered, fine fabrics up to 100 per cent. wider.

Our 32-page booklet shows with simple directions and diagrams how to measure, make and trim glass curtains, drapery-curtains, overdraperies. Also tells how to make fitted and swag valances, cascades, cornices. Suggests colors, fabrics, styles to give individuality to your room.

Budget Babies No Luxuries, Says Miss Fairfax

Several weeks ago there appeared in several papers a delightful picture of a little girl who was celebrating her third anniversary by cutting her birthday cake

The lovely youngster, a bit solemn over wielding a knife almost as long as herself, managed the job with real intelligence. She was Sharon Derer, Chicago's famous "budget baby."

When Sharon was born, July 6, 1939, her father's salary was $1,000 a year. Some friends, whose pay envelopes were the same as Mr Derer's, felt that babies were luxuries, out of the question on that income. But the Derers were wiser. They didn't think a baby was a luxury, like a limousine, a grand piano or a mink coat. They knew that a baby in the home is a miracle of delight, a never-ending source of amusement and happiness.

So these parents decided to keep a budget and put down every cent their little girl cost them. I wish there were space in this column to put down all the items, not only clothes, food, medicines, but even hair cuts and toothbrushes. The record would be helpful to other parents.

This year, Sharon cost $283.94-$58.89 more than last year. Still her parents feel she's more of a delight than a luxury and Mr. Derer's salary was stepped up $200, which helped out.

You probably remember reading of a brand-new father who turned up at a maternity hospital in in New York City with a canvas bag full of nickels. It memory serves, this man's salary was less than $1600 a year, but he and his wife had a theory that the real happiness of a home was in a baby. They began to save every nickel that came to them in change; no dimes, quarters or pennies— only nickels. Over a period of time, the nickels filled the canvas sack, and the stork was paid for. In due time, the beaming family went home.

This true story of every-day life about saving small coins to pay for the prospective baby has started two of my correspondents on the same idea in view. Here's my very best wishes to them!

How to Coax Mother Out of Old-Fashioned Habit

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother is a wonderful woman, and a wonderful cook. When we come home from work in the evening, we find a neatly and always delightfully set table, and my sister and brother and I help with the serving of the dinner, so that mother does not need to leave the table.

But there's one habit of Mother's that bothers us. When she was married, someone gave her as a wedding present of some (a raft of them!) small side dishes, for individual servings of vegetables. (How I wish the person had given her something else!) Mother clings to this old-fashioned way of serving vegetables. . .and we have to cling to it too. We've never said anything about it to her, but we are bored to death with having to use them. Do you think there is some kind way we could convince her that this is not done nowadays?

Kay

I know how you feel! And I'm sure you can do something about it. How about inventing some "pet" name for them and spoofing about them? I'm sure her sense of humor would react to the dismissal of these funny little side dishes no longer used except in some restaurants. Or you might convince her that the vegetables "taste better" when they are served on the dinner plate and mingle with other foods. Or you might compliment her quite often on her artistic table-setting, and tactfully (oh, so tactfully!) suggest that the "little numbers" detract from the harmony of the setting. And I should most certainly think you could make a point of the added work, not only for her but for you too. But remember, humor and tact are your best allies.

Proper Dress for Wedding

Dear Mrs Beeckman:

My fiance and I plan to be married in September, on a Saturday afternoon. I am going to wear a white bridal gown. We are undecided to as whether we will be married at five o'clock, or at eight o'clock in the evening. If we are married at five o'clock, would it be permissible for the bridegroom to wear a tuxedo? How about if we were to be married at eight o'clock in the evening?

L.E.

Even if you are planning to wear a white bridal dress, you can keep the details of your wedding on the semi-formal or informal side. . . and then the bridegroom may properly wear his dinner jacket (Tuxedo) If your wedding is at eight o'clock in the evening But it is not proper for a man to wear a Tuxedo before, at the earliest, six o'clock in the evening.

He's happy . . . but his clothes get grubby

You know how kiddies love grubby games; you know, too, how the dirt gets rubbed right into their clothes.

Sunlight's "EXTRA-SOAPINESS" is exactly suited for applying straight on to the real dirt

● Any good washing preparation will remove the average "all over" dirt from clothes, but where dirt is stubborn, concentrated, you need the help of Sunlight. Because of its "extra-soapiness" Sunlight is exactly right for treating the very grubby parts of clothes.

Sunlight enables you to get straight on to the real dirt at once—to give an extra soaping just where it is most needed.

It is only necessary to apply Sunlight lightly to the grubby part. That is sufficient to leave a film of pure, rich soap in contact with the dirt. Then you'll find every speck of grime comes away readily. No hard rubbing or scrubbing is required at all. Use Sunlight for everything you wash—for household cleaning as well as laundry. It is absolutely safe and gentle to fabrics and to your hands.

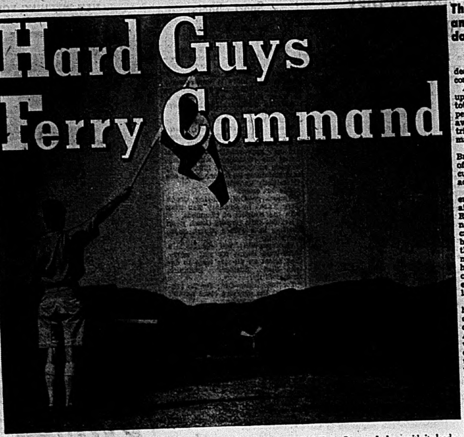
Hard Guys Ferry Command

That dream of a bridge of airplanes across oceans and continents becomes reality through the skill, daring and enterprise of these pioneers of the air

By CLARK KINNAIRD



A Ferry Command plane, with its load of supplies for our fighting men, gets the go ahead signal at one of the miraculously constructed African fields.

GREAT dream of the late Edward Henry Harriman, schoolmaster who pyramided his savings into a transcontinental railway network, was a world wide transportation system controlled and operated by Americans, on which one ticket would carry you, or one weighbill your freight, from almost anywhere to almost everywhere.

He devoted his last, perhaps his best, years to its realization: he sought to link his Union Pacific and other roads to transatlantic and transpacific ship lines and railways stretching from the China coast across Asia and Europe.

The extent to which he made his dream materialize caused fright in at least two foreign capitals. Russia and Japan, who had just fought a war, got together in a hurry to take over jointly a keystone in his plan, the Chinese Eastern R. R., and keep it out of Harriman's hands. That combination was too big for Harriman. He didn't have any encouragement in this enterprise from his own government.

Col. Caleb V. Haines, above, of Surry, N. C., who, as a Ferrying Command pilot opened the air lines route across the South Atlantic and Africa to Asia Minor. Col. Haines now commands a United Nations combat force battling the Japs in China.

Harriman never recovered from his disappointment in not being able to give his country a transportation system befitting its foreign trade. A generation was to pass in which Americans and their goods continued to move abroad mainly on foreign-owned carriers. One world war did not teach the U. S. a lesson, and potential enemies were presented with exact information about our commerce and defenses through the necessity of our having to move the elements of both in alien ships. For example, a large volume of cement, steel and other items being used in defense work at the Panama Canal was transported from California in Japanese freighters.

But the exigencies of a second World War were to force the U. S. to materialize Harriman's dream in a new dimension—the air. And chance decreed that the far-reaching potentialities of this new arm should be dramatized first and most strikingly by a mission headed by William Averill Harriman, son of the man of vision.

Full facts about that dramatic demonstration are only now coming to light. One day last September, members of the first Lend-Lease mission to Russia, headed by Harriman, got into two Consolidated B-24s at Bolling Field, Washington, D. C., which headed north, brought them down at Moscow. There the two bombers separated—after their crews recovered from the breakfast appreciative Russian fliers set up for them; champagne, Crimea wine, caviar, pickled raw fish, onion salad, tomatoes, cheese, cold sausages, more wine, more caviar; more wine. (As an afterthought, the Russians asked them if they'd like beefsteaks.) One plane returned via Iran, India, Singapore, Australia, New Guinea, Wake Island, Honolulu and Los Angeles to Washington—a total of 27,000 miles. Its actual flying time was 5 days and some odd hours, less than that of all except one of the previous round the world flights, although it traveled a greater distance, much of it without advance information on weather. It took the longest hops on record for any land plane.

The commander of the plane, which carried a crew of six, was Major Alva L. Harvey. Seventeen years before, Harvey, then a sergeant, started another historic globe-circling flight, as mechanic in the round-the-world expedition commanded by Lieut. Frederick L. Martin (now a lieutenant-general). He and Martin crashed an hour after taking off from Chignik, Alaska, to hop to Siberia, and were 12 days getting to a settlement. There were no mishaps this later time.

The other plane on that historic Washington-Moscow hop flew south to Cairo, thence through Africa to the West African Coast and to Brazil, on to Peurto Rico and Washington. Both were pioneer trips destined to be celebrated in American history when their full significance can be dwelt upon. For today the United States has the greatest air line in the world. The word greatest hardly gives you an idea. Put all the regular international airlines in the world, as of 1938, in one group, and this new system created by Uncle Sam within a year would be bigger. No adequately descriptive name for it has been found. Originally it was called The Army Ferrying Command. Now it is officially the Air Transport Command.

The bare outline of its development is as thrilling a saga of American enterprise as we have ever had. It is typified by Capt. H. Mitchell Borden. Lieut. Andrew Rowan, who inspired Elbert Hubbard's classic sales talk, "A Message to Garcia," wasn't in Borden's class. When the Command extended its service to the Middle East a complete airdrome for the biggest planes was needed in the center of Africa, 250 miles from ordinary communications, Borden, a youngster only a few months out of engineering school, was set down in a field from a small plane with a half-dozen assistants, a roll of blue-prints, and curt instructions.

Borden didn't wireless Washington for any amplification of them. He just worked night and day and performed something of a miracle. When the first regular flight had to be made via the base, one month later, it was ready, with solid runways long enough for the biggest four-engined ships, repair shops, sleeping quarters and mess for maintenance men, crews and passengers. Most miraculous of all, there was gasolene to refuel the ferry planes stopping there, and enough roughly trained aborigines from jungle tribes who had never heard of planes before, to do all except the most skilled work of ground crewmen; and there was even a garden growing fresh vegetables for the mess.

The air line was expanding too fast for anybody in Washington to make inquiries about any difficulties Borden encountered; and the Army was interested only in results, anyway. But it had to take some official note of Borden's unusual endeavors when his bills began to come in.

Apparently Borden had rounded up all the camels in North Africa to tote in gasolene—seven 5-gallon tins per camel, and 250 to 800 miles away. He had employed whole tribes of natives as laborers—and made them work.

"I'd say the bill was reasonable," Brig. Gen. Harold L. George, chief of the Transport Command, said in curt commentary on Borden's achievement.

The feat of Borden and his fellow engineers in laying down a chain of airports across Africa outdid Burma Road. Thousands of naked African natives moved dirt and brought in crushed foundation stone in baskets balanced on their heads. Much of the work had to done at night, to moderate effects of the blistering heat and minimize possible enemy observation. The Nazis had bombers and fighters strung on a necklace of airdromes around Dakar.

To appreciate the task fully, you have to be able to visualize airdromes far different from the usual commercial airport or peacetime Army air field. The latter two offer vulnerable targets to enemy bombers. Borden and his colleagues had to build fields that were completely utilitarian, but with service installations dispersed and concealed or camouflaged. You need plenty of room to get loaded 4-engine ships off the ground, and with the weight they carry in transport service they run a long way in alighting. Large concrete platforms had to be built at hangars, because desert sand seeps into engines and gas while they are being refueled and warmed up. Every drop of water for construction and drinking had to be hauled. Lumber had to be brought hundreds of miles (planes were used) because there was no time to season timber from trees that could be cut down in nearer spots. There were fierce tropical heat, disease, native inertia, the constant threat of sabotage to cope with.

Ferrying Command planes must avoid combat whenever possible. But dozens of F C fliers have decorations won in hostile territory. Staff-Sergt. R. J. Barrett, Jr., Philadelphian, above, is being congratulated by Brig. Gen. H. L. George after he had been honored with the DFC for extraordinary courage in Java.

The Army Transport Command had its Borden in Brazil, too. There Capt. Marshall Jamison, also an engineer new to the Army, was dropped down with instructions to open an air base at ———, jumping off place across the South Atlantic to West Africa. He bought, rented, "borrowed" the necessary equipment and materials. His task was not so difficult physically, perhaps, as Borden's, but it required more tact and diplomacy. For Brazil was still a neutral power, and Axis agents were dangerously active, trying to forestall any preparedness measures. Like Borden, he didn't waste time asking Washington for answers. He did his job. The first Air Transport bombers to arrive found the field ready. There were even iced drinks for the crews.

Capt. Marshall Jamison, above, ATC engineer, who constructed an air base in Brazil, jumping off place for Africa.

This may be the first news that his wife, who is in the United States, has of what he's doing. For he has never been named before as one of our empire builders, and it's not easy for an ATC man to keep in touch with his folks by mail.

One ATC officer has told me he had uncollected laundry in a dozen different cities, in several countries. He didn't know where his parents were, for none of their letters had caught up with him for months. Meanwhile he was flying mail overseas for other soldiers. When Jamison's construction job was done, he got himself assigned as a communications officer so he could see some real action.

That's the spirit of the Air Transport Command. No matter how great their feats in maintaining a bridge of airplanes across the oceans and continents, they're not happy until they get into actual combat.

Perhaps at this point it should be made clearer just why it has become the biggest air line in the world—why the Army has the pins signifying its transport landing fields scattered all over the globe in headquarters in Washington.

First, it's the job of the Air Transport Command to deliver every plane being built for the Army, all the thousands of them, from the factories to the fighting forces wherever they are needed—Australia, Iceland, Alaska, Northern Ireland, Egypt, Panama, Liberia, Hawaii, China, Russia, or Nashville, Tenn. Second, it's the duty of the ATC to haul personnel, cargo or mail for the War Department from anywhere to everywhere, in the U. S. or the world. Incidentally, it's within the jurisdiction of the ATC to supervise all civil airline operations, except those under Navy directions.

The ATC is the literal heart of Army aerial operations throughout the world, pumping equipment, personnel and planes through the only arteries left in many parts of the United Nations body. It has made the ocean shipping stringency less of a bottleneck. Short-ranged fighter planes, such as P38s or P-40s, do not have to be crated and await slow-moving convoys for delivery on fighting fronts now. The ATC straps auxiliary gas tanks on their bellies and flies them over the North and South Atlantic. No plane of any size, whether intended for combat service or not, crosses the ocean without a full load. One million pounds of cargo was moved across the North Atlantic in ATC planes in one period. The ATC totes everything from prefabricated buildings, tractors and jeeps to medicines and foods for soldiers and replacement parts for their machines.

That "Air power and supply lines will win this war" is said frequently. The Air Transport Command represents the combination of both. It's American enterprise at its zenith.

Its great work is too little known and appreciated, except to a few like Al Williams. That professional critic of aviation, who was a Navy flier, has said: "The ferrying command is preparing the way for the air power that's coming—for the age, near at hand, when entire air fleets will span oceans, jump continents and, after loading up with ammunition and bombs, undertake war missions just as sea fleets do today."

Williams wrote this some months ago, before the ferrying service was redesignated the Transport Command. His forecast has already become fact. Williams continued:

"In this ferry service lives again the spirit of the old American frontier. The most romantic and exciting tales of Dick Merriwell pale beside the experiences of men of our American air ferry command."

NEXT WEEK:—The writer has been enabled to get the thrilling stories of many of these men first hand, and next week they will be told here.

Thousands of African natives, many of whom had never heard of airplanes before, were hired to crush the stone needed as foundations for runways.

Gasolene, for refueling planes, was toted in by camel to the bases, where native women carried the 5-gallon tins in primitive fashion, on their heads, to camouflaged depots.

Construction scene at an ATC base in Africa, above. A chain of these airports, completed in a few months, makes it possible to ferry planes and equipment direct from our factories to the front in a few days time. Far different from the camel caravans (insert) used by Mussolini's forces in Ethiopia.

SECOND-PLACE FIGHT IN MAJOR LEAGUES PRODUCES BEST BALL; TWO OVERTIME GAMES PLAYED

Cleveland Beats Tigers in 14 Innings, While Boston Retains Second Place by Beating Yankees

MILNAR HURLS 1-HITTER

Dodgers Idle, So Cardinals Advance by Downing Cubs 7 to 2

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

With New York Yankees and Brooklyn monopolizing the Major League pennant races, fans who like their baseball close must be getting an occasional thrill these days out of the way the other first-division clubs are scrapping for the consolation prizes.

Yesterday, for instance, Cleveland Indians battled Detroit Tigers for 14 innings with a score on either side. While the Tribe missed a chance to retake second place in the American League, the deadlock produced the nearest thing to a no-hit game the current campaign has seen.

After playing to a standoff in the twilight half of a doubleheader, the two teams came back under the lights and Detroit triumphed, 3-2.

Thus Boston Red Sox, who stopped the Yankees 3-2 in an 11-inning daylight tilt, retained possession of second place at least for another day.

Giants Back Third

At the same time, New York Giants recaptured third place in the National League from Cincinnati by beating Boston Braves 6-4 while the Reds were going down before Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1.

At Cleveland, Lefty Al Milnar of the Indians bid seriously for the first no-hitter since Lon Warneke turned the trick for St. Louis Cardinals against the Reds last Aug. 30, and nearly made it.

There were two men out in the ninth inning when Roger Cramer singled for the first blow off Milnar. But the Indians also were held scoreless by Tommy Bridges, although he yielded nine hits. The only other blow off Milnar in the five extra frames was a single by Rudy York in the 13th.

Scoreless Tie

At the end of 14 innings, the game was halted by darkness and an American League rule that won't permit daylight contests to finish under lights. It went into the books as a scoreless tie, to be played off today as part of a doubleheader.

Dizzy Trout pitched the Tigers to victory in the second game, limiting the Tribe to seven hits.

All this happened within a few hours after Lou Boudreau signed a new contract to manage the Indians for three more years.

Detroit's victory enabled the Tigers to regain fifth place, with the help of St. Louis Browns, who snapped a nine-game winning streak for Chicago White Sox. Denny Galehouse pitched the Browns to a 9-2 triumph, tossing a four-hitter at the White Sox which pushed them back to sixth place.

In another night affair, Washington Senators downed Philadelphia Athletics 3-1 behind Buck Newsom's five-hit pitching.

Tony Lupien's 11th-inning single drove in the run that gave the Red Sox their hard-earned triumph over the Yankees and chopped the Bombers' margin to 12 games.

While Brooklyn Dodgers were idle, St. Louis Cardinals reduced the margin between them in the National League to 8 1-2 games by whipping Chicago Cubs 7-2. Max Lanier hurled five-hit ball for the Cards.

Purely Amateur?

Kenora, Ont., Aug. 12 (CP)—The Native Sons of Canada last night rejected a proposal submitted at the 18th Biennial Convention here that the organization sponsor a "purely amateur hockey cup" to replace the Allan Cup.

The resolution from the Port Arthur assembly stated that the cup for the senior hockey championship of the Dominion "in our opinion is no longer an amateur trophy."

Delegates rejected the proposal because many professional athletes and others who have made their living as hockey players have now joined the active services and will in all probability be playing for service teams next season.

The Picobac Support Line

Home from the hay-field, weary and worn from his day of "Farming for Freedom," Mr. Picobac, Great War Veteran, Home Guard and Farm Corps Auxiliary, kissed his wife a resounding smack on her fresh, rosy cheek.

"That's because I've got such a nice little woman in the house," announced he.

"Want me to sew a button on or something?" inquired Mrs. Picobac, struggling unsuccessfully not to smile.

"What I want is a spell behind the lines," declared Mr. Picobac. "A good meal . . . a good place to put my feet up . . . and some good society. I'm TIRED!"

"You poor man!" exclaimed Mrs. Picobac, sympathetically.

"Poor nothing," retorted Mr. Picobac. "Wait till I have had my supper and a pipeful of mild . . . cool . . . Picobac and I'll be as good a man as ever. To-morrow's another day. Watch my smoke!"

"It DOES taste good in a pipe!"

BOUDREAU SIGNS 3-YEAR CONTRACT

"Boy Manager" Has Made Good at Cleveland Although Only 25 Years of Age

GETS $25,000

By RAY BLOSSER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleveland, Aug. 12—(AP)—Baseball's "boy manager" Lou Boudreau has made good with boss Alva Bradley, known to the trade as a tough man on managers who don't win.

The Cleveland club's white-haired president walked into the dressing room last night and surprised the Indians with the word that Lou—barely 25 years old—had been signed to lead them through the 1945 season.

Players cheered and Boudreau, who has the Tribe scrapping with Boston for second place despite the loss of pitcher Bob Feller, responded:

"Naturally I'm happy, but I want you fellows to know that I'm not fooling myself. It's you who have done the job for me."

Although the present contract carried through 1943, Bradley offered no explanation why a new three-year document was signed for 1943 through 1945. He also made no mention of a salary increase, but it was presumed he had given his playing shortstop more than the $25,000 annually believed to be called for in the present legal papers.

Only after a week of hesitation late last year did Bradley appoint Boudreau the Indians' 15th pilot since the club joined the American League in 1901.

In Feller the Indians lost a certain 20-game winner and Les Fleming currently is the only .300 hitter on an in-and-out club. But Boudreau has kept the Indians in the money all season partly by acute juggling of pitchers. Under Lou, Jim Bagby and Chubby Dean are enjoying their best seasons.

DEACONS EARN FIRST VICTORY IN GIRLS' SOFTBALL PLAY-OFFS

Defeat SWACO 13 to 10 Behind 'Stewy' Stewart's Eight-Hit Pitching and Strong Fielding

WELL-PLAYED GAME

Sword and Corneal Stand Out Defensively for Winners as Two Circuit Blows Knocked

Playing inspired softball behind the eight-hit pitching of their newly-found hurler, "Stewy" Stewart, Stub Barrett's Deacon entrant in the Belleville ladies' softball league won the first game in their semi-final series against the SWACO nine as they defeated the east-enders last night in a well-played tilt by a 13-10 count.

The game was one of the best-played of the season with very few errors entering into the pastime to mount the score. Practically all the runs scored were as the result of honest-to-goodness clouting, with the winners outhitting their opponents by a 16-8 margin.

Defensively the Deacon girls appeared much better than the SWACO nine with their infield of Sword at third and Jean Corneal at the initial sack playing bang-up softball to cut off many potential runs for the losers. Joyce Woodhouse received "Stewy's" slants like a veteran and was especially good on foul balls, accounting for four SWACO batters in this manner. "Stewy" struck out two of the opposition and walked five, while Rogers for SWACOS walked one and fanned two.

Losers Have Power

What the SWACO girls lacked in numbers however, they made up for in power when it came to batting with Norma Corneal accounting for no less than six of her teammates runs as she conked out a brace of homers with two runners ahead of her on each occasion. Other extra base clouts were registered by Fralick and Ronsky who conked out triples, and by Twila Langman with a double to put her team ahead in the first inning.

Of the sixteen baseknocks counted by the winners, only Jean Moreland who smacked out a homer in the sitxh with the bases loaded hit extra bases. All hitting honors of the night, however, must go to "Cece" Sword, Deacons' third sacker who got five for five for a perfect night at the plate.

After spotting their rivals three runs in the first frame, Deacons evened matters in the second and went into the lead in the fourth when they chased across five counters. From then on the losers never really threatened, although they did count runs in later innings on Norma Corneal's extra base clouting.

The teams— Deacons —Stewart, p; Samain ss; Corneal 1b; Sharpe cf Woodouse c; Sword 3b; Freeman 2b; Moreland lf and Green rf. SWACO— Colden 3b; Fralick 2b; Langman cf; Rogers p; Rowbotham 1b; Ronsky lf; Corneal rf; Allen ss and Nelson c.

Boston Brave Pitcher Gets Navy Call

Boston, Aug. 12 (AP)—Jim Wallace, Boston Braves lefthanded pitcher, was called to active service by the navy today and will report next Monday for preliminary training at Squantum air base.

He was ordered to report when he sought further instruction from navy officials prior to today's New York Giants-Braves game.

The 20-year-old promising young pitcher volunteered three weeks ago for service as a naval aviation cadet.

GOT REAL CLOUTER

When the Reds got Frank Kelleher from Newark the outfielder had hit 23 homers and knocked in 85 runs up to mid-July.

Syracuse Hurlers Pitch 49 Innings Without a Score

Syracuse Chief pitchers have dished out 49 goose eggs since Friday.

The Chiefs won their fourth straight shutout triumph over Baltimore Orioles last night as Charles (Red) Barrett hung up his 17th victory of the season, 5-0. The victory moved the Chiefs into fourth place in the International League, 2 1-2 game away from the second-place Jersey City Giants.

Syracuse now has blanked its opponents 49 consecutive innings. The major league record for consecutive scoreless innings is 56, held by Pittsburgh Pirates who set the record in 1903. Pittsburgh also holds the record for consecutive shutout games won, six set the same year.

Barrett now has an 18-inning streak of his own. During that time he hasn't issued a walk.

Elsewhere in the league, Newark Bears stretched their first-place leader to 11 games as they defeated Jersey City Giants, 2-1 and 5-1 in a twilight-arc doubleheader.

Al Gerheauser won his 11th game of the year in the nightcap by limiting the Jerseys to three hits.

Rufe Gentry won his own game when he singled home Mayo Smith in the 12th inning and Buffalo Bisons defeated Rochester Red Wings 2-1. Gentry struck out 10 and retired the last 13 men he faced.

Montreal Royals defeated Toronto Maple Leafs in both ends of a twin-bill 5-1 and 4-3. Chet Kehn tossed a one-hitter in the opener, in winning his seventh game of the year.

Gene Moore's 17th home run of the campaign was the deciding factor in the nightcap as it came in the eighth inning with one man to put the Royals one tally to the good.

TISING BUSY, GOOD

In a stretch of eight days the veteran pitcher, Jack Tising, won five games for Buffalo.

Toronto, Aug. 12 (CP)—Everyone is sorry to see Toronto Argonauts dropping out of football this season, particularly the many who feel such a move is unnecessarily pessimistic. But Argos are following a trend only the most hardy of Canadian football clubs have been able to withstand.

There were ten senior teams in Canada last year. The present reading: Three (Toronto Balmy Beach, Ottawa, Montreal) will operate on approximately the usual basis; one (Winnipeg) will attempt to hang on despite the impossibility of maintaining its former glory; one (Hamilton) undecided.

The box score:

Vancouver—Out; playing Coach Greg Kabat in auxiliary war work with the Knights of Columbus.

Regina: Out; playing Coach Dean Griffing in a Prince Albert, Sask., war plant.

Winnipeg—In; will operate a three-team league for six weeks, then select an all-star team to defend Blue Bombers' Dominion championship.

Toronto Argos—Out; for no reason that the stubborn clubs haven't been able to overcome.

Toronto Balmy Beach—In; will benefit from Argos' folding, may become the favorite Toronto team before the Scullers get back.

Toronto Oakwoods—Out; this O.R.F.U. outfit scarcely rated senior classification.

Kitchener-Waterloo—Out; financial strain too great.

Hamilton Wildcats—Undecided; may wind up in league with Ottawa, Balmies, Montreal.

Ottawa Rough Riders—In; probably as strong as ever.

Montreal—In; perhaps with R.C.A.F. player help.

Incidentally:

Glad to see Dave Catilloux is willing to fight for his championships ...Calgary's Al Lust should get first shot at the welter crown, Montreal's Johnny Greco the lightweight...Greco is 19 this week .... One of the questions Jack Sharkey has fired at him most often in interviews is: "Which was the better fighter, Dempsey or Louis? .... Sharkey, only fighter who fought both, never commits himself.... Maybe he's waiting until both are so old the one he picks as the lesser fighter won't resent it too strenuously.

CASUAL COMMENT by K.J.C.

DID YOU KNOW—IT'S SOMEwhat of a mystery why their American League opposition continues to feed the Yankees on a diet of left-hand pitching..Actually the Bronx Bombers have faced southpaw pitching 20 times this year and have emerged victorious on 13 occasions. ....That alone should dispel the myth that lefthand hurling will beat the McCarthymen, but despite this record most of the junior circuit managers save their portsiders to start against the world champions whenever possible....The Brooklyn Dodgers have played to over 750,000 fans at Ebbetts Field this season and are a cinch to top the million mark....Although the Yankee Stadium holds nearly twice as many people, the stadium patronage isn't much better....That was quite a story that broke in yesterday's overseas press bulletins about P.O. Geo. Pepper using Nazi bombers for clay pigeons....Yes, Belleville's gift to the top-ranking motorcycle racing world is showing his keen nerve at the stick of a Beaufighter for Britain now.... Larry French, the leading pitcher in the National League today, only cost the Dodgers $7,500 the waiver price.

UNLESS THE LEAGUE OFficials, and more particularly the umpires on hand, want to get themselves into a peck of trouble that usually follows when ball games are abruptly halted on account of darkness, Prexy H. C. Knott and his cohorts would be well advised to commence tonight's Army & Navy-Air Force play-off game at least 15 minutes earlier than has been the custom when the sun was high in the skies at eight-thirty o'clock. Yes, and another thing that would be appreciated is to have the alfalfa in the outfield mowed so the patrons could see the outfielders occasionally .

With Johnnie Bawden still on the sidelines nursing an injured toe the Vets' pitching burden will fall on Connie Harris' shoulders tonight. Harris has already engaged in three playoff games in the past ten days, but then again Al Bell, the Flyers' ace moundsman, has pitched four games over the same period so they're all even on that score.

FOR MORE THAN ONE REASON the No. 5 I.T.S. Flyers want to win the city championship and particularly tonight's game. Their new commanding officer, Wing Commander Snetzinger, will accompany F.L. Bob Hunter, chief sports officer at the I.T.S. into the stands tonight to watch his airmen perform in a civilian softball league, so natually the Green-Bell-Gleason squad will be on their toes performing before the big boss. However, Gerald Barriage's Vets. have other ideas in store for the Flyers and hope to get the jump by winning the first game of the series. The Vets are angling to get LaBonne, Reliance classy first sacker, as a military replacement, now that Vern Goyer has left to enlist in the navy. On the season's play the Vets won both scheduled league games, but only by narrow margins. In their initial meeting the Vets beat the Flyers 1-0 with Saltzberry and Bawden allowing only three hits each and neither team has lost a game since their last meeting. Rumours are rife that the Flyers are prepared to back their ability with the coin of the realm, which should make the series more interesting.

THE SOFTBALL PLAYOFFS IN Belleville this year haven't exactly run true to form in either men's or the ladies' loops, but when it came to direct upsets the lassies' loop has really supplied the surprises in their playdowns. First Barney Smith's Corbins toppled the high and mighty Zellers and directly on their heels came the Deacon lassies to humble Tommy Colden's SWACO gals in the other half of the league semi-finals last night. After finding out that "Stewie" Steward was more valuable on the mound, than at second base, the Deacons sent Stewie to the hilltop last night and she promptly proved her worth by limiting the "Eastenders" to eight hits, behind the fine fielding of Jean Corneal, M. Sward and Joyce Woodhouse's steady receiving. For Colden's Colts Norma Corneal was in the game with six of her team's eight hits, including two circuit blows. Jean Moreland helped the victorious Deacons with a timely circuit blow also. However, the feature of the game was the fine defensive play of the Curry-Deacons.

REMEMBER WHEN JAMES J. Jefferies was 2-1 favourite to defend his heavyweight boxing title against Jim Corbett 39 years ago today? Corbett entered the ring for the last time against Jeffries and took a bad ten-round beating. Corbett had dethroned the great John L. Sullivan on Sept. 9th, 1892 and held the title until knocked out by Bob Fitzsimmons on St. Patrick's Day 1897 at Carson City, Nev. Corbett was trying a comeback 39 years ago today, but found that trail too strenuous for an old man.

THE DOUBLE BLUE OF THE Toronto Argonauts will no longer be seen in Canadian football circles, at least not for the duration of the war. When the Eastern Canadian Rugby Football Union met in Toronto yesterday only Balmy Beach, Montreal and the Ottawa Rough Riders signified intentions of carrying on for at least another season. The withdrawal of the Argos leaves the Toronto clubs without a senior rugby squad for the first time in 23 years, a record worthy of note. During the last war the Argos called time out to fight a battle, but returned to the gridiron in 1919 since when they have won five Canadian football titles. E.C.R.F.U. seem to think the Hamilton Wild Cats will ultimately take over the Argo spot in the league, although there are suggestions that the R.C.A.F., the Army and the Navy might be interested in some kind of a set-up whereby the armed services of Canada (in Ontario) might yet get into the fold. Those guiding the destinies of the game feel assured rugby football fans will not go wanting this fall. But how's about about the Quinte area?

THIS AND THAT— LOU BOUdreau, 25-year-old manager of the Cleveland Indians, signed a new three-year contract that carries him through 1945. . . It is doubtful if Rudy York will pick up that $5,000 bonus he was offered by the Detroit Tigers if he hit 100 homers or more. . . . Look who's in third place in the National League today—none other than the New York Giants. . .Yesterday the Ott-led Giants beat the Braves with the veteran Van Linge Mungo the winning pitcher . . . .It was the Giants' fifth consecutive win and Mungo's first victory for his new employers. . . .Wes Ferrell and Ben Chapman, former major leaguers, are working overtime managing and playing for clubs in the Piedmont League. . . Birdie Tebbetts, 27-year-old Detroit Tiger catcher, received his military call from the U.S. Army yesterday. . . Incidentally the Tigers called up 12 rookies in the past week, while the Cubs bought Catcher Paul Gillespie from the Tulsa club in the Texas League. . .Charlie Gehringer, former Detroit second baseman and one of baseball's greats, is seeking enlistment in the United States Navy. . . Eleven horses entered the $40,000. Hambletonian stake at Goshen today. . . Pardon your sarong?

McCarthy Will Set New Record This Year "if" Yanks Win Pennant

Joseph Vincent McCarthy. . . Tops in His Trade.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Canadian Writer

Baseball's most successful manager, Joseph Vincent McCarthy, appears set for his seventh pennant in 12 years at the New York helm and, come Oct. 1, McCarthy will have cracked the high Yankee mark held by himself and late Miller Huggins, who won six in 12 seasons with the Bronx Bombers.

McCarthy's record with the Yanks brands him as one of the greatest managers of all-time. Even the venerable Connie Mack, Mr. Baseball himself, can't match McCarthy's record.

Mack won nine pennants for his Athletics, but he's been at their helm for 41 years. McCarthy already has won six, finished second four times and third once. The Yanks appear a shoo-in for the flag this season and this will give Marse Joe seven championships out of 12 seasons.

Besides, McCarthy has won the world series with each of his pennant-winning Yankee clubs, which puts him at the top of the all-time list. Mack, the next best, has won five world series engagements. McCarthy's four straight pennants and world series victories also is a record all the Yankee mentor's own.

In Minor 14 Years

The Buffalo Irishman never played major league baseball but he kicked around the minors for 14 years. He got a chance to manage the Louisville club of the American association in 1921 and, in his first season, won a championship with the team. Later he won another for Louisville before he got his big league chance with the Chicago Cubs. He won the league title for the Cubs in 1929 and became manager of the Yanks in 1931, succeeding Bob Shawkey, who served one year after Huggins died.

Irish Joe McCarthy was born in Philadelphia in April, 1887, and first broke into baseball with Wilmington of the Tri-State league back in 1907. McCarthy was a shortstop and third baseball then.

A .314 batting average with Franklin of the Inter-State league the next year gave him a boost into the American association, Toledo purchasing him in 1908. McCarthy's baseball playing days from then on were spent with Toledo, Indianapolis, Louisville, Buffalo and Wilkes-Barre never getting a chance to make the big time.

McCarthy was pretty much the all-round player in the minors. He played every infield position except pitch and first and also in the outfield.

Marse Joe's minor league batting average was never high. In only one year after his tenure with Franklin did he pass the .300 mark, hitting .325 for Wilkes-Barre in 1913.

His playing career ended in 1921 when he took over the managership of the team, winning the championship. When he clicked in 1925 for his second pennant with Louisville, the Chicago Cubs pick- him to manage their team. He succeeded George Gibson at the Cub helm.

McCarthy, naturally, has had top talent to work with in the Yankees. But Marse Joe has proven he has something on the managerial ball, too, with his continued success as a pilot.

REVIEW EVIDENCE AGAINST FOURTEEN

Decision to Ask Treason Indictments Against Some of 14 Accused as Accomplices May be Announced

By JAMES J. STREBIG
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Aug. 12 —(AP)— A decision to ask treason indictments against possibly half of the 14 persons held as suspected accomplices of the eight Nazi spy-saboteurs who landed in the United States from Nazi U-boats, may be announced late today by Attorney General Francis Biddle.

(A press conference has been called for 3:30 p.m., E.D.T.).

Biddle and some of his top aides have been reviewing the evidence against the 14 for several weeks.

Treason is the highest of all crimes and carries the death penalty.

Ten of the 14 are held on general charges of assisting the eight saboteurs, six of whom have been electrocuted, one of whom has been sentenced to life imprisonment and the other to 30 years in prison.

The two who escaped the death penalty, George John Dasch and Ernest Peter Burger, may be used as witnesses against some of the alleged accomplices.

Names of Fourteen

Here are the 14:—

Helmut Leiner, 33, German citizen, alleged to have aided Edward John Kerling, leader of the Florida group of saboteurs.

Anthony Cramer, 42, German-born, naturalized citizen, accused of helping Werner Thiel, a member of Kerling's party.

Miss Hedwig Engemann, 35, native of Brooklyn, N.Y., alleged to have helped Kerling by changing bills of large denomination. The Nazis brought more than $170,000 in American money with them.

Hermann Heinrich Faje, 36, native of Hamburg, Germany, naturalized citizen, charged with having agreed to keep a money belt containing $3,600 for Heinrich Heinck, one of the four saboteurs who landed on Long Island.

Mrs. Maria Kerling, 38, widow of the Florida group leader.

Ernest Herman Kerkhof, 36, German-born, naturalized citizen, alleged to have been "intimately associated" with Mrs. Kerling.

No actual assistance to the saboteurs by Mrs. Kerling or Kerkhof was charged in original F.B.I. statements.

All of the above live in the New York City area. The following live in Chicago:—

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Max Haupt, parents of Herbert Haupt, a member of Kerling's group.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Wergin, both German-born, friends of the Haupt family.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilhelm Froehling, uncle and aunt of young Haupt. The F.B.I. said the Froehlings were "important contacts" for the Nazi agents and that their home was to be headquarters for the sabotage expedition.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jaques, both German-born, alleged to have aided Hermann Neubauer, one of Kerling's group.

HAS 14 TONS 'SCORCHED RUBBER'

Philadelphia, Aug. 12 — (AP) — Don't all shout at once, but W. C. Caley, a hair-curler manufacturer, has 28,000 pounds of rubber he doesn't know what to do with. It's been processed into a form known as "scorched" rubber. The army can't use it, the wholesaler won't take it back, and scrap dealers can't pay him what it's worth.

7,000-TON NAZI TRANSPORT SUNK

Moscow, Aug. 12 —(AP)— Pilot Captain Garbuz sank a 7,000-ton German transport with an airplane torpedo hit, the newspaper Pravda reported today in a dispatch from the Russian north fleet. Capt. AT THE BELLE

"Mayor of 44th Street"

Melodramatic thrills, enhanced by sweet rhythmic strains of music by Freddy Martin and his orchestra, abound in RKO Radio's "The Mayor of 44th Street," starring George Murphy and Anne Shirley which opens at the Belle Theatre.

The film develops an underlying theme of the sure fire sort—a courageous young man's struggle to overcome terrific odds and assert his right to life, love and happiness.

The interest lies in accenting a superior brand of popular music, played by Freddy Martin and his band, against a gangland background. This evidence a keen sense of entertainment on the part of the film's producers and an intelligent determination to keep well abreast of modern entertainment trends.

The selection of George Murphy as co-star with Anne Shirley is a particularly happy one. In this film Murphy does not lean heavily on his dancing ability, but ventures for the first time into the field of dramatic acting, and with notable success. Miss Shirley allows her admirers to glimpse for the first time her new glamorous, grownup personality, a fetching combination of charm, beauty, dashing style, and the poise that comes with assured professional skill.

Rex Downing, a 16-year-old garduate of Our Gang comedies plays an exacting role with impishly captivating honesty.

The veteran Richard Barthelmess returns to the screen after an absence to contribute an unforgettable characterization as the gang leader, a role in which he exudes terrific menace.

"Nazi Agent," Unusual

Conrad Veidt, who usually hands his audiences a surprise in the way of an outre or bizarre characterization, does so again in "Nazi Agent," the added feature attraction. Veidt plays a dual role; twin brothers, one a kindly, gentle bookworm, the other the sinister ruler of ring of international spies and saboteurs. Through ingenious camera technique they talk together, yet each is a distinctly different person.

Veidt plays his two roles so skillfully and with such minute attention to detail, that is difficult to believe the two characters are the same man. Ann Ayars, brunette discovery who played the heroine in "Dr. Kildare's victory," gives a convincing performance as the girl in the case.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Fast and Loose"

Another of Rosalind Russell's hidden talents will be revealed when "Fast and Loose", also starring Robert Montgomery, opens next at the Capitol theatre. For in the new picture Miss Russell dances a burlesque rhumba to entertain a pair of gangsters who hold her prisoner. The story tells of a young rare book dealer and his wife who become involved in a series of perplexing crimes while trying to find a rare book for a client. Appearing with the stars in the new picture, a sequel to last season's mystery hit, "Fast Company," are Reginald Owen, Ralph Morgan, Etienne Girardot, Alan Dinehart, Jo Ann Sayers and Joan Marsh. Edwin L. Marin directed.

"3 Mesquiteers"

Now that the wide reaches of prairie and mountain are bisected with railroads, highways, and other trappings of civilisation the romantic old West may have in reality disappeared into history. But as long as the legendary and balladry of the wandering cowboy, endure, the exciting past will continue to live on.

Splendidly catching the pageantry of the West, with all its color and all its nerve-tingling derring do is Republic's "Gauchos Of Eldorado," starring Tom Tyler, Bob Steele, and Rufe Davis as the Three Mesquiteers, which comes next at the Capitol as the second attraction Cast in the gallant mould of the old-time range riders, the Mesquiteers are seen as unselfishly risking their lives to save the ranch of elderly Ojara from a banker and his bandit partner who hold the mortgage on it.

New Serial "Spy Smasher"

The "V for Victory" insignia — three dots and a dash—ornaments the belt buckle Kane Richmond wore throughout the production of "Spy Smasher". Republic serial whose first episode plays this Thursday at the Capitol theatre.

The chapter thriller is based on present day developments in the news, with Richmond portraying the American free lance agent whose work begins in occupied France, and carries him throughout the West Indies and America.

A colored cartoon completes this big weekend bill.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Eagle Squadron"

The story of American fighter pilots in the Royal Air Force is brought to the screen for the first time in "Eagle Squadron," Walter Wanger's new Universal production currently playing at the McCarthy theatre.

Robert Stack and Diana Barrymore head a long and imposing cast in the picture that includes such stellar performers as Jon Hall, Eddie Albert, Nigel Bruce, Evelyn Ankers, Leif Erikson, John Loder, Edgar Barrier, Isobel Elsom, Gladys Cooper, Paul Cavanagh, Richard Davies, Jill Esmond, Gene Reynolds and Alan Hale, Jr.

New Screen Celebrity

Miss Barrymore, youngest member of the celebrated "royal family" of stage and screen is making her motion picture debut in "Eagle Squadron" in the role of a member of the Women's Auxiliary Air Force.

A story of human emotions against the greatest war background in all history "Eagle Squadron" relates the experiences of a young Californian, portrayed by Stack, who joins the RAF to fly a Spitfire against the Nazis. In his romance with Miss Barrymore, Stack tries to solve the human equation of war, and in his understanding comes the emotional and dramatic highlights of the picture.

Among the notable screen "firsts" scored by "Eagle Squadron" are authentic behind-the-scenes details of a British Commando raid, the glimpses of women in the war who pilot transport planes and fire anti-aircraft guns, and close-up views of aerial battles as they have been revolutionized by modern warfare.

Authenticity was assured by thousands of feet of film taken on the fight fronts of England by one of Producer Wanger's camera crews, by authority of the British Ministry of Information. In addition, Flying Officer John M. Hill, a member of the Eagle Squadron, was granted leave by the RAF to serve as technical advisor on the picture.

"Eagle Squadron" is truly motion picture entertainment, at its best. Don't miss it.

All is Ready for Hambletonian

ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sport Writer

Goshen, N.Y., Aug. 12—(AP)—This historic village, steeped in the lore of the trotting horse, enjoys its annual day in the sports sun today with 11 three-year-olds tangling in the 17th Hambletonian at Good Time park.

Possibility of a decided drop in attendance because of the war took some of the color away from the event, which in other years has attracted crowds variously estimated from 20,000 to 40,000, but it took none away from the Buggy Whip Derby itself.

Despite the presence of Colby Hanover, 1941 two-year-old champ and holder of a 2:03 mark this season, 10 other owners indicated yesterday by paying the entry fee of $500 that they wanted to bid for a share of the $38,954 purse. To the winner of two of the three one-mile heats will go $20,489. The first brush is scheduled for 3 P.M. E.D.T.

Horsemen were almost willing to concede the big pot to Colby if he three-sided track. The son of does not break his stride some place during the whirl around the Mr. McElwyn, now owned by C.W. Phellis of New York and I.W. Gleason of Williamsport, Pa., has strayed from his gait twice this season and this has left the other owners and trainers hopeful he may do it again and give outsiders their eighth victory since the race was inaugurated in 1926.

SPECIAL PERMIT TO ENLIST UNDER AGE

Chicago, Aug. 12 (AP) —Because his father was a hero in the First Great War, Arthur J. Corey, 16, received a special under-age permit from Washington to enlist in the Marine Corps. Corey's father, a Justice of the Peace, from Woodstock, Ill., won both American and French decorations as a marine.

May Purchase Tea and Coffee From Retailers

OTTAWA, Aug. 12 — (CP) — The Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced last night that public caterers and operators of institutions may resume purchases of tea and coffee from retailers, effective immediately.

This revoked a previous Board ruling, made when coupon rationing of tea and coffee was announced, that purchases by public caterers and institutions must be made from wholesalers through a prescribed form.

The new regulation applies to restaurants, cafes, tea shops, coffee shops, drug stores, canteens, hotels, inns, clubs serving meals, staff dining rooms, all places where meals are served to the public, hospitals, boarding schools, orphanages, religious institutions, homes for the aged and indigent, penitentiaries and prisons.

COAST GUARD WINGS OVER A CONVOY

Patrol planes of the United States coast-guard are shown roaring out over a big convoy loaded with supplies for our far-flung war fronts to take up positions whence they can spot lurking U-boats—if any. A navy blimp swings lazily above the merchantmen, also on the alert. The chief of the Nazi submarine fleet paid tribute to the efficacy of U. S. anti-submarine measures, recently and specifically mentioned the blimp's anti-U-boat role.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was sewing on her electric sewing machine and I said, Hay ma, do you think I'll ever have a whole family —depending on me?

Well, in the proverbial course of time, perhaps, why not? ma said. It's the normal trend of life, naturally, such a question, ma said, and I said Do you mean children and everything?

I sincerely hope so nothing completes a family like children, ma said, and I said, How many do you think I'll have, ma, about?

Well, you cant very well question thingr like that for land sakes, ma said. It all depends on your destiny and the manners and customs of the generation you happen to belong to, she said, and I said, Well G wizzickers, ma, do you mean I'll have ot support them and buy them everything they need?

If you're the rightful head of the family I should think you'd be only too glad and proud to provide for their wants, ma said, Well jimminy, ma, supposing I cant afford to?

Well now let's not try to delve into the problematical future, ma said. There's a perfect time to worry about everything, and that's when the time comes, she said, and I said, Well anyways, ma, I mean in the meanwhile can I have 2 cents to put with my 3 and make 5, there's something special I want to get with it, so can I, ma?

Well such a boy, if there was one way to beat around the bush you could find it in a haystack, ma said.

And she gave me the 2 cents partly to get rid of me and partly out of pure good nature.

Berlin (From German Broadcasts), Aug. 12 (AP)—The Rumanian conscript classes for 1943 and 1944 have been directed to report Oct. 1 this year, the Transocean Agency reported from Bucharest today.

Crop Reports

Extracts from the weekly crop reports of agricultural representatives of Ontario Department of Agriculture:—

Hastings—A number of farmers have finished cutting grain and a few are threshed out. Oats are yielding well but not as high as the straw would indicate, grain is good quality. A big acreage of second crop Red Clover and Alfalfa is being left for seed. The corn crop is patchy. A great many cheese factories are making as much cheese now as they did any time this season.

Northumberland—Flock owners are planning to increase their number of breeding ewes by approximately 20 per cent. Several farmers are establishing new flocks. Some second crop alfalfa has been cut. Some farmers have finished cutting of spring grain. The corn crop is spotty. Apple buyers are active and relatively high prices are being paid. Tomato crop prospects are much better than anticipated some time ago.

Prince Edward—Threshing is in full swing. Tomatoes and corn have improved considerably in the last week.

Lennox and Addington — Milk production is holding well. 75 per cent or more of the grain has been cut and threshing has commenced in nearly every district. Spring grain crop is above the average. Red Clover left for seed is very promising. Corn has made slow growth; potatoes are very good. Recent rains have revived the pasture.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Aug. 12 (AP).—Share prices see-sawed through a narrow arc today as traders tried to figure the market significance of the mixed war news.

Other than a selling splurge in Chrysler at the opening, which quieted in a partial comeback later, activity was small and fractions measured most moves. The Chrysler dip, which ran to more than two points for a time, followed a cut in earnings and dividend announced after the close yesterday.

Resistant most of the time were such stocks as U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Harvester and Proctor and Gamble. General Motors more than made up for its ex-dividend status. Kennecott, Western Union and Woolworth gave ground readily.

The only change among Canadian issues was a ¼-point rise for Dome Mines.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Aug. 12 — (CP) —Mining groups registered mild weakness on Toronto exchange today. Industrials firmed. Volume was up at 88,000 shares.

Bralorne dropped 10 cents to a new low for the year at 5.90 and slight weakness appeared for Teck Hughes, Pickle Crow, Dome and Pioneer. Narrow gains were posted by Lake Shore, MacLeod-Cockshutt, Chesterville and East Malartic.

Noranda, Steep Rock and Hudson Bay were base metal gainers while lower prices ruled for International Nickel, Smelters and Ventures. Home Oil gained 2 cents to 2.25.

HOGS

Toronto, Aug. 12 — (CP)— Dressedweight were up 10 cents at Brantford, 5 cents at Stratford and prices were unchanged at other bacon-hog markets reporting early today.

FALSE RUMORS ON SUGAR DENIED

Duty of Citizens is to Make Every Effort to Consume Less Than is Permitted by Law

Ottawa, Aug. 12 (CP). — S. R. Noble, sugar administrator for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, described yesterday as "false and absurd" rumors which he said were being circulated that excessive stocks of sugar are available in Canada and that sugar rationing is therefore not necessary.

"Anyone circulating mischievous rumors of this sort is undermining our war effort," he said in a statement, "and giving back-door aid to the enemy by fostering distrust and discontent among the people at home."

For instance, Mr. Noble said, one "wild story" going the rounds alleges there are 400,000,000 pounds of sugar in southern Alberta warehouses, with a new crop expected shortly.

The administrator said that in fact Alberta's total sugar production in the last five years did not total 400,000,000 pounds and there would be no more than a normal carry-over this year. Surplus stocks had been shipped to Ontario—"the first time in history that Alberta sugar has been marketed east of Winnipeg".

"Since at least three-quarters of our requirements of sugar must be brought from overseas," he says, "it will be obvious that extra demands for sugar above our absolute minimum requirements will be filled only by unnecessarily risking vital tonnage and gallant seamen's lives.

"It is therefore up to everyone to observe the rationing regulations, not only in the letter but in the spirit; in other words, to make every reasonable effort to consume less than is permitted by law."

British Guns in Nazi Hands Chief Worry Of "Tommies" in Egypt

El Alamein, Egypt, Aug. 12 (CP-Reuters).—Guns captured by the Germans earlier in the Egyptian campaign now are one of the chief worries of British gunners.

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel is using the British 25-pounder, rated as the finest field gun in the world, in preference to his own main weapon, the 105 millimeter, in gun duels which have been a feature of this front in the last two weeks.

Gunners of one British regiment said today they have the upper hand in these British gun vs. British gun fights.

Queen Wilhelmina in Ottawa Sees Ever-Growing Strength of American Democracies

FIGHTING IN N. E. I.

Ottawa, Aug. 12 (CP)—A heavy program today faces stately Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands, who arrived here yesterday for a two-day visit, held her first informal press conference and was the guest of honor at a dinner at Government House.

First on the Queen's schedule will be a visit this morning to the Service Flying Training School at nearby Uplands airport. During the afternoon she will receive a Netherlands Major and four soldiers who have been training at Stratford, Ont., and will visit Canada's parliament buildings.

She will be the guest at a dinner to be tendered this evening by Prime Minister Mackenzie King on behalf of the government.

One of the highlights of the Queen's activities yesterday was an address broadcast over the National network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, in which she expressed confidence that "the tide will turn, and victory will yet be ours."

"I shall carry with me from here the impression of the ever-growing strength and determination of the two great North American democracies," she said. "Our enemy has stolen a long march upon us all, and it is only now that our joint preparations to make the tide turn are approaching their completion."

In French to French Canadians

Queen Wilhelmina spoke in French to the people of French-Canada and told them that "to you falls the glory to bring an immense contribution to obtain victory which will be the victory of Canada and the whole of the civilized world."

She revealed that fighting still is continuing in The Netherlands East Indies against the Japanese invaders.

The press conference was held at Government House a few hours after the Queen arrived from the United States where she has been with her daughter, Princess Juliana, and her two grandchildren.

Speaking English with a pleasantly-soft accent, the Queen read to some 20 assembled newsmen a prepared statement and gave answers to previously-submitted questions. Then, for the first time in her many years as Queen, she answered impromptu queries.

Fierce Resistance of Netherlands

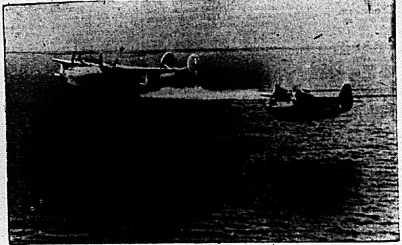
She spoke of the "fierce resistance" of her oppressed people against the Nazi invaders and said that their "food conditions are deplorable," with general health "increasingly bad."

The Government House dinner, given by the Earl of Athlone and the Princess Alice, a cousin of the Queen, was followed by a reception at which some 200 persons were presented to her Majesty. To each, she extended a friendly hand and a smiling greeting.

"Three Spitfire Musketeers"

The third member of the "Three Spitfire Musketeers," Flying Officer Donald J. M. Blakeslee, Fairport Harbor, Ohio, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross. His two buddies of the R.C.A.F. shown above (LEFT to RIGHT) are Flight Lieutenant Ian Ormston, Montreal, P.Q., and Flight Lieutenant Eugene "Jeep" Neal of Quebec City, both D.F.C. winners. These three lads recently fought their way out of a hornet's nest of Nazi fighters greatly superior in numbers. Ormston shot down one. Neal was shot down himself and bailed out into the English Channel and Blakeslee scored two "probables." All three are graduates of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan and are members of the same squadron.

Mars Off on Maiden Flight



The giant flying boat "Mars," built by the Glen L. Martin Co., is shown taking off on her maiden flight. Taking off beside the great 70-ton craft is a Grumman amphibian, which is dwarfed by the "Mars." Flying boats of this type may soon be in production in converted shipyards throughout the U.S. as the answer of aviation to the U-boat problem.

Nazis Seek Control of Black Sea

By EDWARD E. BOMAR

The unchecked drive of Hitler's war machine puts the Germans within sight of attaining one of the prime objectives of their whole Russian campaign—the complete control of the Black Sea as a transportation route.

The top Nazi schemers probably are just as eager to win control of the historic 700-mile long link between Europe and Asia as they are to seize the North Causasus oil fields.

The day's despatches report the invaders to be directly impelling two points on the Black Sea's eastern shore, Novorossisk and Tuapse, which are almost the last remaining operating bases for the Red Fleet. If these ports fall, the battered naval force will be cornered at Batum, facing destruction or the stark choice of internment in neutral Turkey, scuttling, or some final set of desperation.

This peril has become fairly obvious at the Germans press southward from Rostov. Probably less appreciated is the key importance of the inland sea to their further advances eastward, and to the Nazi grand plot of conquest and a self-sufficient Europe.

From the start, transport by war-damaged, overworked railways and by motor truck over poor and congested roads has been an Axis bottleneck, just as high seas shipping remains the crucial weakness of the United Nations' war effort.

Access to the oil and grain of the Caucasus promises therefore only limited profit to the conquerors unless it includes control of the water route by which bulky cargoes immemorially have been moved between Southern Russia and Europe.

Now Berlin is rejoicing in the prospect of being able to link the Black Sea as a transportation route with the Mediterranean. The Nazis unquestionably hope as well to win Leningrad and with it the entire Baltic Sea highway of the north.

As a step to exploit the prospective Black Sea opportunity, a new pipe line is reported now to be under construction inland from the Bulgarian port of Varna.

Novorossisk is not yet in Nazi hands of course, and Ankara despatches report a belief in the Turkish capital that the rugged Caucasus foothills may make this port a more difficult nut to crack even than Sevastopol, even though Nazi bombers can hammer at the city's defenses from the Crimea, only 70 miles or so distant.

Treating Anxiety Cases with Metrazol Without Shock

When a nervous individual has been showing symptoms of anxiety and depression for a few weeks or months, has perhaps remained at home instead of going to his work, the usual treatment is rest and quietness and the assurance that he will get better in time as the great majority of these cases do.

There comes a time, however, when the patient, the patient's family, and even the physician feel that more severe treatment is necesary to make the patient "snap out" of his depression. Accordingly, with the consent of the patient and family, the shock treatment by insulin or metrazol is given in an institution and in most cases, particularly recent cases, a cure is obtained.

However, as this treatment causes convulsions and during a convulsion an injury such as a broken bone may occur, there is naturally some hesitancy on the part of the family about allowing the patient to undergo this form of treatment which, after all, may not be successful.

Some interesting results of the treatment of nine patients with anxiety neurosis is reported in the Medical Review of Peru.

Dr. Saly Rosas found that the use of metrazol was "extraordinary efficient in anxiety neurosis", 8 of the 9 patients so treated getting relief which lasted for short and lengthy periods. The one case not helped was, however, helped by medical and psychological treatment. In not a single case were the symptoms increased by the use of metrazol.

That there were no accidents during the metrazol treatment was due to the act that not enough metrazol was given to bring on convulsions The patients whose symptoms had existed for but a short time reacted most favorably to the metrazol treatment.

The netural question for us to ask is why metrazol is given in such large amounts with the idea of causing convulsions and yet the above results were abtained by amounts that did not cause convulsions.

One answer is that enxiety neurosis or depression patients usually get better in time but this method as shown in these cases greatly shortened that time

JAP FLEET LOSES CONTROL OF TULAGI HARBOR

3 ENEMY CRUISERS DAMAGED IN GREEK PORT

Explosions Occur During Attack By U.S. Bombers

Four Cruisers, Believed Italian, Moored in Harbor at Pylos

1,300-MILE ROUND TRIP

Cairo, Aug. 13 — (AP) — Heavy bombers of the United States Army Air forces in the Middle East have attacked enemy warships in Pylos (Navarino) harbor on the west coast of Greece, scoring heavy damage, it was announced today.

Two direct hits were registered on one cruiser, causing a large explosion aboard, and black smoke was seen pouring from a second cruiser as a result of either a direct hit or a near miss.

There also was a terrific explosion aboard a third cruiser after a bomb burst next to it.

The raid was delivered in the light of the setting sun on Tuesday.

There were four cruisers, in all, at Pylos — all presumably Italian.

Twilight Attack

Pylos is a 1,300-mile round trip from Egypt, the nearest Allied territory in the Middle East, and the Americans used big four-motored bombers to span the Mediterranean.

They attacked from high altitude when the last light of day still offered good sight of the targets and returned to base under cover of darkness.

Say Transports Seen With 20,000 Japs In Gulf of Tonkin

Chungking, Aug. 13 — (AP)— An army spokesman said today that an intelligence report has been received saying that Japanese transports carrying more than 20,000 troops were sighted in the Gulf of Tonkin on Aug. 7.

He said there was no indication, however, where they came from or where they were going.

Southernmost China, Thailand and French Indo-China lie from north to south around the coast of the Gulf of Tonkin. Haiphong, Indo-Chinese port on the Gulf of Tonkin, was bombed last Sunday by United States planes based in China.

If the Japanese transports were southbound, as would be reasonable, they might be taking reinforcements into Thailand or Japanese bases in French Indo-China for possible new offensives in Southern Asia, perhaps heading toward Burma and the Indian border.

QUEEN RECEIVES NETHERLANDERS

Monarch of The Netherlands Talks of Her Country With Subjects in Canada

Ottawa Aug. 13. (CP) — Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands today received Netherlanders who are resident in the Ottawa District.

A group of 20 Netherlanders attended the reception, held at Government House where Her Majesty is the guest of the Governor-General and Princess Alice. The Queen showed enjoyment at the opportunity to talk of The Netherlands and her people and questioned a number of them on their activities and life in Canada.

No other plans were announced for the Queen and it was understood she would rest and spend the day quietly at Government House.

Her official visit to the capital ended, the Queen was to leave here today for Montreal to meet members of The Netherlands colony in that city.

Four Soldiers Received

Yesterday, as she concluded her official visit, Queen Wilhelmina received at Government House four soldiers from The Netherlands Training Centre at Stratford, Ont., and heard from them how they came to join The Netherlands Legion.

The men, one of whom escaped from Occupied Holland last January, were presented by Maj. W. T. Carp, Officer Commanding The Netherlands Legion at Stratford. Their names were withheld to guard against reprisals against relatives in their occupied homeland.

The Queen also received four young Netherlanders now with the Royal Canadian Force who are training in Ontario.

FIERCE STRUGGLE FLARES UP ON NORTHWEST FRONT

Nazis Admit Fierce Conflict Near Rzhev - New Axis Offensive Expected in Don Bend

BATTLE IN CAUCASUS

Moscow, Aug. 13 —(AP)—Fighting, similar in scope and intensity to the battle of the Caucasus, flared today over Russia's northwestern front—the battle line which loops more than 500 miles northwestward from Moscow to Leningrad.

(The Germans acknowledged that German infantry and armored divisions were engaged "in a heavy defensive struggle" both to the southeast and to the north of Rzhev, 130 miles northwest of Moscow. Southeast of Lake Ilmen, farther to the north, it was acknowledged also that the Russians were continuing aggressive tactics, but it was claimed that all their attacks were repulsed.)

Sign of New Nazi Drive on Stalingrad

Moscow, Aug. 13 —(AP)— A mighty new German offensive against Stalingrad appeared to be taking shape in the Don bend today as hard-pressed Russian forces in the Caucasus battled desperately to halt constantly-reinforced Nazi columns advancing toward three vital objectives—the rich Grozny oil fields and the Black Sea ports of Novorossisk and Tuapse.

Military advices reported the Germans were massing vast quantities of men and equipment in the Don elbow and told of a sudden intensification of fighting near Kotelnikovsk, 95 miles southwest of Stalingrad.

Both armies were reported throwing almost unprecedented numbers of men into the fray in this sector and there were indications the battle might develop into one of the mightiest yet seen on the Russian front.

Russians Holding Own on Stalingrad Approaches

Thus far the Russians seemed to be holding their own on the approaches to Stalingrad, but the picture in the Caucasus, where Hitler is reaching out for the oil to feed his fighting machine, was grave.

New concentrations of dive-bombers were reported pacing the German drive, raining tons of high explosives on Caucasian towns in raids carried out by waves of 40 to 60 planes.

The army newspaper, Red Star, reported a three-day action, ended

Canadian Seaman Tells How His Ship Captured U-Boat and 32 Germans

HALIFAX, Aug. 13 — (CP) — The capture of a Nazi submarine by a Canadian warship after it had been disabled by aircraft was described last night in a broadcast by a Royal Canadian Navy seaman from Ingersoll, Ont.

Without disclosing the area or time of the capture, James Kay Crotty, a petty officer leading torpedo operator, told how his ship captured 32 Germans aboard the U-boat and then took it in tow. He spoke over station CHNS here.

His ship was in port, he said, when it got an emergency order to proceed to sea. Soon the word went around on board that the vessel was after a U-boat that had been attacked from the air.

"Finally, we picked up the sub." he continued. "Apparently it couldn't dive, for it was still on the surface. Our planes were still overhead, waiting for us to go to work. Of course, our job was to seize the submarine and take the crew off.

"It would have been easy to sink it, but we were there to keep it afloat . . . there was a full gale blowing and a heavy swell, and we had to stand by until the weather moderated. That was late in the day.

"By that time, more ships had arrived, and they helped to screen us from other U-boats that might have been in the neighborhood while we got a line to the one on the surface."

Most of the Germans, he said, were clustered on the conning tower at this time. "The seas were so heavy they were breaking right over the tower," he added.

Crotty said his ship took off "all that were alive."

"We got 32 prisoners, including the captain," he went on. "He had an Iron Cross and was quite a dude. He had a fine pair of watertight goggles. He showed them to one of the sentries and, when the sentry reached for them, he laughed and tossed them overboard. He seemed to get a big kick out of that.

"We took them on board out ship and fed them. I don't think they'd had much to eat for a day or so, for they were hungry as wolves. They seemed very surprised that we had butter and canned milk. They'd pass the butter around and look at it as if they'd never seen anything like it before."

The Canadians had no trouble with their prisoners, the seaman declared.

"We were waiting for them to start cutting up rough," said Crotty, "but most of them seemed darn glad to be aboard. Most of them were youngsters. One kid came over the side pointing to himself and saying, 'Me glad, me glad.' "

"Some of the others wouldn't talk to us or have anything to do with us at first, but there was one who had been in Canada. He must have told his mates they were lucky to be with Canadians, because they warmed up a little later."

Income Tax Tables Will Lessen Difficulty Of Making Deductions

Ottawa, Aug. 13 —(CP)— Tables are going to employers across Canada this weekend to facilitate income tax deductions from their employees' pay envelopes beginning the first payday in September, Revenue Minister Gibson announced today at a press conference.

There will be three sets of tables —one each for employees paid by the day, by the week, and by the month. Employers who pay every two weeks will double the weekly table and those who pay semi-monthly will halve the monthly table.

Deductions will be on the basis of deducting an equal amount from each pay for 12 months to pay 90 per cent of the employee's income tax based on his income in the calendar year 1942.

The deductions will be reduced by the defence tax an employee has paid between January and August this year. Deductions also will be reduced up to 90 per cent of the refundable or savings portion of the tax by savings the taxpayer makes directly by payment of life insurance premiums, superannuation payments, principal payments on mortgages and trades union payments other than dues. No savings in excess of the refundable tax will be counted.

10 P. C. Margin

Mr. Gibson explained that the reason the deductions are based on 90 per cent instead of the full income tax is that the taxpayer might make unforseen contributions to charitable organizations or have doctor's bills or other expenditures which would entitle him to a reduction in his total tax. The 10-per cent margin would cover many of these.

The employee must file with his employer before Sept. 1 a form known as T. D. 1 setting out whether he is married, his dependents, and the amount of his savings for 1942 which qualify to be set against the refundable tax.

Forms Available Soon

These forms will be at the post offices and revenue tax offices within the next few days. Offices within one day's mail distance from Ottawa should have them available tomorrow.

It will be to the tax-payer's advantage to get this form in on time, the Minister said, because if it is not filed with the employer, deductions from his pay will be on the basis that the employee is unmarried and is putting aside no savings. Persons who are single without dependents and are putting aside no savings are the only class who need not file these returns.

A married man whose wife is in receipt of less than $660, or over $660 when these receipts are from wages and salary will come under the married status in the deductions. If, however, the wife receives more than $660 from investments or other payments, not salary or wages, then the husband will be classed as single for tax purposes. In either case the wife will put in her own tax return if more than $660 and be classed as single status.

Dependents Listed

A tax-payer may claim as dependents children, grandchildren, brothers or sisters under 18 years of age and over that age if mentally or physically infirm. If the dependents are attending an educational institution they qualify as dependents up to 21 years. Parents or grandparents with mental or physical infirmities also qualify as dependents.

An unmarried person who is maintaining a domestic establishment and supports a dependent therein qualifies for married status. The same applies to a clergyman who maintains a domestic establishment and has a full time housekeeper or servant.

Employees Must Make Returns

The employee sets out his savings which qualify to reduce the deductions with a declaration they are correct. By Sept. 30, 1943, the employee must make a return to the income tax branch of the revenue department enclosing receipts to cover the savings claims and also to pay the remaining 10 per cent of his tax not deducted at the source.

Mr. Gibson said that despite the general increases in the new income taxes some in the lower-wage brackets actually will pay less than under the previous rates. A married man getting $1,300 will pay less under the new tax than he did on his 1941 income, as will also a married man with one child getting up to $1,500 and a married man with two children up to $1,700.

Tables Should be Displayed

The tables of tax deductions are covered by an order-in-council and therefore have the force of law. Although they are to be sent only to employers, the firms are asked to post them in prominent places so the employees may have access to them.

The tables give the rate of pay, income tax deductions from their ings portion to be subtracted from the total tax if the employee makes these savings himself. The total tax is arrived at by taking 90 per cent of the total tax and reducing it by the amount of defence tax the

HIGH EXPLOSIVES, INCENDIARIES RAIN UPON MAINZ

Second Successive Night Assault Made on Nazi Industrial Centre

DEFENCES HELPLESS

LONDON, Aug. 13 — (CP) — Powerful British air squadrons rained high explosives and incendiaries on Mainz again during the night as Nazi raiders ended London's long freedom from attack by bombing the outskirts of the capital.

The attack on Mainz — the second successive night assault on the German industrial centre — was accompanied by raids on Nazi airdromes in the Low Countries, the Air Ministry said.

Five R.A.F. planes were lost in the overnight operations.

Members of at least one Canadian bomber squadron joined the R.A.F. force.

Although the Air Ministry did not go into particulars, it was understood unofficially that the "strong force" raiding Mainz compared with that sent against the same city the night before when 250 to 400 bombers participated.

The city's disorganized fire-fighting services and defences, wearying and scattered by the first night attack, were virtually helpless when the raiders came over the second night, an air source said. This accounted for the loss of only five British planes, compared with 16 the night before.

INDIAN CENTRES SEEN RETURNING TO NORMAL STATE

People Move Freely Thru Streets Which Were Earlier Scenes of Disorders

WORKERS RETURNING

Bombay, Aug. 13.— (CP)— The Indian capital at New Delhi and Bombay, trouble centres earlier this week, apparently were returning to normal today as the outbreaks of violence over Mohandas K. Gandhi's drive for immediate independence from British rule slacked off after four days of clashes between mobs and police.

Although some shops in New Delhi still wer closed, people were moving freely through the streets which yesterday were the scenes of repeated disorders.

The situation in Bombay was quiet all morning with no incidents of any kind. Workers were returning to the mills.

A dispatch from Madras said four persons were killed and ten injured at Tenali yesterday when police fired on a crowd which attacked the railway statio nand set it on fire.

Washington, Aug. 1. (CP)—Any hopes Gandhi or Nehru may have had that the United States would offer to mediate between the British Government and Indian Congress Party leaders are groundless.

CERTAIN REDUCED R. R. FARES ARE TO BE ELIMINATED

Trips Between East and West Canada, Prairies To Pacific Coast Affected

EFFECTIVE AUG. 31

Ottawa, Aug. 13 (CP)—Munitions Minister Howe today announced elimination of certain reduced fares on Canada's railroads' and warned that unless unnecessary civilian travel is limited on a voluntary basis "further restrictions may become necessary."

Effective at midnight, Aug. 31, the following are prohibited:

1. Reduced fares on trips between Eastern and Western Canada;
2. Reduced fares between the Prairies and the Pacific Coast;
3. Special fares for convention groups.

"After Aug. 31, all such traffic will be carried at ordinary fares," said Mr. Howe, who issued his statement as acting Minister of Transport.

Armed Forces Not Affected

The new order does not affect in any way train travel at reduced rates by members of the armed forces.

In addition to banning reduced fares on trips between eastern and western Canada and the Prairies and the Coast, the ban also applies to through trips from eastern Canada to the west coast.

Official spokesmen said there is no intention to dishonor reduced fare tickets sold before Aug. 31, with round-trip provisions good for some length of time after that date.

There was no indication in the statement as to what "further restrictions" might be in prospect unless there is voluntary curtailment of unnecessary civilian travel.

Will Conserve Supplies

Mr. Howe's statement said the elimination of reduced fares was taken to conserve steel, oil, coal, and other vital materials, and to assure adequate transportation facilities for the movement of munitions, other war supplies, and

Allied Sea and Air Forces Assault Communication Lines Of Japanese

ATTACK JAP BASES

London, Aug. 13 —(CP)— The Yorkshire Post's naval correspondent said today the Japanese fleet has "lost control of Tulagi harbor" in the Solomon Islands.

"The Japanese fleet has not got back there after the naval action and apparently is being kept clear of the island on which the landings were made," the correspondent wrote.

"The Allies have air superiority and are using it at sea as well as on land."

The newspaper's correspondent gave no indication of where he had received his information.

New York, Aug. 13 —(AP)— The Japanese hold on the Tulagi area in the Solomons is believed to have been broken by United States marines who have been strongly reinforced, Hayden Leonard of the Australian Broadcasting Commission reported today. His analysis of the situation was heard here by CBS.

Leonard was quoted as saying it was believed "the Japanese have been driven from many of their defensive positions after fierce hand-to-hand fighting."

Events Boost Cause of Gen. de Gaulle And Prestige of Fighting Free French

"Perhaps," a French newspaper in London wrote to The Canadian Press "your Canadian readers would be interested in this review. It has to be anonymous because I have a family still in France, including a grandson of 10, whom I hope to see again." He enclosed the following:-

Written For The Canadian Press
By a French Newspaper

London, Aug. 13 (CP)—St. Nazaire, where inhabitants gave armed help to British commandos, Bir Hakeim, where French fighters put up a magnificent resistance, and Laval, by his reinstatement in power through undoubted German influence, have done more than anything else to boost the stock of Gen. Charles De Gaulle and the French National Committee in London.

These events have brought to a sudden end intrigues in Britain and the United States against the leader of the fighting French.

The British public knew little or nothing of the intrigues that assailed Gen. De Gaulle and the National Committee. For the man-in-the-street Gen. De Gaulle was, after all, the Frenchman who broadcast the thrilling appeal to his countrymen to join him and keep France in the fight.

Gen. De Gaulle is a Republican and has never ceased to declare that he and the National Committee are guided entirely by the laws of the Third Republic. Every decision made is in strict accordance with the emergency law of July 11, 1938, on the organization of the nation in time of war (declaration of Professor Cassin, National Commissioner for Justice and Public Instruction before the Foreign Press Association, London, July 22).

The head of a movement which started with two followers and the use of the BBC London microphone when France collapsed, De Gaulle did give an outside spectator an impression of reluctance to take a hand in the political organization of the movement. It was as though he were the soldier waiting for some other representative Frenchman to attend to the non-military side.

He was, at the beginning, surrounded hardly by what one could call an elite. But one could not fail to perceive that once the military side of the movement was organized, the quality of his political collaborators improved. Their only disadvantage was that they were not men universally known in French politics before the war. But this was at the same time an advantage, as none suffered from a dubious political past.

If at times they have been accused of being amateurish in some points requiring subtleties of diplomacy, they have won esteem in London because of their integrity.

Gen. De Gaulle is reported to have said: "If there is any man serving me who expects to gain personal advantage in France after the war because of it, he is making a big mistake."

The acceptance of a post in the French National Committee by Andre Philip, who once played an important role in organizing and co-ordinating the efforts of the numerous secret societies inside France, has given proof that Gen. De Gaulle and the National Committee are accepted and recognized as the real representative of France, not only by Frenchmen abroad, but by the French in the homeland.

The growing prestige of the fighting French has been obvious to the most casual observer. Although July 14 was a working day, Londoners turned out in their thousands — ranks five deep on both sides of Birdcage Walk — to cheer the fighting French contingents of soldiers, commandos, sailors, airmen and A.T.S. as they marched out of Wellington Barracks.

SCORE OF WORKERS JUMP TO SAFETY FROM 2ND STOREY

Fire Follows Explosion Sweeping Through Campbellford Shoe Plant

Campbellford, Ont., Aug. 13. — (CP)—A score of employees of the Gravlin-Bale Ltd., Shoe Company jumped to safety from second storey windows as fire, following an explosion, swept through the building doing damage estimated at $75,000 here early today. Approximately 50 employees were in the building when the fire broke out.

The fire started without warning after a blast that sounded like an explosion and rocked the building, employees reported. Dense clouds of black smoke filled the plant. It was reported to have originated in the elevator shaft on the third floor, and swept through the top of the building with rapidity. No workers were on duty in the third floor when the fire started.

Four lines of hose under Chief C. B. Williams of the Campbellford Fire department sought to stem the blaze. Local citizens with cars helped to remove huge piles of stock and office records.

On full-time production, the plant was engaged in producing boot and shoe orders for South America.

JOHN F. DODGE NEARING DEATH

Playboy Son of Late Multi-Millionaire Is Suffering From Cerebral Hemmorhage

Detroit, Aug. 13 — (AP) — Death approached today for John Duval Dodge, playboy son of the late multi-millionaire John F. Dodge as police investigated the escapade which led to his arrest and thence to a bed in a pubite hospital.

Unconscious for more than 24 hours, Dodge, 48, was being administered oxygen at receiving hospital where he had been taken following his collapse in a police station early yesterday. Dr. Donald M. Morrill, hospital superintendent, said Dodge had little chance to live.

Two policemen arrested Dodge in a Van Dyke Place home at 3.30 a.m. yesterday after a neighbor reported she had seen a man pry a screen from a window of the home. At the police station Dodge collapsed and was removed to the hospital where he was found to be suffering from a cerebral hemorrhage.

Patrolman Alfred Arman, one of the arresting officers, said Dodge was intoxicated and could not explain his presence in the house beyong saying he was "a guest". Dodge himself had opened the door to the officers.

Owner of the house, Howard E. Lange, was on vacation with his family at Belle River, Ont.

"Dodge has been my good friend for twelve years," Lange said, "and can come to my home any time he wants to, whether I'm there or not."

TOMMY DONNAN GETS 25-LB. MUSKIE

Tommy Donnan, 16-year-old son of Lieut. Colonel and Mrs. B. C. Donnan, is the proudest young fisherman in the city today.

For yesterday, Tommy got his first big fish of his youthful career hauling in a 25-pound "musky" from the waters of the Bay of Quinte about a mile off the Bay Bridge.

The youthful fisherman was trolling in a boat with Ab Newman and his son, Fred, when the big fellow struck. Ensued a tidy twenty-minute battle and the large fish lay gasping in the boat. It measured forty-three inches in length, and was caught with an ordinary eighteen-pound test line.

It was Tommy's first big haul and naturally he is elated over his catch.

"FROSTY" WINDOW FOOLS PEDESTRIAN

Rumors of an early frost were quickly dispelled along Front Street this morning when it was discovered that the "frost" apparent on the windows of a large department store was a clever advertisement for a sale of winter apparel.

One pedestrian went so far as to touch the "frosty" lower part of the Lipson Company's large windows before he was convinced that summer is still here and winter one of the things to come.

Mostly Traffic Cases In County Police Conrt

Traffic cases constituted the bulk of the agenda on Thursday's County Police Court held before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd at the Court House.

Although he failed to respond to his name when it was called in court, Harry Goodman, of Toronto, was convicted on two charges of permitting others to drive his motor vehicle while the said drivers were not in possession of operators' licences. A fine of $10 and costs was imposed in each case. Traffic Officer J. H. Hole in One

The season's first hole-in-one was shot yesterday by Bill Little, popular professional at the Bay of Quinte Country Club. Not only did Mr. Little sink his drive for a "oner" but he equalled the course record of 34. Par the Country Club nine holes is 36.

Mr. Little was using a No. 7 iron when he teed off for his hole-in-one on the fourth, a 140 yard drive from the tee to the cup. Two years ago Tommy Carruthers shot a 34 over the Country Club course and Mr. Little's score yesterday was the first under the course par since.

Rotary Carnival Promises To Be Jolly Affair

Plans are rapidly nearing completion for one of the most attractive week-long carnivals ever held in the city.

Members of the Carnival Committee of the Belleville Rotary Club which is sponsoring the big show which opens in Victoria Park on Monday, August 17 and extends through to August 22nd, anticipate one of the largest crowds in the club's carnival history. The setting in Victoria Park, where cool evening breezes temper the heat of the day, is an ideal locale, they believe, for the week's entertainment.

The Queen City Shows, well-known in amusement and entertainment circles, have been secured by the service club for the carnival. It features a number of rides for both grown-ups and children and a special added attraction is a new ride called the "Roto-plane", a whirling airplane device that will make its second Canadian appearance here. It met with instant popularity in another Ontario centre where it made its Canadian debut.

Then there will be the ubiquitous merry-go-round for the kiddies; auto-rides; the popular ferris-wheel and many others.

The ever-popular Bingo will again be in evidence and many handsome prizes will be given away to the lucky winners. All-in-all the Carnival promises to be a week of pleasant relaxation for city and district residents who will not only be enjoying themselves in a different way, but aiding a worthy humanitarian cause by their presence.

The proceeds of the Carnival will be devoted exclusively to the Crippled Children's Committee of the Rotary Club, a project that has brought happiness to many Belleville and district homes during the last two decades.

INCOME TAX

employee has paid between January and August inclusive.

The order-in-council covering the tax tables sets out:—

"That the 'table of tax deductions' attached hereto shall be the table of tax deductions to be followed by every employer in making deductions from the pay of employees having due regard to the amount of salary or wage paid to the employees per day, per week, per month or such other established or to be established pay periods as between the employer and the employee and also having due regard to the marital status and dependents of the employee as in the 'table of tax deductions' provided."

Example Worked Out

The introduction to the tables gives an example of how the taxes in the tables are worked out. It takes a married man with two dependents and whose salary is $4,800 a year or $400 a month. It works out as follows:—

Income for year—$4,800, or $400 per month.

Married person—two dependents.

(Normal Tax:)

$4,800 at 7 per cent $336.00
Allowance for 2 dependents 56.00
$280.00

(Graduated Tax:)

Exempt $660
30 per cent on 500........$150.00
33 per cent on 500........165.00
37 per cent on 1,000........370.00
41 per cent on 1,500........615.00
45 per cent on 640........288.00

(Less:)

Allowance for spouse $150.00.
Allowance for 2
dependents 160.00 $310.00 $1,278.00
Total tax $1,558.00

(Savings Portion:)

Ten per cent of the income plus 1 per cent of $4,800 for each dependent, or a total of 12 per cent of $4,800 equals $576.00. This amount is less than one-half of $1,558, the total tax; therefore, the maximum savings portion is $576.00.

(The Sum of $1,558.00 Thus Consists of:)

Tax portion $982.00
Saving portion 576.00

The table is designed to secure 90 per cent of the retainable tax and 90 per cent of the savings portion. Therefore:-

90 per cent of tax portion is $883.80
90 per cent of savings portion 518.40

As the employee has had National Defence Tax deducted for eight months to Aug. 31, 1942 (or two-thirds of the year), he is entitled to a credit for this amount. The credit is determined as follows:-

5 per cent of $4,800 ....$240.00
Less 2 dependents at $20 ... 40.00
$200.00

Two-thirds thereof (8 months) $133.34.

From the 90 per cent of the tax—or $883.80—deduct $133.34 which leaves $750.46 payable.

Tax ($750.46) and savings ($518.40), therefore amount to $1,268.86

$1,268.86 divided by 12 .... 106.74
$518.40 (savings portion only)
—divided by 12 .... 43.20

As per the monthly table of tax deductions.

"Civilian travel is on the increase," said Mr. Howe.

"The traffic now is so heavy that unless voluntary curtailment of conventions and other unnecessary travel proves a sufficient answer, further restrictions may become necessary, so that the war program may not be hindered."

The new order was issued by T. C. Lockwood, Transport Controller on the Wartime Industries Control Board. It was approved by R. C. Berkinshaw, Chairman of that Board, and concurred in by Donald Gordon, Chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Imposition of the new order was delayed until Aug. 31 to avoid inconvenience not only to the railways but also to private individuals and convention groups who have planned trips far in advance, spokesmen said.

FIERCE STRUGGLE

two days ago, in which Russians penetrated 12 miles into the rear of German positions in the Don elbow, killing 4,200 of the foe, it was said.

30 Nazi Planes Downed

From another sector of Russia's great front, Pravda, the Communist Party organ, reported a 120-plane raid on Leningrad, in which it said 30 of the attackers were downed. The Germans also used parachutists in that lunge at the northern city but they were speedily mopped up, Pravda said.

Although the Leningrad development was recent, no date was given.

Dispatches from the front said one Nazi spearhead already is less than 200 miles from Grozny after breaking through the Russian lines at Cherkesak, a small town in the Caucasus foothills 70 miles southeast of Armavir.

Heavy Nazi Tank Support

The break through, announced by the Soviet information bureau last midnight, was accomplished by great numbers of German troops, heavily supported by tanks, the dispatches said.

The Russians were reported to have counter-attacked desperately in an attempt to seal the breach in their lines, but were forced to fall back to new positions.

Sixty miles northwest of Cherkesak, the information bureau's mid-day bulletin said, Russian forces were fighting fierce battles in the Maikop oil fields with enemy tanks and infantry thrusting toward Tuapse.

Red Star, Soviet army organ, said "almost all the German attacks were repulsed," but announced the Nazis had advanced in one sector, forcing the Russians to withdraw to strategic positions in the hills.

The Germans were reported to have launched repeated assaults in an attempt to dislodge the Russians from their new positions, only to be beaten off with heavy losses.

MISSING AIRMAN IS SOUGHT

Bodies of Others Killed in Mid-Air Collision Near Armstrong, Ont., Found in Wreckage

Armstrong, Ont., Aug. 13—(CP)—Residents of this small northwestern Ontario town early today searched for the body of a missing airman, possibly fatally injured late yesterday when two Royal Canadian Air Force planes collided in mid-air and crashed, killing five other R.C.A.F. men.

Names of the airmen were not disclosed immediately.

A terse announcement from the No. 2 Air Training Command at Winnipeg last night that bodies of five of the six men aboard the twin-motored Avro-Anson were found in the wreckage brought definite word of the second airplane tragedy here in less than 20 months.

The airmen, officials said, were believed to have been killed instantly shortly after the planes, en route from Winnipeg to Ottawa, took off from the Armstrong airport after refueling. Early in February, 1941, 12 persons aboard a Trans-Canada Air Lines passenger plane, were killed when the machine plunged to earth while approaching the landing field. That accident was the worst mishap in Canada's aviation history.

It was not immediately determined whether the R.C.A.F. planes crashed in bushland. Officials said last night that darkness prevented continuation of the search for the missing airman.

He was accompanied by Lieut. P. C. M. Meunier, who will be attached to headquarters staff.

12-Year-Old-Girl Sold by Father To Farmhand 42 Years Old For $75 And an Overcoat

Sensational in its characteristics as its counterparts in the hills of Tennessee, a child-bride drama enacted in a Hastings County setting came to light yesterday.

From the wooded slopes of North Hastings comes the strange story of the sale of a twelve-year-old girl to a 42-year-old farmhand by her father for $75 and an old overcoat.

The pitiful episode of the barter of a human life was dramatically unfolded in a Bancroft Police Court by Provincial Police Constable Stanley Palmateer.

Principals in the human interest epic of the backwoods are William Kellar, 42, sentenced recently to the Ontario Reformatory after being found guilty of a serious offence against Lily May Boomhour, 12-year-old daughter of John Boomhour, his bride-to-be, and the father who yesterday heard Magistrate J. L. Lloyd reserve judgment after hearing evidence relating to a charge of aiding and abetting Kellar to have carnal knowledge of his daughter.

Mother Was Willing

Cabin-dwellers some ten miles out of Bancroft, the young girl's parents admitted to knowledge of a marriage contract between Kellar and the father. The mother stated in court, "I was willing if my husband was willing to let her be married to Kellar. After all, he is the head of the house".

Substantiating this statement, evidence revealed, was a note found in the possession of Boomhour, signed by his wife, which read, "I witness that my husband gave my daughter, Lily May Boomhour to W. Kellar for an overcoat, which he paid $5 for, and John has got the coat".

Constable Palmateer on the witness stand told the court that he had arrested Kellar on July 22, when he was applying for a marriage licence with his child-bride-to-be. "Kellar said he had a right to the girl as he had bought her from her father".

Boomhour interviewed later by the police officer, corroborated Kellar's statement, admitting that he had sold his daughter for $75 cash. "By selling her, I would get rid of her", he told the officer.

Contract Made in '41

The contract between the father and Kellar for the sale of the girl was made last fall. Constable Palmateer testified. According to the contract, Kellar was given permission to marry the girl when she became thirteen years of age. Her birthday is August 30th.

The arrest of Kellar had interrupted the wedding arrangements, the witness stated. He did not know whether the marriage date had been set, or not.

The dwelling, housing the Boomhours was a one-room shack, with a wooden partition erected at one end. Kellar lived in the partitioned space while Mr. and Mrs. Boomhour and the daughter stayed in the remaining section.

The mother of the girl testified that the contract for Kellar to marry her daughter had been made last fall "so that Keller would take care of her and look after her". The Kellers were to live with them after the marriage".

The twelve-year-old child testifying at the trial stated that she had not known anything about the transactions between her father and Kellar, until the latter told her "he had a right to me, because my father had sold me to him".

Quotes Bible

"I declined his advances until three months ago", she said. "I read in the Bible some place "Let them do whatever they will. If they marry they sinneth not. I know that he gave dad an overcoat for me and was supposed to have me when I was thirteen years of age".

Kellar was not at the trial yesterday. An application for the custody of the twelve-year-old girl was made by Thomas D. Ruston, Children's Aid Society superintendent, was postponed until the next court on Sept. 2nd.

Magistrate Lloyd commenting on the case, pointed out its unusual phases. "I would like to consider the evidence", he said, reserving judgment until the next court. Boomhour was not held.

PRE-DAWN RAID MADE BY NAZIS

Small Burst of High Explosives Falls on London Outskirts

London, Aug. 13 (CP)—London's freedom from air assault was interrupted today with a small burst of high explosives and fire bombs on the capital outskirts as the Germans reported the R.A.F.'s big bombers back over Mainz, Rhineland rail-river traffic hub and industrial centre, for the second successive night.

The pre-dawn raid on the greater London area was the first since nuisance raiders unloaded a few bombs before daylight July 30 and some buildings were wrecked.

By mid-morning authorities said all persons trapped in the debris had been removed. Casualties were reported as seven killed and at least three injured.

The attack set off the air raid sirens for the third successive time during the sleeping hours of most Londoners. The alarm lasted only briefly and it was believed at first the Nazis had sent a lone plane—perhaps a fast long-ranger fighter—to turn thousands of fire-watchers out of bed and waken the city's millions.

On the preceding two nights the howl of the sirens had been the only indication of enemy aircraft in the vicinity but anti-aircraft guns peppered the raiders approaching up the Thames last night. Nazi planes also caused some damage and casualties at a southwest port.

Single Raider Over S. E. Scotland

Besides the small German attack on the outskirts of London, a single raider dropped bombs at two points in southeast Scotland and a few aircraft were reported over the east Anglian coast.

At least three persons were injured in a daylight foray on a south coast town by a lone German fighter-bomber.

Britons had perhaps a better picture of the havoc sown by the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. Tuesday night than of any raid British air forces yet have made, the work of picked crews which circled the city from start to finish of the attack.

This was a new device by the R.A.F. to check on the effectiveness of its bombers but their missles fell in such profusion that one of the observers said there were more fires at the end "than we were able to count."

Smoke Pillar 15,000 Feet High

Between 250 and 400 British bombers made the attack, an R.A.F. commentator said, and left a 15,000-foot pillar of smoke over the city from fires still burning when British scouting planes returned in daylight to survey the damage.

An audit of recent bomb-trading with the Germans showed the ledger heavily on the credit side for the R.A.F. in June and July.

Comparison of Raids

During those two months 13,000 tons of bombs fell on German cities a British source estimated. This was 5,500 tons more than in the same period last year and 9,500 tons more than in the same period of 1940.

By comparison, the Germans dropped 450 tons of explosives in the raid on London April 16, 1941, which was the heaviest Nazi air blow on Britain so far.

FLYING

A Washington navy announcement that operations had advanced to the point where the marines were consolidating their holdings in the Tulagi area, in the south-eastern Solomons, indicated that initial land opposition had been overcome after six days of savage hand-to-hand combat.

The United States navy's communique said the marines landed as scheduled on three islands, whose names it did not disclose, in the Tulagi vicinity. It added that supporting naval craft were meeting with bitter opposition, suggesting the Japanese had thrown powerful surface and air units into the defence of their ground forces.

Flying Fortresses, Attack Ships at Rabaul

Flying fortresses, striking yesterday at Rabaul, New Britain, in the fifth raid there in five days, knocked out four enemy ships in the harbor of this base from which Japanese troops and supplies have moved to the Solomons.

A 15,000-ton ship and two medium-sized ones were left spouting flames and another large ship was seen sinking by the stern, a headquarters communique said today. One of eight challenging fighters was shot down and from three to six others were hit and damaged. No Allied planes were lost.

Allied airmen went to work on shipping at Rabaul after concentrating their previous raids this week on the big Japanese airdrome there which undoubtedly had been sending air aid to the Solomons.

Reconnaissance before today's raid showed a spurt in shipping activity in and about Rabaul, which is some 700 miles northwest of Tulagi, a spokesman said.

Allies Raid Off Timor

Some 2,000 miles west of the Solomons Allied airmen attacked Japanese shipping and base installations in The Netherlands Timor-Band Sea area with undertermined results. The raid off Timor was believed to have been on the same convoy from which one ship has been sunk and two others, including a destroyer, have been damaged in two previous attacks.

The United States navy communique on the Solomon action said there was substantial evidence the Japanese since invading the island in January had a base well under way in the Tulagi area.

This presumably was at Tulagi harbor potentially one of the finest naval base sites in the southwestern Pacific.

Gaudalcanal where the Japanese established one of their main air bases in the islands, is the largest of the Solomons.

Up and down this island rise extremely steep and rugged mountains towering up to 8,000 feet. It is 90 miles long and 30 miles wide.

Florida is 25 miles long, rising to an elevation of 1,500 feet. Like most others in the Tulagi area it has no roads and only few trails.

It was announced at headquarters today that Melbourne had an air raid alert last night but no enemy planes were sighted.

Airacobras Used as Dive-Bombers

In the Papuan Peninsula of New Guinea, where quiet prevailed today, it was disclosed American airacobras were used as dive-bombers for the first time in the southwest Pacific last Sunday during a big-scale Allied raid on Japanese positions at Kokoda, 60 miles across the Owen-Stanley range from Allied-held port Moresby.

The swift fighters unloaded medium bombs on the enemy during 60-degree angle dives and then returned to strafe them in effectively supported Allied ground operations it was reported.

He Never Took Her Out Until . . .

He was a fine husband in most ways—but for months now she hadn't been able to stir him out of his chair in the evening. They never went any place—they were losing their friends. All the fun and comradeship was going out of their marriage.

His excuse was always that he was "too tired"—until she got sick of hearing it. Then . . . one day when talking to her druggist about George, he suggested Dr. Williams Pink Pills. George said he'd try them but didn't believe they could help him. To his surprise and her delight, soon he began to notice that his work did not tire him as it had . . . he slept more soundly—ate better and his nerves felt calmer. You'd never know George today—he's going ahead in his business—he comes home full of vigor and in high good humor; is always ready for an evening's fun.

Many a man like George can blame his feeling of weakness—of nervous exhaustion on a run-down condition of the blood. Don't wait—try Dr. Williams Pink Pills now fortified with Vitamin B₁. They are wonderfully effective in building rich, red blood so necessary to vigor and strength and have helped thousands to get back "in the pink". Ask your druggist today for Dr. Williams Pink Pills.

Canada and the Netherlands

These days of war are giving Canadians opportunity of serving not only Canada but also the Empire and the free nations of the world. Her Majesty Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands in Ottawa on Tuesday paid a heartfelt tribute to the people of the Dominion for what they had done and were doing for the aid of the nations.

To have the praise of the Queen of The Netherlands speaking for the people of that land who have won the admiration of the world in their staunch defence of democracy and freedom is a reward of which Canada will be proud, for Canada as a young nation has realized fully what the younger nations owe to Britain and the nations which have developed liberty and democracy.

The words of the Queen referring to Canada follow:—

"It is a pleasure to me to be again in your midst on the friendly soil of Canada. It is especially pleasant to renew the old ties of affection with the Governor-General and my cousin, Princess Alice. This country has been for more than two years the home of my daughter. I feel that our acquaintance with the Canadian people has now ripened to an easy cordiality.

"Each one of us has his own task in this tremendous life and death struggle.

"I admire the high standards set by Canada, by her airmen, her sailors, her soldiers and her amazing strides in war production, not to mention the fine spirit of the people. Everywhere there are proofs of their co-operation and their desire to do their utmost to help.

"I can assure you that my people feel the same way. They will never submit to their oppressors. They will resist enslavement by the German tyrant, as well as all his foreign propaganda. They are with you, heart and soul, with you to the victorious day of liberation.

"When that glorious day comes you may be sure we shall remember those who befriended us, who gave us so generously of their hospitality and help.

"Our gratitude and friendship then will be as warm and deep as it is today."

Work of a Handy Man

With the demand for labor growing more and more for war industry it may very well be that a man will be fairly fortunate who is his own handy man. Some of the jobs which used to be given to the old-fashioned handy man may go begging unless the owner makes himself proficient in doing some of the little repairs about the house which are necessary to keep it in order.

In an editorial "Being your own handy man," the Ottawa Journal says that there is generally speaking no such thing as the old-style handy man, for "the chap who could do a bit of carpentering and painting, patch the cement work, or put up a clothesline, dig the garden or put on the storm windows, has got himself a steady job and he can look the world in the eye and tell it where to go."

But the writer adds "this doesn't mean that homes need to get the down-at-the-heels look which comes of a year or two of neglect—the difference is that the man of the household now must do his own chores. He can mend the fence, paint the garage and wash his own car. He will find a new satisfaction in a well-kept lawn if he cuts the grass and does the necessary hosing himself. He can plane down a door that sticks or oil a squeaky hinge, paint the storm sashes and put them up at the appropriate date, and put a washer in the bathroom tap. A leaky roof may be beyond him quite literally but most of the small items of repair and maintenance about a house are within the scope of the average man equipped with a hammer and a screw-driver."

The Ottawa newspaper has a word of encouragement for the average man of the house in that a very small part of the time and energy spent in say, golf, would keep in condition the buildings of a city lot, keep them spick and span and weather proof. And adds thereto, "and it is exercise too."

There was a day when the man about the house did a great deal of the incidental repairs which do not call for the expert and this task seems to have already begun to fall to his modern counterpart.

OURSELVES AND OTHERS...

BY

GRANDPA, TOO!

"The modern man," my grandpa rants,
"He isn't nuttin' but a mouse!
The wimmin took away his pants,
An' they's the rulers of the house!

Now, in my day men wuz soopreme!
Each man wuz king of his domain!
An' gals held us in great esteem,
An' held their tongues if they wuz sane!

Oh, yes, the men wuz different then—
Men had gumption! Men wus boss!
But nowadays the men ain't MEN—
They shivers when the gals get cross!"

And grandpa keeps deriding 'mice'
With great disgust, until
My grandma says, "That will suffice!"—
And sternly warns him to be still!

THEN THERE'S the story of the Scottish youth who stood staring in admiration at the immaculate figure of a new second lieutenant in an army camp.

The Major, noticing this, remarked. to the Scottie rookie, "Now I suppose YOU would like a commission?"

"Nae, sirr," burred the Scotty, "straight salary is mair in me line."

"WHO AM I?"

I am more powerful than the combined armies of the world.

I am more deadly than bullets, and I have wrecked more homes than the mightiest of siege guns.

I steal in the United States alone over $300,000,000 each year.

And I spare no one, and find my victims among the rich and poor alike, the young and old, the strong and weak; widows and orphans know me.

I lurk in unseen places and do most of my work silently. You are warned against me, but you do not heed.

I am relentless. I am everywhere; in the home; on the street; in the factory; at railroad crossings, and on the sea.

I bring sickness, degradation and death and yet few seek to avoid me.

I destroy, crush, maim; I give nothing, but take all.

I am your worst enemy.

And I am CARELESSNESS.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES
OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

AUGUST 13th., 1922.

Stocks of fuel for the coming fall and winter are low and the situation is serious, Mayor Hanna has secured three car loads of pea coal, totalling 150 tons, and it will be sold and delivered to citizens who require this class of fuel at $13.50 per ton. His Worship is also endeavoring to secure a supply of hard wood to be sold to citizens at a reasonable price. Mayor Hanna's activity in this matter is much appreciated by citizens.

The 100 foot barn on the Orser Estate, one mile from the Little Swamp on the Belleville-Picton road was struck by lightning on Sunday and the building, together with the drive shed, was destroyed by fire. No stock was in the barn at the time.

Mrs. Clifford Ostrom of Peterborough spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ostrom at their summer cottage on the bay shore.

AUGUST 13th., 1902.

The temperature went down last night to dangerously near the freezing point.

Capt. A. W. Weese of Rossmore threshed 336 bushels of fall wheat for Mr. W. W. Anderson of that district. The wheat which was grown on six acres of land yielded an average of 56 bushels to the acre. This sounds like old times, and is a phenomenally high yield, even for so grand a farming country as Prince Edward County. Even the great wheat fields of Manitoba could hardly show better returns than this, if they could show as good.

Mrs. George Irwin and son, George have returned home from Hamilton where they visited friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Alford have returned home after spending some time at the 1000 Islands.

THE GOLFING PARSON'S WIFE

"Ah," said the golfing parson's wife,
"'Tis I who lead the sorry life!
'Tis I must send the poor away
Who ring the bell while he's at play.
All summer long I start at noon
To answer, 'I expect him soon.'
I tell prospective brides and grooms
When they may use the parish rooms,
And set their wedding hour when he
On hand to marry them will be.

"We're told a lot about the woes
The well-known golfing parson knows,
But not one word about the cares
And burdens Mrs. Parson bears;
No word about the hours she spends,
Defending him from curious friends
Who would discover where he lurks;
No word about how long she works
To keep his golfing garments trim.
The sympathy all goes to him!

"Now let me have a word or two!
About that faded sweater blue,
The truth is this: No button's gone!
I've regularly sewed them on!
Please, rhymster, get this matter right.
I've never sent him out: 'a fright!'
Bad, as you say his golf to be
I've always kept him 'fit to see.'
Know this: it's not an easy life
To be a golfing parson's wife."

Desert Sand Hard On Motors Says Tobruk Veteran

Toronto, Aug. 12 (CP)—Lt.-Col. B. Miller, tank expert of the Canadian armored corps at Camp Borden, has just returned from the battlefront in Egypt, having escaped from Tobruk two days before its capture by Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces.

He described the ground being fought for as "worthless." "Nobody wants the ground," he said. "We want to destroy the enemy's force."

"In the Middle East, it doesn't matter a tuppance whether you're at Bengazi or El Alamein. The only advantage of being at Bengazi is that you'll have farther to fall back if you have to."

Chief obstacle to overcome in tank maintenance, is sand, Col. Miller said. "The sand in Egypt isn't the kind of sand you find at Beaches. It has pebbles and dust, and scraps of wood, sometimes. It's often a fine sort of dust that lies shallow on a hard base. When you run through that kind of stuff, it gets into the engine—the valves and magneto—and the wear is very rapid.

Though Col. Miller admits having been in several battles, he had nothing to say of his personal experiences. "I know how to put treads on tanks. I don't know about the other things."

LEMONS

The lemon tree, says an American forestry expert, is among the ten most important trees in the world.

Because of the shipping shortage lemons are so scarce in London that they have been selling for as high as twenty dollars apiece.

The domestic lemon tree, which normally grows from ten to fifteen feet in height, is believed to be descended from a wild tree native to the hill country of India.

"Lemon" and "lime," the name of a smaller and more acid citrus fruit, are supposed to be merely different forms of the same oriental word.

So far as known the lemon was unknown to the ancient Greeks and Romans.

Both the tree and its name were introduced into Spain by the Moors during the 12th and 13th centuries.

At first lemons were used as moth balls by Europeans.

Lemons were introduced into California about 1830, but they did not become an important commercial crop there until around the turn of the century.

Like their cousins the limes, lemons have long been known as preventives of scurvy and are much used for that purpose at sea.

Most commercial lemons are picked green before they show any sign of yellowing. If they are permitted to ripen on the trees they lose much of their keeping quality.

Lemon trees are very prolific and single trees in the Mediterranean countries often produce several thousand lemons.

Lemon oil, extracted from the green skins, is used in flavoring extracts, perfumes, cosmetics, furniture polish and other products.

Lemon juice supplies citric acid. which is widely used by calico printers to keep fabrics clear of rusty machinery stains.

Ill-shaped, odd-sized and unsound lemons are generally used for the manufacture of oil and juice.

Lemons as large as grapefruits and weighing several pounds have been developed by horticulturists.

The seediness of lemons depends to some extent on the weather. Lemon trees bear fruit practically the year around. A cold snap or freeze is generally followed by a crop with more than the usual number of seeds. Lemon seeds are being considered as a source of oil for industrial use. Commercial trees however are propagated by cuttings not by seeds.

The lemon, because of its sourness, is the symbol of worthlessness and failure. To call a person a peach is a high compliment; to call one a lemon is decidedly uncomplimentary.

"The Young Mr. Pitt" Film Depicts England's Time Of Danger in Former Years

By DOUGLAS AMARON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 13 —(CP)— The premier of the film "The Young Mr. Pitt" attracted more members of Parliament than some sessions at the House of Commons. Ministers, privy councillors, parliamentary private secretaries and parliamentary "extras" were there to see how their predecessors carried on in circumstances strikingly similar to the present day.

The film shows the younger Pitt, played by Robert Donat, sustaining England's confidence at a time when the enemy was in Egypt and threatening India.

Reports that Winston Churchill is preparing his own account of the war brought an explanation that "the Prime Minister looks on his daily noting of the course of events in the same light as a ship's captain keeping a log-book," rather than as the groundwork for a future publication. . . .

Suggestions still come in for cutting down the length of parliamentary speeches. Sir Leonard Lyle (Cons.-Bournemouth), who has raised the question more than once, proposed an arrangement for relaying the chimes of Big Ben so they could be heard in the chamber and remind members of the passage of time . . . and back-benchers still object to ministers reading their speeches. So much so, they are reported to be hatching a plot to call the speaker's attention to the irregularity every time they spot a minister laboriously working through his brief. . . .

Invigoration Preferred

A reference by Ernest Thurtle, parliamentary secretary to the ministry of information, to "pep talks" caused confusion in the Commons. "What is meant by 'pep talks'?" asked Sir Cuthbert Headlam.

"I'm not sure myself, but I believe the word has entered sufficiently into common usage for most members to understand what is meant by it," Thurtle replied.

A little later K. W. M. Pickthorn referred to "pep talks" as "a term apparently without definition," to which Earl Winterton added "and which has been out of date for 20 years in the country of its origin."

Lord Darnley, known among his fellow peers as "The Gardner Earl," is worried about the future of horticulturists and the prospects that before long people will be thrown back on a diet which, he said, "I intensely dislike—cabbage boiled until all the goodness has gone down the drain and its odor has penetrated to every corner of the house."

"I believe there is more joy in the flower trade than in all the other pleasure trades put together," the six-foot-six Earl said during an eloquent, expert but unsuccessful appeal in the House of Lords against an order reducing the capital of flower, bulb and shrub growers to 25 per cent of what it was in 1939.

For the first time in British parliamentary history, Polish parliamentarians have sat in session within the precincts of the House of Commons. The meeting, in the huge committee room, was arranged by the executive committee of the Anglo-Polish parliamentary group to stress the ties of friendship between Poland and Great Britain.

Sir Stafford Cripps' motion requiring M.P.'s to show passes before entering the Commons produced some good natured argument before it was carried by a 119-to-16 vote.

Earl Winterton, "Deputy Father" of the House and one of the tallest and slimmest M.P.'s, recalled that on a visit to the Foreign Office he held out his pass at a distance at which no one could read it and the police nodded him on. The police officer, when questioned, said "we know everybody by sight who comes here," but admitted he didn't know Lord Winterton.

Sir Stafford, assuring the Horsham member that Commons police would examine passes, added: "You look so distinguished and ambassadorial that anyone would admit you to the Foreign Office in any circumstances."

Purchases, Subsidies May Approach $100,000,000 Mark

Ottawa, Aug. 13 (CP)—Government purchases and subsidies in the present fiscal year may approach "or even exceed" the $100,000,000 mark, it was stated last night by an official of the Commodity Prices Stabilization Corporation. Payment to producers of a subsidy on butterfat is estimated to cost the government $15,000,000.

SEEDS-TO-BRITAIN CAMPAIGN

Ottawa, Aug. 13 (CP)—Revenue Minister Gibson described Canada's first "Seeds-to-Britain" campaign today as an unqualified success. The campaign was started by the revenue department's income division which raised funds to purchase Canadian vegetable seeds and sent them to Britain through a Montreal Firm (Dupuy and Ferguson Limited).

THAT BODY OF YOURS

JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

The Overactive and Underactive Thyroid Gland

When an individual has a rapid heart beat, is very nervous, is a poor sleeper, suffers with stomach and intestinal distress, and has also bulging of the eyeballs, he is said to be suffering with the severe type of goitre. A metabolism test is made which shows that his thyroid gland is manufacturing too much juice. Thyroid juice speeds up all the body processes—heart rate, muscular movements of the stomach and intestine, nervous system. The individual is thin, very active mentally and physically, and "always on the go".

By more rest at night and during the day, some of these patients are able to live a normal life.

When there is so much thyroid juice being manufactured, part or all of the thyroid gland is removed by operation, radium or X-rays.

In other words many individuals whom we find to be too nervous and alert are suffering with an early or mild form of goitre which is now recognized and proper treatment given.

Now, just as there is overactivity of the thyroid gland causing a speeding up of all the body processes with rapid heart beat, loss of weight, sleeplessness and other symptoms, so can there be a condition where the thyroid gland is not active enough—not manufacturing enough thyroid juice. And just as the very overactive thyroid gland causes the bulking eyes, rapid heart beat, extreme nervousness, trembling, and sleeplessness so that very underactive thyroid gland causes just the opposite symtoms—dullness of the eyes and whole expression of the face, coarse dry hair, dry skin, overweight and sleepiness. In women the monthly periods are not normal. By means of a metabolism test, it is found that the thyroid gland is underactive and thyroid extract is given to speed up the body processes to a normal rate, with the result that the eyes become brighter, the face brighter, heart more rapid, and there is more mental and physical activity.

Further, just as a slight or early case of overactive thyroid may not be recognized, so also may an early case of underactivity go unnoticed by the family, or even the physician, and the individual is thought to be lazy and to be below normal mentally.

Within Few Seconds of Call to Action Destroyer Crew Swarms to Guns

Alarm Buzzer Sets Off Big Fighting Machine Aboard Bee Hive Ships of Canada's Navy

By LIEUT. A. O. TTE, R.C.N.V.R.

Since Hitler took his first stride on the march to conquest, destroyers of the Royal Canadian Navy have been at sea destroying the enemey and protecting the commerce cn the sea-lanes to Britain. With the destroyers there are auxiliary cruisers, corvettes, minesweepers, swift little submarine chasers and motor torpedo boats—these types and others adding up to more than 300 ships flying the White Ensign of the British man o'war.

Finest in World

In Canada's navy destroyers are manned by destroyer men who rank with the finest seamen in the world. One hundred and sixty men and boys, individuals of many types, temperatures and religions, live together —and sometimes die together — in these swift, slender ships.

Designed with bee-hive efficiency in the allotment of space, the destroyer's living quarters are organized into various compact messes for the officers and men. The average destroyer is not big—being only a little more than 300 feet long and with a tonnage around 1,300. Roughly amidships are the turbines which develop better than 30,000 horsepower.

Since war began, destroyers of the Royal Canadian Navy have covered tens of thousands of miles escorting the merchant armadas. The destroyer has a flexible nature, but she's a destroyer at heart. She is forever ready to hunt and kill.

Destroyer captains and their men saw months of action in British waters when the Battle of the Atlantic was being fought in the Western Approaches. Experience has taught them that dawn and dusk are the dangerous times. Set off against a sun low on the sea's unbroken horizon, a ship presents an ideal u-boat target.

Pretty—But Dangerous

The destroyer makes a pretty silhouette. From a few miles away she looks small and slightly feminine with her graceful, rakish lines. But aboard her the impression is different. The potential destruction represented in her guns, torpedoes and depth charges, the efficiency, the courage and determination of the men who handle her, give her quality and character that Hitler's' submarine fear.

When the sun is dropping low, officers of the watch and lookouts scan the sea for a sign of the enemy. If the enemy approcahes under the water there are instruments to detect him. If he comes in a surface ship or an aircraft he must be seen. One of the forward guns is always at cruising stations, manned just in case. Depth charges are ready.

Stays on the Job

From the time the destroyer puts to sea until she ties up again, perhaps two weeks later, the captain's hours are divided between the bridge and his tiny sea-cabin. At sunset — — submarine time — he'll go to the bridge. Throughout the rest of the ship officers and men not on duty will be writing. . reading . . .playing cards . . . talking . . . eating . . listening to the radio. . . dozing . .. mending clothes. . .

In the galley, cooks will be preparing supper. . . slicing bacon for tomorrow's breakfast. The food is good, the diet balanced — and there's enough for the lustiest appetite.

On the upper deck two or three men may be seen lounging against the torpedo tubes. They'll be talking. About what? Perhaps that farm in the country.

The destroyer captain leans against the action stations alarm buzzer. In every corner of the ship every man is shocked into action. Confusion? Men running in every direction? No confusion. Within seconds every man will be at his action station. It might be the real thing.

From the daymen's mess and from the fore-lower they come up ladders; from the petty officers' mess the older men ,and many are family men, come with practiced efficiency of motion.

Even the cooks . . .they leave their food to the mercy of the fires at a time like this, always with dramatic despair.

Swarm Into Action

Men rush fore and aft along the upper deck. . . . . . .they swarm around their guns. X-gun is manned . . . down comes the after galley chimney. . . . the multiple machine guns are ready as ammunition is snaked to them . . . skyward sweep the barrels of anti-aircraft guns. The cooks are with their supply, repair and fire parties. . . .the stewards, too. The ship's surgeon has his first aid party at the ready.

This is practice. An imaginary target is given to the control officers by the captain . . . red nine oh, a ship . . . a ship on the port beam. The torpedo control officer adjusts his sights . . . the gunnery control officer passes the information to the director who relays it to the guns . . . the gun barrels swing to port, the torpedo tubes move into position for attack. Gun crews, layers and trainers, strain to get their guns quickly on the target . . . ammunition is jerked from ready use lockers, is rammed home . . .A-gun, B-gun, X-gun, Y-gun, ... Fire!

Guns Pour Out Death

Machine-like efficiency is exemplified by the youngsters manning the three-inch. The gun swings, pouring lead into the sky. The multiple machine guns spew out destruction, their line of fire indicated by tracers. When the practice firing is over, the guns' crew remain at their guns and exercise with dummy ammunition.

Then, the sun drops below the horizon . . . officers, look-outs and others, as always, appreciate this final moment of peaceful and exquisite beauty. . . even though sudden death here takes no time off.

Mess Room Chatter Of Canada's Airmen

By ALLAN NICKLESON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

With the R.C.A.F. Somewhere in England, Aug. 13 —(CP)—Flt.-Lt. Karel Kuttelwascher, Czech ace night-fighter pilot whose favorite trick is pouncing on German bombers over their airdromes in France, is married to a Welsh girl who appreciates that she must play second fiddle to the Royal Air Force.

"When we were married just over a year ago it was on condition that my flying must always come first", he said after a flight during which he shot down his 22nd enemy plane.

The only factor that can induce Kuttelwascher, who is stationed not far from a Canadian squadron, to take a "spot of leave" is weather that grounds planes. The moment it clears he leaves his wife and rushes back to his squadron. However, the holder of the D.F.C. and Bar has been in his wife's company long enough to acquire the start of a Welsh accent.

Meet Tawny Tim, a clever cat who more than earns his keep by his mousing activities with an R.C.A.F. night-fighter squadron commanded by Wing Cmdr. P. Y. Davoud of Kingston, Ont. Tim is so highly thought of that his exploits are contained in the squadron diary and there's keen interest in his score of enemy destroyed, damaged and probables.

The airmen recently gathered in the mess-room to decorate Tim with the D.M.C. (Distinguished Mousing Cross) and commissioned him as A.C.M. (Air Chief Mouser).

Here's an excerpt from communiques entered in the diary:

"A reconnaissance patrol headed by A.C.M. Tim, D.M.C., penetrated into enemey lines in the dining room. A single unit was encountered and destroyed".

The Turbey Brothers, Ray and Harold of Brantford, Ont., get about quite some—but always with each other. They joined the R.C.A.F. together, came overseas together and were posted to the same bomber operational training unit. They did guard duty at Trenton, Ont., and later were together at Toronto, Goderich, Ont., and their home town while in training.

Cossacks Charge With Anti-Tanks

Modern Russian "Lancers" Have Little Tradition but Their Horses

London, Aug. 13. (CP)—Russia's "Twentieth Century Lancers" are among the most formidable opponents today of the German panzer columns, Bernard Turner reported in a despatch to the Daily Herald.

These modern lancers are Cossack cavalrymen who ride into action with enormous anti-tank muskets which have a strange resemblance to the iron-tipped shafts their forefathers used in battles against Austrians and Germans.

The Cossacks ride into action, unstrap their anti-tank muskets, fire and halt tanks with their first volley. Other tanks are set on fire while the rest retire, leaving German infantrymen exposed to attack. The Cossacks remount and charge down on the infantrymen in their classical manner.

Wrong to Ridicule Person With Imaginary Illness

Many people have symptoms of heart disease, yet examination shows no trace of it. This is true about other diseases, too. Certain types of persons develop a belief that they are sick when there is really nothing the matter with them. Yet the worst thing to do for such a person is to ridicule him. He is mentally unbalanced and needs treatment.

Symptoms that occur when no disease is present are called neuroses. Rapid heart beat, vomiting, diarrhea and fainting are symptoms which often develop from emotional shock only. Sleeplessness, overtiredness, irritability and fears also may come as a result of emotional disturbance alone.

Since the symptoms which occur in neuroses may be much like those which develop in actual disease conditions, it is always a careful examination so that any real disorders present may be discovered and treated.

Persons who develop neuroses usually have a peculiar type of personality or makeup. There is a tendency for neuroses to run in families. Usually the symptoms are brought on by a form of injury, infection or emotional strain, but the symptoms may continue for a long time after the thing which has brought them on has disappeared. The patient may have just a slight headache, feel tired and irritable or may suffer from such severe conditions as sleeplessness, alarming loss of weight and pain in various parts of the body.

Just why the symptoms is a neuroses should affect certain parts of the body and not others is not definitely known but it is true that in some patients the symptoms may chiefly affect the stomach and bowel. In others they may affect the heart.

In treating neuroses the first thing the physician must do is to gain the confidence and respect of the patient, also his desire to cooperate. The patient must feel that the physician sympathizes with him and has a clear understanding of his disorder as well as the ability to help him. The first step is to make a careful study of the patient's condition so that he can be assured that he does not suffer from any disease which has damaged the body tissues. The patient must not get the idea that he is insane or that he imagines his symptoms. He must be assured that he will get well, although it may take some time.

Drugs may be used as prescribed by the physician, to relieve the symptoms until they can be completely eliminated through correction of the patients mental attitude. The patient is encouraged to face his experiences and his problems. He must be taught to react in a wholesome way to the various stresses and problems of life. The family of the patient must also be made aware of his condition and instructed as to how to act toward him.

Surgical procedures will not get rid of neuroses. It takes considerable time to cure neuroses, but with proper treatment these disorders can often be eliminated.

Impressive Parade By 500 Airmen Of No. 5 I. T. S.

Five hundred potential pilots, observers and air gunners swung through the city streets shortly before nine o'clock today on one of the first city parades of the officers and personnel of No. 5 Initial Training School, R.C.A.F.

Led by their new commanding officer, Wing Commander A. J. Snetsinger, E.D., the drill-clad airmen marched into the city to the stirring tempos of the station drum and bugle band.

The parade turned at the Front-Bridge Street intersection where Acting Police Sergeant William Evans held early morning traffic under control, and swung northward along the main thoroughfare to Moira Street.

The marching airmen afforded an unusual early morning sight as they marched along streets that were almost devoid of vehicles. Stenographers and other office workers due at work at 9 a.m., were the only spectators. Many people were disappointed to learn that the parade was over long before they made their regular down-town morning appearance.

It was held, however, so that the marching airmen would not disrupt the busy morning traffic, but it is believed that future parades will be held at a different time.

The efficient bugle band of the station drew many laudatory comments from spectators, and the blare of the trumpets and rattle of drums attracted many late Front Street inhabitants to windows, and merchants and staffs to the pavement.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Pining for an Old Sweetheart is Psychological Manifestation

What would happen to all these worthy citizens who day-dream that if they had only married their first sweethearts, life would be "one grand sweet song", as President Cleveland summed up supreme happiness?

My guess is they'd be bored to tears and, after fifteen minutes of fatuous conversation, they'd be considering ways and means of escape. The classic instance of meeting the old sweetheart happened to Charles Dickens. In early youth he adored Maria Beadnell and indulged in much "if-only" repinnings. Maria turned down young Mr. Dickens for someone who had better financial prospects.

Dickens became, famous and rich, the darling of two continents: still, he thought of Maria Beadnell, and was rather nasty to his wife who bore him ten children. Then one day the fates threw Charles and Maria together. She had grown plump, her talk was banal and in the commonplace red-faced matron there was nothing that suggested the sylph of his first love.

Maria was delighted with Charles, but Charles couldn't squirm out of the situation fast enough. He got rid of Maria after a short call, and was adept in declining further meetings.

This may happen to anyone. It's not the old sweetheart we're looking for, but an excuse for the massed failures of our lives when we indulge in these "if onlies". Take this man's letter, which is about a fourth of what he's written:

Dear Miss Fairfax:

"Ten years ago I was going with a girl and probably we were both more in love than we realized. She moved to a distant city and we corresponded. I was apparently a poor letter-writer, and she didn't get from my letters what I intended to convey—that I loved her devotedly.

"We drifted apart and each married. Then I heard she was getting a divorce. This started me to thinking about her, and I decided to look her up. When I found her she was on the verge of getting married again. She married and moved back in my neighborhood.

"I haven't exactly asked her, but feel sure she'd be willing to get a divorce if I could get one from my wife, and we could be married. This has got me so excited I can neither eat nor sleep, though I have a good wife who has never caused me any trouble. But I think of this other woman all the time." The gentleman signs his letter, "What do you think?"

He wouldn't be flattered if I told him. He has a good wife. For no reason he wants to divorce her, break up his home and go philandering after an early sweetheart. It's not the sweetheart he really wants, but in his egoism he thinks of all the mistakes he has made and he imagines he would have avoided them if he'd married the girl he'd let slip out of his life.

Home Facial in Ten Minutes

This model is using cream made of fresh pasteurised milk for massage.

By HELEN FOLLETT

TODAY WE offer the pupils of the pulchritude class a ten minutes facial. That's not much time to give to one's complexion.

Begin with soap and water and if you have a complexion brush so much the better. Fighting dirt seems to be one of life's minor occupations. Atmospheric dust burrows into the pores, we have to guard against that. Make a rousing lather, pinch the flesh lightly as you rub it in, scour with the brush. Rinse with warm water.

Use a heavy emollient for massage. Apply with flattened fingers, always moving upward. Include the neck and the ear lobes.

To keep away turkey tracks, or to blot out those that are present, place the first finger on the eyelid close to the nose, sweep out to the temple, do a few little circles there, come back under the eyes.

To help erase frown lines; place the thumbs at the base of the furrows, first finger above. Keep the finger stationary, iron upward with the thumb. This movement lifts the flesh out of the groove. And stop scowling!

Do lines extend from lip ends to nostrils? Start at the lower end, work upward with little nips, pulling out the flesh gently.

Forehead creases; place the fingertips of both hands facing each other in the centre of the forehead. When the fingers of one hand go up the fingers of the other hand press downward, and all the time both groups are moving from one side of the forehead to another. This is a favorite movement of many an expert facial operator and it does lessen the lines of care.

Tap and hammer the entire facial area. While the cream is on friction with an ice cube.

MELROSE W. M. S.

The regular monthly meeting of Melrose W. M. S. was held on Wednesday afternoon, August 5th., at the Shannonville parsonage with twelve members in attendance.

The meeting opened with hymn 500. The theme, "The Bible, the Word of God," was followed with responsive reading with Mrs. Bennett as leader. This was followed with a prayer in unison.

Mrs. Chas. MacFarlane took over the Devotional program. She introduced different parts of the Bible and was assisted by Mrs. E. Badgley. Miss Mary MacLaren read the Life of Dr. Morrison. Mrs. S. Anderson read a very interesting story on northern China. The fourth reader, Mrs. Bennett, told of four years of the World War, Mrs. C. English "The Bible and Children." A verse of Scripture was answered as a roll call by 12 members and hymn 182 was sung.

Mrs. Chas. MacFarlane read a paper, which was written and read by Mrs. S. Anderson before the union of the Presbyterian and Methodist came in force, was very much appreciated. Mrs. John MacFarlane gave a reading on "Does the Bible Say So." "The Lamp in the Light House," was given by Miss Mary MacLaren.

The meeting was closed by all all repeating the Benediction.

Hostess Mrs. Gammon served a delicious lunch.

The Melrose Ladies of the Women's Missionary Society presented Mrs. Gammon with a cut glass cake plate, accompanied with best wishes for happiness in her new home.

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Wedding Reception at Church

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Weddings really are a problem; I am at my wit's end trying so hard to make arrangements for a simple wedding plus some kind of informal reception for all our relatives and friends. Of course it would be easy if we had an unlimited budget.

However, this is what I would especially like your advice about, Mrs. Beeckman. I recently attended a wedding where, after the ceremony in the church, the bride and bridegroom held an informal reception in the anteroom of the church. I was very much impressed with this plan. The wedding party, after receiving the congratulations of the guests, were seated at a table and were served, refreshments there, while the rest of the guests were served, buffet style, ice cream, wedding cake, and coffee. To me this seemed an excellent solution to the problem of where to stop when inviting people to your wedding reception when you cannot afford to spend a great deal on a reception.

BUT my problem is this: My family have never heard of such an arrangement, and they feel definitely that it isn't proper. Would you give us your point of view about this, and tell me if it is permissible?

T. H.

The informal - reception - procedure at the wedding you recently attended is not at all unusual, and I agree with you that it is a happy solution to the problem of having a friendly and inexpensive reception for all the guests who attend the church wedding. As a matter of fact, it's a charming entension of the friendly custom of having the bride and bridegroom receive after the recessional, in the vestibule of the church, the good wishes of the guests as they leave the church.

I like, too, the idea of having the "bride's table," for the bride, bridegroom, and their attendants, and general buffet service for the other guests.

Why not have your mother go with you to the minister of your church, and talk over this friendly and convenient plan with him?

Gift for Fiance's Mother

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance's mother, whom I have never met, has written to ask me to visit her. Should I take her a gift, or send it after I have returned from the visit?

E. R.

Either is proper. But since you do not know her tastes, perhaps you might like to take her some simple gift, such as a box of candy or a currently popular book, and then, with your bread-and-butter letter send her as a gift something you have observed would undoubtedly be to her liking.

THESE MADE TEN SPIES EXECUTED IN PRESENT WAR

Two Men Quietly Met Their Death at Wandsworth but Papers Made it Big News for One Day Only

By ALAN RANDAL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 13—(CP)—In the quiet darkness of London's blackout a turnkey tacked up on the gate to Wandsworth Prison two notices. They were death sentences, the penultimate chapters in the lives of two men who spied against an Empire at war.

And a few hours later, in the bright sunshine of a July morning, Wandsworth Prison gates bore four new notices. They were execution announcements and death certificates, the last words in twin tales of espionage.

Executed for treachery were Jose Estella Key, a British subject, and Alphonse Louis Eugene Timmerman a Belgian. They brought up to ten the number of spies executed since the Second Great War began. One was shot by a firing squad, the other hanged.

Small Audience

A soldier in a car and a solitary coalman were the only members of the public present when the two notices of execution were removed and the four other substituted. But in a Britain which has learned since the big bombing raids to treat death coldly, announcement of the double execution was big news. London's late evening papers gave it greater prominence than the big war news from Russia and Libya and then Key and Timmerman were forgotten.

Key was born in Gibraltar, the scene of his spy activities. His function was to observe and record movements of British forces for the enemy. When arrested he was in possession of information ready for transmission to Germany. He was brought to Britian for trial.

Came as Refugee

Timmerman born at Ostend, was unmarried, a ship's steward who before the war, had made frequent visits to British ports. In the autumn of 1941 he came to England posing as a refugee from Nazi occupied territory in an attempt to gain information but he was detected before he had done any harm.

He admitted eventually, that he had been sent to Britain after training by the German Secret Service, to find out secrets of naval and military importance. He brought secret writing material including crystals for making invisible ink and special stationery.

The public wasn't told the hour at which these men died. Their appeal having been dismissed, the notice of execution merely said:—"The sentence of the law passed upon Alphonse Louis Eugene Timmerman and Jose Estella Key, found guilty of treachery, will be carried into execution at —— —— a.m. tomorrow".

TOTAL WAR EFFORT IS NECESSARY SAYS HEPBURN

Ontario Premier Marks Double Anniversary — His Comments on Political Life

Toronto, Aug. 13 —(CP)— Nine years as Ontario's premier has caused Mitchell F. Hepburn to "wonder" about politics.

Celebrating his 46th birthday and his ninth anniversary as premier yesterday, Mr. Hepburn said he became "more tolerant in regard to the attitude of others on domestic problems" as he grew older.

"Sometimes I wonder which political camp is right," he said in an interview. "But there is one thing we can all agree on and that is that only by total war effort can we survive."

In the early days of the war he had been "branded as a scaremonger."

"I have never altered my course," he said. "I still hold to the view that only by creating the will to win on the part of all people can this civilization of ours survive."

During his nine years in office he had gone through the dark days of depression and today entered the darkest hours of the British Empire.

"I have been the object of severe . . . criticism. But I have pursued a consistent course in tax policy to ease the burden of the masses of the people."

Looking to the future, Mr. Hepburn said: "So far as the future is concerned, I would just as soon venture an opinion on the hereafter as to prognosticate on the immediate happenings of world events."

What about provincial matters?

"Provincial politics have been relegated to a very secondary position—and rightly so."

CONFESSES SLAYING GIRL

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 13. (AP)—Charles J. Tierney, assistant chief of police, announced today that Clarence J. McLean, 42-year-old painter, had signed a confession that he killed 15-year-old Ethel Swanson whose slashed and battered body was found in a field near here early yesterday.

Tierney said McLean's confession told how he beat the girl about the head and then slashed her throat when she "threatened to talk" after he had raped her.

McLean has four children. He will be charged with first degree murder, Tierney said.

PACKER'S CANNERY DESTROYED BY FIRE

USE RUMOR TO SCARE TURKS

New York, Aug. 13 —(AP)— The German propaganda machine raised a rumor yesterday that the United States and Britain are trying to get Turkish permission to let the Soviet Black Sea fleet pass through the Dardanelles.

There was no suggestion of the source of the rumor, nor any confirmation but the German radio treated it as a fact and broadcast German Foreign Office comment containing an inferential warning to Turkey.

TAXI HARD TO GET

RING THOSE BELLS CALLS FOR MUSCLE WITH MUSIC TOUCH

Job of Master of the Carillon at Ottawa Means Hard Labor as Well as Long Training and Experience

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 13. (CP)—Take it from one of Canada's few professional carillonneurs, Robert Donnell, an hour at the keyboard of a carillon is equal to "a week's hard labor".

And he should know, for Donnell is the Dominion Carillonneur —a job which takes him almost daily into a small room high up in the grey-stone Peace Tower on Parliament Hill to play the government carillon.

"It's the little finger of each hand that gets it", smiled Donnell as he stretched a pair of bronzed arms across the desk of his little tower-top office to show his fingers slightly over-size from years of pounding the keyboard.

Then he explained that to play his instrument—if a belfry of 53 bells, the heaviest weighing 22,400 pounds, can be called an instrument— the carillonneur punches with clenched fists at the keys Wires stretch from the keys to clappers which sound the bells themselves.

"After you have played the carillon for an hour you feel as though you have done a week's hard labour", Donnell added. "Your arm muscles begin to give way and you have to rest".

Varied Program

When Donnell plays, the liquid tones of the bells drift over the expansive lawns fronting the Parliament Buildings, carrying such varied as Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance", Molloy's "The Kerry Dance" and Foster's "Jeannie with the Light Brown Hair". Tourists and cabinet ministers, civil servants and soldeirs, pause on the lawn benches to hear his music.

Youthful and sun-tanned, Donnell smilingly declines to state his age but admits to playing the carillon for 16 years. In fact, he began while still in knee pants, when his first loves were the piano and the organ. He studied in Canada and in Europe.

Donnell was appointed carillonneur at the Cutten Memorial Carillon in Guelph, Ont., in 1926, and gave his first recital in Ottawa at the Imperial Conference in 1932, as guest carillonneur. He was appointed assistant to Percival Price, then Dominion Carillonneur, in 1936, and two years later obtained the diploma of the Beiaardschool te Mechelen (Mechlin Carillon School) in Belgium "with distinction". He was appointed Carillonneur two years ago.

Wide Experience

Considered one of the finest carillonneurs on this continent, Donnell has given recitals on outstanding carillons in Holland, Belgium and North America. On Parliament Hill here, he plays most days of the year, except during February and March, when he arranges pieces for his instrument.

Donnell's bells, cast and tuned in the foundry of Gillett and Johnston, Croydon, England, were installed in the Peace Tower by authority of Parliament to commemorate the peace of 1918 and to keep in remembrance the service and sacrifice of Canadians who fought in the First Great War.

The 22-400-pound bell is pitched to E; the smallest, weighing only ten pounds, is pitched to A, four and one-half octaves higher. The instrument is played from a wooden beyboard after the Flemish system.

The Dominion Carillon was first played July 1, 1927, in celebration of the 60th anniversary of Confederation.

This was announced today by Maj. James F. Brower, executive officer for Army Recruiting in Southern California.

Nearly all the local Cub Pack under the leadership of Troop Leader Lloyd Gladwell plan to attend a week's camp at Lake Consecon, Leaving Friday, August 28th., they will return on Sept. 4th. The Cubs have not been holding regular meetings during the summer but have been holding weekly hikes, including an overnight hike, a bicycle hike, and five short walking tours.

War Service Report

At the Scout meeting held this week the following report was submitted: "For the nine months of 1942 the Fourth Belleville Troop has completed nearly 600 Scout War Service hours. During that period they collected over 10,000 medicine bottles, served at War Service Canteens and at dances for the armed forces a total of 26 times, and helped the local Salvage Headquarters for eight weeks. During February they assisted the Victory Loan Committee by distributing posters, etc., and they have collected a great deal of tinfoil, with the assistance of the local theatre managers.

"We have served 584 hours which is an average of 45 hours per Scout. One Scout, Clifford Lazenby, has a '100 Hour War Service Badge' and another Scout is eligible in a few weeks."

Proficiency Badge Work

His Worship, Mayor G. E. Thompson passed Troop Leader Lloyd Gladwell on his Citizen's Badge recently, making Lloyd eligible for his All-Round Cords. He is the first in this troop to get these cords which signify proficiency in six subjects as well as being a First Class Scout.

Other subjects in which Scouts of the Fourth Belleville Troop have proved to be efficient in include ambulance work, art, athletics, journalism, laundering, sick room care, etc.

6-Month Ration Books Will Be Ready On September 7

Ottawa, Aug. 13 —(CP)— The Wartime Prices and Trade Board, furnishing Canadian consumers with a detailed description of the six-month ration books which will be distributed Sept. 7, said yesterday the only commodities which will be coupon-rationed at that time are tea-coffee and sugar.

Emergency coupons included in the ration books, the Board said, are included "solely as a precaution" and "no decision whatever" has been made to use them for any commodity.

Officially designated "Ration Book No. 1," the new books contain five colored series of coupons. The first, printed in red, has the word "Sugar" printed on each of 13 coupons, each good for two weeks' supply.

The second, printed in green, is designated "Spare A" and will be used to buy tea and coffee, replacing lettered coupons now in use.

"It should be noted," the board said, "that after Sept. 7 each tea-coffee coupon from the new ration book will cover a two-week supply —that is, two ounces of tea or eight ounces of coffee, putting them on the same basis as the sugar coupons."

Tea-coffee coupons will not be included in new books issued to children under 12 years of age.

The three remaining series of coupons comprise one page of 13 coupons based on a two-week ration allowance, and two series of two pages or 26 coupons. These are included for emergency purposes, the board said, just as extra coupons on temporary ration cards were used for tea and coffee.

The board's word to men and women joining the armed forces is this: "take the book with you; it will be asked for."

Chart Cologne By Canterbury

London, Aug. 13.—(CP)—In the wake of the R.A.F.'s smashes at Germany the Ministry of Information issued eight drawings showing these raids in proper perspective with Germany's reply raids. The drawings show 1,000 planes heading for Cologne. Hitler's answer was 25 bombers over Canterbury the next night. To get to Cologne the R.A.F. flew 150 miles over hostile territory while the Nazis flew over only ten miles of hostile country to reach Canterbury. And in Cologne there were 700,000 people dependent on industry as against only 7,000 in Canterbury.

Flyers Score Dozen Runs Early to Soundly Trounce Veterans by 19 to 7 Score

Coach Kiser Does Some Smart Relief Hurling After Harris Goes to the Showers

ONLY ONE HOMER

Twelve runs should be sufficient to win most any softball game, but Archie Green's No. 5 I.T.S. "Flyers" weren't satisfied in scoring an even dozen runs in the second inning of the first game of the Belleville and District Softball Association finals but continued to mount the score until ultimately the Flyers pushed the Army & Navy "Vets" into submission by a final score of 19 to 7 in an eight inning contest called on account of darkness.

If the unbiased fan could have forgotten that hectic second inning, when the Flyers scored a full dozen runs and chased pitcher Connie Harris to the showers without a batter being retired, then the subsequent innings was productive of some interesting softball. However, the fact now remains that the Flyers showed little mercy and tenaciously attacked Harris' deliveries in that fatal second until Coach "Ki" Kiser moved from right field onto the slab and with some timely relief hurling stemmed the tide of hits emanating from the Airmen's bats.

Flyers Score One Up

The first game of the City League finals is now history with the "Flyers" up with one win in a best-in-five series, that continues Friday when the Vets hope to have their ace hurler Johnnie Bawden, on the locals' hilltop. On the other hand Skipper Green of the Flyers was taking no chances, he removed his ace moundsman, Al Bell, in the seventh in order to save his fire-ball artist for the second game after it was practically assured the Flyers were in.

It looked like the Vets would coast in as they scored three in the initial frame, after a fast double play had relieved Harris of a difficult situation in the top half of the inning. Four walks, nine hits and two errors gave the Flyers twelve runs in the second and they added another in the third. Again they rose up in the sixth with four while hits by Cy Barriage, Ethier, Kiser and Loft gave the Vets their only hope in the eighth as Umpire Eddie Schrieder halted hostilities in the top half of the ninth on account of darkness.

One Home Run

The only home run registered was delivered from the bat of Jack Parry, starry centre fielder of the Flyers, who added a double and single in his batting prowess. Connelly had a perfect night at bat for the winners with four hits in as many turns at bat, as every member of the winners counted hits, except Weir and Green, the former being deprived of a single in the ninth when the game was called. Ethier and Whalen hit doubles for the losers, who kicked in with two fast two-ply killings to help Kiser's pitching cause.

The fielding sensations were provided by Phil Loft, who made sensational running catches of Weir's lifter in the fifth and Parry's drive into right in the seventh. Connelly's one-hand pick-up of St. Louis' drive in the fifth was the feature defensive play for the Flyers. Only two strikeouts were registered during the game, Bell whiffing Henn in the first and Loft in the second. The box score reveals the hitting strength of the clubs on the night's play.

NEWARK MAKES CLEAN SWEEP OF SERIES

Bears Take Five-Game Series From Jersey City Giant Rivals

LEAFS IN TIE

Newark Bears, in the well-founded opinions of many International League fans and scribes, are at least as good a ball club as some of those in the major leagues. That point might be argued, but there's no doubt that the Bears are one of the strongest outfits in the minors.

The proof can easily be found in the league standings. The Bears are 13 games ahead today and they got there by licking the one team that might have had a chance to pull them down — Jersey City Giants. Newark unloosed its full strength to make a clean sweep of a five-game series with its hottest rival, winding up with a doubleheader victory yesterday, 7-2 and 3-2.

Since the Bears have only 31 games to play and the Jerseys 35, that disposed pretty effectively of any threat there.

Yesterday the Bears had practically everything. They won the opener with a five-run blast in the third inning that broke a 2-2 deadlock and Tommy Byrne limited the Jerseys to three hits in the nightcap to hang up his 15th victory of the season.

Russ Derry led the first-game attack with his 17th and 18th home runs of the season, the latter coming with two mates on base in the third.

Buffalo Bisons took advantage of an off day for Syracuse to move into a fourth-place tie with the Chiefs as they whipped Rochester Red Wings 6-3. Jim Levy and Jack Welaj clouted three hits apiece to lead the Bisons' nine-hit attack.

Home runs also featured the day's third game, in which Montreal Royals and Toronto Maple Leafs battled to a 5-5 11-inning tie. Les Burge delivered his 22nd and 23rd homers of the year and Gene Moore his 8th for the Royals and Johnny Wyrostek slammed one for the Leafs. The game was called to allow both teams to catch a train.

Yanks and Dodgers Draw Nearer to Subway Series By Continuing Winning Ways

Larry French Wins as Phils Walk Home Winning Run for Brooklyn

KELLER HOMERS

Yankees Beat Red Sox as Cardinals Stay in Race With Twin Killing

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers appear determined to save themselves and the baseball fans a lot of travel by keeping the 1942 World Series within range of a five-cent subway ride.

Both teams won again yesterday, which is hardly surprising in itself.

Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia already knew about the Yankees already knew about the Yankees and the Dodgers—that is, if they can't beat you one way, they'll beat you another.

At Ebbets Field, the Dodgers went to bat in the ninth inning of a scoreless pitching duel between their ace, Lefty Larry French, and Rube Melton of the Phils. They calmly loaded the bases on two singles and a walk and sent dangerous Dolph Camilli to the plate.

Camilli, however, didn't lay a bat on the ball. He merely waited out a walk —which forced the winning run across, giving the Dodgers the verdict 1-0.

Meanwhile, over in the Bronx, the Yankees went to bat against the Red Sox with the score tied in the last half of the ninth. They also loaded the bases with one away and brought up Charlie (King Kong) Keller.

Keller pitched out a pitch he liked, slammed it 420 feet into the right-centre field bleachers for his 18th homer of the year and presented the Yankees with an 8-4 triumph.

Brooklyn's success provided French with his 12th victory against only one loss, although his four-hitter was matched by Melton, but it didn't keep St. Louis Cardinals from picking up half a game and reducing the Dodgers' lead to eight lengths.

Cards Win Two

The Cards downed Chicago Cubs in both ends of a double bill, 9-4 and 8-3. John Beazley registered his 13th pitching victory in the opener and Harry Gumbert pitched eight-hit ball as the Cards coasted through in the afterpiece on 13 blows, one a homer by Enos Slaughter.

Cincinnati Reds regained third place in the standings, with the help of Boston Braves and the shutout pitching of Johnny Vander Meer.

"Double no-hit" Johnny tossed a three-hitter at Pittsburgh Pirates in a night contest which the Reds won 3-0, with Frank McCormick hitting three singles and a double in four appearances and driving in two runs.

Earlier in the day, the Braves knocked New York Giants loose from their hold on third place by sweeping a doubleheader, 1-0 and 8-2, and bringing an end to a five-game winning streak.

In the American League, the Yankee victory gave Hank Borowy his 11th pitching success against only two defeats and stretched New York's lead to 13 games over the Red Sox. However, the Red Sox tightened their grip on second place since Cleveland Indians dropped a doubleheader to Detroit Tigers and watched their losing streak mount to six games.

Murray Franklin's two-run single led the Tigers to a 4-2 triumph in the first game and Hal Newhouser blanked the Tribe 2-0 on five hits in the second.

Elden Auker pitched St. Louis Browns to a 6-3 decision over Chicago White Sox, but he had to be rescued in the ninth when the Sox scored all their runs.

A scheduled game between Washington and Philadelhia was postponed.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE

In 1940 Rochester had three managers—Southworth, Crabtree and Kaufmann—and won a pennant. This year Rochester has had three managers—Kaufmann, Crabtree and Hayworth—and is eighth.

Boys Thought Ben White Was "Too Old to Drive", But He Won the Hambletonian

By ORLO ROBERTSON

(Associated Press Sport Writer)

Goshen, N.Y., Aug. 13 (AP)—The boys around the barns were saying that Ben White was too old to be competing against 40-and 50-year-old "youngsters," that Bill Strang's luck was all bad when it came to winning the Hambletonian.

But trainer-driver White and owner Strang, partners for some 15 years, showed them yesterday when the Ambassador won the rich trotting horse stake at Good Time Park —the third time that White has turned the trick and No. 1 for Strang.

"Maybe I'm too old," said 69-year-old Canadian-born White, who learned about horses from Pop Geers, after the Ambassador had won the purse of $20,489, "but I had a right smart horse in front of me and that can make up for a lot of years."

The Ambassador isn't the best horse White ever drove for he has had four two-minute performers in 40 years of riding a sulky. In fact the Ambassador isn't the best horse that ever won the 17-year-old stake but he was good enough to hang it on 10 rivals in the second race of his career.

When the bay son of Scotland-Margaret Arion came winging home with a length to spare in the third heat in 2:04 after taking second in 2.06 Strang realized an ambition that sent him to the Walnut Hall yearling sales year after year.

Perseverance

He paid $6,000 for His Excellency and thought he had the 1941 race sewed up only to have Bill Gallon take the big pot after Strang's horse had come through in one heat. Two years ago he bid in the Ambassador, a half-brother of His Excellency, for $6,000 but his luck looked none too good when the colt went lame and failed to start as a two-year-old.

But White, native of Whitevale, Ont., brought him around, gave him a mark of 2.07 and a fraction in his first and only other start at Old Orchard Beach, Me., and then came back after finishing fifth in the first heat yesterday.

"I guess I've spent close to $100,000 for horses," said the Brooklyn storage and trucking man who has been around horses for 40 of his 52 years. "But, though I never won the Hambletonian until today, the game doesn't owe me a cent. I've had six other Hambletonian starters and all of them finished in the money."

The victory brought revenge for Strang and White. A year ago it was Robert H. Johnston's Bill Gallon of Charlotte, N.C., that kept them out of first money. Yesterday they turned the trick for it was Johnston's Pay Up that won the first heat in 2:06, finished third in the second and in a deadheat for fourth in the third.

New York, Aug. 13 (AP)—Don't call that three-ring fight circus at the Garden tonight an "all-star" affair if you want to stay on good terms with Mike Jacobs.... Mike still remembers that famous "tournament of champions" when he didn't exactly lose his shirt but lost enough to pay for a few dozen good ones, with collars, ties and cuff links....Another war casualty is the Foxcatcher National Cup Steeplechase, American counterpart of England's Grand National.

THOSE FLYERS SHOWED little mercy once they started to connect for base knocks in a second inning that netted them just an even dozen runs in the first game of the City League softball play-offs last night. Actually that second inning uprising was all that was needed to assure the Green-led Airmen of first blood in the City finals, but they were apparently out to show Wing Commander Snetsinger, their new commanding officer, some prolific softball and convince him they should have won that provincial Air Force softball title last weekend. Last night's show was perhaps the most pitiful exhibition ever seen in a local softball final, but credit must be given to the vanquished Vets, who played the Flyers rather even, after that hectic second frame. Even Skipper Green's Flyers doffed their chapeau to Coach Kiser for his timely relief hurling, after Harris was retired in the second with twelve runs scored and none out.

ENJOYING A SUBSTANTIAL lead Skipper Green relieved Al Bell, his ace moundsman, in the seventh in an effort to save him for the second game of the series. The man on the street today will tell you it's either Johnnie Bawden or else for the Vets tomorrow night. Perhaps one of the strangest features of last night's Flyer win was the fact that Green and Weir, two of the most feared hitters on the Airmen's line-up, went hitless while their teammates made merry and collected 18 safeties, including Jack Parry's second inning circuit blow, while Connelly had a perfect night at bat with four for four. Today the Flyers are one up and can gamble, while the Vets' management is on the spot and working overtime with the medicos to have Bawden on the job in an effort to knot the series Friday.

PROVIDING FINE WEATHER continues to prevail and even if the City Softball finals go to the limit of five games there are exactly enough alternate playing dates left on the calendar to allow the series to be concluded before the provincial O.A.S.A. playdowns open. Harry Rollins, vice president of the O.A.S.A., announced today that Belleville and Trenton would open their annual Intermediate "A" play-offs here on Aug. 26th and back in Trenton for the second game on the 28th of the month. The Trenton league elected to play in the "A" series again this year after rubbing Belleville out of the softball picture rather easily in 1941. "Slugger Barney" McColl, a bane to Belleville pitching last year, Jim Steacy, their ace moundsman, and such tried and proven players as Austin and Carm Cook still go along to make up a strong softball nine. Oshawa, Peterborough and Kingston are other Intermediate "A" category teams in Eastern Ontario.

ROLLIE HEMSLEY IS LUCKIER than a number of his teammates on the 1940 ill-fated Cleveland Indians, reveals Ed McAuley of the Cleveland News, who suggests "Hemsley's story-book rescue from baseball's scrap heap is an exciting departure from the pattern of misfortune which has been etched around the careers of all but a few of the principals in Cleveland's notorious 'Vitt episode'."

"If Oscar the Exile had been able to place an effective curse on the baseball future of the men who ended his brief regime as a major league manager, he hardly could have wished them more trouble than has befallen most of them," asserts McAuley. "It is pure coincidence, of course, and Vitt himself has enjoyed something less than soul-soothing success, but it is interesting to recall what has happened since that historic morning. Of the 12 players who called on Bradley —Hal Trosky indorsed the views of his 11 mates by telephone—three are out of major league baseball. They are Trosky forced into retirement by migraine headaches; Bob Feller, now in the Navy, and Ben Chapman, managing Richmond of the Piedmont League and definitely NOT making the $15,000 which he collected for his last miserable season with Cleveland.

"Of the dozen involved directly in the appeal for a new manager, only two are with the Indians today and only two of them, Mel Hardr and Ken Keltner, are having successful seasons. Even Cy Slapnicka is gone. Slap was not involved, so far as is known, in the rebellion itself, but he made no secret of his sympathy with the players who were. The morning of June 13, 1940, started a sad succession of events for more than the citizens of Paris'".

REMEMBER WHEN THE Shamrock V nosed its way into the mouth of the Thames River at New London, Conn., for what proved Sir Thomas Lipton's last challenge for the America's Cup 12 years ago today? The United States successfully defended the trophy and still holds it. Afterwards a syndicate of Britishers made two unsuccessful tries to wrest the Cup from this side of the Atlantic, but without avail.

WID MATTHEWS, WHO once played for the Athletics and is now a scout for the St. Louis Cardinals, was forced to take some of his own philosophy at New Orleans recently. Upon his entrance to the Pelicans' Stadium the other morning to start classes for baseball-minded youths in New Orleans and surrounding cities, he was greeted by Vincent Rizzo, head usher, with a draft notice in his hand.

The boy had a long face and Wid immediately gave him a pep talk, telling him what a good thing it was to be called upon to serve his country.

Rizzo let Matthews talk on and, when he had finished, said, handing the paper to the Cardinal scout:

"Thanks for wishing me good luck! But this letter happens to be from your own draft board."

Sted Craig, popular Kingston harness horseman, dropped in the London Lunch for breakfast this morning enroute home after winning the New Hamburg Canadian Pacing Derby with his good horse Bert Patch yesterday. Sted says it was easy for the Patch horse to "breese home". Another outstanding harness horse race was held yesterday when the 69-year-old veteran driver Ben White won the famed Hambletonian Stake race at Goshen N. Y. when his trotter "The Ambassador led ten other nags around the Good Time Park oval before some 15,000 harness race lovers. Incidentally Ben White is a native of Ontario and it was his third winning of the rich Hambletonian Stakes. Colby Hanover, the champion two-year-old, was the biggest flop in the race as The Ambassador's best time was 2:04, while the Hanover colt had turned the track in 2:03 as a juvenile.

THIS AND THAT — Charlie Keller, of the Yankees, hit the jackpot yesterday when he hit a ninth inning homer with the bases loaded to give the Yankees an 8 to 4 win over the Red Sox .... Plans for an International armed service track and field meet are being prepared in Kingston ... The idea is to have a team of track and field stars from the Pine Camp, N. Y., compete against an army team at Kingston in a friendly inter-country program ... See where Satchel Paige, renowned negro pitcher, is to appear in Toronto along with his Kansas City Monarchs versus the House of David nine ...... Casey Stengel, of the Braves, says the late John McGraw "may have been tough, but he got results and won pennants" .... Yes, the Little Napoleon had no peer in baseball ... Frank Tunney wired today to say he was trying to get a suitable opponent for Pedro Martinez for a final bout here next week .... Did it ever occur to you?

Kingston Horse Wins Stake Race

New Hamburg, Ont., Aug. 13 — (CP) — From a racing standpoint the seventh annual Pacing Derby lived up to all advance notice Wednesday but only to those in the immediate circle was it expected that the veteran Bert Patch, driven by Sted Craig, Kingston, Ont., would be returned winner when the smoke of battle cleared. Each and every heat was one of those killing finishes with all horses and drivers alike doing their utmost, the drivers using all the skill at their command to land their mounts first at the wire.

P. Mountenay Is Drowned At Glen Miller

Trenton, Aug. 13 — (Special) — While attempting to swim to a raft in the Trent River near Glen Miller, Patrick Mountenay, College St., Trenton, was drowned near here late yesterday. The body was recovered sometime later, but artificial resuscitation failed to revive him. Dr. W. B. Crowe, Trenton coroner, stated an inquest would be unnecessary.

Mountenay had been fishing off the Glen Miller dam and attempted to change his position to fish off a raft some 15 feet below. Unable to reach the raft otherwise, Mountenay attempted to swim across the river fully clothed. Eyewitnesses stated he managed to reach the raft, but sank beneath it before he could pull himself aboard. Earl McEwen, 26 Division St., Trenton, and J. E. James, 417 Coxwell Ave., Toronto, were eyewitnesses and raised the alarm.

Provincial Police were notified and on the scene when the body was recovered. Gerald Anderson, of the No. 2 Hydro powerhouse nearby, attempted the artificial resuscitation.

Caucasus Battle Will Influence Length of War

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

The chances for a successful conquest of the Tulagi area of the Solomon Islands appear better than even despite probable heavy American losses, but even a complete victory in that section at this time should give rise to no wave of optimism about the progress of he war.

For great issues which hear directly upon the final outcome of the conflict are now being decided on the battlefields of Southern Russia, and from there the news is grave.

A victory in the Solomons would go on a long way toward (1) securing the approaches to Australia and its supply lines from the United States; (2) furnishing one starting point for the future general offensive in the Pacific, and (3) showing the effectiveness of American preparations to make that offensive.

Limited Objectives

At best, these are limited objectives despite the relatively great cost in men, ships and planes necessary to accomplish them. But the enemy's objectives and the Allied stakes in the Battle of the Caucasus are far-reaching, and, at worst, may decide the ability of the Russians to keep the main strength of Adolf Hitler's armies engaged until the crushing weight of British and American power can be thrown into decisive action against them.

A Russian defeat in the Caucasus probably would mean that a large part of the Red Forces would withdraw north and east of the Volga River, where their position would be almost entirely defensive, for the time being at least. The Germans, having gained a huge wealth of natural resources, would need comparatively small forces to hold the Russians behind the Volga, and the bulk of their strength could be turned in some other direction.

While none outside the German High Command can know its intentions, it seems probable that once they had occupied the Caucasus, the Nazis would turn their military might against the Middle East. They might strike at their objective either by heavily reinforcing Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's African Army in Western Egypt or by moving through the Island of Cyprus into Syria, the conquest of Cyprus being necessary to give them secure supply lines across the Eastern Mediterranean.

Half Way to Caspian

It seems obvious that if the Germans pressed these possible developments of their strategy to successful conclusions, the difficulties in the way of a final, smashing United Nations victory would be immeasurably increased, and the conclusion of the war would be indefinitely delayed.

Yesterday's news, insofar as it bears on these long-range possibilities, was not good, on the whole. Although British military men said Russia's resistance was stiffening on all fronts, Moscow despatches said German mechanised forces driving down the Rostov-Baku railway were approximately at the half-way mark between the Black Sea and the Caspian. In the terrific struggle in the Caucasian foothills, the Germans menaced the region of Pyatigorsk and the Grozny oil fields beyond. This combined with recent developments elsewhere, makes the picture rather bleak.

If the Caucasus and all that it stands for in United Nations interest is yet to be saved or even partially saved, it would seem that the Russians or their British and American allies must produce quickly resistance so effective as to fall little short of a military miracle.

Little Benny's Note Book

This morning pop was taking his 3rd cup of coffee and trying to look innocent, and ma said, William, I want you to promise me you'll be extra careful of yourself today.

Okay, I'll conduct myself as if my pockets were full of eggs, pop said. I wont let a thing happen to me. Why, what's up, are you going to have something special for dinner? he said, and ma said, I had a dream about you and I'm worried.

Oh well, try to dream a retraction tonight, and everything will be okay, pop said, and ma said, It woke me up 3 times, I mean the exact idenniced dream kept repeating itself, so that's why I'm sure it's significant. I dreamed I saw you moving along under a black cloud, and that means danger, any dream expert will tell you that, she said.

Then I wont ask any, pop said, and ma said, I'm sure something's going to happen to you. Of course it may only be some slight accident that might happen to anybody(and I certainly hope and trust that's all it is, but I want you to promise, she said.

My deer I'll watch my step like a hawk, pop said. I'll give all falling bricks a wide birth and if anybody says, "Your money or your life," I'll answer, "Cash on delivery, old chap." And above all I wont walk under any black clouds. The weather seems particularly fine today, so that ought to be fairly easy, he said, and ma said, Oh deer, if I could only be sure it will just turn out to be something trifling.

By gollies I'll fix it, pop said. I'll burn my hand on this confounded toaster that's always scorching me anyway, and then the whole thing will be over, he said.

And he put his finger right on the toaster and yelled, Owtch, horse blanket to blazes, the blame thing really got me, owtch, all the fools aren't dead yet and I'm the living proof of it, and ma said, Oh William I'm so relieved, that was terribly thoughtful of you.

And pop quick took his paper and left for his office without even leaving ma put butter on the spot.

AT THE BELLE

"The Mayor of 44th Street"

Torn between his admiring awe of a hardened criminal and gratitude toward the man who has given him a chance in life, the career of a tough young leader of a juvenile gang in midtown Manhattan provides the basis of a starkly exciting modern melodrama in RKO Radio's new film offering, "The Mayor of 44th Street".

George Murphy, for the first time, giving full rein to his fast-developing histrionic talents, plays the romantic lead in this picture teamed with Anne Shirley.

Rex Downing plays the budding gang chieftian. Other top supporting parts are enacted by William Gargan, Richard Barthelmess and Joan Merrill.

Murphy, an ex-hoofer, falls heir to a dance band booking agency which Barthelmess, as a scheming gangster, has turned into a shakedown racket. With Miss Shirley as his confidential aide, Murphy is making a legitimate success of the business, when young Downing threatens to muscle in with his predatory street gamins.

The situation is further complicated by the parole of Barthelmess, who seeks to regain control and resume his blackmailing operations. Murphy struggles to remain within the law, but when the going gets too tough, has recourse to man's elemental weapons and puts on one-man blitz that provides a breathtaking climax to a tale crowded with emotional high spots.

Freddy Martin's lulling rhythms and the glittering back-drop of night-life in Manhattan provide the accompaniment to battering fists and the head-on clash of primeval passions let loose.

"Nazi Agent" Stirring

Two characters in the person of one man are astonishing audiences at the Belle Theatre, where Conrad Veidt is providing another of his cinematic surprises in "Nazi Agent". In this picture he plays a dual role as twin brothers; one a gentle, kindly man, the other a ruthless leader of a sabotage ring in a great city. So utterly dissimilar are the characters that it is difficult to believe them to be the same man.

The story deals with a sabotage leader who enmeshes his kindly brother in his plots. There is a quarrel in which one brother accidentally shoots the other, and on the saboteur's death his brother takes on his identity, to carry out a masquerade that breaks up the ring.

The romance is between Veidt as the masquerading brother and Ann Ayars, new Hollywood glamour discovery, who plays a girl enmeshed in the spy plot, and who alone realizes the good character behind the masquerade.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Fast and Loose"

Attention—all cars! ... Attention, all cars! ...Go at once to the Capitol theatre! Nicholas Torrent, the wealthy book collector has been murdered. But that isn't all .... When you get there find a seat if you can and see the most exciting murder mystery that ever raced before your baffled eyes, "Fast and Loose," which again brings together that delightful starring team, Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell.

Montgomery is the fun-loving book dealer whose curiosity involves him in the most bewildering crimes and Miss Russell is his charming wife and co-worker. The supporting cast is one of the finest ever assembled for a mystery comedy thriller. In it are Reginald Owen.... Ralph Morgan... Etienne Girdot... Alan Dinehart...Jo Ann Sayers... Joan Marsh and a host of other excellent supporting players.

"Three Mesquiteers"

"Gauchos of Eldorado," a Three Mesquiteers action drama now showing at the Capitol theatre, is the latest issue in a western series which has enjoyed a longer continuation than that of any other in film history. The series, which presents Tom Tyler, Bob Steele and Rufe Davis in the title roles, was first begun in 1935.

New Serial

Local serial enthusiasts who witness each of the twelve episodes of Republic's "Spy Smasher," showing every Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Capitol theatre, will have witnessed the equivalent of four feature-length motion pictures.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Eagle Squadron"

"Eagle Squadron" currently playing at the McCarthy theatre is the first picture produced for Universal by Walter Wanger, who has been a leading figure in the entertainment world more than two decados.

Producer Wanger spent two years preparing and filming "Eagle Squadron," which tells in authentic detail the story of American fighter pilots in the Royal Air Force. Robert Stack, Diana Barrymore and Jon Hall head a long cast in the picture.

Long known as one of the industry's most progressive producers, Wanger has made such notable pictures as "Foreign Correspondent," "The Long Voyage Home" "Private World's", "Trail of the Lonesome Pine," "Gabriel Over the White House" and others.

Achievements Recalled

Wanger started his career with amateur theatricals at Oxford college, which he attended in England, and at Dartmouth. After graduating, Wanger began producing plays on the New York stage, but his promising career was interrupted by the first World War. He served with the army air corps and was stationed in Italy with a squadron commanded by Fiorello H. LaGuardia, now mayor of New York.

After the war, Wanger became general manager of Paramount studios. He always has concentrated on the development of stars, and those he has helped to prominence include Claudette Colbert, Kay Francis, Miriam Hopkins, the Marx Brothers and Charles Boyer.

Diana Barrymore is the first player signed by Wanger since becoming a producer for Universal, and she is making her screen debut in "Eagle Squadron."

Feels Better Now Than In Years Since Using Syntona

Has High Praise For Herbal Compound. Says It Relieved Stomach Troubles, Constipation, Dizzy Spells and Rheumatic Pain.

"It is a good many years since I had been able to enjoy my meals like I do now, without having a lot of stomach suffering afterwards . . . and that is only one of the several good results I've had from using Syntona," said Mr. Charles P. Mills, 524 Egerton Street, a well-known London, Ontario resident.

"Because of bad digestion, poor kidney action and constipation my entire system had become rundown. Food seemed to ferment soon after reaching my stomach. This brought on gas, bloating and belching up of hot, sour liquids. Whenever I stooped over I'd have a feeling of dizziness with little black spots darting before my eyes. My nerves became so bad that I couldn't get restful sleep at night and in the morning I felt tired and worn-out. My limbs and muscles ached all over and my back felt lame.

"It wasn't long after I began taking Syntona that I noticed a big improvement in the way I felt. Now I am so much better that, for the first time in years, my food digests without any sign of gas, sourness or acid-risings. My bowels are moving smoothly and regularly. I've had no dizziness or spots before my eyes since. The aching and lameness have gone out of my limbs, joints and back and best of all, I am getting restful sleep at night with the result that I feel better in every way than I have for years. I really can recommend Syntona highly and think it is a great medicine."

MR. CHARLES F. MILLS

All around us are grateful men and women, who, like Mr. Mills, have obtained good results by taking Syntona. This medicine is made from 12 of the finest Herbs, Roots and Barks. It acts on stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels, aids in the elimination of poisonous waste matter and promotes better assimilation of food for increased strength and energy.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST.

Obituary

MRS. J. ERNEST LANG.

Mrs. J. Ernest Lang died at noon this Thursday at the family residence, 90 Catharine Street, after an illness which commenced one year ago to day.

To many citizens and to a host of personal friends the death of Mrs. Lang has brought deep regret. Possessing a pleasing personality and a happy disposition, she was popular with old and young and in their regard she held a high place. Being in her 57th. year, Mrs. Lang, formerly Hilda Bell, was born in Belleville and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bell, and granddaughter of the late Dr. James T. Bell, at one time a professor at Albert College. All her life was passed in Belleville and in the support of many good causes she gave her time and ability. For twelve years she was the efficient treasurer of the St. Julien Chapter of the Imperial Daughters of the Empire, and in charitable work she was of great assistance to many when a word of cheer and tangible assistance was much needed. In war work she also gave valued assistance until illness overtook her.

In religion Mrs. Lang was a faithful member of the Church of England and for thirty-three years she was a popular and highly valued member of the choir at Christ Church. For the past five years she was a member of St. Thomas Parish and a loyal and valued member of the choir. For a long time to come Mrs. Lang will be affectionately remembered by friends who will recall days of happy association with her.

Surviving to mourn her loss are her husband, Mr. J. Ernest Lang, Assistant Postmaster; two sons, Mr. J. Franklin Lang, and Mr. Eugene Lang, both of Belleville; one sister, Mrs. Lillian Kerr, Western Alberta, and one brother, Mr. Bert Bell, Belleville.

Resting at the Martin Funeral Home; the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

One of Greatest Sea And Air Battles Costs Britain Loss of Cruiser Manchester

AXIS LOSSES

LONDON, Aug. 14 — (CP) —One of the greatest sea and air battles of the Mediterranean has cost Britain the cruiser Manchester and the aircraft carrier Eagle, but resulted in delivery of reinforcements and new planes for Malta and saw Italy's cruisers again turn tail and run, the Admiralty announced today.

Known Axis losses included two submarines sunk and two cruisers hit by torpedoes, said the Admiralty's communique which today gave the first official Allied account of the battle which had been in progress since Tuesday.

The Admiralty intimated that the convoy might have suffered further losses or damage, saying. "It is not to be expected that extensive and dangerous operations of this type, carried out in close proximity to enemy bases, can be completed without loss."

Axis Claims Exaggerated

It declared, however, that published Axis claims were known to be exaggerated.

Combined German and Italian claims included: sunk, three cruisers, two destroyers, 21 merchant ships and the aircraft carrier Eagle; damaged, one battleship, two aircraft carriers, including the British aircraft carrier Furious and the United States aircraft carrier Wasp, and "numerous other steamships and men-of-war."

Originally, however, the Germans had claimed only 21 merchant ships were in the entire convoy.

With the exception of the Eagle, and Manchester, there has been no confirmation of these Axis claims from any source.

The Manchester was a 9,400-ton cruiser, completed Aug. 4, 1938. Her peacetime complement was 700 men. Besides 12 six-inch guns she carried three planes. The Admiralty disclosed that many of her crew were rescued and others may have reached French Tunisia, near where she went down.

Ottawa, Aug. 14 (CP).—A British Broadcasting Corporation broadcast picked up in Ottawa by The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation listening post here today said that in the air and naval battle in the Mediterranean in which the British cruiser Manchester was sunk, axis cruisers which approached the fringes of the battle were attacked, apparently by British subs.

Army Cadets End 154-Mile Route March

Brockville, Ont., Aug. 14—(CP)—A party of 50 cadets lead by Lt.-Col. G. Francoeur and two officers marched into the Officers' Training Camp here today after a 154 mile route march from St. Jerome, Que. The march started at noon last Saturday.

The men showed no sign of fatigue on arrival, and were lustily singing a parody on Tipperary — It's a Long Way to Brockville.

During the march 44 to 35 miles were covered daily. On two days, assigned to march 33 and 35 miles respectively, they rode half the allotted distance in trucks. Rain was experienced every night but one.

Various tactical schemes and war games were participated in during the march. The party was greeted at the camp by Col. M. F. Gregg, V. C., Officer Commanding the O. T.C.

Publishers Protest Cut in Zinc

Washington, Aug. 14 (CP).—The War Production Board has received "a great many protests" from publishers, it reported today, against an order which will cut in half the amount of zinc used for pictures in newspapers, magazines and other publications. The order is effective Sept. 1.

A meeting of senior W.P.B. officials took up the question at a meeting yesterday, but no decision was announced.

Yank Air Hero Dies With R.A.F.

London, Aug. 14 —(CP— Alex (Scotty) Cooke, 33, Hollywood, Calif., the last of a gallant band of 19 Americans who paid their way to England early in the war to fight with the R.A.F., died yesterday in a Cambridge hospital after 11 agonizing months.

His back was broken in three places when his bomber was badly damaged after a raid on Frankfurt, Germany, last fall. Scotty, who had held the most dangerous job in a bomber—that of rear gunner—had clung to the hope that he would recover to fight under his native colors.

Brig.-Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had written him offering him a place in the American army, a note that sustained him for some time longer.

"You bet I'm going to join—somehow," he had said after getting the general's letter.

Ottawa, Aug. 14 (CP) — Income tax officials gave assurance today that income taxation will not be permitted to reduce the earnings of a married man below $1,200 a year, even though the official tables showing compulsory tax reductions at the source show deductions for men earning only $100 a month.

For married men earning from $100 to $102.49 a month, the listed deductions are 60 cents if there is no dependent or one dependent and $1.06 if there are two dependents. In each case the refundable or savings portion of the tax is the full amount of the deduction.

Men with 2 dependents pay more because they have less credits for National Defence Tax paid between Jan. 1 and Sept. 1 when the compulsory deductions at source begin.

Officials explained that the calculations in the table for married men earning $100 to $102.49 a month were based on an income of $102.49 a month. They said this was done with a view to collecting tax which might be payable above the $100-a-month level.

But they added that in no case would the government expect compulsory deductions to be made when those deductions would reduce a married man's earnings below $100 monthly, or $1,200 a year.

INDIAN TERRORISM DIES DOWN BUT BOYCOTT APPEARS

Rice and Wheat Markets Remain Open But Volume of Sales Much Reduced

MILLS RE-OPENING

By PRESTON GROVER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Bombay, India, Aug. 14 (AP)—Evidence of a quiet but troublesome boycott, by the All-India Congress in its campaign for independence appeared today as rioting and terrorism died down throughout the disturbed country.

Bombay cotton mills where work was interrupted by strikes at the start of Gandhi's campaign were reported working with larger shifts.

Evidence of a boycott was most pronounced in such commodity markets as rice and wheat. The markets remained open, but actual buying and selling was markedly reduced.

Such Congress leaders as remained out of jail predicted that workers leaving the riot-troubled cities would soon spread the mass non-co-operation movement in the villages.

Order prevailed in Bombay, but there were outbreaks on the other side of the Indian Peninsula in the Madras area. Four persons were killed there in an attack on a railway station in which several passenger cars were burned after travellers had been evicted. Some telephone and telegraph lines were pulled down.

Papers Suggest Negotiations

Some Indians and some newspapers such as the Bombay Chronicle suggested that the time had come for the government to consent to negotiate a settlement, but there was not the slightest indication of such a move in the capital of New Delhi.

Reports continued to come in of casualty totals from outbreaks in scattered sections earlier this week. An official compilation from old Delhi said 40 persons had been killed and 55 injured in disturbances there between Tuesday and this morning.

One by one, mills and factories were reported re-opening in Bombay which had been the scene of the most turbulent outbreaks since Sunday.

Bombay Quiet

Even in the most-feared evening hours yesterday Bombay remained relatively quiet and there were no reports of casualties. New Delhi, another trouble centre, also was reported quiet but tense.

With armed British security forces still patrolling and police and troops acting swiftly and firmly, however, there was some sporadic street fighting and vandalism elsewhere.

At Dacca, one person was killed and several were injured, including policemen, when guards opened fire to protect a Judge trying to save records from a crowd attempting to set them on fire in a raid on a court.

Some post offices were raided and some property was destroyed at Lucknow where business still was partly closed down.

LABOR MINISTER'S SPEAK

Ottawa, Aug. 14 (CP)—Members of the National and Regional War Labor Boards at a joint meeting today were addressed by Labor Minister Mitchell, Finance Minister Ilsley and Donald Gordon, Chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Discussion at the meeting centred largely about administration and interpretation of labor legislation.

U.S. Navy Takes Over Strike Plant, Workers Vote to Return to Work

Bayonne, N.J., Aug. 14 (AP)—The United States navy today seized the strike-bound Bayonne plant of the General Cable Corporation and announced it would reopen the factory this afternoon.

"Any interference with the operation of this plant is an offence against the United States," said the notice of seizure posted by Rear-Admiral Harold G. Bowen.

A navy spokesman said, however, there were no present intentions of bringing in sailors or soldiers to enforce the order because compliance appeared a foregone conclusion.

A short time after the navy took over 800 strikers voted unanimously to end the unauthorized strike and return to work at 4 p.m.

Michael Petrakian, strike chairman, said the workers would return under the same conditions that prevailed before the strike was called Monday midnight.

Allied Bombers Blast Jap Ships at N. Guinea

(By MURLIN SPENCER)
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Allied Headquarters, Australia, Aug. 14. (AP)—The battle of the Solomon Islands exploded over a broadening area of the South Seas today with Allied bombers blasting away at Japanese warships and transports apparently trying to reinforce garrisons hurled out of three coastal areas by United States marines.

Allied Flying Fortresses and medium bombers caught the enemy vessels in New Guinea waters, west of the Solomons, yesterday and drove home three separate attacks, a headquarters communique reported. Bad weather prevented the pilots from observing the full extent of the damage.

News of the land fighting still was meagre as the battle of the Solomons entered its second week, and a United States navy communique said only that operations were continuing.

There was every indication nevertheless that this first Allied offensive of the war now had grown into a clash of major proportions and one which might alter the course of the Pacific struggle.

Some See Indications of Impending General Election in Ontario Says Dispatch to Toronto Star

Toronto, Aug. 14 —(CP)— The Toronto Star said today in a dispatch from Niagara Falls, Ont., that "indications of an impending general election in Ontario were seen by political observers here with the announcement that Premier Hepburn (of Ontario) would make speeches at Sault Ste. Marie, Port Arthur and Fort William late next week.

"They follow appearances of the premier at a number of both formal and informal gatherings in recent weeks."

The Star said that "today, Mr. Hepburn for the first time in many months did not deny Ontario's electorate might go to the polls soon" and quoted him as saying in an interview:—

"Personally I see no general demand at this time for an election. But, if such evidence was available, I would not hesitate a minute in asking the people to pass judgment on the record of my government."

The Star said several members of the cabinet and many government members favor an immediate election "fearing the growing strength of the C.C.F. and the antipathy of voters to a government which prolongs its own life."

With reference to the six vacant seats in the Ontario Legislature, the Star quoted the premier as saying:—

"I would certainly not consider holding by-elections to fill these vacant seats. If we are going to have the expense and turmoil of elections at all, we might as well have a general election and be done with it."

F.D.R. REAFFIRMS HIS FAITH IN ATLANTIC CHARTER

Sends Message to Churchill on First Anniversary of Historic Meeting in the Atlantic

FREEDOM JEOPARDIZED

Washington, Aug. 14 — (AP) — On the first anniversary of the signing of the Atlantic Charter, President Roosevelt reaffirmed today his faith in its eight cardinal principles as the basis for a better and happier world "when victory comes."

The President and Prime Minister Churchill penned their names on the historic declaration at a secret meeting at sea one year ago today, when the United States still watched the war from the sidelines. Since then, all the United Nations have accepted its enunciation of post-war aims as a foundation upon which a permanent peace must rest.

"When victory comes," Mr. Roosevelt said in a message to Mr. Churchill today, "we shall stand shoulder to shoulder in seeking to nourish the great ideals for which we fight. It is a worthwhile battle. It will be so recognized through all the ages, even amid the unfortunate peoples who follow false gods today.

"We reaffirm our principles. They will bring us to a happier world."

"Freedom and independence are today in jeopardy — the world over. If the forces of conquest are not successfully resisted and defeated there will be no freedom and no independence and no opportunity for freedom for any nation.

Guelph Police Chief Heads Association

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 14 (CP)—Chief Harold Nash of Guelph, Ont., was elected President of the Police Association of Ontario at the closing session of the annual convention here today.

Presumably for transmission to the heads of the United Nations, the State Department sent the text of the President's message to American diplomats accredited to their governments.

CANADIAN AIRMEN DESCRIBE HITS ON AXIS CONVOY

Squadron Leader Bean Flew So Low That He Was Below Level of Deck of Ships Attacked

STRIKE BY MOONLIGHT

By LOUIS HUNTER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

With the R.C.A.F. Somewhere in England, Aug. 14 (CP).—Torpedo hits on two ships in a strongly protected axis convoy off the enemy coast were reported by a Canadian torpedo-bomber squadron after a moonlight attack that was described as a "considerable success".

The attack was led by Sqdn. Ldr. W. W. Bean of Kitchener. Ont., who flew so low that at one time he was below the level of the deck of the ship into which he tossed his torpedo. Flt. Lt. A. Gus Hobbs of Calgary was also sure a torpedo he fired found its mark in an enemy vessel.

Bean, a flight commander, said the convoy was clearly visible in the moonpath.

Little Opposition.

"We stooged around for some time sizing up the situation and waiting for our time to attack." he said. "When we got a ship in a position favorable for our method of striking we came down low and made our run. Apparently the hun didn't see us coming for we met little opposition coming in. There was a flash when the torpedo hit.

"After dropping our 'torp', I put the aircraft down to about five or ten feet above the water. We attacked at right angles to the convoy's line and after making our attack we swung through the convoy between the ships. We were so close that the gunners could clearly see the bridge. We were below deck level at one time."

After the aircraft turned away the flak came out in a steady stream, converging in the water just ahead of the Canadian bomber. Bean took evasive action and got out without being hit.

Flying Officer Norman Hill of Winnipeg, navigator, Pilot Officer Tom Chessel of Collingwood, Ont., and Sgt. Tony Cornish of Vancouver were flying with Bean.

NAZIS THREATEN TO SLAY HOSTAGES IN REPRISAL

Netherlands Gov't. Sources Fear 'Terrible Slaughter' May Result

OTHER THREATS

London, Aug. 14 (CP). — Nazi broadcasts repeated today threats of death as reprisal against Netherlands hostages unless railway saboteurs in the occupied Netherlands surrendered by midnight tonight and fear was expressed by Netherlands government sources here that a "terrible slaughter" is impending.

(Tass, Soviet news agency, reported from Geneva last night that Hermann Goering had ordered German agents in occupied countries to wage "a resolute and merciless struggle against all attempts at revolt.")

The Germans were said to hold 1,800 hostages.

Even as the deadline drew near there were new reports of continued sabotage. The Germans announced that four persons were arrested in an attempt to blow up a Nazi-controlled radio station.

A Reuters dispatch from Stockholm said Gen. Friedrich Christiansen, Nazi commander in the Netherlands, declared that explosives found on those arrested were of "foreign origin". He was quoted as threatening reprisals against hostages throughout the district.

None of the Nazi broadcasts heard here specified the number of hostages whose lives would be fortified if the saboteurs who wrecked a Netherlands train a week ago failed to surrender.

An undisclosed number of German troops were killed in the wreck.

A Netherlands spokesman expressed the fear that the number of hostages condemned might be increased as a result of the latest attempt against the radio station, but added: "We at least see that the people are not broken in spirit."

The nationality of the persons said to have attempted to wreck the radio station was not disclosed by the Germans.

Meanwhile the Norwegian government in London said it had been unable to learn yet what punishment if any had been inflicted on some 900 men, women and children who were arrested in Oslo Aug. 3 for wearing flowers to commemorate the birthday of King Haakon of Norway.

These sources quoted reports coming through Stockholm that Maj. Vidkun Quisling's Norwegian gestapo regarded it as a "dangerous demonstration" and sought to avert it by forcing flower shops to close.

Reprisals In Yugoslavia.

There were new reports of axis reprisals and threats in old Yugoslavia.

Roundabout reports to Reuters said the Italians who "blasted the little Yugoslav village of Ravnik out of the ground" because of patriot activity posted notices threatening death to any residents of neighboring villages who gave shelter to the homeless.

Cigaret Lighter Serves as Beacon For Rescue of 10 Airmen From Jungle

New York, Aug. 14 (AP). — A soldier correspondent's diary told today how a cigaret lighter, which hasn't worked since, served as a beacon to signal a once-a-month river boat to the rescue of ten United States army men who fought death for eleven days after their bomber made a forced belly-landing in a South American jungle.

The diary of their desperate trek through the jungle in an effort to get back to civilization was written by Sgt. Ed Cunningham, army newspaper man who was with the nine crewmen when their B-24 bomber was forced down on a stormy flight.

Cunningham's story appears today in Yank, new United States army newspaper.

The ten made the journey safely back to an army air force base July 24 after taking off from a port in the Caribbean July 13.

Excerpts, from Cunningham's diary from July 15 on show some of the obstacles the lost group surmounted:

July 15—We have decided to take a chance on slashing our way through the jungle.

July 16—Our safari starts at 8 a.m. We destroy the secret radio equipment and all secret papers.

The going gets tougher, the underbrush more dense. At each stop, Hazel (Pte. Melton Hazel of Saugus, Miss.) reads from the Bible. . . . At first we joke about it a little and kid hom. . . . Later on, we quit kid him. . . . Later on, we quit and all of us get a certain satisfaction from Hazel's Bible reading.

July 17—Down to one meal a day. Six days now since we had a decent meal.

July 18—Now the water is deep enough to launch our rafts. It is treacherous going. . . .

July 19—The stream widens. We pass a few scattered huts. We want to buy their pigs, but are afraid of trichindosis. We compromise on a couple of dozen oranges and take off again.

6 Transport Planes With Nazi Troops Are Shot Down

Reds Hold Stoutly Stalingrad Front—Russians Fall Back In Caucasus Area

FIGHT ON MAIKOP FRONT

(By EDDY GILMORE)
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Moscow, Aug. 14. (AP) —The Red Army held stoutly on the approaches to Stalingrad today and claimed impressive successes northwest of Moscow but the Soviet Information Bureau acknowledged that Russian troops in the Caucasus had fallen back before Nazi columns driving toward the Black Sea port of Novorossisk and the Grozny oil fields.

The Bureau's noon communique reported that Russian artillery, pounding away at steadily-attacking German forces on the flanks of the Stalingrad front, had knocked out more than 100 enemy tanks, 35 armored cars and 350 trucks.

All the enemy assaults were repulsed with heavy losses. Two complete German companies were wiped out in one attack and 600 men were killed in another, the bulletin declared.

Unofficial advices, however, reported later the Germans actually had broken through and reached the Don south of Kletskaya, 75 miles northwest of Stalingrad, only to be hurled back by a furious Russian counter attack.

The futile break-through, these advices said, was accomplished by massing great numbers of tanks on a narrow sector. The Red Army's counter attack was said to have separated the tanks from following foot troops, who were mopped up by Russian infantry.

(The German-controlled Paris radio reported that part of Stalingrad was in flames after intensive Nazi air attacks.)

Second Death Reported Among Passenger List

Algiers, Algeria, Aug. 14. (AP)—A second victim of an attack upon an air France seaplane over the Mediterranean died last night and Vichy authorities charged responsibility to R.A.F. planes engaged in the big convoy battle yesterday.

A young girl passenger whose mother was killed in the machine-gunning of the regular Marseille-Algiers seaplane died during the night. Six other persons were wounded, four of them gravely.

Vichy authorities claimed four British Hurricanes pursued the French craft which was hit by more than 100 machine-gun bullets.

(Comment on the Vichy charges was not immediately available in London.)

SURVIVORS LAND AT BRITISH PORT

Survivors of Ships Sunk in Attack by Pack of Enemy Submarines on Convoy Say Some U-Boats Lost

London, Aug. 14 (CP).—American and British survivors of ships sunk "in an intense attack by a large pack of submarines on an Atlantic convoy" were landed yesterday at a British port, the News Chronicle said today.

"Losses were suffered," the survivors were quoted as saying, "but the Germans are known to have lost some U-boats."

One survivor was reported to be Capt. T. H. Sunningham of Reno, Nev.

"Our convoy suffered heavily but the action was by no means one-sided," Sunningham was quoted by the newspaper as saying.

The paper quoted William Hall of Preston, Ont., engineer, as saying: "I saw several ships hit and then my own was struck. Torpedoes were criss-crossing from all directions but our escorts did magnificent work and the U-boats paid dearly for the hits they scored."

The Chronicle concluded: "Corvettes which picked up the survivors had a hard job squeezing them into their confined space and feeding them. One Canadian corvette had so many survivors aboard sleep had to be taken in rotation and water had to be rationed."

Autopsy Ordered To Learn Cause Of Dodge's Death

Detroit, Aug. 14.—(AP)— John Duval Dodge, 43-year-old son of the late millionaire-automobile maker, John F. Dodge, suffered a skull fracture at some time prior to his death in a hospital here last night, Coroner Edmund J. Knobloch said today.

Dr. Knobloch emerged from an autopsy to make the bare announcement, then returned to the post-mortem room.

Police Inspector John O. Whitman ordered the autopsy to aid in his investigation as to whether the injuries that caused Dodge's death were received during a domestic quarrel or in a scuffle at a precinct police station after he had been arrested Wednesday morning.

"Our investigation entirely depends upon the findings of the post-mortem", Whitman said. "We had hoped to question Dodge as to the scuffle that took place between himself and his wife".

Prosecutor William Dowling said Mrs. Dodge told him she suffered a split lip when Dodge struck her during a quarrel, in the home of a friend, Howard E. Lange, while Lange was absent. Police found Dodge alone in the home, while they were investigating a report of a prowler at the address, and took him to a station for questioning concerning his presence there.

Never Regained Consciousness

Dodge collapsed while awaiting questioning, and was removed to receiving hospital. He died last night more than forty hours after his arrest, without regaining consciousness.

TWO GIRLS IN COUPE HAVE NARROW ESCAPE AS TRAIN HITS CAR

Frankford, (Special.)—A coupe car driven by Miss Stella Cox of Stockdale, was hit by a north-bound C.N.R. train at the Mill Street crossing in Frankford, at about one in the afternoon on Wednesday. Miss Westlake of Stockdale was also a passenger in the car but fortunately both girls escaped without injury. The train had been placing cars at the Canadian Canners factory and for that reason was travelling very slowly approaching the station, otherwise the accident would have been much more serious than it was. The girls were travelling west at the time and the left side of the car was damaged, the running board being crushed and the back of the car dented. The tires and windows of the car were entirely unhurt. The vehicle was carried approximately fourteen feet by the impact. Miss Cox was able to move the car off of the tracks under its own power and proceed on her journey. With only about fifteen or twenty minutes delay the train continued on its way.

When the department arrived on the scene, however, company employees had been successful in extinguishing the blaze. The other alarm was for a grass fire at the corner of Coleman and Harriet Streets. No damage was reported by firemen.

On —one side of the paper is inscribed, "To the Finder,—All kind thoughts and best wishes from England. (There'll Always be an England)." The sender's name and address, Miss A. Pallard, 2 Belfield Road, Accrington, Lancs, England.

Quinteside Kennels Win at Peel Show

Quinteside Cairn Terriers were well at the fore again Saturday at the Peel County Kennel Club show held on the Cluff Estate, near Caledon. This is a real beauty spot and ideal for such purposes. The dogs were benched in large marquees on the broad lawn below the home while the judging rings were roped off close to the lovely artificial lakes.

Mr. Parks' imported dog (Blencathra Brandysnap) was successful in carrying off top honors in male Cairns, winning the open class, winners class and thereby gaining the remaining points necessary to make him a Canadian champion.

Quinteside Black Tulip was placed first in the limit female class, while her son ("Rossie") was first in male puppy class and third in Canadian bred and her daughter "Lady Shirley" was second in puppy class (female).

In practically all the dog shows staged since the outbreak of the war, prize money has been greatly reduced or eliminated, and all the proceeds contributed to some organization engaged in war work of some kind. In this case the proceeds were in aid of the Canadian Red Cross. The dog breeders of this country are doing much in this quiet, indirect way to assist the many worthy causes looking after our service men.

He leaves today for Saint John, N.B.

Rubber and Iron Salvage Top List in Materials Wanted

Collection of salvage materials from the various areas in the city each Monday continues to be satisfactory despite the fact that the collectors are now on their second round of the city and many of the householders are away on their annual vacations, it was reported this morning by Mr. Clarence Clapp, chairman of the city salvage committee.

City firemen volunteer their services to assist in the collection one day each week with a truck from the public works department being used to transport the salvage to dealers who purchase loads at a straight rate of $10 per ton.

The demand for rubber still continues to top the list in materials wanted for salvage and Mr. Clapp urges all householders to make a thorough search of their premises from the basement to the attic and from the front verandah to the back porch for any unused article that might have a rubber content.

Scrap paper is also welcomed by the salvage collector. This is a material that accumulates around every household with consistent regularity. Almost every family takes a daily paper, or maybe two, a weekly, and one or two magazines. Over the course of a month this material, if saved, makes a tidy bundle for the salvage collector on his regular call. A considerable amount of paper finds its way into garbage and ends up on the city dump. This saved for the salvage collector would assist the country's war effort and cause no inconvenience for the householder.

And then there are always old and broken articles of iron or steel, or other metals, lying around the average household, or in father's garage. The salvage committee urges that this material be collected to assist in the war effort.

CIGARETTE

Farther downstream we meet two young native boys in canoes. They lead the way three miles downstream, and there is the river.

Just as we are beginning to eat, a couple of canoe-loads of natives come up. They bring us oranges, coffee, corn meal, sugar and a slab of pork.

July 21 — Paddling from dawn till dusk. . . . It's tough. Your stomach gets knots in it. Your head gets light.

We tie the rafts together and drift. We are too tired to row farther.

About midnight, Ravey sings out, yelling about a steamboat round the bend We yell back for him to shut up.

But he's right.

We shout, but the noise of water and the steamboat's motors drown out our voices. We search frantically for the flashlight. It's lost somewhere on the floor.

Lewis pulls out his cigaret lighter. What a flimsy device for rescue! But it works. It responds to the first snap, and bursts into a flicker that is like a beacon in the dark jungle.

We are picked up by a boat that makes the run only once a month.

And Lewis' cigaret lighter hasn't worked since.

POW-WOW ON A SOUTH SEA ISLAND

On a special mission in the Pacific area, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, famed explorer, is shown, RIGHT, chatting with an officer of the U. S. marine corps on an unnamed south sea island. The marines today are really putting the south sea isles on the map. They are reported to have landed and established working bridgeheads on three Japanese-held islands in the Solomon group.

SIX TRANSPORT

Russians Capture Unidentified Place

Northwest of Moscow the Russians said they had slain 3,000 Germans in two days of fierce fighting during which they captured an unidentified place which the Nazis had held for more than a year.

Red Star, Soviet Army Organ, said the Germans had counter-attacked eleven times in an unsuccessful attempt to recapture the point, situated on the shore of a lake (Perhaps Lake Ilmen).

The same source reported that the 7th Dutch Volunteer Legion, composed mostly of Dutch Nazis, had made its appearanc on the Leningrad front further to the north-west. The unit was fighting in June on the Volkhov front and then numbered about 4,000 men, but now totals barely 1,900, Red Star said.

Two hundred miles southwest of the capital in the Bryansk sector, dispatches from the front said,—"The Russians struck out with fresh forays, smashing into the Germans with tanks and infantry and forcing them to retire under a smoke screen after abandoning 56 firing points.

Germans Try to Meet Russ Offensive Threat

Indications that the Germans were trying to reinforce their positions northwest of Moscow by air port to meet the sudden Russian offensive threat were seen in the reports that Soviet fliers had attacked a fleet of twenty big German transport planes scored by three fighters, bringing down six.

In the Caucasus, German troops driving down the Rostov-Baku railway toward the Caspian Sea were within 140 miles of the Grozny oil fields after a swift 50-mile advance from Cherkessk.

The noon-day communique also disclosed that another Nazi column aimed at Novorossisk had cracked Russian positions at one point near Krasnodar, some 65 miles from the Black Sea coast, forcing Soviet troops to fall back to a new line of defence.

The information bureau said the Russians had retreated only under heavy pressure by superior numbers after throwing back attack after attack. Once, it declared, large Nazi infantry and tank forces pierced the Soviet lines and wedged deeply into the defences but were thrown back after desperate fighting.

More Than 300 Nazis Slain

More than 300 Nazis were reported slain in this engagement.

Heavy fighting also was reported continuing in the Maikop oil fields south of Krasnodar, where a Nazi spearhead is pointed at the Black Sea port of Tuapse.

The German column thrusting toward Grpzy was reported last night to have reached Mineralye Vody, only 24 hours after breaking through the Soviet defences at Cherkessk.

While the mid-day communique referred to continued fighting around Mineralnye Vody, indicating there had been no marked change in the lines there over night, the Russians said they were greatly outnumbered and the situation appeared grave.

Mineralnye Vody is less than 175 air line miles from the Caspian Sea, although the distance to the coast via the railway passing through Grozny is nearer 225 miles.

Forty miles south of Mineralnye Vody lies the railway junction of Prokhladnaya, whence a spur line branching off to the southeast leads to Ordzhonikidze, a city of some 113,000.

The midnight communique indicated German attempts to push beyond Krasnodar were being frustrated, reporting the Nazis lost more than 3,000 men and 70 tanks in futile assaults upon the Soviet lines.

Russian artillery was credited with destroying two bridges which the enemy succeeded in throwing across an important river on their line of advance (presumably the Kuban).

Heavy fighting also was reported on the approaches to Stalingrad in the Don river elbow, where the Russians said yesterday the Germans were massing vast numbers of men in apparent preparation for a new offensive against the stubbornly-defended industrial centre on the Volga.

At Kletskaya, 75 miles northwest of Stalingrad the Russians said their troops were greatly outnumbered but were holding their own. Near Kotelnikovski, 95 miles southwest of Stalingrad, they said Soviet counter attacks had driven the Germans back at one point.

On the upper Don Russian troops were reported to have routed a German infantry division and captured a populated place.

The Russians also announced gains in the Bryansk sector, 220 miles southwest of Moscow, where they said they had crossed a river and driven the Germans from several localities, and northwest of Moscow, where they reported they had occupied a town the Nazis had held for more than a year.

The Red army was credited with sinking an enemy submarine in the Gulf of Finland and three transports totalling 20,000 tons in the Barents Sea.

U. S. Pilot Killed In Crash of Plane In Georgian Bay

Midland, Ont., Aug. 14 — (CP) —Royal Canadian Air Force officials said today a United States pilot was the only man killed in the crash of a plane four miles northeast of here in Georgian Bay yesterday. Identity of the airman could not be revealed, pending notification of next of kin.

Fishermen were said to have seen the plane stunting and flying low before the crash, but R. C. A. F. officials said the pilot was not stunting, but doing regular flying sequences. Cause of the crash in unknown.

Only trace of the crash was an air force cap picked up by Toronto fishermen, oil traces on the water enabled location of the plane in 30 feet of water.

These Islanders Take No Chances With Anyone

Lunenburg, N. S., Aug. 14—(CP) —Tancook Islanders don't take chances with anyone who might be an Axis saboteur landing on their Mahon Bay island. A party of Norwegians from the military camp here found that out the other day.

While cruising in a sailboat, the party landed on Tancook, and to their surprise they were rounded up and made prisoners. Royal Canadian Mounted Police were notified, and the men were taken back to Lunenburg and released when their identity was established.

Bounty To Be Paid Only When Bears Killed in Defence of Person or Preservation of Livestock or Property

The bounty on bears, killed in this county under the new Provincial Government regulations, will only be available when such bears are killed either in defence of a person or the preservation of livestock or property, Game Warden Herb McCabe announced today. The period in which the bear bounty is effective will be from Aug. 1st to Nov. 30th, 1942 and only police magistrates, Game and Fishery officials or a Justice of the Peace may issue certificates for bear bounties. Such applications must be made within three weeks of the time the bear is killed also. The meat and pelt of all bears shot or taken during this period shall remain the property of the person taking the bear. No bounty will be paid on bears under one year of age, the Department added. The bounty fee for adult bears is ten dollars.

NAZI MERCHANT SEAMEN INTERNED

By The Canadian Press

OTTAWA, August 14 — Seized with their ships in far eastern ports, a group of almost 800 Nazi merchant seamen have been landed in Canada and placed in internment camps in the interior after a tense but uneventful voyage from the tropics.

The seafarers, interned in India for periods ranging up to 2½ years, were classed as prisoners of war when they arrived in the Dominion. Originally, their status had been that of enemy aliens.

Though the troopship guards said the prisoners were well-behaved on the voyage, one said the guards felt "as though we were sitting on a powder keg." Had the Nazis been able to overpower the watchers, they would have been able to take over operation of the ship, for they included all classes of seamen.

The Germans' ships were seized at Eastern ports right after the outbreak of war in 1939. The ports were in India and Burma, the Netherlands East Indies, Eritrea, as well as Singapore and Australia.

R.A.F. Bombers Sink At Least One Axis Self-Propelled Lighter

Cairo, Aug. 14 —(AP)— Day-long British fighter-bomber attacks on Axis camps and vehicles were reported by the British headquarters-R.A.F. communique today but the land front in North Africa lapsed into complete inactivity.

At least one self-propelled enemy lighter, of the type which Field Marshal Erwin Rommel has been using to replenish his men and arms from across the Mediterranean, was sunk by R.A.F. light bombers off the African coast, the communique said.

BARGE AGROUND AT NAPANEE

Napanee, Ont., Aug. 14 —(CP)— The self-unloading barge Hilda of the Pyke Salvage and Towing Co., en route here with a heavy deck load of coal, is hard aground in the Napanee River half a mile west of the harbor. The tub Salvage Prince has moved the sister barge Enarco from the load dock to the Hilda to begin lightering operations.

ALLIED BOMBERS

source—that their forces in the Solomons action had sunk 13 British and American cruisers, nine destroyers, 10 transports and three submarines; had damaged one cruiser, three destroyers and one transport; and shot down 58 planes. Japanese losses were given as two cruisers slightly damaged and 21 planes lost. It was announced last Monday that Allied losses then included a cruiser sunk and two destroyers and a transport damaged.)

(Tokyo's claims recalled its extravagant reports of Allied losses in the Coral Sea and Midway battles, which bore no resemblance to the facts. Both of those battles resulted in Japanese defeats.)

Many Enemy Planes Lost

The headquarters communique said that during the first of yesterday's attacks on the Japanese ships off New Guinea, six Japanese Zero fighters challenged a flight of Flying Fortresses and that two enemy craft were shot down and three damaged.

Seven Zeros engaged medium bombers in the second attack and one enemy fighter was destroyed. The third Allied attack was carried out without interference.

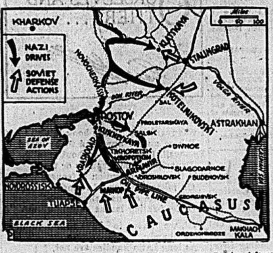
All Allied planes returned to their bases, simultaneously with the attack on the Solomons.

Heretofore the attacks have been for the most part on the port installations and airdromes, but with the latest assaults the action has moved eastward out to sea.

Four Japanese ships were left sinking or in flames in a Wednesday attack on Rabaul and some 2,000 miles farther to the west bombers earlier sank a merchantman and damaged two other ships, one of them a destroyer.

Unofficial reports here said the Marines were striking deeper into the jungles after wresting beachheads from the Japanese on the three islands—believed here to be Florida, Guadalcanal and Malaita.

HOW AXIS ADVANCES IN CAUCASUS



German panzer and aerial forces now streaming past Russian defences in the northern Caucasus and the vital oil fields of Maikop are indicated by arrows. This map clearly illustrates the vast gains being made by the Germans in their desperate push to conquer Russia before winter. Fall of Maikop deprives Russia of its best aviation gasoline source.

TO EASE EASTERN OIL SHORTAGE

The first weld on the important 550-mile oil pipeline from Longview, Tex., to Norris City, Ill., was made recently and here you see first sections of the great 24-inch pipe that will carry vital oil to relieve the shortage on the eastern seaboard being laid. At TOP, welders lining up sections for welding. BELOW, roll welding a section. Pipe is laid in the trench as soon as welds are completed. The $35,000,000 line is expected to be in service by Christmas.

Weight of Bombing

How the weight of bombing by British and Canadian squadrons must be affecting German industrial centres has been indicated by the R.A.F. commentator who said that the weight of bombs dropped on Osnabrueck by less than two hundred planes was over 450 tons, including fifty 4,000-pound "block-busters," 70 to 80 one-ton bombs and numerous incendiaries.

This is more weight than was dropped by the Germans on their raid on London April 16, 1941. The last great German raid on London was a 420-ton bomb attack on May 11, 1941, which cost the Germans thirty-three planes as compared with five lost by the R.A.F. at Osnabrueck.

This year which has only reached the eighth month has created a record in weight of bombs dropped on the enemy. More than 13,000 tons have been rained so far upon the Huns as compared with 8,500 last year. The full strength of the air offensive has yet to be reached for the Americans are about ready to join in smiting Hitler's Germany from the skies.

What the great centres of industry in Germany have been like under the mammoth raids of recent dates can only be conjectured.

What this is doing to German morale and German production and communications can be understood.

Lignite Fuel

The people of Ontario will watch with much interest the development of the lignite field near Cochrane. Lignite is the second stage of coal formation, the first being peat and the third bituminous coal and the fourth anthracite.

Quite a number of years ago when coal was scarce there was a considerable amount of substitutes used, even peat being brought here and sold. Many persons have burned bituminous coal and are burning it, and hard coal is in general demand where there is not oil heating.

In the year 1933 tests were made of the Onakawana deposits of lignite and it was found valuable as fuel. Not long ago lignite was tried in T. and N. O. locomotives and also used in a northern town's high school, rink and railway freight sheds for heating.

Lignite requires a processing as it has a high moisture content.

The fuel will be burned on the T. and N. O. railway and in Northern Ontario plants and houses.

Mussolini Too

Mussolini continues to prepare for a future in exile, says the London Daily Sketch, which tells of his buying through an intermediary a house and estate just outside Lucerne, known as "Chateau d'Ete." Thirty acres of land are reported as going with the property.

In Spain the news of the deal was publicly announced but it is suppressed in Italy though it has become common talk in Rome. The story is naturally causing the Italian people to grow very restive.

Mussolini as a dictator can be expected to have gathered considerable money. The Sketch even tells how much he has now in Switzerland. "We revealed some time ago that Mussolini has added to his deposit of foreign currency in Switzerland. We learn this now amounts to about £150,000." He is said to have increased his deposit by transfer of deposits from South American countries which have severed relations with the Axis.

This story coincides with stories which have appeared from time to time about the holdings of leaders of the aggressor nations, particularly of German Nazis like Goering, Goebbels and others and these all clearly reveal how mercenary are these dictators and their friends and that international looting and brigandage are the basis of the governments under Hitler and Mussolini and the Japanese warlords. Their quest is power and possession which they have set out to amass by wholesale robbery and by war. They have grown fat on their own peoples and are now attempting to add to their loot by attempting to conquer the world.

In these trying days the Russians are showing their resolution in the stubborn resistance they have put up before the enemy and by the heroic measures they have taken to foil the enemy of any gains by their progress.

OURSELVES AND OTHERS...

BY

MISNOMERS

I was reading a Nature book lately,
Whose author appeared to be vexed
By—well, I can quote without greatly
Departing from meaning or text:
"At times, my attention is focused
On misapplication of terms—
As hear the cicada called 'locust'
Or leaf-eating larvae called 'worms.'"

Well, we have to have names that are handy,
As long Latin handles are not,
And quite often the short words are dandy
And the sesquipedalian are rot.
Still, my mind's inconsistent and selfish,
And my taste its own prejudice hugs—
Why should all the mollusca be "shellfish?"
Why should beautiful fireflies be "bugs?"

I could go on for many a canto
(Or verse) if I wanted to drag
In the reason why some say portmanteau
For what I would simply call "bag."
But why do folks say "Isolationists,"
And "Unwitting Enemy Tools,"
And "Anti-Price Ceiling Inflationists,"
When it's easier just to say "Fools?"

—Ted Robinson in Cleveland Plain Dealer.

NOTHING TO WORRY ABOUT

Dear Boss:—

Taking a ten o'clock peek at your mail the other morning before you arrived, I note you are taking a holiday for two weeks come Saturday.

And if you'll pardon the aggression, I'd like to give you a bit of advice before you go.

Twenty years of existing in the bottom drawer of the desk from whence cometh this drivel, has taught me a lot of things.

For instance, newspapers aint no different to any other product. It don't matter a hang who goes on vacation, dies, breaks a leg, or a heart, gets fired, or goes fishin' the paper has a funny habit of getting out on the street every day bar Sundays and some holidays.

So don't lay awake at night in your little bunk in Oshkosh, Weetonkin, Ottawa, Montreal, or Shannonville, or wherever you are goin' to forget your troubles for the next two weeks, and worry about the old sheet meeting the public eye every day as per. It's a habit the paper has and reporters come a dime a dozen these day.

Some of our readers will get a rest, especially some of the ladies, for the sheet won't be (I hope) cluttered up with the alleged wise cracks you make every so often and at which nobody laffs exceptin' some hard-boiled, crusty, weather-beaten bachelors, includin' yourself; some of the young fry, and the remainder, folks who ought to be in the asylum anyway.

You're goin' too, will relieve some of the atmospheric congestion which has been apparent in the office the last few days. The removal of your displacement of air will cause a greater volume of the fresh kind, which is badly needed in a place where hot air is on tap the year round.

But—you will be missed, boss.

For instance, the tax container on the soft-drink box will not be short the occasional tax fee for the next two weeks.

The boys in the comp-room will catch up on their smokin'. They'll probably come in and look for you from force of habit. The bulletin boards will be accurate at last, and Monday's news won't die from old age before the boards are cleaned.

The rest of us will be able to find the phone directories. Clarence, the utility man, won't have to wake you up at four p.m. every day to sweep the office. Paddy will miss his wieners, but our money is as good as yours, even if we don't attract the pooches as well as you. It must be the Pole in you.

So, go ahead, boss, and have a good time. Be careful of redheads or brownheads with a gleam in the eye. Remember what happened you the last time you imitated a love-sick giraffe and stuck your neck out its full length.

And don't worry about your work. It will be done and no one will be doin' any more than he does ordinarily.

So long, boss, and don't forget to wear a hat as much as possible. You have such a long face without it.

Yours,
Winnie,
The office mosquito.

Former Malta Air Chief Believes The Island Good Base for Invasion

Washington, Aug. 14 (AP)—Air Vice Marshal Sir Hugh Pughe Lloyd, until recently in command of the R.A.F. at Malta, expressed belief yesterday that the little bomb-shattered Mediterranean island could be used as a "jumping off place" for an invasion of Europe.

His opinion was expressd during a press conference in response to a question and, while acknowledging the size limitations of Malta, he maintained that the Allies could put Italy "out of the war in no time" if they had air bases on the northern tip of Africa.

Sir Hugh expressed the belief that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel now is "bogged down" in north Africa for lack of supplies, although hee "is flying a hell of a lot of stuff over from Crete."

As the air officer put it, however, Rommel is on a "better wicket" now in regard to supplies than he was last year when he was "in a very tough way" with the British forces driving him back.

He declared that the R.A.F. by "laying into" enemy shipping, had forced the Axis to go "tremendous distances to get out of the way of Malta," and that British fliers still are "getting convoys."

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

New York, Aug. 14—It can't go on like this. It really can't.

The people of this country are paying the salaries of some thirty thousand officials dealing with the dissemination of public information. The purposes of this huge corps are, first, to get to the public such essential and accurate information as will contribute to a successful prosecution of the war with an enlightened public opinion; second, to withhold from the public such information as is inaccurate, revealing to the enemy, or damaging to war morale; third, to conduct a psychological warfare against the enemy.

This corps of officials did not grow organically. Every department of Government had its own information officials, better known as "public relations men." So did every branch of the armed forces.

When the war began, new agencies were created: The Rockefeller Committee for Information to Latin America — its relations with the State Department loosely defined. The Donovan Committee, for public relations with all the outside world except South America—its relations with the State Department loosely defined. The MacLeish Committee—the Office of Facts and Figures—for the dissemination of information to the home front—its duties and relations loosely defined.

Besides these, there were the innumerable new agencies — O.P.A., W.P.B., etc. And all of them their own "public relations" set-ups.

A Jungle.

So it was a jungle. And Mr. Elmer Davis was appointed to "co-ordinate" the jungle. I warned Mr. Davis that he had better become a tiger of the jungle and begin by clearing it of a great many little foxes who were spoiling the vines—and that with a staff of five hundred he might be able to do something, but never with thirty thousand.

Mr. Davis, however, is a nice man. No one ever would call him "the Tiger." He is intelligent, honest, competent—everything except one thing. He is not ruthless. And the information situation requires some one ruthless.

This is a brief preface to some remarks about what the Washington Star now calls "the great air marker hoax." The Washington Star's definition is incorrect. A hoax is "a deception for the purpose of sport." This was not a hoax. It was a piece of blank and irresponsible idiocy.

The pictures presented to the people of the United States, through the press, showing what purported to be fifth column activities practiced in American fields and forests, where arrows and other symbols pointed the way to airdromes and industrial plants, were not new pictures—something brought in, and innocently, if casually, released. I saw these pictures on Langley Field, Virginia, last April.

Merely Accidents.

Four months later, in August, the pictures are released by the First Air Force at Mitchell Field, Long Island, with the boast that "proper action has been taken"—a fine ambiguity. A newspaper exhibits natural curiosity and inquires further only to find that the pictures have been investigated, and the result revealed the strange symbols were merely accidents, and completely without military significance.

Now, who released this story? "Major" Lynn Farnol. Who is the "Major"? He is a movie press agent and publicity man—still maintaining an office—who has been commissioned into a uniform and a high army rank as a public relations officer.

Why? What does the First Army Air Force want with a man of this experience? He is, by training, a promoter. He is still maintaining his own business and wants good relations with the press. Why not slip the boys a good story? There is nothing venal in it.

But there is nothing responsible about it, either. It is not done by a mentality accustomed to investigate; it is done by a mentality accustomed to tout, to promote. And that mentality thinks that his job is to promote the First Army Air Force—not to see that we win this war. He's there—so he thinks—to get publicity for his boys.

Superficial Judgment.

And now what happens. He passes the story—and the buck—to the War Department's information staff. They judge the story, not by its accuracy, but according to superficial censorship rules.

And where is Mr. Davis and the Office of War Administration?

Where is the official body that asks the simple questions: Are these photographs authentic? What has the investigation of them revealed? Is this genuine fifth column activity? Have the culprits been apprehended? In view of all the facts is it wise to publish them?

The first body to ask those natural questions was the Washington Star. Nobody in the Administration.

Who, in the Government, is responsible for asking those questions? Who, in the Government, is charged with authority to decide matters of this kind? From whom, in the Government, can the buck not be passed?

Why are certain persons appointed to the positions they hold? What are their qualifications? Who is responsible for their selection? And what happens to them when they pull boners of this kind?

Who can fire them?

A wrong statement of official military authorities has a devastating effect on public morale. The people must have faith in official communiques. If they are told this and that happened in the Aleutians or in the Coral Sea, they must be convinced it is not the sales talk of a promoter but the impeccable statement of a responsible Government. A few such boners as this and the people will believe nothing.

It can't go on like this. It really can't.

Name of the tanker was not disclosed nor did the survivors say how many of the crew were missing.

Allied Move In Solomons Of Great Import

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Heavy with menace as is the war news from South Russia, recent events in the Pacific must tend to abate Moscow's fears of an immediate Japanese attack on Siberia.

As this is written, United States marines, backed by powerful naval forces, seem to have made good their footing in the Solomons. Tokyo is directly confronted with the most serious challenge it has faced since it threw its lot in with Hitler last December.

Whatever else is at stake in that fight, the Tulagi naval base site is a major necessity for the Japanese both for offensive and defensive purposes. In Japanese hands it has been a constant threat to American - Australian communication lines. American-held, it would be no less a threat to the prime Japanese naval outpost of Truk in the Carolinas, 1,000 miles to the north.

Fierce fighting between Japanese and American naval craft indicates that the Japanese recognize the strategic threat involved in the Allied offensive. A major sea-air battle matching those of the Coral Sea and off Midway Island may be in progress or in prospect as both sides move in heavy reinforcements. Should the outcome be as definitely favorable to American arms as were those two previous sea-air clashes with the Japanese, the whole nature of the war in the Pacific could be changed overnight.

With the first Allied offensive action well under way, Tokyo must reach a decision of critical importance. It must accept the challenge and hurl southward enough fleet and air strength to ensure victory or ignore it to strike at Russia.

There can be no serious doubt that the Allied move in the Solomons is serving to lessen the probabilities of an immediate Japanese attack on Russia. It has a distinct second-front aspect so far as Russia is concerned, heightened materially by the stepped-up American sea-air blows at Japanese-held points in the Western Aleutians.

Japan attempted in the Aleutian-Midway attacks to impede prompt American air intervention in the event of a Japanese attack on Russia. It proved abortive due to the failure to take Midway and the losses inflicted on Japan. So long as there are Japanese outposts in the Aleutians, however, the air routes to Siberia from the United States must be travelled at hazard.

Aggressively challenged by American landing forces and sea and air power in the Solomons, Japan must either divide her forces to support her far-separated island outposts in the Southwest and Northeast Pacific, or concentrate reserves in one place. And the threat in the Solomons is so obvious that it must be in that direction her war craft and air reserves are being sent, leaving her minor footholds in the Aleutians to their fate.

ENLISTMENT REFUSED

Still to walk the town about wearing scars that cannot show
Eardrums shattered by disease;
sight, the normal, far below;
Spot upon the lung perhaps!
Young, to eyes that coldly stare,
Yet denied the right to serve,
land, or sea, or in the air.
Comrades all in uniform! They,
the few, of all their crowd,
Turned away from every post:
"Plea for service disallowed!"

Navy, Army and Marine, Air or Coast Guard—same reply:
"Sorry sir, you're not for us!
Doctors wouldn't let you by!"
Thus rejected here they stay, knowing every passer-by Seeing them in mufti still, prompted is to wonder why.
For the times they have applied and the times been answered
"No!"
And the reasons doctors find,
to the public never show.

ETHELRED THE UNREADY

The story is being told in England that a British soldier, upon being greeted by an American soldier as his cousin, said he knew of no relationship between them.

"If we're not exactly related," came back the American, "both the British and the Americans are descended from Ethelred the Unready."

This reminds us that the English king alluded to in the wisecrack has been the subject of a cruel injustice at the hands of history.

Ethelred II was king of the English from 978 to 1016 and was the father of Edward the Confessor.

Since he is known in history as "Ethelred the Unready" most people naturally take it for granted that he was so known because he was not prepared for war.

But this seems to be an error and an injustice to the King Ethelred.

His curious alliterative epithet appears to have had no such meaning originally.

King Ethelred had his faults but they were of a different kind.

"Unready" in this connection is merely a variant of "unredy" or "unrede," formed from "un," not, and "rede," counsel, and literally meaning redless or without counsel or advice.

The epithet in olden times was applied to a person who disregarded counsel and who in consequence was lacking in judgment and given to folly.

Ethelred the Unready was so called because he ignored the "rede" or advice of the great Anglo-Saxon national council known as the Witenagemot and accordingly was rash-ill-advised in action and too ready to fight on his own account.

In other words, Ethelred preferred his own judgment to that of his lawful parliament.

The Oxford dictionary says that "unready" in this ancient sense survives only in the Anglo-Saxon king's historic epithet.

Because of internal bickering and lack of national unity, the reign of King Ethelred II was a continual series of disasters.

Time after time the king was compelled to pay tribute to the Norsemen to get them to cease plundering and pillaging England.

He collected the largest fleet ever assembled by England up to that time, but this vast preparation against the Norsemen was ineffective because of a futile court quarrel.

After living in exile in Normandy for a time, Ethelred the Unready was given another chance as king, but only after promising parliament he would pay more attention to its "rede" in the future.

Popular People Charm by Their Manners

The Correct Thing at Movies

No wonder they like to go out together! Charming and well-mannered, each is sure that the other will do nothing awkward or embarrassing.

When it's time to leave she suggests "Shall we go?" (for that's up to the girl) and he steps into the aisle first, letting her precede him to the theatre lobby.

Taking a bus or a taxi, he precedes her too in alighting, so that he may assist her—and she lets him give her address to the taxi driver, for she knows the man plays host on a date.

That's why she's so popular—she's so utterly smooth. When given a compliment, she doesn't titter school-girl fashion, "Oh, go on!" She says simply, "Thank you" or perhaps "I'm glad you think so!"

At a dance she smiles graciously when a man cuts in, even though he's not her man of the moment And after a dance she lets a man do the applauding, though she'll tell him that she enjoyed it, too.

You can learn these charming correct manners. Our 32-page booklet has easy-to-remember rules for men and girls on dancing, dinner, theatre, game and party dates. Gives tips on introductions, telephone and office manners. Discusses petting.

"DIRECTING PEOPLE TO THE RIGHT AISLE is really not much exercise. Yet handling crowds with a smile takes lots of energy. I can't let myself feel depressed, listless or short-tempered. I have to keep fit. Here's my way: No nasty doses. Instead, I watch my habits, make sure of getting plenty of "bulk" in my diet. I eat a bowl of crunchily, mildly laxative Kellogg's Bran Flakes every day. They certainly help to keep me on my toes."

Hurrying Make-Up a Folly

Girls in uniform carry a skin emulsion created by Ella Bache. It can be used as a cleanser and a powder base.

By HELEN FOLLETT

SOMETHING shoudd be done about the girl who applies her make-up two minutes before she is going to dash out of the door. There should be a law against hurrying witht the business of making a new face.

Take foundation cosmetics, for instance. Use them right, or leave them alone. The preparation should go on sparingly, covering the entire area of the face and neck. Ear lobes should be included. No patch work allowed. Don't stop short of the hair line. Tap the flesh lightly, go over it with absorbent tissue.

Slightest Film

Only the slightest film should remain if powder is to go on smoothly and the face have an appearance of freshness. It takes time, but it's worth it. We're referring, of course, to liquid foundations. The extremely dry skin will require an oily preparation. That too must be applied expertly.

When rouge is used, blend it away to nothingness so there won't be a sign of a border line. Some of our careless ladies draw some queer patterns with rouge. They make irregular blotches, round blobs that smack you in the eye. It is not playing fair with their faces. Makes the feminine portrait appear untidy. Why do they do it?

Applying Lipstick

To make a first class job of applying lipstick, the mouth portals should be outlined. Do that by using an orange wood stick that has been dipped in the rosy cream.

The outline should be even, clear cut. Fill in with the lipstick brush that gets into all the little creases, gives a smooth and velvety effect. The lipstick brush is a great little institution; more women should know about it. They cost almost nothing.

Be fussy about lip corners. Open the mouth wide when touching up those areas. All too often we see ruby-red lips with pale terminals.

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Eating Corn on Cob Daintily

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Corn-on-the-cob is one of my favorite foods. . .but I've certainly never found a really neat way to eat it. Please tell me what the proper way is!

Sue

I completely agree with you that this is a delicious vegetable, but definitely most difficult-to-manage. Many people look pretty ferocious as they attack an ear of corn. . .teeth bared, and the clinging to the chin and cheeks!

Of course if the ear of corn is served with the silver handles inserted into the two ends, that helps. Otherwise, the only thing to do is to make a resolution to eat it as neatly as possible. Personally, I find the best way is to break the ear in two (in a whole ear is served), using a napkin to protect the hands . Then go slow . . .the real danger is in seasoning too much at once, buttering it too generously, and then bending over the ear and greedily devouring it. Instead ,the thing to do is to season and eat only two or three rows of kernels at a time. Eat slowy,l eat softly! The delectable taste is worthy of a neat, leisurely procedure.

And a note to hostesses: when you serve corn-on-the-cob, either as a separate course (the best way, I think) or as an accessory to the main course, please remember to serve a finger bowl. If ever one is appreciated, it's with corn on the cob!

For "Sweet Sixteen" Party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am having a Sweet Sixteen birthday party. and I wish you would please answer —some questions about my invitations. In the invitation is it proper for me to ask the person to acknowledge the invitation? It would be convenient for us to know how many guests to provide for. What do I write in the invitation to ask a girl to bring an escort.

Polly

Although a note of invitation to a party should always be answered and answered promptly, it's something else again to get everyone to do this, even when they should realize that a hostess must plan her food. So it's completely proper to write, perhaps as the last sentence of your invitation, "Mother and I want so very much to have you come. . .won't you please let us know soon that you will come?"

You might also write: "I would like very much to have you bring a boy with you, if you'd like to. And if you invite one and will send me his name and address, I'll write him a note 'seconding' your invitation and welcoming him." This, of course, you will do.

HEALTH CHATS

In Some Cases Blood Can be Injected into Bone Instead of Vein

Nearly every one knows that a blood transfusion is made into a vein. But not many know that under certain conditions, it may be difficult to inject the fluid into the vein, but it may be possible to inject the fluid into the bone directly.

We hear from Dr. Leandro M. Tocantins and his co-workers of North Carolina that often it is even impossible to inject the blood or plasma into a vein. The vein themselves may be collapsed and it is difficult to put a needle into the veins so that the blood or other fluid may be injected. And sometime, even if it is possible to get a needle into a vein, the fluid cannot be injected rapidly because of failure of circulation of the blood. In other words, the slow-moving blood in the vein prevents rapid movement of the injected fluid. If force is used the vein may be ruptured.

Failure of the circulation of the blood may develop in many conditions. For example, in states of shock due to severe injury or burns, circulatory failure often develops. Weakness of the heart may also account for failure of the circulation of the blood. In many of these conditions in which circulatory failure occurs, the injection of blood or the fluid part of blood, known as plasma, into a vein brings about improvement in the patient's condition.

In view of these facts, Dr. Tocantins and his co-workers think that a good way of giving the necessary blood or other fluids is by direct injection into the bone marrow. Substances which are injected into the bone marrow are taken up immediately by the blood.

This method has been used in giving blood to a large number of patients and none of them has had any reaction as a result of this treatment. The injection is usually given into the bone marrow of the sternum or breast bone, or the tibia, a large bone in the leg. Once the needle has been insterted into the marrow, the fluid is injected as rapidly as possible.

About two-thirds of an ounce of fluid is usually injected per minute. The fluid injected into the bone marrow is rapidly abmarrow so that the fluid gets into sorbed by the veins in the bone the circulation quickly. Once enough fluid has been taken up into the circulation, the veins throughout the body again become distended enough to allow injections directly into them.

Sometimes a patient may be so badly burned that the veins of the skin cannot be used for giving injections of blood or other fluids. In these instances also the use of injections into the bone marrow are of great value. Many patients in a state of collapse recover quickly when treated by the injection of fluid into the bone marrow.

Electrical Age In Canadian Homes Due For Shock As Appliances Fade

Electric grills, toasters, coffee makers, and mixers are among the things Canadians are going to have to learn to do without as present stocks are sold. Although no new electrical equipment for home use is being produced, replacement parts will be available for a time at least. With proper care household appliances can be made to last for years.

Keep appliances clean; repair them promptly; don't let them get wet. Crumbs, excess grease and fingerprints can be removed with a clean damp cloth. Oil, according to directions, any appliance that has an electric motor.

Take hold of the plug when detaching a cord from an outlet or appliance and thus avoid fraying the cord, exposing wires or making a loose connection. Don't attach too many appliances to a plug or outlet. Lowering effiency and causing a fuse to blow out.

Before storing an electric iron he sure it is cool. Keep the cord dry and clean and avoid bending it sharply. Remove starch from the sole plate of the iron by wiping it with a damp cloth. Occassionally rub paraffin or beeswax and polish with a dry, soft cloth.

To clean a waffle iron, scrub the grids with a fine-wire brush, then brush with a nonsalted oil. After this, heat for about ten minutes and soak up any excess oil with a piece of bread. Then it will not be neccessary to use fat on the grids when making waffles.

Housewives Aided In Ration Order By Simplified Rules For Measuring

"An 'ounce' of tea and four 'ounces' of coffee doesn't mean a thing to me," said a harrassed housewife on reading the rationing order. "I want to know what it means in spoonfuls, and I haven't any seales with which to measure it out."

Consumer Information Service made inquiries, and here are the answers: The government tea tester at the Department of National Revenue, who obligingly turned into a coffee measurer too, reports that there are from eight to 10 level teaspoonfuls of tea to an ounce, and five level tablespoonfuls to an ounce of coffee.

Experts at the Empire Tea Bureau claim, nowever, that most teas provide 15 level teaspoonfuls and check with an economist verifies this report.

Authortities point out, of course, that there are variations according to the type of tea and coffee being measured—some weigh less than others. Although opinions on the number of spoonfuls to an ounce differ, all are agreed, however, on one thing that the rationing order means drastic changes in consumers' coffee and tea drinking habits.

Zellers' Revamped Line-up Turns Trick as Corbins Are Downed by 19-14 Score

Barnett's Big-Z Nine Even City Girls' Softball Play-Offs With Win

Revamping the lineup to take full advantage of the team's consistent hitting strength and juggling his players afield in an effort to strike a more effective defensive combination, "Chuck" Barnett and his Zeller lassies are right back in the city girls' softball playdowns today as the result of their 19-14 victory over the Corbin girls last evening.

With his team's collective backs to the wall and facing elimination from the playdowns in defeat, Barnett gambled on an almost complete shakeup in player personnel, benching two of his regular girls, playing Helen Garrow at first, "Pee Wee" Colden at second and "Pudgy" Donovan at short—and his strategy clicked.

Bessie Doolittle assumed the pitching responsibility for the victorious Zeller nine and after the first two innings went well until the later frames when Corbins' hitters began to show their prowess to close the gap between themselves and the ultimate winners. Opposed to her was Fitzgibbon who was hit hard by the Zeller nine but sloppy work by her outfielders spelled the difference between defeat and victory.

Leads Hitters

Barnett's good judgment in leaving "Pee Wee" Colden on the lineup, while Bessie Doolittle took over the pitching chores, was demonstrated when she clouted a homer as the first batter of the game.

HASLIP

"Pudgy" Donovan, however, led the winners in consistent hitting getting two doubles and a brace of singles while Colden came through for a home run and a triple and Flindall for two doubles and a single.

No homers were clouted by the Corbin nine but McKenna and Balyx hit for three bases, with the latter also having a double to her credit.

"Pete" Haslip's fielding in the left gardens and Zeller's ability to hit in the pinch were the features of the contest which saw numerous errors helping to account for the high score. Zeller's assumed a long lead during the early innings but the losers were coming strong when the final out was made.

The pay-off between these two scrappy teams will come next week and it's anybody's guess whether it will be Zellers or Corbins to enter the final round.

Lineups:

Zellers: Colden 2b; Clarke lf; Haslip lf; Donovan ss; Garrow 1b; Bennett 3b; Boyle cf; Flindall c and Doolittle p.

Corbins: Kyle lf; McKenna cf; Cook rf; Elliott 1b; Fitzgibbon p; Bolyx 2b; M. Zebedee c; Hill ss and B. Zebedee 3b.

Score by innings:

Zellers .... 420 632 010—19 20 3
Corbins .... 220 200 323—14 15 6

The Picobac Support Line

Home from the hayfield, weary and worn from his day of "Farming for Freedom," Mr. Picobac, Great War Veteran, Home Guard and Farm Corps Auxiliary, kissed his wife a resounding smack on her fresh, rosy cheek.

"That's because I've got such a nice little woman in the house," announced he.

"Want me to sew a button on or something?" inquired Mrs. Picobac, struggling unsuccessfully not to smile.

"What I want is a spell behind the lines," declared Mr. Picobac. "A good meal . . . a good place to put my feet up . . . and some good society. I'm TIRED!"

"You poor man!" exclaimed Mrs. Picobac, sympathetically.

"Poor nothing," retorted Mr. Picobac. "Wait till I have had my supper and a pipeful of mild . . . cool . . . Picobac and I'll be as good a man as ever. To-morrow's another day. Watch my smoke!"

"It DOES taste good in a pipe!"

ALBOSTA RATED BEST INT. LOOP PITCHER TODAY

Big Ed Has Won Six Games Since July 9th to Catch Scouts' Eyes

You may wonder why scouts say that Ed Albosta is one of the best pitchers in the International League for pudging by his won-and-lost record—six victories and six defeats—the Montreal righthander is just another hurler.

Albosta was troubled by a sore arm most of the season and only recently has he displayed the form that is making the Royals look to him to pitch them into the playoffs and possibly the junior world series.

Those six victories all have been scored since July 9, when he stopped Baltimore Orioles with one hit in a seven-inning game, and he has won four of his last five games.

Big Ed gained his sixth decision last night at the expense of Rochester Red Wings 4-3 despite one of his poorer performances. He was touched for six of the Wings' 11 hits, walked three and finally needed help from Ed Spaulding and Chet Kehn in the eighth inning. Still, Albosta struck out seven and contributed three hits to the Royals' total of 11.

In the only other game played, Buffalo Bisons and Toronto Maple Leafs split a doubleheader. Buffalo won the opener, 2-1, a pitching duel between Bud Thomas and Joe Sullivan, when Jimmy Outlaw clouted a homer in the seventh and final inning.

The second game went to Toronto 6-4, after the Bisons had jumped off to a four-run lead in the first two innings. The Leafs tied it up in the third and won out in the seventh. After Jihnny Wyrostek seventh. After Johnny Wyrostek Colman delivered successive doubles for the winning runs.

The Syracuse-Jersey City and Newark-Baltimore games were postponed.

Braves-Dodgers Meet First Time Since Dusting Duel, Test Automatic Fine Rule

President Ford Frick Tosses Responsibility of "Bean Balls" Into Managers' Laps

CUBS BEAT CARDS

Indians and Brownies Win in Only American League Games Played

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The National League's new rule making managers subject to an automatic fine of $200 for permitting their pitchers to blaze away at a rival's noggin is due for the acid test today when Brooklyn Dodgers and Boston Braves collide in a doubleheader which, opens a five-game series.

It will be their first meeting since they spent last Saturday afternoon ducking each other's high inside pitches.

That get-together in Boston, which saw the Braves sweep a two-game series from the first-place Brooks, prompted league President Ford Frick to toss the principal responsibility for future "bean balls" squarely into the manager's laps.

Originally this was an open date for both teams, but the bargain bill at Ebbetts Field was made necessary when weather kept them apart last Sunday and yesterday.

Yesterday's postponement was one of four which left the Major League card with only three completed contests.

One Game Played

In the only one in the National League, Chicao Cubs ended a four-game losing streak by walloping St. Louis Cardinals 13-5 and dropping the second-place Red Birds 8 1-2 games behind the Dodgers.

Claude Passeau notched his 16th pitching victory of the season against eight defeats, although he had to weather a ninth-inning Cardinal uprising which produced four runs on as many hits.

In the American League, Cleveland Indians came from behind in the ninth inning to edge out Detroit Tigers 3-2 for their first victory in the last eight starts, one of which ended in a tie.

Virgil Trucks blanked the Indians on four hits for 8 2-3 innings, but he loaded the bases on walks in the final frame and Aris Hockett unloaded them with a double. Jim Bagby pitched six-hit ball for the Tribe and registered his 13th victory.

St. Louis Browns crushed Chicago White Sox. 8-3, largely through the efforts of Harlond Clift who hit a home run, double and two singles and drove in four runs.

American League games between Boston and New York and Washington and Philadelphia, and a National League affair between Cincinnati and Pittsburgh all were postponed.

Wartime Future of Pro. Hockey Looks for "Go Ahead" Signal

By CHARLEY DUNKLEY
(Associated Press Sport Writer)

Chicago, Aug. 14 (AP)—The fate of professional hockey involving National League play in the United States and Canada for the 1942-43 season may be decided in Toronto, Ont., a week from today.

Leaders expect to get the "go ahead" signal.

Representatives of the vast amateur hockey organization of Canada will meet with Canadian government officials and learn the position Ottawa will take. Tied up with the decision is the fate of the sport in the United States.

Capt. W. G. Hardy, President of the International Ice Hockey Association, and the Canadian Amateur Hockey League, in Chicago on a speech making tour for his government, expressed his personal belief that the game is one of the best for heightening both army and civilian morale. He said today the Senior Hockey Association in Canada plans, if told to go ahead, to emphasize games played by teams from army and war munitions camps.

William Tobin, President of the Chicago Blackhawks, and a Canadian veteran in the First World War said the Canadian government at present was sympathetic with the continuation of the National Hockey League.

Tobin said a canvass taken by the Canadian government revealed that more than 1,500,000 people in the Dominion listened to radio broadcasts of hockey games in Toronto.

"The sport has a direct effect on the morale of a Canadian citizen, just as baseball's continuation helps in this country," Tobin added.

Major Frederick McLaughlin, owner of the Blackhawks and another First War veteran, has pledged to turn over every cent of profit from Hawks games this season to war aid funds.

Tobin believes the Blackhawks, holders of National League attendance records, will draw as well as last season. He says advance reservations are larger than ever. The Hawks will lose only four players. Goalie Sam Lo Presti is in the United States navy. Bill Carse and Alex Kaleta, forwards, are in the Canadian army. Joe Cooper, defence star, will be married in Winnipeg tomorrow, but is subject to immediate military call.

CASUAL COMMENT by K.J.C.

SMARTING UNDER THAT 19-7 trouncing on Wednesday night the Army & Navy Vets have primed both barrels and are aiming right at the No. 5 I.T.S. mid-section for tonight's second game of the local softball finals. Incidentally the Vets made application for a military replacement to the Belleville Softball League executive last night as Vern Goyer has been accepted into the armed services. Under softball provisions any team losing players through enlistment is eligible for replacement from other clubs of the same category. Gerald Barriage asked to have Jim Hunter, Stephen Adamson pitcher, transferred to the Vets as military replacement for Goyer. In Jim Hunter the Vets are getting one of the best all-round players in local softball circles, as Jim is a better-than-average pitcher, he can play first or the outfield and never went hitless a single game with the Marines, to prove his versatility.

CHUCK BARNETT SHOOK UP his Zeller girls' line-up last night until it resembled alphabet soup, and the changes were productive of results as the Big-Z nine evened their semi-final series with Corbins winning 19 to 14. It was a typical girls' slugging bee with base knocks coming more frequent than mosquitoes on a summer night. Barnett elected to start his veteran hurler Bessie Doolittle who came through to even the series at one game each. Eve Fitzgibbon went the route for the Lockmakers, and had it not been for frequent errors in the outfield Corbins and Miss Fitzgibbon stood well to have made it two straight over the league champions. Zellers started off with Pee Wee Colden slapping a home run as the first batter and the Barnett nine was never headed, although Corbins did rally somewhat in the latter innings, but their drives came too late.

IN A RECENT ISSUE OF Ring Magazine, devoted purely to boxing and wrestling activities, a fitting tribute was paid to Scotty MacDougall, the Goderich, Ont., farmer who made the big time in wrestling circles. Scotty was honorably mentioned in dispatches for bravery at Dunkirk during the evacuation. While on the subject of wrestling Promoter Frank Tunney called by long distance today to say he had arranged to have a British Empire elimination bout in Belleville next week featuring Nanjo-Singh, the mad Hindu, and Earl McCready, both of whom are after a shot at Whipper Watson's crown. Singh, the mad Hindu, and Earl to give the patrons a thrill, while McCready means to try and regain his Empire title, which by the way was wrested from him by Singh, who in turn lost it to Watson. Just a merry mix-up, but interesting to say the least.

WHEN BEN WHITE, THE SILver thatched 69-year-old Whitevale, Ont., driver, won the Hambeltonian Stake with Ambassador at Goshen, N.Y., on Wednesday it wasn't his first triumph over that oval. White, well-known to Canadian harness lovers, piloted Mary Reynolds to victory in 1933 and came back with Rosiland in 1936. However, the story behind the 1942 winning with Ambassador is like a storybook finish. As a juvenile in 1941 Ambassador "went lame" and they placed splints on the trotter's leg. Along came White, he threw the splints into the discard and nursed the Ambassador's leg along, starting him for the first time this year n the Hambeltonian, when he headed Colby Hanover, the ace two-year in the Hambeltonian, when he were $20,489.91.

THIS AND THAT: MRS. CHRIStina Gehrig, mother of the late Lou Gehrig, was fined $4.00 for parking her car too close to a fire plug in New York.....Ordinarily the fine is said to be $5.00....The Chicago White Sox claim to have used 630 dozen baseballs in a single season... Comes rather high when you figure them out at $15.00 per dozen....Although the Vets asked for two military replacements last night, Goyer and Bennett, only one was granted, as Bennett hasn't exactly delivered up his National Registration card as yet, but he may soon. Hank Goldup who played an exhibition softball game here on Dominion Day, is batting a hot .447 in the Wanless Park Senior League..... The United States Naval Academy football team will play twice at Philadelphia and Baltimore and once in Cleveland and New York... Seems like a lotta effort for such a short schedule....Big league hockey moguls expect the "green light" for the 1942-43 season at least .....Amateur puck heads are leaning towards the armed services and munition factories for the continuance of the game among the simon (?) pures....If there's a Joe Louis-Bill Conn heavyweight scrap this fall it'll have to be under the direction of the United States army says Uncle Mike Jacobs.... and he should know all the answers..Plain or straight.

WHILE MANAGER JOE MCCarthy of the Yankees, was in St. Louis recently a fanning bee turned to the subject of great baseball managers. "A likely sixth pennant in seven years, with five already followed by world's championships, is a mark which may last in the record books for several generations," Joe was told. He also was reminded that last winter, when Connie Mack was presented with a Sportsmanship Brotherhood medal in New York, he said: "I used to put John McGraw at the head of my managerial list, but now I head it with Joe McCarthy."

"It was kind of Connie to say that," said Joe, "but you know, and I know, that the greatest manager of all time in Connie Mack. There isn't anyone even close to him. He's won a lot of pennants, and yes, he's been last a number of times. But in counting Mack's greatness, I put it above pennants and the game's won and lost columns. In his contribution to baseball, his kindness, understanding, in addition to his talents as a leader, a tactician and a judge of players, I rate Connie Mack as the No. 1 man of all baseball."

McCarthy, who learned his baseball on the Philadelphia lots, stood with a crowd of some 5,000 Philadelphia fans in Broad Street Station in 1910 to welcome Mack and his Athletics back from Chicago, after Connie had won his first world's championship by beating Frank Chance's Cubs. Mack remained Joe's idol throughout the years, even though the fortunes of baseball war called on McCarthy, as manager of the 1929 Cubs, to oppose Mack in the World's Series of that year.

REMEMBER WHEN STAN Leonard, Vancouver-born Calgary golf professional, captured the Canadian Professional Golf Crown at Toronto two years ago today? Leonard defeated Bill Kerr, of Toronto, in an 18-hole playoff to become the first westerner to win the title since the inauguration of the event in 1912. Speaking of golf that was a tidy score racked up by Bill Little, the Bay of Quinte Country Club pro. on Wednesday. Bill not only played the course in 34, one under par, but made a hole in one on the fourth, a 149 yard drive to the pin. Bill used a No. 7 iron, stepped up to the ball and as Ben Yanover, his opponent, stated later—"it sailed high and far for a beautiful drop on the green and rolled to the pin."

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Harlond Clift, Browns: Hit homer, double and two singles and drove in four runs to lead victory over White Sox.

Cris Hockett, Indians: Doubled with bases loaded and two out in ninth inning to beat Tigers. 3-2.

Claude Passeau, Cubs: Stopped Cardinals to snap Cub losing streak and hang up his 16th pitching victory of season.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Three Mesquiteers"

The mere mention of the "Three Mesquiteers" is enough to elicit hosannas from both action and western fans alike. For if one cowboy star can stir up plenty of thrills then it naturally follows that three, such as there are in this series—Tom Tyler, Bob Steele and Rufe Davis—can deliver at least three times as many!

Thrills and spills are certainly to be found in the latest Mesquiteer effort for Republic, "Gauchos of Eldorado," currently at the Capitol Theatre where it opened yesterday. In it, the trio is concerned with saving the ranch of the elderly Mother Ojara from a banker and a bandit chieftain who are anxious to foreclose the mortgage so they can mine the bauxite ore they know to be on it.

"Fast and Loose"

Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell scamper through one of the most hilarious mystery comedies of the year in "Fast and Loose," which opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre.

Montgomery plays the role of Joel Sloane, young and happy-go-lucky rare book dealer who constantly finds himself entangled in one mystery or another, and Miss Russell portrays his wife, Garda, who shares in all his thrills and adventures.

The solution to the crimes, unraveled by Montgomery, presents one of the most delightful mysteries to reach the screen.

The excellent supporting cast includes Reginald Owen, Ralph Morgan, Etienne Girardot, Alan Dinehart Jo Ann Sayers and Joan Marsh. The picture has been given excellent direction by Edwin L. Marin.

Including the double feature program "Spymasher" a thrilling new serial opens from the pages of America's greatest comics! and a funny color cartoon.

AT THE BELLE

"Jackass Mail"

A fast-action melodrama of the Old West is "Jackass Mail" which comes this weekend to the Belle theatre.

Wallace Beery and Marjorie Main are starred in the outdoor opus, marking their fourth appearance together. They provide the laugh highlights of the film with their clumsy, blundering love scenes.

Escapes Hanging Party

Beery plays "Just" Baggot, who escapes a hanging party to land in the mining town of Gold Creek. Marjorie Main is the driver of the "Jackass Mail," which carries large shipments of gold from the town. Beery sets out to woo her and win the gold but eventually falls in love with the hard-spoken, soft-hearted woman.

Through a series of accidents Beery becomes the town hero and they rename the village "Baggot City" in his honor. This is the final blow of Beery's outlaw ambitions and he settles down to a life of respectability by marrying the full-voiced Miss Main.

"Pacific Rendezvous"

Moving rapidly [illegible] with the serious dramatic matter of secret enemy codes in wartime, and yet lightened and made brightly humorous by the excellent direction and story treatment, "Pacific Rendezvous" makes a more than satisfying added feature offering.

The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture features the highly competent Lee Bowman and the rapidly rising newcomer, Jean Rogers. Bowman is even better as Lt. Bill Gordon, code expert, than he was the sauve radio "reformer" of "Kid Glove Killer." Jean Rogers more than follows through on her excellent work in "Dr. Kildare's Victory" and "Sunday Punch." In fact, Miss Rogers proves herself definitely a comedienne in "Pacific Rendezvous." So completely in love with Bill Gordon that she ignores danger signals and gets them both involved with spies and danger, Miss Rogers exhibits a delightful comic quality. As a screwball heroine she has a new touch, a refreshing technique.

The Belle latest World Events, on Saturday matinee only "Sea Raider" serial will be exhibited.

Continuous shows will be presented Saturday starting at 2 p.m.

Jeffries, who in late years has been in semi-retirement in Burbank, where he operates a fight club for young boxers, was taken ill during a vacation trip to Mount Baldy during the week-end.

TIRE WAS FLAT?

LITTLE BOXERS COME IN FOR BUSY SESSION

With Heavyweights "a Dime a Dozen" Lightweight Scrappers in the Limelight

ALL-STAR SHOW

By SID FEDER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Aug. 14 —(AP)— The high-and-mighty heavyweights are a dime a dozen along Bashed Beak Boulevard these days, so it begins to look like the little men are going to have to kick up all the fuss. And right now, Fritzie Zivic and Bob Montgomery stand up as a couple of pretty fair country fuss kickers-up of recent developments.

As a matter of fact, if Uncle Mike Jacobs is open to suggestions, it wouldn't be a bad idea to match Pittsburgh Fritzie, the ex-welterweight boss who still has got a lot of git-and-go about him, and Philadelphia Bob, who is fighting now like his publicity wins always said he could. After their impressive respective wins over Garvey Young, of Uncle Sam's marines, and Bobby Ruffin, the tough kid out of Long Island, in Madison Square Garden last night, Uncle Mike might do worse than to send them out after each other on the Aug. 26 card he's making up his mind to put together.

Want Return Bout

And since this week's to be open season for suggestions, it wouldn't be a bad idea to put on a return go between Cleo Shans, the half-Cherokee from Los Angeles, and Maxie Shapiro, the all-charging clouter from the East Side of our town, on the same bill. These two put on a shindig that was very hot for August in the third ten-rounder of last night's triple header before Shans escaped with a disputed decision.

"Uncle Mike" nowadays is concentrating on the smaller breed of belters, and in last night's black-eye prom—the third in a row featuring the little guys with lots of action—he came up with two winners who were approved by just about all of the 14,964 customers on hand.

Young, a marine out of Cleveland, made his New York debut in one tenner, and Fritzie carved him up like a boarding house steak so fast that the fight had to be stopped at the end of six rounds. Montgomery, the Philadelphia Negro lightweight who doesn't care which way he goes so long as it's forward, nearly broke Ruffin in half with his body belting to take the decision in the other top ten.

NO RESTRICTIONS ON CHRISTMAS PACKAGES

Washington, Aug. 14 (AP)—Despite the transportation problem in the United States there won't be any government restrictions on Christmas packages next Yuletide nor on Christmas cards. That was the answer of the office of Defence Transportation yesterday when government agencies were asked whether carloads of Christmas mail still would be permitted to roll across the country as in the days when munitions and airplane parts weren't competing for space.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was looking at his paper and ma was looking at hers, saying, P. Willis Hinkle has a very interesting collum today, William.

How can a man without brains ever have an interesting collum? pop said. Maybe his vertubral collum will prove mildly interesting to medical students if he wills it to some institution, he said, and ma said, Now William I wish you wouldn't be so narrow minded against the people you're prejudiced against. Today's collum is really quite interesting. P. Willis Hinkle claims that 9 tents of all living men are not working in the job they're most suited for because opportunity just happened to knock at the wrong door, she said.

Well now that's different, pop said. It's something I seldom allow my thoughts to dwell on, but when the subject is brought up like this I cant help feeling oppressed, by the thought that I'm a misfit and that my true destiny was far removed from the insurance business, he said, and ma said, Why William what a rediculous absurdity, you're a highly successful man in your line for land sakes.

I dont feel that way when I read the company's reports on the men who sell a million dollars worth of policies in a year and still have time for golf and mid-winter vacations, pop said. No, my deer, every once in a while when I find myself carrying a tune perfectly in my head and practically almost whissling it note for note, the feeling comes over me that my real life work should of been music, and then again when I remember how I made Benny's watch run again several years ago, I'm sure I should of gone in for engineering, and yet here look at me, he said, and ma said, William Potts I wont listen to another sillable of such nonsense, the idea. There's no sense in taking a man like P. Willis Hinkle so seriously. After all he's just a paid writer, she said.

Okay, if you admit he's a square numbskull in a round hole I'll take you to a movie, pop said.

The result being she quick admitted it and they went.

Murray Township Farmhand Drowned At Frankford

Falling off the mill dam in the village of Frankford during the noon hour Friday, William Garvey, an elderly Murray Township farmhand was drowned. Villagers saw the elderly man sitting on the dam alone and later it was noticed he was missing. Investigations resulted in the finding of the man's hat on the top of the dam. Later his body was removed from the water below.

Garvey had been employed as a farmhand by Harvey Pitcher, who resides immediately west of the village in Murray Township. It is understood the deceased man was waiting to procure a ride to the Pitcher farm with the district mailman. He is believed to have been around 60 years of age.

Coroner Dr. W. B. Crowe of Trenton, visited the scene of the fatality and announced an inquest would not necessarily follow. Provincial Police investigated.

R.A.F. Pilot Would Machine-Gun Every German After Witnessing Nazi Atrocities on the Continent

Mountain View, Ont., Aug. 14 — (CP) — Sqdn. Ldr. J.R.M. Boothby, D. F. C., 25-year-old member of the Royal Air Force stationed at the Bombing and Gunnery School here, said in an interview today he would "happily machine-gun every German, in the knowledge that the world then would be a better place."

After witnessing Nazi atrocities in Belgium, France, Poland and the Netherlands, Sqdn. Ldr. Boothby thought he had good reason to believe "killing Germans is the only justifiable blood-shedding business in the world today."

He recalled holding a seven-year-old Belgian child in his arms as she died from German machine-gun bullets; the sight of 40 Polish children mowed down by Nazi fighter planes as they played in their schoolyard; the wife of a Dutch naval officer who became an idiot under Gestapo torture.

"We must hate our foe because we can never live decently as long as there is a German race left in this world with any power," he said.

Sqdn. Ldr. Boothby said German airmen always attacked and machine-gunned British pilots who were forced to "bale out."

"Dozens have been killed in this way," he added.

COURT IS HELD IN POLICE OFFICE

Court Room in Possession of Decorators at Present Time

When the painters and decorators move in, well the tenants usually vacate and make way and that's exactly what happened at the police station today when the painters and decorators took possession of the Police Court rooms.

The only alternative left was to hold police court in the chief constable's office below and there Magistrate J. L. Lloyd presided today.

Strangely enough the only two to be arraigned before His Worship in the temporary courtroom were the identical two persons who appeared exactly a week previous. They were Frank McLarnen, transient, and Grace Fox of Sharbot Lake. Both had previously pleaded guilty to charges of vagrancy and today His Worship permitted the girl her liberty after being assured she had obtained gainful employment out of town. "Don't come back to Belleville and loiter around here", warned Acting Chief Harman. As for McLarnen, his case was further enlarged because he could not produce a National Registration card. Application was immediately made for the renewal of his registration card, which McLarnen told the court he had lost.

RUSSIANS FIGHT GRIMLY ON IN FACE OF INCREASING NAZI ATTACKS

This unusual photo shows a German tank at the point of striking a Russian mine. The action took place on the southern part of the front where the Nazis are now continuing their onslaught into the rich oil-producing Caucasus.

Russian guards, in this picturesque scene are shown taking a special oath of devotion and valor. They are the special shock troops, selected for their bravery and skill.

The family of a collective farmer is gathered in front of the charred ruins of their home. The mother wipes away a tear and the little children stand unsmilingly as the war brings its grim imprint to their tiny minds. The collective farmer has been a particular victim of the Nazis in their onslaught.

Co-operative Spirit Should Dominate Canadian Business Says W.P.T.B. Representative

George S. Mooney Gives Enlightening Talk on Canada's Economic Structure

"The spirit of co-operation rather than the spirit of competition must enter into and dominate the Canadian business structure during a time such as this", retail merchants and other business people of this city were told last night by George S. Mooney, of the Division of Simplified Practice, Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Mr. Mooney addressed a cross section of the business life of Belleville in the Chamber of Commerce offices here.

"When you are facing a problem of the proportions now looming", he added, "you are compelled to do many things that normally you perhaps wouldn't consider doing. In addition to eliminating the unnecessary frills and services which hitherto have characterized business practices, we are now at a point when those costs which are incurred for reasons of competitin, good will or prestige are becoming less and less justifiable. As a consequence, many of the competitive trade practices which grew up in a period when the market was free and conditions were different have no justification whatsoever to-day".

Face Situation

After reviewing the difficult supply and economic situation precipitated by the course of the war, Mr. Mooney ,a well known Canadian economist, pointed out that, because of the diversion of manpower and material resources to defence production, the Dominion faced a situation when the amount of goods available for civilian use is steadily diminishing and when, in consequence, the business community is in for "a long siege of tough going". It was one of the chief purposes of the Division of Simplified Practice, he said, sc to advise business people, to reduce costs of operation, to ensure orderly and continued civilian supply and, in general, to "stream-line the market-place", that business may be guided safety through an extremely difficult period.

Mr. Mooney explained different steps which had been taken in regard to the exercise of economy and simplification in the production and distribution of civilian goods and services and suggested that the need for a broadening of such measures had become imperative in view of the altered war situation, the elimination of some important sources of supply and the continued diversion of manpower and materials to the armed forces and the munitions industries. Already it had become necessary to eliminate the production of certain articles and is seemed reasonable to believe that within the next few months most civilian industries would be obliged to undergo a contraction of their operations.

Every Person Has Job

"Every person in this kind of war has a job to do", said Mr. Mooney, "That is what total war means. It means every pair of hands, every mind, every erg of energy, every scrap of raw material, every factory, every machine, mobilized and utilized for the single, sombre purpose of speeding up the war effort. If that be so, then nothing less than a complete mobilization of our economic resources and a complete integration of the market-place into the strategy of total war will suffice for the days ahead. From now on we have got to get down to a much simpler basis of living. We must practice the frugal way of living. All our habits must be utilitarian from now on. We have got to make our things last longer. Patch and wear—cash and carry. These are the kind , of That is the kind of picture now confronting the Canadian people, not a year from now but now. We must take time by the forelock and act while still we have time".

AMERICA WILL STAGGER

WORLD WITH PRODUCTION

LONDON, Aug. 13 — (CP Cable) —Sir Norman Birkett, lawyer and lecturer who recently visited Canada and the United States, today told the Overseas League that "As far as production is concerned, America will stagger the world .... and I can say the same thing about Canadian production."

He told of inspecting factories at Toronto and Hamilton, Ont., where "as in every part of the Dominion, workers are going all-out."

Icebreaker Montcalm Under 3-Day Air, Sub Attack en Route to Russia

Ottawa, Aug. 14—(CP)— During her recent trip to Murmansk to be turned over to Russian authorities the Canadian icebreaker Montcalm was under successive Nazi bombing attack for three days but escaped damage and "assisted in downing two of the attacking aircraft," the transport department announced today.

Two aerial torpedoes narrowly missed the craft.

The department's statement was based on a report from Captain Fred S. Slocombe of Toronto who commanded the Montcalm on her long voyage and reported back to the transport department only yesterday.

Arrival of the Montcalm at the Russian port was announced some weeks ago by the external affairs department.

In regard to one of the two German planes shot down by the convoy in which the Montcalm travelled, Captain Slocombe said tracer bullets from his ship's guns could be seen hitting the aircraft just before it broke into flames and crashed into the sea.

"But," he said, "It is pretty difficult to claim credit for downing these enemy planes, because of the heavy anti-aircraft fire from a number of ships converging on one plane."

The attacks were usually made during the half light of the midnight sun, he said.

Two Torpedoes Miss Ship

Two torpedoes, released from aircraft, barely missed his ship but one of them hit a merchant vessel in the convoy. Captain Slocombe said he saw the wake of one torpedo cross the Montcalm's bow, missing it by only a few yards. Members of his crew reported seeing the wake of another torpedo crossing the stern.

Captain Slocombe reported that he turned over the Montcalm to the soviet government in good condition. While most of the crew were immediately repatriated, Captain Slocombe stayed in Murmansk for a while until all formalities had been completed. While he was stationed in a hotel, Murmansk was repeatedly bombed. Explosives fell on both sides of the building shattering windows and knocking down plaster.

Praises Crew Members

Captain Slocombe praised members of the Montcalm's crew of 27 Canadians and 32 Britons, some of whom had no previous experience of enemy action. All displayed "excellent behavior and good morale" despite three days aerial attack.

Captain Slocombe, an official of the Department of Transport, has been supervising enaminer of masters and mates (Inland waters division) at Toronto since 1937. He is a native of Cardiff, Wales, and has been at sea since 1919. He came to Canada in 1930.

The Montcalm is a steel, twin-screw steamship specially constructed for the Canadian Government in 1904 as an icebreaker. She has seen much service in ice-breaking work in the St. Lawrence River and off Canada's Eastern Coast. She was operated by the Transport Department until transferred to the soviet government early this year.

NAZI DRIVES THREATEN STALINGRAD, ASTRAKHAN

MARINES TAKE FIRM HOLD ON SOLOMON ISLANDS

Force Deep Wedge Into Russ Lines At the Don Bend

Drive to Astrakhan Considered Dangerous to Russia's Main Waterway, Volga

SWIFT ADVANCE

By EDDY GILMORE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Moscow, Aug. 15. (AP) —German forces in the Kotelnikovski region southwest of Stalingrad fanned out in a threatening new drive today toward Astrakhan where the Volga meets the Caspian, dispatches from the front said.

Other Nazis made fresh progress toward Stalingrad forcing a "deep wedge in Red Army defences south of Kletskaya in the Don Bend and pushing the Russians back even further to the northeast of Kotelnikovski, which lies 95 miles from Stalingrad.

The new threat to the broad Volga which is Russia's main waterway was considered as dangerous if not more so than the twin thrusts against Stalingrad, great industrial city on the river.

(At Kotlenikovski, the Germans still were 245 miles away from Astrakhan, but the Germans earlier this week claimed the capture of Elista, which lies only 160 miles to the west.)

Vast wastelands traversed by poor roads lie to the southeast of Kotelnikovski.

One of Chief Food Centres

Astrakhan is, one of Russia's chief food sources and is a key to the Northern Caspian sea as well as the Allied supply route from the Persian Gulf.

The Nazi drive in the Caucasus is so swift and mobile that Red Army units are forced to be vigilant day and night to prevent encirclement. No such thing as a stable front exists in the Caucasus, dispatches said.

Heavy fighting was flaring in all sectors of the Don bend, the bulletin indicated.

The withdrawal south of Kotelnikovski, 95 miles southwest of Stalingrad, was made under pressure of superior enemy forces, the mid-day communique said, adding that after withdrawing "slightly" the Russians had "consolidated themselves in advantageous positions."

Russians Haul Back Huns

The Germans also broke through northeast of Kotelnikovski, reaching the outskirts of an unnamed village, but in a swift and unexpected counter attack the Red army threw back the invaders, the communique said.

Again the Germans struck on the same battleground, this time with the support of 15 tanks. Soviet artillery smashed six German tanks the communique said, and the Russians launched a counter attack against the confused Germans, routing them once more.

The Germans were reported suffering great losses in fighting south of Kletskaya, 75 miles northwest of Stalingrad, where they succeeded in driving the wedge into Russian defences and reaching the west bank of the Don river.

Grim Struggle for Caucasus

While the Red army fought grimly at the approaches to Stalingrad, the struggle for the Caucasus moved on bitterly and the Russians said small forces of German automatic riflemen succeeded in crossing the Kuban river at Krasnodar in the northwestern Caucasus. Krasnodar is only 60 miles northwest of the Red fleet's Black Sea naval base at Novorossisk.

"Fighting is now going on to exterminate the German rifle men who crossed to the south bank," the communique said.

Nazi Drive in Foothills Slowed up

The German drive in the Maikop region and elsewhere in the Caucasian Foothills was reported by the Army newspaper, Red Star, to be moving more slowly. Fighting was heavy, however, at Mineralnye Vody, 140 miles from the Grozny oil fields toward which the Germans are heading.

The bitter fighting in the Don Bend in which the Germans now have reached the one important natural obstacle on the road to Stalingrad—the Don River—was accompanied by sharp fighting in many sectors of the long front stretching northward to Leningrad.

At Bryansk, 200 miles southwest of Moscow, the Russians attacked and expelled the Germans from an advantageous height and then repulsed a German counter attack by superior forces, the mid-day communique said.

South of Voronezh, on the Upper Don, the Germans launched sharp attacks in an effort to regain lost positions and succeeded in pushing the Russians back in one sector Red Star reported.

The Russians recovered quickly, however, and threw the Germans back to their original positions, it was reported.

The Russian midnight communique also told of an attack by "considerable forces of tanks and motorized infantry" in anothed sector of the Kletskaya region, but said Red Army tanks and infantry had absorbed this blow, killing more than 800 Germans and throwing the attacking force back to its original positions.

7 Nazi Transports Sunk by Russian Subs in Baltic

Moscow, Aug. 15 — (AP) —Two Russian submarines have returned to port after sinking seven German transports — one of them a 16,000-ton ship — loaded with men and munitions in the Baltic, the newspaper Pravda reported today.

A brass band greeted the crews, it said.

Another report said three Red Navy submarines had reached a Baltic port after sinking nine German transports, among them one of 10,000 tons, and a U-boat.

Say Nazis Build Dummy Forts On Norse Coast

New York, Aug. 15 (AP) — The Moscow radio broadcast a Stockholm report today saying the Germans were building dummy fortifications along the Norwegian coast in an effort to dissuade the Allies from attacking to open a second front.

"In the Bergen area, the German engineers in addition to real fortifications have built quite a number of sham ones, repainting antiquated structures and equipping them with dummy guns," the Moscow radio, as heard by CBS, said. "German forces on the coast are greatly reduced. A single infantry regiment is now stationed in the Bergen section.

"Forces on other sectors of the coast, particularly in the south, have been similarly reduced."

TRAPPED 30 MINUTES IN ELEVATOR IN BLACKOUT

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 15 —(CP)— Two women and an elevator operator were trapped between floors in a hotel elevator here when a blackout started. It was a 30-minute wait before the all-clear sounded.

New Flare-up Occurs at Calcutta Tho Most Violence Has Subsided

BOMBAY, Aug. 15 — (CP) — Application of severe penalties, including death and collective fines, was reported under consideration by British authorities today to put down the wave of destruction of riotous Indian followers as Mohandas K. Gandhi after he had sponsored a non-violent independence drive.

Wilful damage to railroad property and telegraph wires which has occurred in several parts of India in past days, even while most violence was subsiding, was said to have prompted the study of more drastic measures of repression.

Under one existing ordinance, sabotage of railroads and telegraph lines is punishable by death or whipping. Under another fines may be imposed on inhabitants of communities where acts of sabotage are committed.

Although normal conditions apparently had returned for the most part after almost a week of rioting and vandalism, a new flare-up occurred today at Calcutta, India's great eastern city.

Demonstrators there slashed telephone wires, wrecked fire-alarm boxes and interfered with street car service. Eight were wounded when police fired into one crowd.

AT LEAST TEN AXISPLANESDOWN IN CONVOY FIGHT

Toll of Enemy Aircraft During Attack on Convoy is Expected To Mount

RAID AXIS AIRFIELDS

CAIRO, Aug. 15 — (AP) — British fighter planes shot down at least 10 enemy planes during the Axis attack on a big Mediterranean convoy this week and the figure is expected to climb, a British headquarters-R.A.F. communique said today.

British light bombers also attacked enemy positions and airfields in the El Daba-Fuka area on the Egypt front as air action in that war zone again intensified, the bulletin reported.

The land front some 80 miles west of Alexandria remained dormant except for minor night patrol activity.

Fighters accompanying the ground-strafing bombers shot down one Me-109 and long-range R.A.F. fighters sent twoJu-52's flaming into the Mediterranean.

Of the air-sea battle, the communique said:—

"During the shipping convoy operations in the Mediterranean Aug. 13-14 our fighters shot down at least 10 enemy aircraft.

"Reports still are incomplete, however, and it is expected that the figure will be increased.

"Our air losses during this period were four aircraft but one pilot is safe."

Hurled From Bomber With Parachute, Flier Lands Safely

London, Aug. 15 —(CP)— From an R.A.F. pilot in a prison camp in Germany has come a letter telling of an almost incredible escape from death when he was hurled from an exploding bomber in mid-air with parachute pack in hand during the 1,000-plane R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. raid on Cologne May 30.

"We were set alight by Nazi fighters," the pilot wrote, "and I gave the word to jump. The second pilot handed me by parachute.

"At the same moment another attack turned us upside down and started us spinning. Suddenly there was a hell of a crash and I found myself alone in space, with my parachute in my hand.

"I clipped it on in mid-air—a difficult and alarming experience—and it opened at what seemed hardly more than tree height. I landed heavily.

"It still was raining bits of airplane, which must have come to pieces, as we were all flung out like this except the tail gunner."

The radio operator was captured with the pilot—a squadron leader—but others of the crew were killed.

Rhodes Bombarded By Royal Naval Squadron, Great Fires Break Out

Columns of Dense Black Smoke Rise From Waterfront of Town on Italian Island of Same Name — British Squadron Surprises Italians With Perfect Timing

LONDON, Aug. 16 — (CP) — A British naval squadron bombarded the town of Rhodes on the Italian island of the same name for 12 minutes early Thursday setting great fires and causing extensive damage, Reuters news agency reported today.

The island lies in the extreme eastern Mediterranean, close to Turkey. It is the largest of the Dodecanese.

As the squadron steamed away a big fire and numerous smaller ones that sent up columns of black smoke could be seen on the waterfront, Nixon said.

The Exchange Telegraph Agency said the squadron, under Rear-Admiral P. L. Vian, carried out the bombardment with accuracy and perfect timing.

The warships entered enemy waters and approached the target without being detected before they opened fire.

Reuters said planes co-operated in the action, dropping flares, spotting targets for the ships, and bombing the airdrome simultaneously with the sea attack.

"Despite efforts of Italian shore batteries and the presence of E-boats, all our ships and aircraft returned without a scratch," the Reuters correspondent wrote. "Co-operation between sea and air forces was perfect."

Exchange Telegraph said the Italian shore batteries did not reply until after several salvoes had left the guns, and then "their shells came singing over our heads.'

Orange and Gold Flames

The Reuters correspondent, describing the attack, said:—

"It must have been Rhodes' brightest night since the war began.

"Orange and gold flame belched from the warships and there was a rumble of thunder as they fired. Bright flashes showed where the shells were exploding and after several minutes there came a new sound. The shore batteries were returning fire on the ships.

"The interval indicated the defenders were taken by surprise but their gunnery was fairly accurate. Several shells whistled over our heads while at least two salvos sent up splashes very close to us.

"For exactly 12 minutes the shells were hurled at shipping in the harbor and targets ashore, the chief of which was a large flour mill.

Silently Ships Sweep Away

"Then the warships swept silently away leaving fire and columns of smoke as evidence of their visit. Motor torpedo boats were reported near us but they did not see us. For an hour or more as we raced away, anti-aircraft shells and bullets danced in the sky but we paid little attention. Our part of the night's work was completed.

"We had been in enemy waters over two hours but the job went through without a hitch. The only incident came the next morning when one or two enemy aircraft circled around and then headed for home without attacking."

300 FREE FRENCH MEN AND WOMEN FLEE MARTINIQUE

Arrive at Nearby British Islands to Go to Place 'Where We Can Fight'

USE SMALL BOATS

London, Aug. 15 —(CP)— The Fighting French Press Service said today that 300 French men and women who escaped from Martinique have arrived at the nearby British islands of Dominica and St. Lucia to await transportation to a place "where we can fight."

Most of the men fled in small boats at night and the last three to arrive were picked up by British fishermen 10 miles off St. Lucia, the news service said.

One young sailor was quoted by the service as saying "life in Martinique is hell" and declaring that the Vichy governor, Admiral Georges Robert, and naval authorities are spreading anti-Allied propaganda. Persons listening to foreign broadcasts were sent to jail, the sailor said.

Mainz Belongs To List of Cities Heavily Damaged

Berne, Switzerland, Aug. 15—(AP)—The Neue Zuercher Zeitung's correspondent in Berlin said today reports in the German press gave the impression that the Rhineland city of Mainz, bombed twice in heavy force this week "now belongs to the list of German cities which suffered great damage."

He said numerous buildings were hit, including the Mainzer Dome.

Say Nazis Order Cruiser, 7 Subs, 2 Destroyers Built in Vichy France

Moscow, Aug. 15 (AP)—Tass, Soviet News Agency, quoted diplomatic circles in Lisbon today as saying that the Germans had ordered construction started on a 7,000-ton cruiser, seven submarines and two destroyers at dockyards in unoccupied France.

(Since the entire Atlantic coast of France is under German occupation, the reference to unoccupied France would mean the Mediterranean. The French have a large naval base at Toulon.)

HEINKEL 177 IS SHOT DOWN BY CZECH FIGHTER

Experts Believe Heinkel Capable of Non-Stop Round Trip France to New York With 1000-Pound Load

MADE AT ROSTOK

London, Aug 15. (CP) — Wing Cmdr. Max Aitken, 32-year-old son of Lord Beaverbrook, disclosed in a broadcast last night that one of his Czech squadron fighter pilots had shot down a Heinkel 177—the big German bomber which air experts believe is capable of a non-stop round trip flight from France to New York with 1,000 pounds of explosives.

The Heinkel was downed several nights ago, he said, by a Czech flying a crack Beaufighter.

The Heinkel 177 is comparable in size and speed to the R.A.F.'s Lancaster bomber, and is reported to have a wingspan of 103 feet, and a range of 2,000 miles with a 3,000-pound bomb load. Airmen believe it capable of trans-Atlantic bombing missions with a lighter cargo of explosives.

The bomber is a product of the Heinkel works at Rostock wrich was blasted in four heavy R.A.F. raids last March.

Wing Cmdr. Aitken's Record

Wing Cmdr. Aitken was awarded the Distinguished Service Order August 13. An unusually laudatory citation announcing the award praised Aitken as a "brilliant pilot and a gallant leader who set an inspiring example".

He already holds the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Czecho-Slovakian war cross. He was a total of 12 air victories.

In one foray last month he shot down two German night raiders while his squadron bagged three more.

NO HIT WITH WINNERS

Osceola, Neb., Aug. 15 — (AP) — Two prizes awarded at the Polk County Fair here didn't make much of a hit with the recipients. Addie Carter, Shelby, who has naturally curly hair, won a free permanent wave for the woman raising the most chickens, and Al Nicklaus of Osceola, who is baldpated, won a free haircut for buying the most war bonds.

TOKYO AIR RAID FORCES JAPANESE TO ALTER POLICY

Effect on People So Great Army Decided To Consolidate Air Defences

HALTED INDIAN DRIVE

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 15 — (CP) — The United States air raid on Tokyo forces the Japanese to alter the whole strategy of their campaign in the Far East and abandon temporarily at least their plans to invade India, a British government official said on his return from Chungking this month.

The effect of the raid on the people of Japan was so great that the war lords decided to consolidate their own defences against air attack before driving into India in an invasion they believed would have been successful.

The subsequent Japanese advance northward through Burma into China and landings in the Aleutian Islands were all part of the scheme to cut off bases from which the Allies might bomb Japan.

Bombing, the official said, is one thing the Japanese fear more than anything else. Air raid tests had to be curtailed because of the effect on the people who, even when warned in advance, refused to believe they were tests.

Production suffered so greatly after the United States raid that rather than risk the possibility of losing the output of their factories at home, the Japanese decided to alter their war plans.

Landings in the Aleutian Islands provided bases from which planes flying from Alaska could be intercepted. By closing the Burma Road, the Japanese cut China's supply line and protected themselves from bomber attack from the mainland.

Opinion Backs Britain

Opinion in the Far East, the official said, is that Britain did the right thing in strengthening the defences of the Middle East, at the cost of munitions which might otherwise have gone to India and China. The threat to India and the west is fully recognized.

China, however, counts on the Allies to attack Burma when the rains end in October or November because the Burma Road is the key to China's future resistance.

At present China is isolated from the rest of the world except by air and two 5,000-ton ships can unload more munitions at Rangoon than can be carried into China by plane in a year. Alternative land roads from India are of more moral than practical value.

Need to Open B. R.

Opening of the Burma Road not only would strengthen Chinese resistance and ease the pressure on India but might force the Japanese to withdraw troops from the Siberian border, lessening the chances of an attack on Russia.

Experts Explain How To Save Gas By Running Car on Half Cylinders

Philadelphia, August 15—(AP)—By employing a simple, inexpensive trick discovered years ago and forgotten in the rush for speed and power on the highways, gas-hungry motorists can get 30 to 40 per cent. more mileage from precious gallons of gasoline.

Details of the method, which involves operating passenger automobiles on half their cylinders and minor carburetor adjustments, were disclosed today by Sun Oil engineers for the benefit of some 1,500,000 car owners on the Eastern United States seaboard who are fretting over the gas problem.

"It's the start of what we think every motorist should agree to," said J. M. Pew, Sun Oil president. "It's only the beginning of things that can be accomplished."

As explained by John G. Moxey, assistant chief engineer of the company's research department, the method boils down to three steps: Removing valve lifters from every other cylinder so that both intake and exhaust valves remain closed; pinching together the points on spark plugs in the non-working cylinders so there will be no ignition spark; and carburetor adjustments to cut the flow of gasoline.

Some carburetors require two new parts, a larger metering pin and a low speed jet. Other carburetors can be adjusted by blocking off half of the working unit. The two new parts, Pew said, are not available at present, but carburetor manufacturers have indicated they will stock them.

The whole operation, Pew said, costs about "a day's labor and a couple of dollars for the new parts if needed."

One test car, Moxey said, ran 36 miles on a gallon of gasoline. There is some vibration when the speed falls below 16 to 18 miles an hour and this entails more gear shifting The best speed range is between 30 and 35 miles an hour.

The company is passing along its findings and instructions to automobile manufacturers who, Pew said, have shown interest.

Allied Bombers Hammer Intended Reinforcements

U.S. Marines Are 'Progressing Satisfactorily' Consolidating Beach Heads

MARINES ENTRENCHED

Washington, Aug. 15 —(AP)— United States marines, supported by strong air and naval forces, have smashed back sufficient Japanese defenders to clamp a firm hold upon the strategic Solomon Islands.

As Allied bombers pounded at attempted enemy reinforcements, the marines were "progressing satisfactorily," the Navy announced last night, in consolidating hard-won beach heads.

The terse navy communique on the first big offensive of the United States and the United Nations gave only the barest details. But it left little doubt they were winning the early rounds of a conflict that, if successful, may lead eventually to an assault upon Japan itself.

With the marines still in the thick of combat, flying fortresses and swift attack bombers were reported to be persistently striking at Japanese air bases and ship concentrations to protect Allied communication lines and stave off enemy reinforcements.

Jap Convoy Again Pounded

A Japanese convoy which an Allied spokesman said was attacked three times previously, again became the target of heavy bombers off New Britain to the northwest. The convoy included transport ships bound in an easterly direction toward the Solomons.

Bad weather veiled results of the latest assault but two more Japanese fighter planes were shot down and three damaged. All Allied aircraft returned to their bases although some were damaged slightly.

Meantime, naval units protected the Allied communication lines and escorting supply vessels to the occupation forces and the army and shore-based-aircraft continued to attack the enemy air bases and harbors, the navy reported.

Outcome of the battle for the island bases was expected to decide whether the Japs retain the stepping stones to attacks on Australia and New Zealand or whether the United Nations attain a base for future offences against enemy positions.

More Than 76,000 Italian Fascists Expelled by Party

New York, Aug. 15 — (CP) — BBC said more than 76,000 members of the National Fascist Party in Italy have been expelled.

The broadcast was heard here by CBS.

The purge was announced in Rome today, the broadcast said, at a meeting of the directorate of the party. Mussolini presided.

Reasons for the expulsion were given in a report by the party secretary. They included infringement of the rationing regulations, refusal to take part in voluntary militia for national safety, omission to wear the Fascist badge and luke-warm interest in party affairs.

The report said that a systematic examination of the position of every Fascist was carried out to eliminate what it called "harmful deadweight," and added that the progress of elimination is being continued.

3 PICTON R.A.F. MEN DROWN IN 1ST FATALITY

Plane Crashes Into Lake Ontario Between Salmon Point and Point Petre

In the first fatal plane crash in the history of the Royal Air Force base at Picton, three members of the R. A. F. stationed there lost their lives when their bomber plane crashed into Lake Ontario Friday afternoon. Station officials refrained from announcing the names of the occupants pending notification of the next of kin at home overseas. The plane lies in 25 feet of water between Salmon Point and Point Petre 10 miles west of Picton.

Failing to pull out of a power dive the plane plunged into the water, giving the occupants no chance to escape. Neither the machine nor the bodies had been recovered early Saturday, although salvage operations had been in progress since early morning.

According to two farmer eye witnesses, two planes from the Picton R.A.F. base were manoeuvring over the vicinity of Point Petre. Suddenly one of the planes went into a steep dive and failed to right itself before plunging into the waters of Lake Ontario some 175 feet off shore. Picton R.A.F. crash boats were immediately notified, but the plane remained submerged carrying to their death the three occupants.

Picton R.A.F. officials told the Ontario Intelligencer today that the names of the ill-fated airmen would be released as soon as their next of kin had been notified of the accident.

The twin-engined plane lies in 25 feet of water 175 yards off shore. Attempts yesterday to effect recovery of the bodies proved futile. They will be continued.

A bombing range is located at Point Petre and the machine, along with another, was in that vicinity at the time. After the crash, the second plane returned to Picton. The R.A.F. crash boat from Point Traverse visited the scene and marked the spot with a buoy.

TWIN EGGS DISPLAYED

Records are being broken this summer at the farm of Marcus Moy Mountain View R. R. 1. Twin soft-shelled eggs, perfectly formed, were brought into the Ontario Intelligencer office this morning by Mrs. Moy. The eggs were joined together at the tip and both were good-sized eggs covered with soft membrane.

Another record has been achieved at this same farm. In harvesting the wheat crop, nine acres of Dawson Golden Chaff wheat were found to yield forty-nine bushels to the acre. To out do that, four acres which had never been sowed this year, yielded thirty-five bushels to the acre, the grain coming up from last year.

Skunk in Chicken Coop Surprises the Owner With "Gas" Attack

Trenton, (Special)—Roy Brown, West Street, received a sudden shock the other day when he was alarmed at the sudden fuss in his chicken coop. He immediately made for the disturbance and lifting the gate stepped in only to be met with, what any warrior fears, a sudden gas attack. Dazed by the suddenness of the attack and the element of surprise he staggered back but decided as he regained his equilibrium that the best thing to do was to face the black and white intruder and finish the job at all costs. Arming himself with a club he stepped bravely forward steeling himself against the next vapour blast and knocked the skunk over with a hearty blow. To finish the job a pitch fork nailed the little fellow to the ground. The score, one dead skunk and four dead chickens. The skunk was buried. All that remained for Mr. Brown to do was to be deodorized, which was a lengthy proposition. Later one of the children playing ran in to inform him that the skunk was coming out of the ground. Another short sharp attack and this time the skunk was really dead.

Rotary Carnival Opens Monday On Park

The stage is all set for the opening of the Grand Rotary Carnival which gets under way on Victoria Park on Monday and will continue for an entire week.

The setting is perfect, Rotarians believe, and in the coolness of the park, residents of the city will find a pleasant relaxation from the labors of the day.

The Queen City Shows, one of Canada's outstanding entertainment and amusement concerns will be here with one of the most attractive collections of varying forms of entertainment seen here in a long time.

There will be rides and ferris wheels, automobile whirls for the children, merry-go-rounds, and other motive forms of amusement.

Featuring the week-long carnival is the "Million-Dollar" baby under the care of Rotarian Charlie Symons. This attractive young lady is handsomely garbed in one-dollar bills and the lucky owner will not only get a handsome doll but a lucrative return in her wearing apparel. Tickets are selling well and the young lady will be drawn for on the Carnival Grounds towards the latter part of the week.

The proceeds of the carnival will be devoted exclusively to the Crippled Children Fund of the service club. The clubmen have been doing fine work during the past twenty years bringing alleviation of suffering, and treatment to many an unfortunate child who otherwise would not have received the proper care. Many children have been reported wholly cured and hundreds have shown marked progress toward recovery.

The Rotary Club has faith in the public of the city and district. In the past the response to their appeals for this cause has been of a generous nature and the clubmen feel that this year's carnival will be no exception.

The carnival will open on Monday night, and the public are urged to attend this fine outdoor show and help the crippled children of the city.

NO NEWS FROM NETHERLANDS IF NAZI THREATS CARRIED OUT

London, Aug. 15.—(CP)—The Netherlands Government waited in vain today for word of whether the Germans had carried out their threat to kill a number of hostages in reprisal for the wrecking of a Nazi troop train a week ago.

The deadline after which the Germans said they would execute hostages if the saboteurs were not surrendered passed at midnight. Nazi broadcasts last night omitted warnings of the deadline.

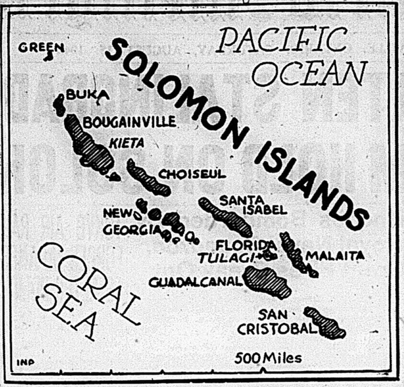
Where Leathernecks Write New History



Here is a map of the group of islands that comprise the Solomons, where the United States marine corps is writing another glorious chapter in its history. The marines have made landings in Japanese-held islands and have dug in to hold what they've taken while grabbing some more. First objective was the Japanese naval base at Tulagi, just north of Guadalcanal. It is reported in London that the Japs have lost control of Tulagi to the American fighting men.

Grade "A" Eggs Up Three Cents From Week Ago

Firming three cents in price from last week's quotations, Grade "A" eggs retailed at 40 cents on the local produce market Saturday. Strengthening of prices on the Montreal and Toronto wholesale markets was responsible for the increase, according to farmers. Mediums were quoted at correspondingly increased prices and brought 36 to 37 cents per dozen.

The butter offering was comparatively scarce with vendors asking 40 cents and two pounds for 85 cents. Some nice spring chickens were offered with prices ranging up to $1.80 for large 6-lb birds. The average fowl, however, brought the usual $1.15 to $1.35 each with broilers ranging up to $1.50 per pair.

Truck lots of peaches and plums were offered on the market for the first time this season with No. 1 peaches bringing 70 cents and No. 2's 60 cents the six-quart basket. Burbank plums sold generally at 60 cents the six-quart basket, with Shiros bringing the same figure. Green pears sold at 15 cents the berry box.

Long blackberries found a steady sale at 30 cents the box, while huckleberries were quoted at $1.75 per six-quart basket or 30 cents the quart. Blue raspberries were offered by a few vendors at 20 cents the box.

Corn Prices High

Special grade corn on the cob sold as high as 40 cents the dozen ears with prices ranging down to 30 cents. Tomatoes were 60 cents the six-quart basket, and potatoes 45 cents the peck.

Cauliflower was more freely offered with largest heads bringing 30 cents each while cucumbers sold from 25 cents per basket up to 50 cents for the gherkin size.

Apples sold at 40 to 50 cents the basket for best grade Duchess and Transparent, while Astrachans brought up to 40 cents the half-peck.

Whitefish found a brisk sale at 25 cents the pound. Young porkers were quite all picked up by eleven o'clock with several farmers selling their lots early at prices ranging from $7 to $8.

Y.M.C.A. War Services

(Belleville)

Tonight's dance in the Y.M.C.A. gym. will not get underway until about 8.30, but judging by last week's turnout of airmen it will be necessary to be on hand about 8 o'clock in order to gain admission. Wherever possible, the hostesses are requested to be present early.

Sunday, the Red Triangle Club will be open all day and any member of the services will be welcomed. Dancing class is held each Monday at 8 p.m. in the games room.

St. Michael's Hospitality Club will be hosts for the Tuesday night dance at the Bay of Quinte Golf Club under the direction of I. Wismer of the Trenton Station. Tickets for this dance are only available from the Y.M.C.A. Supervisors at 5 I.T.S. and Trenton.

The Wednesday evening dance in the Y gym. continued to attract about 100 young ladies and airmen and favorable comments are steadily received.

Magazines continue to pour in from local citizens and today we were able to pass along about 500 to Supervisors at 6 R.D. and Trenton Stations. No effort is made at the Red Triangle Club to have visiting airmen sign a register, but voluntarily each week about 40 fellows write their names, home addresses and present location in our guest book. In glancing over last week's record we saw chaps from all parts of the British Isles, including Worthing, Sussex, Cheshire, Manchester, Grasmere, Banbury, Oxon, Leeds, Plymouth and London; Motherwell, Edinburgh and Galashiels, Scotland; Cardiff and Cork. The rest were from every province in Canada and one chap from Detroit, Mich. How we'd like to introduce these lads, thousands of miles from home, to countrymen now living in and around Belleville. Anyone wishing to entertain one or more of these chaps who are guests of Canada, for either a meal or over night are asked to leave their name either with Tom Hill, Supervisor, or at the Y.M.C.A. office.

Contact Club

Mr. Sedgworth of the Ontario Farm Service Force talked to the members at their regular meeting on Thursday afternoon. Mr. Sedgworth outlined the need of all available help being given to the farmers and canners so that this year's crop would be taken care of satisfactorily. Mr. Sedgworth pointed out that while we in Canada had always had an abundance of food we were actually only one bad season from shortages in many lines. As shortages in other food lines are beginning to show up it is of extreme importance that all the fruits and vegetables possible be gathered and canned for use in the coming year. The members of the Contact Club showed considerable interest in this talk and are planning to give all the time they can manage. Any airman's wife could register at the Y in the Y.W.C.A. rooms registry office or at the Unemployment Insurance office at the City Hall.

Swimming, games and a social time were enjoyed by the members.

Trenton Sports

This week the highlight in sport was the visit to Vimy Barracks at Kingston. The baseball team met defeat at the hands of the Vimy boys, the final score being 6-5, but the Soccer lads came through with a good win when they held Vimy scoreless while putting in three goals themselves making the final count, 3-0.

The Officers' Softball team bowed to a strong squad from Vimy by a score of 12-11. Vimy got away to a big lead which was gradually cut down but the game was called on account of darkness.

All the teams were entertained royally by the Vimy boys and a grand spirit was shown by all the personnel, the lads came home singing all the way, and a good time was had by all and the morale of everyone heightened.

Small games this week were very popular in the Airmen's recreation centre. A marked increase in the attendance was shown in the bingo, bridge and table tennis tournaments.

The Belleville Hospitality Club was host to the airmen at a dance held at the Quinte Golf and Country Club, on Tuesday evening. Due to a limited number of tickets available at the Y.M.C.A. office many airmen have found from experience that in order to attend these very popular dances tickets must be procured well ahead of dance time.

Airmen have been loud in their praise of the many kind vacationists at Presqu'ile Point who have opened their cottages to them and have shown such grand home hospitality.

We say "thank you" for all the men to whom you have given such marvellous 48's.

Further indication of the progress in the Solomons came from a British war correspondent, who cabled his London paper from Sydney that the Americans "have or soon will have complete control of Tulagi Island," a major point of attack.

So strongly entrenched were the marines, he added, that only "the heaviest reinforcements" could dislodge them. At the same time, he said the Japanese apparently were prepared to risk a big naval action to hold the Solomons and the fighting would continue for weeks.

Navy's Statement.

The navy's statement on the conflict was that:—

"The task of consolidating the shore positions now held by United States Marines in the Solomon Islands is progressing satisfactorily.

"Naval units are engaged in protecting our lines of communications and escorting supply vessels to our occupying forces.

"United States Army and Allied shore-based craft are continuing to attack Japanese air bases and ship concentrations in enemy-held harbors."

LONDON, Aug. 15 — (CP) — Japanese reports reaching here via Germany acknowledged today that United States Marines have landed "on one of the Solomon Islands" and that fierce fighting is taking place with Japanese forces.

The report, a Tokyo dispatch to DNB, claimed — (for the second time) — that the naval phase of the battle had been concluded.

Reuters heard the Vichy radio broadcasting a report that United States forces had captured a Japanese airdrome on one of the Solomon Islands.

Reuters news agency said the Berlin radio broadcast this report from Tokyo:—

"The huge naval battle off the Solomon Islands which resulted in overwhelming victory for the Japanese navy has been concluded according to latest reports.

"In its main phases the battle lasted without interruption three whole days beginning Aug. 7.

"Only a few enemy units succeeded in escaping, apparently in the direction of Australia."

No Confirmation

(This is an enemy report with no confirmation from any source: in fact, it is a different story from what the Japanese previously have told.

(An earlier claim from Tokyo that the naval battle of the Solomon Islands was over described it is a one-night engagement.

(It is disproven, furthermore, by the United States navy communique which announced in Washington yesterday that American "naval units are engaged in protecting our lines of communication and escorting supply vesselse to our occupying forces."

Japs Admit Marines on Land

(Acknowledgement that American Marines are ashore was the first admission of an adverse trend in the battle from the Axis side. There was no explanation how they established beachheads, even on one island, in face of the supposed rout of the United Nations' naval forces.)

Canada's Army, Air Force and Industry Roll on Rubber and Navy Needs It Too

There are plenty of uses for that old rubber scrap which rural residents of Ontario and Quebec will be digging out August 24 to September 8 say National Salvage officials in charge of the drive. The army and the air force roll on rubber, as do Canada's essential industries. The navy too, makes use of reclaimed rubber, even though sub-chasers and other ships need no tires. Here's the list showing some of the uses to which old scrap rubber will go:

Military vehicle tires
Warplane tires
Military footwear
Fire hose
Airplane detachable pontoons
Wire and cable
Military signal apparatus
Motor-cycle tires
Life-saving jackets
Navy hose
Shock-absorbing pads
Gaskets
Munitions worker's non-spark galoshes

Malta the Heroic

Malta stands out as one of the great defences of history.

It is not only a post defending itself but it has been carrying on its shoulders the great duty of being a major factor in safeguarding the North African and Middle East situation. In its isolation in the Mediterranean it was destined by nature to play a great role in history and today undoubtedly its greatest performance is taking place.

Well has Malta deserved the honor of the award by His Majesty King George for the great service it has given in the cause of Britain and her Allies. The benefits which flow from the deeds performed on this isle in the Inland Sea and in the air and clouds above this spot redound to all the civilized world of the United Nations and the nations not actively engaged in this war.

Malta stands as a bastion against which the explosions and blasts of Hun and Fascist fail. Before it Mussolini's treachery and boasting are ineffective and Hitler's savage brutality cannot accomplish his sinister designs.

The spirit of Malta was well described by British Vice Marshal Sir Hugh Lloyd, who commanded the R.A.F. in Malta when he said that the people of Malta "are delighted when we sink Axis ships, although they know it will bring a boomerang in Axis bombs."

More than two thousand times have the Italians and Germans bombed Malta, which takes the punishment and gives it back in real plenty. Before her guns and the planes which guard her skies have fallen hundreds of the sky men of the Axis. And that will go on, for Malta does not halt in her work. In two weeks in July alone two hundred Axis planes were destroyed.

Malta is not large. It is composed of three islands, the main island of 95 square miles. "The buildings like the people are of rock and there are catacombs and caves, natural shelters. The Maltese are an undegenerate old people, as handsome as they are brave," says the New York Times.

In all her long history of struggle in which Romans, Byzantines, Normans, Arabs, Knights of the Order of St. John have been masters, none so brave defence has been put up as that of the modest Maltese of today in these two years since Italy dared to essay her swaggering role on the historic sea and bluster about this heroic isle.

The Hun's Jitters

The Germans have declared that every pigeon will be shot in the Netherlands. There is of course but one reason for this, the fear of a second front worries the Huns. They think that pigeons might be used for carrying messages.

Well might the Huns have fears. They know that there is building up a power of might which will sweep against every wall the Hitlerites can erect. The Huns are jittery.

The cruel Hun knows what fear is and he has a master named Hitler who has intentionally instilled fear into German hearts because he has made them partners of his crimes and makes them fear the judgment which is to come.

The Hun will adopt every device to save his hide. So pigeons in the Netherlands have to be destroyed. At the same time the Hun is killing humans for the same reason.

Hitler's Grab in Vichy France

Hitler's every act shows the treacherous grasping of the Hun. He offers one French prisoner of war for three French laborers sent to Germany to help German industry. Even Laval ought to see what Hitler means. He is squeezing the French people to the last drop of energy.

No one has ever seen Hitler generous or any semblance of fairness about this embodiment of everything that is treacherous, foul and inimical to human progress and decency.

Hitler wants all. That's why he plunged the world into war. Besides wanting all he wants to erase and kill off everything that is good. His Nazi policy is the extermination of races and Poland bears ample witness to that devilish scheme.

The useful and the beautiful are never separated.—Periander.

OURSELVES AND OTHERS...

OOPS — PARDON ME!

In vain I've—hick—looked every trick up
That's guaranteed to cure a hiccup;
I've held my breath till I got blue;
Sipped—hic!—ten sips of water, too;
Tried using will-power (panacea
Out of psychology's pharmacopeia).
But every cure—hic!—proves a gyp;
My neck—hic!—still plays Crack-the-whip
With my poor noggin—Hey! Look Out!
Don't shoot that gun again, you lout!
You might have hit me. Holy smoke!
I'm shaking yet. What? Just o joke?
You say there's nothing like a fright
To rout the hiccups. Gosh, you're right!
That scare you gave me chased 'em quick.
They're absolutely gone, now—HIC!!

The dearer the bone,
the sweeter the meat.

According to a Peterborough dispatch, a Belleville lady has written the Liftlock City mayor describing her, oh so much, favorable impression of that city, and asking the big boss to secure a house for her so she can live there.

This war is doing some funny things. In the piping days of peace the only Belleville people who liked the neighboring city well enough to live there were hockey and baseball players.

REMOVE THAT CHIP

If you are one of the many to whom driving is no longer a pleasure, here is a hint that may be helpful. Next time you start out on a trip, take that chip off your shoulder. And take your sense of humor along. Promise yourself that you won't let little things disturb you, and see what happens. If someone attempts to steal your right of way, let him have it. on't yell at him, but smile instead. Be indulgent, as you would be with the small boy who reaches for the largest piece of cake on the plate. A safe journey and a surprisingly pleasant journey, will be your reward.

—V—

OPEN LETTER TO A DRUNKEN DRIVER

Sure, you can drive home a'right. Don't let 'em feed you any of that bunk about letting somebody else take the wheel. Any old time Pete can stand on his feet he can drive an automobile, drunk or sober. Whatsh a few drinks between friends, anyhow? You show 'em who's goin' t'drive.

Pile 'em into the car. That sweet little wife of yours, who's such a swell kid even if she does nag you about driving when you're drunk, and that funny couple with you who want to take a taxi home. Imagine? Wanting to take a cab. Step on the gas. Whoopee. Go places. . . .

Brother, you're not the big shot you think you are. You're just a fuzzy-brained, liquored-up obstinate ass with as much right to drive an automobile on the public highway as a monkey from the zoo would have.

I won't appeal to your reason, because it's obvious that you haven't any. I won't appeal to your emotions, because they are pickled.

I only hope you'll start to drive home some night, alone, when you've one too many under your belt. Then I hope some little emergency will arise which your addled brain and fumbling hands won't enable you to meet. I hope you'll encounter a tree or a telephone pole that will land you in a police cell and your car on the junk heap. As you sober up I hope the baseness of your continued offences against society will be borne in upon you with sickening clarity. I hope the newspaper headlines will scream out your name to all your friends.

Yes, I hope an All-Wise Providence will arrange this little lesson for you. And soon, before you kill somebody, as you surely will if you continue to drive when you are drunk.

Capital Closeups

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 15 —(CP)— Growth of this capital's diplomatic corps, mostly through arrival of new United Nations ministers, is considered officially one of the big developments of the war for Canada—an indication of the Dominion's increasing stature as a nation and the weight of her war effort.

The expanded facilities for international dealings are expected to be of high importance when peace comes.

Before the war the United States, France, The Netherlands, Belgium and Japan maintained legations here. Now the Japanese legation is closed but added—or about to be added—to the list are Russia, China, Norway, Poland, Yugoslavia, Czecho-Slovakia, Chile, Brazil and Argentina.

Trade considerations entered largely into the exchange of ministers with South American countries. As for the governments functioning in London, Canada has taken on new importance as a training ground for their troops.

There is still much speculation over who will go to Russia as first Canadian minister. There are growing rumors that Prime Minister Mackenzie King does not wish to weaken the civil service here by sending one of his key men.

And in some quarters there is talk that he has been negotiating with a man in Montreal, whose name isn't even breathed in closest government circles.

The Russian government has instructed its agents in New York to obtain Ottawa quarters for the new legation by Sept. 15. Presumably the Soviet minister, Fyodor Gusev, will be here by then.

Odds and Ends.

As rubber and gasoline shortages force more and more cars off the road, additional restrictions are going to be placed on bus and street car travel so existing transit facilities can meet requirements.

Silver used to a precious metal but the war has made it much more utilitarian as a substitute for tin and other metals . . . . Consideration is being given to use of silver in the plate needed for the canning industry . . . and platinum is "certain" to be controlled as far as civilian use is concerned, say the experts . . . Lead will be rationed because of increasing war demands and its use as a substitute for copper and brass.

Metals Controller George C. Bateman's name is usually connected with the shortages of such metals as steel, tin and copper, but those are only part of his worries. Some of the little-known minerals are just as vital to the war effort and harder to find.

His steps to overcome his difficulties are leading to new enterprises, for example:—

Corundum—Known deposits of this abrasive in Ontario are being investigated with a view to production;

Fluorspar—Tests are being made at Madoc, Ont., on two old deposits of this mineral which is important in steel and aluminum production; The aim is to replace imports now required by Ontario steel mills;

Graphite—Negotiations are going ahead toward establishment of one or more mills to produce graphite for crucibles;

Mica—The Controller is directing discovery and operation of Canadian mines;

Vanadium—So scare that ash residues from oil-burning ships is being collected at both coasts and their vanadium content recovered; and Experiments on Newfoundland iron ore slag are being conducted with prospects of success.

About People.

Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald—It's not often folk choose an airplane to recuperate in but the United Kingdom High Commissioner did . . . He recently underwent an operation which required him to take it easy for a time . . . He's convalescing on a flight through the Northwest Territories.

G. G. (Gerry) McGeer — The Liberal member for Vancouver Burrard stayed in Ottawa after the House adjourned and can be seen just about anytime with a big map folio under his arm . . . He's boosting the Prince George-Alaska railway with all the enthusiasm he used to concentrate on monetary reform.

Labor Minister Mitchell — He and Secretary George Greene combined business and pleasure on a trip to the Maritimes . . . You won't find better suntans anywhere.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

The Surgical and Non-Surgical Treatment of Kidney Stones

For many years, where a patient had a heavy feeling in the upper right hand part of the abdomen and the Xrays showed stones in the gall bladder, it was considered advisable to remove the stones, and drain or remove the gall bladder.

Today, as it is known that stones are present in a large percentage of individuals over forty years of age, no attempt is made to remove the stones or have the patient undergo any form of operation unless he or she is having acute attacks of gall stone colic. The majority of individuals with gall stones do not know they have them.

While kidney stones are less common, the fact that they are present is considered a more serious condition than having gall stones, nevertheless physicians and surgeons today are not having as large a percentage undergo operation as was the case a few years ago. Thus, in a series of 125 cases reported in the Journal of Urology, Drs. J. Hoy Sanford and Willard T. Barnhart, St. Louis, only 17 (13.6 percent) underwent operation, the other 108 cases being successfully treated by use of sounds to stretch the small tubes carrying urine to the bladder, thus allowing stones to pass into bladder and then out of the body. Naturally if stones are very large, they must be removed by surgery.

'In the silent unilateral stone (Stone in one kidney only) when no symptoms are present and the other kidney is normal, surgery is advisable".

Why must this "silent" stone, causing no pain, obstruction or other symptoms, be removed when gall stones are allowed to remain when they are causing on symptoms?

This stone is removed because it has been found that such a stone, if not removed, may quietly kill the kidney. If however, the patient is over 60 years age, the kidney is not usually removed as long as it remains silent and no symptoms arise.

When the stone has left the kidney and is located in the tube (ureter) carrying the urine to bladder, operation is delayed as so many of these stones pass downward without the help of surgery. Operation is performed, however, when obstruction, blocking of urine, or infection occurs. Fortunately, by means of dyes, Xrays, comparison of amount of urine passed by each kidney, the urologist can decide whether delay or immediate operation is the best treatment.

Unfavorable War News Deepens Washington Gloom

(By ELMER DULMAGE)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Aug. 15.— (CP) — Not since the war started in 1939 has Washington been as depressed as this week. The picture may be painted in many shades, depending on the painter, but it was black to an observer fresh on the scene.

The great Russian army is being beaten, driven from the only major supply areas in the Soviet Union. India is the scene of disturbance that weakens the countrys' defence, among other things. United States war production lags here and there —"All-out' production is not yet a reality. There was no news on the Second Front in Europe.

The official Soviet view now is known here. It is grim. Unless German strength is diverted from the Russian front, the Red armies are in immediate danger of being driven from the rich sectors that supply them with the means of waging war.

If the Germans continue their successes in the south, soon the Russians will be virtually without oil. There is nothing like enough oil— or manufacturing either—behind the Urals to keep the Soviet armies fighting efficiently.

That is Russia's situation now. Calamitous defeat in the field, according to the highest diplomatic sources in Washington, is quite possible for Russia this summer.

It is taking perhaps 270 Nazi-led divisions to pound down Soviet military strength. These sources estimate the Germans have between 20 and 30 divisions in Western Europe.

"Help Us Now"

Put bluntly, the Soviet appeal to the other United Nations is: "Do you want to open a Second Front against 20 or 30 divisions now, creating a diversions that would force Hitler to move many divisions from Russia, or wait until Hitler has so weakened the Red Armies that he can transfer an overwhelming force to the West?"

There is no suggestion the Russians will stop fighting, even if the worst comes to the worst. They are fighting for their lives; there are no Russians Hitler can deal with. But soon they may not have much to fight with.

Donald Nelson's war production board, the instrument of such vital importance to every Allied country, is under fire for failure to achieve all-out use of productive capacity in the United States. The latest shot was fired by a House of Representatives Committee on National Defence migration.

Nelson, the Sears Roebuck executive for whose success high hopes were held everywhere, may well be relieved of his over-all production authority. Some divisions of his board have good records, others not so good.

Production Disappointments

It was hoped Nelson would inspire the whole production effort, realizing the vast potentialities of American industry. Apparently there has been nothing like that.

Little Damage Caused by Nazi Raids in E. Anglia

London, Aug. 15 (CP)—Nazi raiders scattered fire and explosive bombs over the East Anglian area in the hours before dawn today while enemy long-range guns on the French coast lobbed half a dozen salvos of shells across the Dover Strait.

The German radio claimed Ipswich was the main bomb target and reported fires and explosions on the waterfront.

British said merely that small groups of enemy raiders, under cover of low clouds, dropped thousands of incendiaries on south coast and East Anglian towns but caused little damage.

Reuters News Agency quoted a Berlin claim that Nazi raiders set large fires at Eastbourne and scored several heavy bomb hits on the Portsmouth naval dockyards in raids yesterday.

Some German night raiders made what appeared to be attempts to fire ripe grain fields near two East Anglian villages.

Parachute flares were dropped followed by hundreds of incendiaries and a few high-explosive bombs, but the fires quickly were extinguished.

BELGIAN PATRIOTS ATTACK AND KILL SIXTEEN NAZIS

New York, Aug. 15.—The BBC, in a broadcast heard in New York by CBS, said today that Belgian patroits were reported to have attacked a German military airdrome in the Liege district, burning four planes and killing 16 Germans.

The Gestapo was said to have arrested 40 workmen in the search for persons responsible for wrecking two blast furnaces in a Belgian metallurgical factory.

HOUSE FOR RENT

For rent, until the end of fall,
A twelve-room house; condition good,
With newly painted roof and wall
And in an excellent neighborhood.

The place is modern and complete
With all a landlord can provide;
Has running water; summer heat;
Accessible from every side.

To babies no objection made.
Come early to avoid the crowd!
The rent, for just a song, is paid;
One only rule: "No cats allowed!"

Now, business manager, I'd say
This ad should run a day or so.
The purple martins moved away—
Wherever purple martins go.

YOU'D BE SURPRISED!

SKIMBLE SKAMBLE STUFF

Madagascar is believed by some geologists to be the remnant of a vast land mass in the Indian ocean that once connected India and Africa.

This "lost" land mass is known as Lemuria because it was supposed to be the original home of the monkey-like animals called lemurs.

The lemurs themselves were named after the "Lemures," which in Roman mythology were the nocturnal spirits of the dead.

Canton, the town near Boston where Paul Revere had his bell foundry, was so named because an eighteen-century seaman in the China trade doped it out that the site was the exact antipodes of Canton, China.

Privates in the army are enlisted or inducted; commissioned officers are commissioned.

In England radio is still called "wireless."

Persons who went to sleep in church were arrested and fined as "common sleepers" in Puritan New England.

"A community of interest" is the new name for "log-rolling" in Congress.

"One man's meat is another man's poison" was a proverb already in the days of ancient Rome. It was quoted by the Latin poet Lucretius more than 1,900 years ago.

Will Rogers defined a ukiele as "a so-called musical instrument which, when listened to, you can't tell whether one is playing on it, or just monkeying with it."

When a member of the British House of Commons recently used the term "pollyanna," none of his hearers knew what he meant. It seems this American slang word has not found its way into "English English."

The British admiralty says there are no "naval commandos." In Britain the term "commando" is restricted to "military" or army units. For fifty years "commando" has been used in South Africa as the name of a quasi-military expedition sent out against the natives.

The United States didn't get around to creating a Navy Department until nine years after the constitution went into effect. George Washington, during his two terms as President, had no secretary of the navy. Benjamin Stoddert, of Maryland, was the first Secretary of the Navy—in the cabinet of President John Adams.

Victory Recipes Planned For Canadians' Health

Fortunate is the housewife with a repertoire of economical and tasty hotbread recipes. These interesting and delicious so-called breads are usually quite easy to make and often one basic recipe can be modified to produce may delightful variations.

Quick breads, or hot breads, as they are popularly known, are leavened by baking powder, soda or a combination of the two, and include muffins, tea biscuits, popovers, waffes, fruit loaves, etc. During wartime when the use of sugar is limited, these versatile confections come into their own. Gone are the days when rich, sweet cakes and cookies were in vogue. In their place we suggest that you serve tiny fruit or bran muffins; jelly or cheese tea biscuits; cinnamon rolls or those ever popular "light-as-a-feather" popovers. Your friends will not only be impressed at your prowess as a cook but also at your ingenuity in providing such a variety of delicious dainties.

A word of advice in making muffins. Sift and mix the dry ingredients, then beat the eggs, and add milk to them. Stir this mixture into the dry ingredients and add the melted shortening. Then, above all, don't beat the mixture, just stir the batter until all the flour is moistened and has a lumpy appearance. The oven for quick breads should be quick—have it from 375°F to 425 F depending on the type of mixture Popovers that really "pop" are a triumph for any housewife. These delightful airy fairy bits of nothing are delicious to serve hot with home-made jam or honey or, as a base for creamed dishes you will find them hard to beat. And now a few of our tested recipes.

Popovers

1 cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
⅞ cup milk
2 eggs, beaten
½ tablespoon melted butter

Mix salt and water; add milk gradually, to make a smooth batter. Beat whole eggs until light and add to mixture. Add butter. Beat 2 minutes with egg beater, turn into buttered custard cups or hissing-hot buttered iron gem pans. Bake 30 to 35 minutes, beginning with hot oven (450°F) and decreasing gradually to moderate oven (350°F) as popovers begin to brown.

If desired 2-3 cup whole wheat flour plus 1-3 cup white flour may be subsituted for the cup of white flour.

Tea Biscuits

2 cups bread flour or vitamin B (Canada Approved) flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons shortening
¾ to 1 cup milk

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Work in shortening with finger tips or pastry mixer. Add liquid gradually, mixing with knife to soft dough. It is impossible to determine the exact amount of liquid, owing to differences in flour. Toss on floured board, pat and roll lightly ½ inch thick. Shape with biscuit cutter. Place on lightly buttered cooky sheet, and bake 12 to 15 minutes in fairly hot over (425°F).

Variations

Cheese Biscuits

Follow recipe for tea biscuits, adding ½ cup grated cheese to dry ingredients.

Tomato Biscuits

Substitute 1 cup tomato juice for the milk in the recipe.

Butterscotch Rolls

1 recipe tea biscuits
1-3 cup butter
1-3 cup firmly packed brown sugar

Prepare biscuit dough and roll into oblong piece ¼ inch thick; spread with creamed mixture of butter and brown sugar. Roll as for jelly roll and cut in 1-inch slices; place slices in greased pan or muffin pans and bake in hot oven (375°F-400 F) for about 15 to 20 minutes.

Rural Quebec and Ontario Drive For Scrap Rubber Begins August 24

Ontario and Quebec rural and summer resort areas are to be scoured for scrap rubber in a drive to commence August 24 and continue until September 8.

Nearly 10,000 rural postal employees are volunteering their services as the collection agency. Rural mail delivery patrons are requested to pile their scrap rubber at the foot of rural boxes and patrons of rural post offices requested to bring their scrap rubber to the post office when calling for mail.

The scrap rubber drive in Ontario and Quebec is being timed to coincide with the conclusion of the summer resort season when summer residents conveniently can part, for instance, with their old rubber tires from docks, and at the convenient season for a scrap rubber cleanup on farms and in rural homes. Primary intention is to get the rubber out of the rural and summer resort areas before the Labor Day exit.

Rubber remains in the forefront of salvage. Out of every $102 worth of rubber formerly imported into Canada $100 worth came from the Orient. Japan now controls that area and Canada's only answer to a difficult problem at the moment is more rubber salvage.

No matter how large or how small is the item of scrap rubber, it will help solve one of the Dominion's most worrisome problems of the moment. While old tires should prove to be one of the most prolific sources of reclaim rubber supply a myriad of other articles, such as hot water bottles, fly swatters, typewriter key tips, rubber date stamps, swimming tubes and the like, should find their way to piled up heaps of scrap rubber which are to supply vital needs in war effort.

City residents receiving the mail by letter carrier are specifically excluded from this particular campaign because the addition of city collections would add too much to the task of the post office department in one collection drive.

Note to Babies: "Stop Worrying!" 'Prams' Still Here

Canadian babies will continue for a time at least to have their 'prams' and collapsible baby carriages (go-carts), but tricycles or metal wagons are no longer available and the metal that once went into doll carriages is now making tools of war.

Recent government orders have limited the styles in perambulators and go-carts to conserve metal, but since none of the body colors on the approved models are eliminated, and since there are in all seven firms which means seven variations in any one style, there will be little cause for juvenile howls on this score. Each firm may make only one style of pram, but there is a much greater latitude in the folding carriages, two of the firms being permitted to continue with a maximum of four styles.

Salvaged Hip Boots Serve Arctic Troops

Rubber hip boots,—the kind worn for fishing and duck hunting,—if they can no longer be worn, make valuable salvage. According to National Salvage Headquarters, one pair of these waders will provide the rubber for three pairs of Arctic overshoes that will protect the feet of three soldiers when winter comes. Everything made of rubber is priceless for Navy, Army and Air Force.

Child Salvage Drive Adds $100 to Bomb Victim Fund

The Queen's Canadian Fund was increased by a hundred dollars recently as a result of a salvage campaign conucted by the children of Lorne Avenue Public School, London, Ont. Their cry of "old rags, old papers, old metal," started a pile of salvage that rolled up this splendid contribution aiding the war effort as well as innocent victims of war.

"Must Get Proteins" War Workers Advised

"You must get your proteins," nutrition experts tell war workers. 'always include a protein in your daily lunch."

Why is protein so important? Because it repairs and rebuilds the body tissues broken down by exertion. Factory workers who use up muscular energy building ships and guns need proteins; so do office girls who use up nervous energy typing and filling. And of course, growing children need protein most of all. No matter what our job, we can't do our best work without our daily quota of protein foods.

Animal proteins, found in milk and cheese, meat and fish, poultry and eggs, are the most valuable. Some dried vegetables are good too, especially peas, beans and lentils. Peanuts; cereals and other vegetables supply protein in lesser amounts.

Consider Ways Of Child Care

Ottawa is to be asked to give preferential treatment so far as hours are concerned to war working mothers whose children will be using the day nurseries to be established in Ontario soon. A resolution to this effect was passed by a meeting of the advisory provincial committee headed by Hon. Farquhar Oliver, minister of public welfare.

The resolution, which will be sent to Dominion Labour Minister Humphrey Mitchell, was made necessary by the fact that the proposed creches will be open in the daytime only and many working mothers at present work staggered shifts.

Three Ways

Mr. Oliver said there were three ways in which children or war working mothers could be cared for. By supervision before school starts and after it closes; by foster-mother care subsidised 50-50 by provincial and Dominion governments, and by the day nurseries.

The first two methods of care could be begun almost at once, said Mr. Oliver, but the day nursery scheme could start only when reports from all the Ontario communities needing day nurseries had come in and been studied by the advisory provincial committee.

Windsor had already appointed their committee to assess the local needs, and submitted the names for approval by the central committee. It would probably be a week or so before all the communities had been heard from.

Creches

Creches would be started where there were approximately 30 children to be cared for, Mr. Oliver said. Small groups of children would be looked after by foster-mothers, women unable to go into industry themselves and who were willing to take care of additional children along with their own.

On Committee

Dr. John T. Phair, chief medical officer of the department of health, came back from his holiday to attend the meeting. Also present were Dr. H. E. Amoss, department of education; Fred Marsh, deputy minister of labour; R. A. McAllister, deputy minister of public works; George Tattle, deputy minister of welfare, and Mrs. J. D Kirkpatrick, representative of the national selective service board.

Plan To Overcome Shortage of Well-Qualified Nurses

Plans are now being formulated by the Canadian Nurses Association to overcome the "acute shortage of well qualified nurses in Canada which will become even more alarming as the months pass", announces Miss E. Flanagan, president of the Quebec, Registered Nurses Association. "The situa-Nurses Association. "The situa-as follows: "Miss Flanagan said. "Normally we have about 23,000 graduate nurses in Canada.

Demands Increase

"The average number of students enrolled in Schools of Nursing in Canada is 11,200 of which about 3,000 graduate annually but approximately 30 per cent marry within two years of graduation and are lost to the profession. "Since the war started about 1,500 graduate nurses have enrolled in the armed forces or for service in South Africa while, during this period, the demand for competent nurses in hospitals, industry, and public health work, has increased by an appreciable margin.

"At present there is an alarming shortage which can only be remedied if parents, and daughters who show inclination, and who have the educational background, will interest themselves in the honourable profession of nursing which so well fits a girl for shouldering responsibilities all through her life. Nursing today offers many more opportunities than it did a few years ago. Hours are shorter, salaries, generally, are better than they were a few years ago.

CALL AGAIN ON RETIRED NURSES

"At the same time married and retired nurses who are physically fit can assist by reporting back for duty and, where necessary, take refresher courses which are now being planned.

"The Canadian Nurses' Association, with the assistance of the Dominion government, is now considering quite substantial loans and bursaries designed to increase the number of qualified nurses and the number of those who can be trained, and fitted, for educational and special work.

ASK "ELIGIBLES" TO ANSWER CALL

"The Association is also studying clinical services in hospitals with a view to setting up standards for post-graduate experience and is planning the establishment of a nurse service or bureau at national headquarters which will be invaluable in the post-war period.

Employers and Post Offices have been requested to display in a prominent place the official Table of Tax Deductions.

Forms TD-1 may be secured from your employer, Post Offices, or local Income Tax offices.

Income Tax is Fair to All

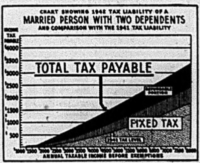
In the fourth year of war, Canada will need almost four billion dollars. This is the equivalent of nearly $350 from every man, woman and child in the country.

Even with the highest income tax in history, 52% only of the money Canada needs will be raised by taxation. The rest will have to be borrowed by means of War Savings Stamps, Certificates and Victory Bonds.

Starting with the first pay period in September representing September earnings only, your employer is required by law to deduct your income tax from your wages or salary, and send it promptly to the Government. Everybody will pay his share as he goes along.

It's going to be tough . . . but not too tough! Here are some good features:

1. You will pay as you earn, so that you will not be faced with a large lump sum payment next year.
2. The National Defence Tax already deducted during the first 8 months of this year has been taken into account in the Table of Tax Deductions.
3. Though the income tax rates show a sharp increase over last year, a large portion of this increase is actually savings, to be paid back to you with interest after the war.
4. The money you are paying for life insurance premiums, annuities, principal repayments on your home, or into a pension fund may be deducted (up to a certain maximum) from the savings portion of your income tax. In many cases this may be sufficient to make payment of the savings portion of the tax unnecessary.



Unless you are single, without dependents, and not making payments of the types mentioned in paragraph 4 above, you should file Form TD-1 with your employer. Otherwise, you may not be allowed the credits to which you are entitled. DO NOT DELAY. File Form TD-1 with your employer at once so that you may get the full allowances from the start.

EMPLOYERS

If you have not received your copies of Table of Tax Deductions and Instructions, communicate with the office of your local Inspector of Income Tax at once.

Care of Vacuum Cleaners More Important Than Ever

Following the announcement by the Department of Munitions and Supply that after August 15 the manufacture of vacuum cleaners will be prohibited the care of present vacuum cleaners assumes a place of first line importance in the wartime household.

The vacuum cleaner will be more efficient and will last longer if it is given proper care and attention. The bag should be emptied after each cleaning. Occasionally it should be turned inside out and cleaned thoroughly with a whisk. It should be made quite certain that pins, tacks and pebbles are not picked up by the machine as they may damage the belt, bag or other moving parts.

The vacuum cleaner cord, particularly if it is covered with rubber, is precious. Avoid running the machine over the cord. Also remember to see that the cord is never wound tightly around the cord clips at the top and bottom of the handle. It should always be coiled loosely so as not to stretch the wires or rubber.

The plug should never be jerked out when disconnecting the machine. It doesn't take much longer to remove it carefully and the possibilities of frayed or broken cords are greatly minimized. The cleaning brushes should be kept clean and free from string, hair and threads.

For oiling and manipulating the cleaner the manufacturer's directions should be followed closely. It is adviseable to have the vacuum cleaner checked by a reliable repair man once a year. When repairs are necessary they should always be made as promptly as possible.

Protect Hair From Sun Rays

Sheila Ryan wears a turban to protect her hair from the sun

By HELEN FOLLETT

SUNBURNED hair is a seasonable beauty worry. One should guard against it. Tresses may get streaked, lose their lovely shimmering lights. Hair burns the same as the skin and is affected by strong sunlight. And there's more trouble yet to come. If the glorious crown gets excessively dry there will have to be conditioning treatments given before the next permanent; otherwise, there will be a crazy frizz to drive one to a state of madness.

Girls who are out in the open a good deal, lolling on beaches or working in victory gardens, should wear hats. No sense putting one's halo completely out of form, having to fling more money into the cash registers in beauty shops. Brown hair becomes lighter from exposure to sunlight. Blonde hair takes on a toasted look. Red hair can go carroty or pink. White hair is yellowed. You'd never believe that the kisses of Mister Sol could do so much mischief.

Use Brilliantine

Keep the hair lubricated. That doesn't mean that you have to go round looking as if the cat had licked you. Get a bottle of brilliantine, pour its contents into an atomizer, spray your hair lightly after it has been arranged.

If damage has already been done, use hot mineral oil the night before the shampoo. One should do that, anyway, now and then, to keep the scalp clear of dead skin scales and to make hair shafts pliable and manageable.

Brush first. Part the hair in various places, trickle the hot oil along the partings. Give the scalp a rousing friction. Pour oil in the palms of the hands, treat the ends to a brisk lubrication. In the morning shampoo thoroughly. Give it three soapings, and as many rinsings with a bath spray and a strong current of water.

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Plans Garden Party For War Aid

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I belong to a first air medical unit, and each member is expected, at one time or another, to sponsor a social gathering, to raise funds for the purchase of supplies to equip a base hospital which will be turned over to the Red Cross.

My turn to give a party will come soon. I have a spacious and lovely garden and lawn, and so I thought it would be pleasant to have a garden party, for approximately fifty guests. I thought of having the party begin at about two o'clock in the afternoon.

1.—My house is small. So would it be proper to serve the refreshments on the lawn? How can this be done?

2.—What type of refreshments should be served?

3.—What would be a suitable program that would appeal to both men and women guests? We would like to have the program end at five o'clock.

4.—Have you any other helpful suggestions?

E. E. C.

Your plan is a perfect one. . . a party in a garden is one of the most enchanting kinds of parties.

Of course weather being unpredictable, you will have to plan to change the locale to indoors if it rains. Otherwise plan to serve the refreshments out-of-doors, buffet style, setting the table as you would for an indoor tea. The flower-decorated table may be on the porch, or under a tree or arbor, or in the open. If there is a breeze, fasten the corners of the cloth to the table. Serve cold chocolate with whipped cream, minted iced tea, a fruit punch or an "ade'", orange, lemon or lime.

Your menu may be small, thin sandwiches, some bread-and-butter (perhaps made of various kinds of breads), some with simple fillings; and small cakes and cookies. Accessories nuts, and candies.

At a garden party there usually isn't any specially-planned program. The guests chat together, wander about the garden, have refreshments. However, you might suggest a "singing together", a popular feature of many parties. Or you might plan games (the good old charades are returning with vim!) Or one of your friends might be able, and willing, to tell fortunes.

I suggest you change the beginnig of the party to a later hour and then end the party later. . . three to six, perhaps, or four to seven. Also have two or three members of the family and a few "friendly friends" act as deputy hostesses, some to preside, in pairs, over the tea-table, others to keep a watchful eye to see that everyone is taken care of, and to make the necessary introductions.

Courtesy Tip

If you go to the station to see a Service-beau off to camp, and his family are there too, don't monopolize him and his attentions. Even if you're engaged to him, "mind your manners", keep your poise, and don't steal the show from the members of his family. They knew him first, and they're pretty fond of him too!

GOOD HEALTH through NUTRITION

By L.B. PETT, Ph.D., M.D.
Direction of Nutrition Services, Dept. of Pensions and National Health)

Every game must have a set of official rules, and the eating game is no exception. The day of conflicting theories about well-balanced diets for Canadians is definitely past. Canada now has a set of Official Food Rules, drawn up by nutrition experts. They are set forth in the Canadian Nutrition Programme recently outlined by Nutrition Services, Department of National Health. If every Canadian were following these food rules, it would certainly mean increased resistance to infection, better nerves, less fatigue, and many other improvements in general health. Why not start to learn them now?

There are certain health-protective foods which should be eaten every day. For a well-balanced diet we should eat protective foods every day in at least these amounts:

First, milk. Adults should have half pint, children more than one pint. And we should have some cheese, as available.

Second, fruits. Everyone should have one serving of tomatoes or citrus fruit daily, or of tomato or citrus fruit juices. And one serving of other fruits, fresh, canned or dried.

Third, vegetables. In addition to potatoes, of which we need one serving daily, we should have two serving of other vegetables—perferably leafy, green or yellow and frequently raw.

Fourth, cereals and bread. One serving of a whole-grain cereal and four to six slices of Canada Approved Bread, brown or white.

Fifth, meat and fish. One serving daily of meat, fish, or meat substitutes. Liver, heart or kidney once a week.

Sixth, eggs. At least three or four eggs weekly.

These are the foods we must eat first. After that we can add other foods as we wish. Some source of vitamin D, such as fish liver oils, is essential for children and may be advisable for adults.

A change from the bright red coat, trimmed with brown or black fur so popular this season comes in the form of coats of royal blue woollen with contrasting fur trim. Royal blue woollen in an easy line with fitted waist has a big shawl collar of black Persian lamb, crescent-shaped fur pockets and big gauntlet cuffs of the fur.

FOXBORO GUILD

The regular monthly meeting of the W. M. S. and Ladies Guild of the Foxboro Presbyterian Church was held on Wednesday, August 12th., at the home of Mrs. Charles Bailey, Foxboro. Dinner was served to 45 friends, neighbors and members.

The program for this month was prepared by Mrs. MacDonald and Mrs. Earl Ketcheson, and opened with singing hymn 321. The 29th Psalm was read and prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. MacDonald.

Several ladies took part in a reading "The Worldwide Task," explaining the work of the W.M.S. in various forms. Miss Lena Watt gave a lovely reading entitled, "Don't Quit, Fight One More Round." Business discussion followed. Roll call was answered by the name of a missionary and where stationed. A recitation, "My Church," was given by Mrs. Lake. The offering was taken and the National Anthem sung. The meeting closed with singing a hymn and prayer in unison.

WALLBRIDGE W.A. AND W.M.S.

The monthly meeting of the Wallbridge W. A. and W. M. S. was held in the hall August 5th. The W. A. was taken by the president, Mrs. A. Clare, with Mrs. Harold Yateman acting as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Chisolm. The meeting was opened by use of hymn 306 and the Lord's Prayer. It was decided to have Mrs. Hancock varnish the seats of the church and it was also decided to buy brooms for the caretaker of the church. Collection was taken. A letter was read thanking the ladies for flowers sent to Mrs. Mack Sine when she was in the hospital.

The meeting closed with hymn 662 and the Mizpah Benediction.

The W. M. S. was taken by the president, Mrs. R. Elliott. It was opened with hymn 6 and prayer by Mrs. Elliott. Mrs. J. Hendrick asked to be relieved of her position as secretary. Her resignation was accepted and Mrs. W. Sine was then chosen to be secretary and Mrs. Yateman to act until Mrs. Sine gets home.

The president asked that the roll call be answered by telling what one thing each would pray for most; it being something outside of own personal interests. The one thing that was the most desired by all is peace among the nations. Scripture lesson was read.

It was decided to send for monthly program leaflets to be used in the meetings. Several readings were given from the Missionary Monthly.

It was voted to adopt Miss Mable Clazie of Japan as members special object of prayer. Collection was taken. The closing hymn was 183. The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. W. Bagley and the National Anthem.

Heartburn in Pregnancy Cases Eased By Digestion Speed-up

So-called heartburn is common in pregnancy.

Heartburn has nothing to do with the heart. Recent research seems to prove that this distressing condition is caused by food materials getting back into the tube leading from the mouth to the stomach. By giving a drug to speed up movement of food materials through the stomach and intestines, heartburn appears to be relieved in many cases.

At any time this is distressing. During pregnancy, even though mild, it may lessen the expectant mother's efficiency and, if severe, may interfere with her sleep to such an extent that nervousness and ill health result. During pregnancy, in most instances simple remedies may overcome the condition, while in other cases it may be difficult to eliminate the trouble.

In just exactly how many cases of pregnancy heartburn does occur is hard to say. Dr. Norman H. Williams of Beverly Hills, Calif., declares that it occurs in about two-thirds of all pregnant women irrespective of their age. Highstrung women particularly are likely to develop the condition. Those who are more calm and placid may develop heartburn when under mental strain.

The diet may be a factor in producing the condition. It is suggested that if enough water is drunk and sweets, pastries fatty foods and acid beverages are avoided the condition may be prevented or often lessened. The drinking of milk in adequate amounts and the use of a diet high in protein foods, such as meat, eggs and fish, have been recommended as preventive measures.

For some years it was believed that heartburn developed because of an excessive amount of acid in the stomach. However, analysis of the amount of acid in the stomach in many patients with heartburn showed that more of the patients with this condition had a lack of acid in the stomach rather than an excessive amount. For this reason the giving of a weak solution of hydrochloric acid has been found beneficial in some patients.

However, Dr. Williams does not believe that the makeup of the gastric or stomach juice is the cause for the heartburn. He believes that it is due to a temporary interference with the mechanism that controls the movement of the contents of the stomach. During pregnancy the position and movements of the stomach interfere with its emptying and, in fact, favor the reverse flow of the materials through the stomach so that some of the stomach contents are carried up into the esophagus. This material, getting into the esophagus, will cause contraction of the lower part of the esophagus which in turn, is responsible for the feeling of heartburn.

A number of pregnant women were studied by means of the X-ray. In those patients with heartburn it was shown that material from the stomach actually did get into the esophagus and produce the trouble. Because of these facts, Dr. Williams decided that a good way for treating the heartburn was by the injection of a substance known as prostigmin. This substance seems to aid in speeding up the movement of materials through the stomach and intestine. At first it was tried out cautiously and the results obtained were sufficient to suggest that it should be given a further trial. Practically all of the patients treated were made comfortable or entirely relieved of their symptoms within 24 hours. Repetition of the injections kept the patients free from symptoms without producing any reactions.

Fashion Flashes

A GOOD IDEA for now and right through until the autumn is the suit of printed silk in a heavy weave. Black taffeta is used for a smartly tailored suit with a scattered print of beige hat boxes tied with big cerise ribbon bow. Worn with a blouse of shirred beige chiffon.

A nice gift for oneself or for a friend is one of the new chiffon nightgowns. Pink chiffon is used for a pretty model with black velvet ribbon run through eyelets at the rounded neckline, tying the brief sleeves and in double array at the waistline. Ribbons tie in tiny bows.

Treat your suit right and buy it a new autumn hat. A nice model in green felt, its padre brim curved up on either side, is faced with black velvet. Black velvet quill in front gives height.

'Vets' Down Flyers 4 to 2 Behind Hunter's Six-hitter To Even Play-off Series

Army & Navy Score Three in Fourth to Take Commanding Lead as Hunter is Most Effective

STRONG DEFENCE

Only Flyer Runs are Result of a Walk and Conway's Eighth Inning Circuit Blow

It's all even in the Belleville and District Softball League finals today with the Army & Navy "Vets" and the No. 5 I.T.S. "Flyers" having a triumph each and the third of a best-in-five series coming up Monday.

It was the military replacement of Jim Hunter, who took to the Vets' mound last night and scattered six hits in as masterful a pitching effort as one would desire to give the Vets a 4 to 2 win over the Flyers and knot the series all even. Eddie Conway's home run with one aboard in the eighth, was the only scoring registered against Hunter, who hurled a six-hitter and was given sterling support by the vets, who in turn bunched their hits and scored three runs in the fourth, after chasing over an initial third inning counter.

Hunter Usually in Front

Practically all night Hunter was on top of Skipper Green's Flying batters as he struck out six and only walked one. The lone base on balls issued by Hunter resulted in a run when Doldge drew a walk to open the eighth and scored on Conway's subsequent circuit blow despite the fact Doldge failed to touch third base, but on a tag-up of the play Umpire Pointer ruled Doldge safe, giving the Flyers a run in front of Conway. In the meantime the Vets played strong defensive ball paced by Gerald Ethier and Speedy St. Louis, who kicked in with several strong defensive plays behind Hunter's superb mound effort. Ral Smith hurled for the Flyers and although touched for nine hits was only in trouble in the third and fourth when the veterans scored. The winners only collected three hits off Smith after they had racked up a quartette of runs at the end of the fourth.

The Scoring

In the third, with one out, Doug Bennett opened for the Vets with a single and went to second when Doldge kicked the hit around in left. Hunter's single sent Bennett to third and he scored on Jim Barriage's bunt that went for a hit. Came the Vets' big inning, the fourth. Cy Barriage opened with a walk and went to second when Smith tossed out St. Louis. Ethier hit far into right-centre for a triple that could have well been a circuit blow, Barriage naturally scoring. Murney Green drove a single to left scoring Ethier and Kiser skied to right, Green going down after the catch. On the throw in Green raced all of the way to the plate as Dawe bobbled and threw wide in an effort to catch Green scampering to third. Jim Hunter counted his second hit of the game in this frame, but died on first. The Vets placed two aboard in the eighth but could not score, the Flyers scoring their two counters in the bottom half of the frame when Conway homered after Doldge had drawn the only walk issued by Hunter. Conway's pick-up of Henn's line drive in the ninth was the feature defensive play of the game as the Vets only booted one behind Hunter in their best defensive game of the play-offs.

Conway paced the Flyers with a homer and a single, Parry getting two singles to account for most of the Flyers' six hits. Murney Green collected a double and a single, while Ethier hit a triple and Bennett and Hunter counted two one-base blows each towards the winners' cause.

He Knows Now

Richmond, Va., Aug. 15 —(AP)— Bill Terry, general manager of the New York Giants who once wondered if Brooklyn was in the National League, cocked his foot on the back of a hotel chair today and allowed as how the Dodgers had a right smart ball club.

Terry, who came here to look over the fielding and batting wares of one Luis Olmo of Richmond Colts said Brooklyn had more than a "chance" to whip New York Yankees if they meet in the world series.

The Dodgers can get a lot out of their players, he added. "That town really makes a player hustle. Leo Durocher has done a remarkable job handling those players.

"Of course, somebody had to get them together, and you've got to give Larry French credit there. They've got some fine players. Pee Wee Rees can go at short, and Pete Reiser has the earmarks of a great ball player.

"Yes, sir, that's a ball club all right."

LARGE FIELD IN MILITARY TRACK MEET

Athletes From All Military Districts in Province Compete at Toronto

20 EVENTS

Toronto, Aug. 15 —(CP)— Athletes representing all military districts in Ontario and all services stationed in the province except the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F., were in competition here today for the first Ontario military track and field championship.

Military District No. 2, with headquarters in Toronto, was favored to win the title pennant mainly because of such favored athletes as Cpl. Larry O'Connor, former Olympic hurdler, but the opposition was expected to be strong.

Although most of the meet's 20 events are confined to army men, track and field stars representing the Canadian Navy and Air Force, the R.A.F. and the Royal Norwegian Air Force were entered in open competitions.

Preliminary events were scheduled for this morning at Varsity Stadium, with the main competitions to be completed before an admission-free crowd in the stadium this afternoon.

Each military district team was limited to 25 male competitors and eight members of the C.W.A.C.—six entered in track events and two in the tire-changing competition, a feature of the afternoon program.

Pete Taylor of Oakville, Ont., representing Petawawa, was expected to provide O'Connor's main competition in the 100 and 200-yard sprints. Among other outstanding athletes entered in the sprints were Lieut. N. S. Boyd, Hamilton; Pte. W. J. McClelland, London, Ont.; and Q.M.S. Marty Swords, Ottawa.

Lieut. A. J. Hodgen of Windsor, Ont., was entered from M. D. 3 (Kingston) in the middle-distance track events, with Pte. J. Janz, Winnipeg, a favored miler, also representing M. D. 3. Kingston district also was expected to have an edge in the pole vault event through entry of Pte. G. M. Paul, former Queen's University star.

Yankees Break Major League Double Play Record With Seven Two-Ply Killings

Put Out 14 Athletics in Night Game Via Twin Killings; Reds Held Previous Mark

150 THIS YEAR

Dodgers Lengthen Lead With Dual Win as Hubbel Wins for Giants and Cooper for Cards

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Arc-light baseball has no greater foe than the New York Yankees, but the absence of the sun doesn't seem to bother the World Champions when they begin wiping runners off the base paths with their defensive specialty, the double play.

Holders of the Major League record for twin killings in a season, the Yankees established a new mark for a single game last night when they completed seven while walloping Philadelphia Athletics, 11-2.

The old record for nine innings was six, set by Cincinnati Reds in 1925, and tied by four other teams. Washington Senators, only American leaguers sharing in the record, were the last to tie it in 1933.

"By killing two birds" with one play in every inning except two, the Yankees stretched their total two-ply executions to 150 for 111 games.

With 43 games in front of them, they need only 47 more double plays to crack the record of 196 for a 154-game season which they set last year.

Murphy to Rescue

Even with the help of seven double plays and a 15-hit Yankee attack, Lefty Gomez had to have help from his old standby, Johnny Murphy, to hang up his sixth pitching victory against four defeats. Tommy Henrich drove in four Yankee runs, two of them with his 10th homer.

The record-breaking defensive feat was the standout performance of a baseball day that produced other sparkling jobs, particularly among the pitching stars.

In another night contest, Mort Cooper hurled St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-0 decision over Cincinnati, blanking the Reds on two hits.

The shutout, 13th of the year for the Cards, was Cooper's seventh and his third two-hitter. It brought his record to 14 victories, against half a dozen defeats. He fanned six batters and walked none.

At New York, King Carl Hubbell tossed a four-hitter at Philadelphia Phils as New York Giants triumphed, 5-2.

Two Philadelphia hits were homers by Danny Litwhiler and Ron Northey, but the Giants got Hubbell more than enough runs to give him his seventh triumph in a victory string that is the longest in the National League.

"Bean Balls" Out

"Bean Balls" were forgotten at Brooklyn, where the Dodgers walloped Boston Braves, 10-0 and 7-3, in the first meeting of the two teams since their "duster" throwing provoked a new league rule against the practice.

Curt Davis hurled a seven-hit shutout in the opener, while the Dodgers banged three Boston pitchers for 15 blows. Whitlow Wyatt pitched the nightcap for the National League leaders, but he had to weather a ninth-inning uprising in which the Braves got half of their eight hits and two of their runs.

Dolph Camilli hit a home run in each game, with two mates on base in the first and one in the second, to bring this total to 19 and tie Johnny Mize of the Giants for the league lead.

Chicago Cubs downed Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-1, backing up Lon Warneke's seven-hit pitching with an 18-blow attack, including homers by Bill Nicholson and Stan Hack.

In the only other game in the American League, Hal White tossed a four-hitter at Chicago White Sox as Detroit Tigers triumphed, 7-1.

Cornwall, Ont., Aug. 15 —(CP)— Mrs. Mary Jane Cooper, 74, mother of Carson Cooper, chief scout with Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, died in hospital here Friday.

SHUTOUT RECORD BROKEN AFTER 54 INNINGS

Jersey City Beats Syracuse to End 'Goose-Egg' Drive of Chiefs

LEAFS WIN

The worm finally turned—but it was a short turn. Syracuse Chiefs suffered what they had been administering to International League opponents—a shutout—but also applied one in a doubleheader.

Bill Harris, veteran player-coach of Jersey City Giants, turned the trick in the first game, 3-0, last night.

Before the contest, the Chiefs had registered five straight shutout victories and had a string of 49 consecutive scoreless innings. Tom Delacruz extended the streak to 54 before the Giants broke through with three runs in the sixth inning.

The Chiefs reverted to their old form in the nightcap, however, as Ewell Blackwell hurled them to an 11-inning 2-0 victory. In registering his 11th triumph of the campaign, Blackwell gave up only six hits and struck out five.

Thus the Chiefs have been scored on only in one of the last 67 innings—and that lone outburst cost them a ball game.

Red Wings Win

Jolting Erv Dusak and Ray Pflegler smashed seven hits between them as Rochster Red Wings walloped Montreal Royals, 14-6. One of Dusak's hits was his 15th homer of the season. Rochester took a commanding lead in the first with a four-run blast and then scored nine times on six hits, three walks and an error in the fourth after two were out.

For the fifth straight game, Baltimore Orioles failed to score a run. The whitewash was applied by Lefty Joe Page of Newark Bears, who set down the Orioles with four hits while his mates pounded three hurlers for 12 in annexing a 9-0 triumph.

Nick Strincevich turned in his ninth victory at Toronto Maple Leafs smashed 10 hits off four Buffalo twirlers for an 8-1 triumph.

Johnny Wyrostek gave the Leafs an early lead by cracking an inside-the-park home run with Burgess Whitehead on base in the first. Toronto scored all its eight runs before Buffalo counted its lone tally.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Tommy Henrich, Yankees—Drove in four runs, two with homer, in leading victorious attack against Athletics.

Seek 'Phantom Barber' Who Cuts Girls' Hair While They Are Asleep

Pascagoula, Miss., Aug. 15 —(AP) —The bizarre mystery of a "phantom barber" who clipped girls' hair while they slept and the brutal beating of a young couple in their bed were believed solved yesterday with the arrest of a German-educated chemist. His identity was not divulged.

Police Chief A. W. Ezell declared he had been charged with assault and battery and attempted murder of the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Terrell Heidelberg were beaten severely with an iron bar as they slept in their home early on the morning of July 13. Two days previously, Carol Peattie had been given a ragged haircut by an intruder into her home.

Mary Evelyn Briggs and Edna Haydel also received hair trimmings as they slept at Our Lady of Victories Convent.

Ezell said the man, a chemist, was born in the United States and educated in Germany.

THE SHOE WAS ON THE other foot last night with the Army and Navy Vets at full strength and the I.T.S. Flyers weakened through absentees and now we find the City Softball Finals all knotted up as the result of a 4 to 2 Veteran win, the Flyers winning the first of a best-in-five series. Skipper Kiser's nine took to the field with confidence last night knowing full well they had a strong and reliable pitcher in Jim Hunter, the elongated Marine hurler who was awarded to them as a military replacement when Vern Goyer joined the armed services. Jim Hunter made the difference. He not only hurled six-hit ball, but was most effective making Skipper Green's Flyers hit for easy outs whenever in difficulty, which was seldom. Behind him the Vets played strong defensive ball and made their hits count into runs when the occasion arose and out-hit the Flyers nine to six getting three extra base blows to Green and Company's one.

ON WEDNESDAY THE VETS were shorthanded in the infield and were soundly trounced. Last night the Flyers were minus pitchers Al Bell, Monty Lamour, Infielder Moe Gleason and Outfielder Jones. So all is even on that score today as the teams line-up for the third in a best-in-five series Monday night. The squads will be at full strength for Monday's important tusale with Johnnie Bawden likely to return to the Vets' mound with Al Bell being the Flyers' logical pitching choice. Bawden warmed up last night despite his injured toe, that is well on the mend, they say. Although the Vets played strong defensive ball behind Hunter, it was "Big Jim's" effective mound work that bounced the Vets back into the running and evened the series, as the Flyers should have only scored one run, Eddie Conway's eighth inning homer. Doldge, who had reached first via the four ball route previously, definitely missed third base as he scored ahead of Conway but Umpire Pointer claimed he did not see Doldge's error and the run counted.

THE STANDING of the Belleville Ladies Softball League semi-final playdowns reads as follows:—

	W.	L.	Pte.
Deacon A. C.	1	0	1000
Corbins	1	1	.500
Zellers	1	1	.500
SWACO	0	1	.000

Games next week—Tuesday SWACO vs. Deacon and Thursday third and final game Corbins vs. Zellers.

REMEMBER WHEN SANDY Somerville retained his Canadian amateur golf championship, defeating Arthur Yates of Aochester, N.Y., three and two 13 years ago today? It was the fourth of six victories for the London Hunt and Country Club star in the competitions.

THE STORY OF RAGS TO riches just about hits John Katan, well-known and recognized Canadian-Polish wrestler. "Muscleman John" quit the Drumheller coal mines to try his fortune hauling and pulling at other humans in the wrestling ring about a decade ago. It wasn't so easy for Katan at first as his knowledge of the English language was rather limited and he had to come up the hard way, taking knocks and bumps that would have discouraged many. However, John Katan saw nothing but success in his newly chosen field and kept his nose to the proverbial grindstone until today he is one of the leading contenders for Yvone Roberts' Canadian heavyweight crown. Katan has met and defeated some of the best wrestlers in the business, but his most thrilling episode was his escape from Australia last January after Japan attacked Pearl Harbor. Describing the return trip through the Jap-infested Indian Ocean, Katan today refers to that memorable voyage as "a nightmare trip." Although assuming the villainous role, Katan is always a crowd-pleaser.

CONNIE MACK'S BASEBALL predictions have long been a feature of the Philadelphia Sporting Writers' Association banquet, the oldest continuous function of its kind on the North American continent.

At the 1940 banquet, held in late January, Connie predicted the end of the pennant-winning streak of the Yankees, forecasting they would finish third. His prediction was borne out.

Speaking at the 1942 banquet and reunion of the Philadelphia writers, Connie said, as 1,000 diners leaned forward:

"I have only one prediction to make tonight. The surprise team of the 1942 American League race will be the St. Louis Browns."

THE FUTURE OF HOCKEY IN Canada, yes and professional hockey in the United States, will be decided at Toronto next weekend when the heads of the National Hockey League, the International League and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association will meet under one roof to discuss the future of the game with Elliott M. Little, Director of National Selective Service. It seems certain there will be hockey of some kind available for Canadians next winter, just the same as the Americans have their national pastime—baseball. "It may be necessary to give some consideration to maintaining the N.H.L. in some form or basis for morale purposes at least," Mr. Little suggested in Ottawa recently. However, the amateur clubs will be faced with the problem of transportation, with special trains taboo for the duration and gasoline rationing in full effect, but here again, some plan may yet be devised to provide winter entertainment for Canadians.

THIS AND THAT . . . That was quite a softball gathering at the Fair Grounds last night when a crowd of well over 500 fans passed through the turnstiles . . . Archie Green kicked in with some smart business when he suggested the pooling of all gate receipts for the city league finals . . . Strangely enough the Vets got less hits off Ray Smith last night than they did from the combined deliveries of Bell and Lamour in defeat in their previous meeting . . . On their season's play the Vets have won three and the Flyers one, but they're all even on the final or moneyed series . . . See what we mean . . . Syracuse ran their shutout string to 54 consecutive innings before the Jersey City Giants snapped it with three runs in the sixth yesterday . . . The other night Uncle Mike Jacobs staged a bang-up mitt-slinging jam session along the lighter weight leather-pushers . . . The show was so successful that Uncle Mike is considering a repeater headed by Cleo Shans, the Los Angeles Negro and Maxie Shapiro of New York . . . Old Carl Hubbell chalked up his seventh win of the season as the Giants beat the Phils 5-2 yesterday . . . In the meantime the Dodgers were widening their league leading breach by taking two from the Braves . . . Those Yankees are in again—last night at Philadelphia the Bronx Bombers established a new world record for twin killings when they completed seven two-ply outs against the Athletics . . . On an even keel.

Action Aplenty Aboard R.C.N. Destroyer Even When You Can't Find Enemy

By LIEUT. A. O. TATE,
R.C.N.V.R.

Ten days at sea in a destroyer, constantly battling the violent elements, is an experience to make even the most ardent naval man think fondly of that farm in the country with chickens and things. Yet the lure of the sea, the desire to be out where the wind is fresh and keen, where the ever-changing picture presents adventure and excitement, are considerations which quickly eclipse recollections of any previous hardships.

Protection First Job

When the escorting destroyers go out there is more than the stormy sea to contend with. First and foremost is the protection of the convoy of merchant ships, protection against undersea and surface ships, protection against aircraft. There is the work of keeping the convoy together. There is the never-finished joo of maintaining your ship at a high point of seagoing and fighting efficiency. There is always the possibility you will be detached to dash off on a submarine hunt, or to locate a handful of small lifeboats bobbing around at some mathematical point on the seas with survivors from some torpedoed merchantman.

Imagine yourself confined to your own home for ten days. How would you feel at the end of a week, if, during every minute of every day, your house was rolling, tossing, pitching, corkscrewing? You walk from your front door, for instance, to your kitchen — and you make it only because you have become expert at hanging on to the right things at precisely the right moment. Even at that it isn't likely a few tons of ice cold seawater are going to unexpectedly rush in the front door with a roar and sweep you out through the back. Get used to the idea of your living quarters pirouetting without a moment's cessation, then consider the possibility of torpedoes or bombs.

During one 10-day session when it seemed as if the elements could not maintain their savage performance, the destroyer was rolling violently. It was night. Zig-zagging on its course as it screened the convoy, the destroyer made a turn just as a great sea caught her. The ship went into a roll to port that began like any other roll. But this roll continued and continued until maintaining ourselves on the bridge at a standing position, we were looking almost directly into the ocean.

Might as Well Stay

"I was in my bunk at the time", a former merchant navy officer said the next morning, "and when I realised the degree of the roll I thought of jumping out and running up on deck. But then I figured the ship was going to roll right over so said to myself, 'what's the use! I haven't got time. I might as well stay right where I am'."

'Twas a Long Moment

The destroyer leaned far over until it appeared as if the bridge itself would ship water. In fact it seemed to those on the bridge as if she would lie right down on her side in the mountainous seas. Finally this slim, sturdy destroyer paused and there was a long, static moment during which she seemed to be gathering her strength to heave herself back to an upright position. The officers and men on the bridge hung on and waited and someone shouted something down the voice tube to the helmsman. At last the long journey back to reality and safety began and before the tense grips of the men relaxed the ship was rolling in a moderate, civilized roll to starboard.

Down in the mess decks, men, sitting or lying on lockers, were piled in a heap against the bulkheads. Lockers, dishes, gear — many things believed to be thoroughly secured—broke loose and clattered across the deck. Only a voice on the radio was undisturbed by it all. Aft in the wardroom, a table and its legs were soon parted. A couple of officers said that one moment they were sitting reading, figured they were pretty well braced against rolls, and suddenly found themselves scudding across the deck in sitting positions, their books still held in reading positions. Men in the engine room hung on for dear life, expecting to see their boilers rip off their mountings, crash through the bulkheads and into the sea. The masthead look-out found himself in a lying position against the side of his crow's nest.

This was the day of the big roll It was the highlight of the voyage The experience provided an interesting and endless topic of conversation, along with the greater roll of the night before, for the rest of the trip—and later in the pubs and restaurants ashore.

Skylarking on Leave

From the moment the destroyer was tied up along-side another destroyer, skylarking began in various degrees. In two or three or, with luck, in four days, they would be off to sea again. But in front of them now was shore leave. There were companions from other Canadian destroyers to meet ashore, with whom to talk and swap stories. They would hope for calmer weather, but if they had to go out to sea again and face gales and violent seas, they'd grin and bear it these hearty, husky lads from all over Canada.

GETTING READY FOR ANOTHER CRACK AT ADOLF

Towering and slender, the bow of a Royal Canadian Navy destroyer dwarfs the dockyard workers as she undergoes her annual refit. Months of convoy work in the storm-swept Atlantic, on their relentless parols against enemy attack, necessitates periodic overhauling of these vital fighting ships.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Gambling Lady"

Mystery, drama and romance are in store for McCarthy Theatre patrons next week, where the screen attractions, Barbara Stanwyck in "Gambling Lady" and William Powell in "The Kennel Murder Case" will be presented.

The "Kennel Murder Case" is one of the most outstanding novels ever to be written by S. S. Van Dine.

Archer Coe is found dead in his bedroom with a revolver in his hand and not a sign of a struggle and with the door locked. He has a bullet in his brain and a scalp abrasion.

Seven persons all have motives for committing this crime. William Powell, in his suave way as Philo Vance, cleverly solves the crime in a way to leave you spellbound. We defy you to pick the murderer, until the last minute of the final reel. Others in the cast of "Kennel Murder Case" are Mary Astor, Ralph Morgan, Jack Larue and Eugene Pallette.

The second feature "Gambling Lady" is one of the most outstanding dramatic films Hollywood ever produced and stars lovely Barbara Stanwyck with Joel McCrea and Pat O'Brien in the supporting roles.

Miss Stanwyck has the gay and sporting role of a square shooting gambler who plays the game of life with great courage even to tossing away love to save her husband from a crime of which she knows he is innocent.

The picture is set in the gay gambling halls where the people who are seeking something for nothing are taken over the jumps for their money by a syndicate of gamblers that holds the city in its grip. The story is climaxed by a cold blooded murder carried out by the syndicate for which an innocent man is arrested.

Claire Dodd is included in the talented cast and plays the role of a home-wrecking society girl who stops at nothing to steal another womans husband. C. Aubrey Smith and Phillip Reed have brilliant supporting roles.

Archie Mayo directed "Gambling Lady", in which he took pains to reveal the crooked devices in the many fields of gambling by which a gullible, thrill-seeking public is defrauded of its money.

AT THE CAPITOL

"ALGIERS"

The four corners of the earth contributed to the filming of "Algiers," the Walter Wanger picture showing at the Capitol Theatre Sunday midnight.

Charles Boyer, the star, is a native of France, and Hedy Lamarr, in one of the leading feminine roles, comes from Vienna. Joseph Calleia was born on the island of Malta, in the Mediterranean, while Mme. Nina Koshetz and Leonid Kinsky, also members of the cast, are natives of Russia. Here, too, was born Alexander Toluboff, art director; and Jamiel Hassen, technical director, comes from Arabia. James Wong Howe, cameraman, is Chinese. Preserving the American balance of the company: Director John Cromwell, Alan Hale, Gene Lockhart, Stanley Fields, Johnny Downs, Joan Woodbury and Bert Roach were all born in the United States.

The other principal feminine role in the film, that of a native girl, is played by Sigrid Gurie, who fits neatly into both categories. For, although she was born in America, she was taken to her parents' native Norway and remained in Europe until she came to Hollywood to begin her triumphant film career in "The Adventures of Marco Polo."

"Algiers" is released through United Artists.

The added action filled drama, "Behind Prison Gates," stars Brian Donlevy and Jacqueline Wells.

AT THE BELLE

"Jackass Mail"

Wallace Beery has never had a role more entertainingly fitting than his latest in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Jackass Mail" the feature attraction at the Belle Theatre.

Beery plays 'Just" Baggot, a lovable rascal who unwittingly becomes the hero of the mining town of Gold Creek. The role is tailor-made to Beery's type of comedy and will provide many enjoyable moments for his fans.

Appearing opposite him is Marjorie Main, who turns in a fine comedy performance as the psalm-singing owner of a frontier dance hall.

Beery Woos Main

The story deals with Beery's half-hearted attempts to capture the gold carried by the "Jackass Mail" the burro-powered stage coach that brings the mail to Gold Creek. Miss Main is the stage driver and Beery sets out to woo her. The comic love scenes between them provide the laugh higthlights of the film.

"Pacific Rendezvous"

Diversion as modern as today's headlines, while much funnier, is offered in "Pacific Rendezvous" a new M-G-M picture which is the added feature attraction.

The production is a well-balanced combination of interesting factual material on secret codes in wartime, plus the comedy when a beautiful but somewhat scatterbrain heroine (Jean Rogers) pursues her romantic interest. Lt. Bill Gordon (Lee Bowman) at times in places that bring to them both melodrama and embarrassment.

Mona Maris and Carl Esmond are excellent as an attractive but sinister pair of spies who are in league with Blanche Yurka and that newer but very competent character player.

The Belle latest world events will be presented on the same program.

Cottage Cleanup Time Helps Salvage Drive, Minimizes Fire Hazard

Summer time is cottage time for most Canadians. Over a number of years the long suffering cottage has been the final resting place for all household misfits. Spare chairs. Faded curtains. Odd cups and saucers. With all this 'antique' junk around, the amount of trash that accumulates is sometimes startling. Also, on account of this accumulation, the chances of the fire in cottages are greatly increased.

Cottage owners should clear up all rubbish, particularly any inflammable material. This should be sorted over very carefully for anything of salvage value. As rags are needed for salvage purposes, this is a golden opportunity to clean up on this scrap.

In dealing with fire, speed is essential. In order to save time, therefore, it is a good idea to keep either a bucket or bag containing from four to six pounds of sand, or a pail of water, handy.

Sport Shorts

(By SCOTT YOUNG)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Aug. 15. (CP)—Canadian sport is confronted with a situation that is unusual to the extreme, even for wrestling. Wild Bill Longson, recognized as heavyweight champion by the no doubt world-renowned National Wrestling Association, will wrestle Yvon Robert in Montreal next Wednesday and Whipper Billy Watson in Toronto next Thursday for the same title.

It is unnecessary to go into some of the promotional vagaries preceding these two matches, but other points are too remarkable to pass. For instance fans in Toronto and Montreal have been informed at considerable length of the amazing opportunity thus presented to each local hero. But in Montreal, promotion does not mention the Toronto bout, and vice versa.

In short, wrestling fans have been given to believe that Longson is making this trip to Canada for the sole purpose of meeting (so goes Montreal publicity) Yvon Notre Gars, or (in Toronto publicity) our Boy Billy.

This is a singular situation, one that may be understood with practically no deep thought. Taking absolutely the most charitable view of the affair, it makes a joke of the pride and joy of Montreal, Yvon Robert, because the inference (again most charitable of several presented) is that Longson will still have his title when he finishes his Wednesday bout in Montreal.

Still writing charitably, it also is an insult to the intelligence of wrestling fans in two cities who separately have been poured full of the importance of each bout. And it is a poke in the eye with a sharp stick for anyone who ever has tried to scoff at the widely-supported contention that wrestling is not sport, but vaudeville.

Enough of this longhair talk. Wonder who Longson wrestles Friday night;—it can't be in Belleville because the groaners are there Wednesday. Some fun, eh?

Clarence Wallace, sponsor of the Wallaces in Coast Boxla, offered $10 a goal for all goals in the last period of a game in which Wallaces and Norvans were tied 10-10 at the end of the third. . . "Lucky To Be Alive" Says Seaman of Lost Aircraft Carrier

(Editor's note: The following first person account of the sinking of the 22,600-ton aircraft carrier Eagle in the Western Mediterranean, announced by the Admiralty yesterday, was written for Reuters, news agency and The Canadian Press by Arthur Thorpe, Reuters correspondent).

By ARTHUR THORPE

Gibraltar, Aug. 14 — (CP) — I am a lucky man to be alive. Clinging to a cork float with six sailors, one of whom had a broken leg, and with waves capped by thick oily scum washing over us, I saw the Eagle sink in the Western Mediterranean with a thunderous rumbling noise after she was struck by four torpedoes.

I was in an anteroom with three officers soon after 1 p. m. when two explosions shook me out of my chair. We knew what they meant and leaped to the door. As we opened it two more violent explosions rocked the aircraft carrier.

We heard steam hissing viciously and saw clouds pouring up from below into the broad aft deck across which we were running. The sea, normally 10 feet below the rails, was surging ominously a bare two feet below them.

We reached the quarterdeck, hauling ourselves up the steeply sloping deck to the starboard side which was highest from the water. Six-inch shells weighing 100 pounds tore loose from their brackets and boomed down the deck which by then tilted like a cliff.

Several sailors clambered toward us. They fastened a stout rope to the deck and slithered down it into the thick oil which welled out from under the ship.

I slid down, too, and went under the waves. When I rose to the surface I realized with horror that I had not put enough air in my lifebelt. My head was barely above the water.

As I kicked clear of the oil patch, the sea became choppy and every wave washed over my head until I gave myself up for lost.

Then I saw a glorious sight—a cork float twenty yards off with sailors clinging around it. I fought madly to reach it.

The sailors were trying to loosen the ropes so they could open the float, tied up like a round bundle, but their oily fingers made the task impossible.

The Eagle, 200 yards away by this time, was lying on her side with men still swarming like ants against her great bulk as they slid down into the sea.

I felt a sudden shock at the base of my spine. It was a depth charge. Six or seven times this curious shock from below the water shook us.

"She's going," gasped one of the men near me.

Then came a mighty rumbling as the sea poured into the Eagle, forcing out the air. Water threshed above her in a fury of white foam, then subsided.

A destroyer picked us up a few minutes later.

LINDBERGHS' 5TH CHILD BORN

Detroit, Aug. 15 —(AP)— A fifth child was born here Thursday to Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, informed sources said yesterday.

Physicians and officials at Henry Ford Hospital refused any comment, and attempts to reach Lindbergh, who is employed by the Ford Motor Company, were unavailing.

Whether the child was a boy or a girl could not be learned officially. Detroit newspapers said it was the Lindberghs' second daughter.

3 Vichy Dissidents To Collaboration Are Condemned

Vichy, France, Aug. 14. (AP)—Three dissidents to Vichy's policy of collaboration have been condemned to death at Clermont-Ferrand and 62 Communists arrested at Montpellier and Roussillion.

The Clermont-Ferrand trial was one of the first cases in which capital punishment has been pronounced on political prisoners in unoccupied France. Seventeen men and one woman were charged with "activities of a Communist nature".

Besides the eath sentences, 14 sentences to five years of imprisonment and twenty years hard labor and one sentence of ten years to hard labor were imposed in absentia.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was reading her paper and pop was reading his, both shaking their heads about the war news, and pop said, Yee gods, how is this all going to end, or isn't it?

Why William, I hope you haven't the slightest scruple of a doubt that we're going to win the war, ma said, and pop said Of course we're going to win the war, but how about the peace?

Well now William, that's all been settled by experts, ma said. The dictator countries are going to be forced to disband and disarm till they're harmless, and who's going to be afraid of a harmless country? she said, and pop said. That's just what's worrying me, that's what's got me down, for Peet sake. We're going to need so many armies and ships and planes to keep those fellows harmless that peace will look just like war, he said.

But it wont sound like it, I mean the shooting will be practically over, ma said, and pop said, The expenses wont be over. The non-combattants will still be peppered by priorities and taxes. It'll be the story of Slicker and Slickerman all over again. Slicker was the world's leading greatest detective, and one night they were both given beds in the same room in a crowded hotel. Of course they recognized each other immediately, and Slickerman knew if he went to sleep first Slicker would empty every pocket in his clothes, and Slicker knew if he went to sleep first Slickerman would find enough incriminating evidence to jail him for life. So neither one got a wink of sleep all night, and the result was they both were so groggy the next day that Slicker bungled his first job and landed in jail anyway, and Slickerman let half a dozen crooks slip through his sleepy fingers and was put back in a patrolman's uniform, pop said.

Now William how does that make sense? ma said, and pop said. It doesn't, I hope, believe me my deer.

Close 200 Gas Stations In Four Large Cities

Toronto, Aug. 15. —(CP)—More than 200 gasoline stations in four large Canadian cities were closed yesterday and today for infraction of Oil Control regulations, it was announced this morning by Oil Controller G. R. Cottrelle.

Stations closed included 96 in Montreal, 59 in Toronto, 37 in Vancouver and 35 in Winnipeg. They will be allowed to reopen at a later date, a spokesman for Mr. Cottrelle indicated.

A statement issued by Mr. Cottrelle said the stations were padlocked by police because they had accepted loose gasoline ration coupons or coupons issued for cars other than those supplied with gasoline.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Aug. 15. (AP)—Outstanding news inspiration was lacking for today's brief stock market and, while many leaders managed to extend the recent rally by minor fractions, buying power faded to a considerable extent.

Transfers for the two hours were around 115,000 shares.

General Motors kept its balance in the wake of a three-man panel recommendation to the W.L.B. for a wage increase of five cents an hour to more than 225,000 employees. This would involve an addition of about $25,000,000 to the company's payroll. Chrysler was up most of the session.

New Year's highs were recorded for Erie certificates, Ohio Oil, Texas & Pacific Railway and Borden.

Patino Mines was propped by the boosting of the dividend on the common from fifty cents to seventy-five cents. On the other hand, Jones & Laughlin Steel shares were handicapped by a dividend reduction from 75 cents to 50 cents.

TRUCK DRIVER NODS, DREAMS TRUCK RUNNING AWAY

Durango, Colo., Aug. 15 — (AP)—Eddie Edwards dreamed he was in a truck running wild down the highway, and he jumped. (End of dream). A bus picked him up and returned him to the truck in which he'd been riding when he fell asleep. He wasn't seriously injured.

96 FRENCH PRISONERS SHOT

New York, Aug. 15. (AP)—The Moscow Radio said today the Germans had killed 96 of 600 French war prisoners who refused to work at a camp at Stettin. Another 112 were declared wounded by machine gun fire. CBS heard the broadcast.

Launch 8 Vessels In Maine on Sunday

Portland, Me., Aug. 15 —(AP)— Eight vessels—five of them at one shipyard — will be launched in Maine tomorrow as part of the United Nations effort to maintain supremacy on the seas.

A quintuple launching is scheduled for the Todd-Bath Shipbuilding Corporation plant here, two at the Bath Iron Works Corporation at Bath and one at the South Portland Shipbuilding Company plant.

NO MORE "LOVE NEST" AT SCHOOL HOUSE

Red Bank, N.J., Aug. 15 (AP)—The little red school house at River Plaza near here" will no longer be available as a love nest." David Schmoor, member of the Middletown Township Board of Education, investigated a report that the front door was seldom locked at night and the school was often used as a rendezvous. "The situation is in hand, the door is locked and will be kept locked," he reported.

First Iron-Hulled Warship Scrapped

Erie, Pa., Aug. 15 — (AP) — The United States first iron-hulled warship, the 98-year-old Wolverine, has been scrapped. Originally the U.S.S. Michigan, the Wolverine was turned over to the city in 1927 but two years ago it was ordered closed to visitors.

Veteran Pilot Says Germans Take No Unnecessary Fights in the Air

Ottawa, Aug. 15 — (CP) — German airmen are "fighting this war to win it" and take no chances on unnecessary fights in the air, Flt. Lt. Charles M. Ormston of Montreal said in an interview here today.

Veteran of 72 sweeps over enemy territory and winner of the Distinguished Flying Cross, Ormston is back in Canada to take on other duties, perhaps instructing new pilots, perhaps with Canada's home defence squadrons.

The offensive sweeps carried out regularly by the Royal Air Force with Canadian squadrons participating are for the purpose of picking fights with the enemy, Ormston said. Usually the attackers find the enemy fighters up in the sky waiting for them. If they don't they drop a few bombs to stir him up.

The attackers start out with an advantage in the manoeuvrability of their aircraft because the Spitfire can turn more quickly than the German fighters but the Germans sition as they are high up waiting usually have the advantage of pofor the attack and can dive on the

So it is usually the Germans who start the fight unless "you see something below you in which case it is easy to pick him off." When the German fighters get on the tail of the attackers from above the fight starts. In two or three turns a Spitfire can get behind an enemy fighter and so gain the advantage. The enemy fighters usually make off before that happens.

"One of their favorite tricks is to send down a stooge who dives through us," said Ormston. "If anyone follows him his goose is cooked as the others are right on his tail. They do that regularly but we don't fall for it."

All of Ormston's many fights in which he is credited with destroying three enemy aircraft, probable destruction of one and assisting in the destruction of another, took place over enemy territory, except one when the Germans followed his squadron home and attacked five miles off the Dover coast.

"They always attack you when you are on your way home and haven't any gas to turn and fight them," he said. "They are extremely sly.

"It is nice being able to fight near your own shores and to know that if you are shot down you can bail out to safety. The German fighters over France have that satisfaction all the time.

Officials Predict Improvement In the Fuel Oil Situation

Belief that the fuel oil situation will ease off so as to permit the great majority of householders heating their homes with oil to continue to do so, was voiced by oil executives in Ottawa this week, says the Ottawa Journal.

While conceding the necessity of government control of oil supplies, the oil distributors of Ottawa and Eastern Canada in general base their estimates on the rapid development of the oil situation in the United States. By extraordinary measures, vast quantities of fuel oil are now being transported daily to the east coast section of the United States, where temporary rationing is in effect.

Building Pipelines.

Improvement of the oil situation in United States and Canada as well is attributed to several factors. Most important of these is the rapid extension of the pipeline-building program from the mid-West and East Texas oilfields.

Ever-increasing quantities of petroleum products are being raced to the Eastern areas by existing pipelines; other pipelines are being re-laid on a more efficient footing than formerly; lines which two years ago carried oil East from coastal ports carried oil being reversed; new pipelines serving vast territories are being built.

Largest of the new pipelines is a 24-inch tunnel of steel running direct from East Texas oilfields to Salem, Illinois. This takes petroleum products the best part of the way to Eastern markets, and will be in full operation by November.

A sensational increase in the amount of fuel oil and petroleum products moved by rail has taken place within recent months. Last week 67,000 railway tank cars were moving oil eastward from oilfields, and delivering up to 807,000 barrels daily. In addition, some 40,000 barrels are being delivered daily by pipelines and barges. This comes very close to the entire East Coast demand which is placed at 1,300,000 barrels daily. The deficit, oil men say, can be efficiently convoyed by the U. S. and Royal Navies.

Surpluses in U. S.

According to estimates of the Petroleum Industries War Council, there will be a surplus of 4,000,000 barrels of oil in the Eastern United States for August, and a 5,000,000 surplus for September, unless unforeseen developments occur, either within the industry or in the military situation, there is a 10,000,000 estimated surplus for October, November and December.

On the other hand, P.I.W.C. expects an oil deficit in the first three months of 1943 of 35,000,000 barrels. They point out that the U. S. government is paying subsidies for the moving of oil products to the East Coast by rail and that scores of new tankers have been built and launched.

In the face of these prospects, Canadian oil firms feel that they should be able to secure sufficient fuel oil to keep the home fires burning this winter in oil furnices in private homes.

They point out that Hon. C. D. Howe was most encouraging to home-owners with oil-burners which could not be converted into coal-burners; that much oil has been saved by the order cutting out oil for commercial and public buildings; that many owners of old oil-burners had changed them for more economical new burners prior to the order cutting down the use of petroleum products in Canada; that handling of coal as a substitute for oil requires substantial additional manpower in a time of manpower shortage.

Very Few Convert.

In Ottawa, very few householders have yet converted their oil-burner furnaces to use coal, it was learned. However, there may be a last minute rush around August 31.

Persons in small homes using "stove oil," a product very similar to kerosene, have no worries about their oil problem. They can continue as in former years, since there is no ban on this product and its use is not very extensive. Users of stove oil burn it in small oil burners in the room it is designed to heat.

Ruling on Overseas Newspaper Mail Helps Conserve War Shipping Space

Many people torn between the desire to send newspapers and periodicals to troops and civilians overseas and, on the other hand, to conserve shipping space for more vital necessities, have had the problem solved with the ruling of the Postmaster General that no more complete issues will be accepted for mailing. Central and South America, Bermuda and the West Indies as well as the United Kingdom are affected.

The clipping of items of special interest recommended in the Post Office bulletin has already been carried on extensively and appreciation of bits of humour and cartoons included in letters, together with bits of home town news has been expressed time and again by overseas recipients. Those who already have their private clipping service in operation say it is surprising how much of this material can be sent in a letter without its being overweight.

SALVAGE PLAN AVOIDS WASTE IN OUR SHIPS

Careful Check on Munitions and Clothing Ensures Use Over and Over Till it Becomes "Scrap"

Ottawa, August 15 —(CP)— The Royal Canadian Navy never wastes a shot—or an empty shell case.

When the fight is over the shell cases are collected along with the empty ammunition boxes, and returned for the naval ordnance depot for re-use.

A. B. Coulter, acting director of the directorate of naval stores, told a House of Commons committee on war expenditures of the navy's widespread organization to ensure that equipment is used many times when possible and waste is avoided.

As the naval service pays a kit upkeep allowance to each rating after 12 months' service, rather than issue new for worn clothing, the problem of salvaging clothing and boots does not arise to the same extent as in the other services. The bulk of the part-worn clothing recovered from ratings discharged under 12 months' service is re-issued to ships as clothing for shipwreck survivors.

A civilian salvage officer in each dockyard has the responsibility of ensuring all unused material is reported for disposal, and he arranges for repair or conversion. Lists of disposal material are circulated among other dockyards and outports to see whether any part of it is required elsewhere.

The navy salvage program has been encouraged by the issue of circulars showing what the army has achieved in the repair, cleaning and recovery of from 200,000 to 250,000 pieces of clothing a month and in other salvage and conversion operations.

Surplus Reported.

Under a new stock control card system set up by the navy, a red blank card indicates, at monthly stock-taking, items not being issued. These are reported to the naval stores officer. If, after six months, slow-moving stock remains on the shelves, it is surveyed to determine serviceable, obsolete, convertible or unserviceable articles.

For many years ships and establishments were credited through a cost-accounting system with the depreciated value of all articles surveyed and taken on the dockyard charge as "scrap." This was merely a bookkeeping entry and as the money for material when sold went to the receiver-general, this credit system was abolished. Returns now are recorded for quantity only and financial statistical returns are considered the duty of the treasury.

The navy has always considered its officials should have as little dealing as possible with the scrap merchants, and material listed for disposal is only issued to a dealer or another department on a salvage instruction from the salvage officer of the treasurer department. The navy's responsibility is to obtain a clear receipt for the quantities authorized for disposal and in some cases to ensure that the money is fully collected before the goods are handed over.

Small, active committees are being set up at each naval establishment to check on salvage possibilities and to see that present equipment, tools and other supplies are conserved. Officers will report to these committees on returned articles and the use which might be made of them locally.

2 1,000-Pound Bombs Hit Italian Cruiser Say Returning Pilots

By EDWARD KENNEDY

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Cairo, Aug. 15 —(AP)— Fliers who took part in the American air force bombing of three Italian cruisers at the Greek harbor of Pylos reported that one of the ships hit squarely with two 1,000-pound bombs, would be out of operation for a long time.

A second cruiser was set afire and a third damaged in the 1,300-mile trip attack which put a big new dent in Mussolini's battered nagy.

Taking off Tuesday afternoon from a secret airfield somewhere in the Middle East, four-motored B-24's of the 98th bombardment group under command of Col. Hugo Rush winged to the attack across the Mediterranean and over the southern tip of the Peloponnesus to the Ionian seacoast port.

Four cruisers were morred in a straight line in the long narrow harbor.

The planes swooped in still retaining high altitude, moving diagonally across the target which was clearly visible in the light of the setting sun.

Two planes crossed each cruiser, dropping 1,000-pound explosives.

The pilots said two direct hits on one cruiser were certain. Another was set ablaze either by a direct hit or a near miss, they reported. Bombs which fell alongside the third cruiser caused a terrific explosion as fragments apparently struck oil or munitions stores.

The fourth cruiser apparently escaped damage.

Felts and Straw Hats Hit by Restrictions

From summer straws to shiny toppers, Canadian hats are feeling the effects of war scarcities.

Hat manufacturers have to get along without fur felt from rabbits of France and Belgium, straw from the Orient and German dyes. Also the shellac used in sizing felt hats has a vital war use and to conserve supplies, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has cut the production of women's felt hats to fifty percent of 1941 production. Last May men's hats were standardized and simplified so purchasers may expect more variations in quality, fewer styles, simpler trimmings and about a quarter of the usual colors.

Commonsense care will prolong the life and good looks of a hat. Brushing is very important. Both straws and felts should be brushed before every wearing, for rain on a dusty hat makes dirty spots. To prevent perspiration stains the sweat band should be turned out to dry. Hats should be put on carefully to keep the brim in shape. When stored away the crown should be punched up, and one hat in a box is enough: hats should not be piled on one another.

GERMANS GAIN IN NEW DRIVE ON STALINGRAD

CHURCHILL CONFERS WITH STALIN AT MOSCOW

Enemy Disregards Losses in Assault In Kletskaya Area

Russians Hold Firm Southeast of City But Nazis Move Nearer to Grozny

ADMIT LOSS OF MAIKOP

By EDDY GILMORE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Moscow, Aug. 17 (AP)—The German offensive in the Don Bend flared [illegible] full force today in a powerful new drive toward Stalingrad while in the Caucasus the Russians fell back from the ruins of the Maikop oil fields toward their next petroleum producing area at Grozny.

A Russian communique reported a terrific toll of new Nazi manpower and material thrown into the assault southeast of Keltskaya and northeast of Kotelnikovski against the flanks of the fortified line guarding Stalingrad.

75 Miles From City

Battlefront dispatches said the Germans rolled forward at tremendous cost in the Kletskaya Salient, 75 miles northwest of Stalingrad, but were held firmly at the Kotelnikovski flank, 95 miles southwest of Stalingrad.

In the Caucasus, extending Axis lines appeared checked on the Krasnodar flank where the Germans are thrusting toward the port of Novorossisk, but they stretched ever farther to the southeast along the rail and oil pipe line toward Grozny and the Caspian.

The Russians reported fighting southeast of Mineralyne Vody, 140 miles from Grozny.

Destroy Maikop Installations

In announcing the loss of Maikop, they said that the valuable oil installations of that area which produced seven per cent of Russia's petroleum had been blasted to worthlessness.

Trainmen Killed In Train Wreck

Wabash Passenger Train Hits N. Y. Central Freight Train

Adrian, Mich., Aug. 17 —(AP)— One trainman was killed and another critically injured today when a westbound Wabash railroad passenger train struck a northbound New York Central freight train at a crossing near Raisin Centre, eight miles northeast of Adrian.

First reports were that none of the more than 100 passengers on the Wabash train were injured. None of the eight passenger coaches left the rails.

The passenger train, en route from Detroit to St. Louis, struck about the middle of the 15-car freight train which was en route to Jackson.

The Wabash locomotive sliced through a box car, splinters of which were spread for about 300 feet along the right-of-way.

One coal car on the freight train was overturned.

The passenger train's locomotive turned on its side, blocking the double-track line, and the baggage car was up-ended on top of one of the coal cars in the freight train.

J. A. Hendrick of Peru, Ind., engineer of the Wabash train, was killed instantly; Herbert Altman, also of Peru, fireman, suffered critical burns.

The crossing where the passenger train struck the moving freight train, is in open country about half a mile from Raisin Centre, and was protected by automatic electric signals.

Pending an investigation, there was no official explanation of the accident.

SERGEANT SHOWS FINE COURAGE

With Clothing Burned From Body He Rescues Two Companions

Peru, Mass., Aug. 17 (AP) — Three soldiers today were given a better than even chance to recover—the only survivors of a plane crash that took the lives of seventeen others.

All three—Sgt. Robert Lee, 23, of Columbus, O.; Cpl. Alonzo Pearson of Somerset County, Pa., and Pte. James Fern of Abingdon, Va. — suffered serious burns when a United States arm ytransport plunged into Peru Mountain in this Berkshire Hills town Saturday night while on a routine mission out of Pope Field, Fort Bragg, N.C.

In laconic language, the army told of the heroism of Sgt. Lee:

"With his clothes completely burned from his body, he climbed from the wrecked plane and succeeded in dragging two of his fellow passengers to safety. He carried two others from the burning ship only to find they were dead.

"He then walked three-quarters of a mile to the nearest highway and directed State Police back to the scene of the wreck. He had previously signalled for help by firing three shots from his revolver."

An investigation of the accident, one of the worst in the history of United States military aviation, was launched.

The plane sheared tree tops for 100 yards as it plunged toward a flat spot atop 2,200 foot Garnet Peak on the mountain, then burst into flames.

TOOK 15 YEARS TO BUILD MODEL TRAIN

Winnipeg, Aug. 17 — (CP) — A model train, measuring 30 feet in length, complete with tracks, freight sheds and dumps, will be on display for two months with proceeds of a silver collection semi-weekly going to the Women's Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Navy Volunteer Reserve. Guy S. Little, of Winnipeg said it took him 15 years to build the train.

HORSE STOPPED ON COMMAND

Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 17 (AP)—A horse pulling a bakery wagon ran away on Main Street. The driver tugged at the reins. A policeman gave chase. All was to no avail. Finally an old-timer yelled "whoa". The horse stopped instantly.

PRESSURE KEPT ON JAP BASES IN SOLOMONS

U.S. Marines Believed Extending Bridgeheads Already Won In Hard Fighting

ALLIES CONFIDENT

London, Aug. 17 (CP)—Selwyn Speight, the London Star's correspondent in Sydney, Australia, said today that despite the cautious tone of United Nations' communiques "it seems clear the Allies have already won in land, sea and air operations in the Solomons the greatest victory yet achieved against the Japanese."

Attributing Washington reluctance to give details on the Solomons action to security reasons, Speight said it was "reasonable to assume" that the United States Marines have achieved their major initial objectives.

"This has apparently been done by seizing control of Tulagi harbor and of the big air base on Guadacanal island which was nearly ready for use by the Japanese when it was taken," he said.

When American and Australian fighting planes are able to operate from that field in substantial numbers the Japanese will have lost all chance of driving them from the island, he asserted.

Allied Headquarters, Australia, Aug. 17—(CP) — Allied airmen maintained ceaseless vigil over the waters northeast of Australia to prevent Japanese reinforcements from reaching the Solomon Islands as the battle for control of vital bases there entered its 11th day today.

While United States marines were believed to be extending bridgeheads already won in hard fighting in the Solomons, actual developments in that theatre were hidden by official silence both here and in Washington.

No reference to the situation was contained in the daily communique from Allied headquarters, which was devoted to a brief report of a new Allied bombing attack on Japanese-occupied Timor and to continued patrol skirmishes in the Kokoda area of southeastern New Guinea, 60 miles from the Allied base at Port Moresby.

Quiet Confidence

There was evidence, however, of quiet confidence in Australian circles, whose attitude was reflected by William H. Hughes, a member of the Pacific War Council, in a speech at Sydney yesterday in which he acclaimed the Solomon Islands offensive as "a revelation of the strength of our ally, America."

London's Gay Night Spots No Place For Pikers Looking for Good Time

(By FOSTER BARCLAY)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 17 (CP) — You need a fist-full of cash and a dash of thrift to live in this Empire capital these days when things not only are hard to come by but cost more than anyone dreamed of in peacetime.

Asparagus, for instance, costs the equivalent of 75 cents a bunch, a double whiskey and soda $1 a throw and a workingman's pint of ale about 25 cents. But that's only a starter for persons who live, eat and work here. Fun costs more in London than anything else.

The government has pegged meals at $1.25 for a three-course dinner. But that doesn't mean anything in Soho or the big hotels where extras are charged for service, entertainment and surroundings. Add a few drinks, a theatre or movie and a couple of "quick ones" for the road and the night out will cost at least $15 and sometimes $20.

It's the fellow—usually single and in the army—who wants to keep going after the pubs close who takes a beating. He's got to have about $25 more in the kitty. Entrance fees to "bottle parties"—equivalent to night clubs—run about $3.75 a couple plus about $13 for a bottle of spirits. Then there are tips, taxis and incidentals.

Furnished flats run anywhere from $10 weekly for two rooms to $40 for a pretentious apartment with four bedrooms, two bathrooms, kitchen, dining room and living room.

For a family of four the weekly expenditure for food averages about $10. Then there's gas, light, coal, other household necessities plus cigaretes at 50 cents for 20 and whatever is spent for a nightly ale at the local pub.

Rationing has worked fairly because it allows rich and poor alike to have the same quantity and the same right to controlled articles. It's the extras and uncontrolled goods that cost money.

Most housewives spend long and tiresome hours shopping in an effort to obtain uncontrolled goods to supplement the regular rations.

If they want a chicken, even a scrawny broiler, they have to place an order weeks in advance and pay $5 or more for the bird. They queue up for a rabbit and pay as much as $1.50 for a skinny and boney bunny.

Peaches—when they are obtainable—cost about $1.50 each; grapes 85 cents a pound; cherries 35 cents a pound and berries 50 cents for a small basket. Carrots, peas, potatoes and lettuce are cheap and plentiful.

Under the rationing scheme each person is assured tea, cheese, sugar, cooking fats, eggs, milk, bacon and jam—and 20 "points" coupon each month to buy canned goods. It takes the wisdom of Solomon to apportion the points so they will last one month.

Canadian, American Paratroopers Begin Course of Training

(By SYDNEY GRUSON)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Fort Benning, Ga., Aug. 17. (CP) —Hardy tanned sons of Canada and several hundred Americans began training today in a course that marked another expansion of the Canadian Army's training and another example of the co-operation between the two countries in the fight against the common enemy.

The Americans are another class of the hundreds that have entered the Parachute Infantry School at this huge United States army post, but the 27 officers and men from the Dominion are Canada's first paratroopers. The "guiding lights" for the first Canadian parachute battalion to be trained at Shilo, Man., under Maj. H. D. Proctor, slim, 30-year-old Ottawan.

The Canadians arrived last night after a two-day tnain ride from the Canadian capital. There was no time lost in starting the five-week course that will end with their taking one jump daily in the last five days.

Maj. R. F. Routh, 28, Montreal, is second in command of the men here. He and Maj. Proctor, and the other four officers, will receive exactly the same training as the 20 non-commissioned men who were chosen from volunteers for the new force. The seventh officer is Lieut. C. F. Hyndman of Charlottetown, attached to the group temporarily from the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps to discuss medical problems with American medical officers of the United States Parachute Corps.

The officers and men started today on the first phase of the course—advanced physical training to condition themselves for the jumping at the end. They will learn all there is to know about the parachutes themselves —their handling, packing and such—in the second week, advance to the controlled jumping towers and finally take to the air.

Here, at the Parachute School the slogan is: "We ride to fight—why walk?" And that's all right with these Canadians who volunteered for the dangerous work, to a man, because the job promises action and a somewhat more intimate association, eventually with the enemy.

In top physical condition, most of them from Canadian industrial centres, the men were picked individually by Maj. Proctor, who described them as "guiding lights of the future Canadian paratroops", to be trained at Shilo. They've already had the training in the handling of weapons that the Americans take after they have mastered the technique of jumping.

Besides Maj. Proctor and Maj. Routh and Lieut. Hyndman, officers of the group are Capt. H. A. Fauquier, brother of the R.C.A.F.'s famed Wing Cmdr. Johnny Fauquier; Lieut. T. W. Brier of St. John's', Que, and Lieut. H. K. Robinson and Lieut. Marcel Cote of Montreal.

One American Dr. W. D. Cabell of Lynchburg, Va., is among the group of non-commissioned officers in the cadre.

FINANCE MINISTER INTERVIEWED ON TAX PROVISIONS

Ilsley Says Increased Incomes Allow Canadians to Pay More Tax

GIBSON ALSO HEARD

Ottawa, Aug. 17 (CP)—Increased income permits Canadians to pay taxes on a scale they were never able to think of before and at the same time lend more and more money to their country. Finance Minister Ilsley said in a broadcast last night over the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation national network.

The Finance Minister and Revenue Minister Gibson were interviewed bp Rupert Caplan, CBC official, on Canada's financial requirements and the means of raising money needed for the war.

Mr. Ilsley said the "tremendous volume of spanding for war purposes" has resulted in Canadians as a whole having more money in

German Troop Train Runs into Another Train at Groningen

London, Aug. 17 (CP) — Aneta, Netherlands' news agency, quoted a Soviet information bureau report from Moscow today that a heavily-laden German troop train ran into another train at a railway station near Groningen, The Netherlands, causing serious damage and suspending traffic on the line.

Five prominent Netherlanders were executed by a Nazi firing squad Saturday as hostages after saboteurs whom the Germans blamed for a similar troop train wreck August 7 were not captured.

The Germans previously had said the lives of 1600 hostages would be taken if the saboteurs were not given up by their countrymen, and there was a possibility that other executions might follow the first five.

MERCHANT VESSEL TORPEDOED

Washington, Aug. 17 —(AP)— The United States Navy announced today that a medium-sized U. S. merchant vessel was torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine late in July.

The attack occurred in the Atlantic several hundred miles off the northern coast of South America, and survivors have been landed at a United States east coast port.

INDIAN ISSUE AS FAR AS EVER FROM SOLUTION

Britain Warned by Moslem Leader Against Peace Plan With Hindus

SAPRU TAKES HAND

Bombay, Aug. 17 —(AP)— The Moslem League working committee met in secret today to decide whether it should open a campaign to obtain recognition by the government and the Hindus of its demand for partition of India into separate Hindu and Moslem states.

The committee also was to discuss its attitude toward the present unrest arising from the all-India Congress Party's civil disobedience campaign.

An appeal to Britain to make peace with the all-India Congress Party—and a warning against such a step—left the issue over Indian independence apparently as far as ever from a solution.

2 Naval Officers Hunted at Sea

San Francisco, Aug. 17 (AP) — Two naval officers, missing when their crewless and broken blimp floated in from the ocean and descended on a street in suburban Daly City, were hunted at sea off the Golden Gate today. The blimp had been on a routine anti-submarine patrol flight.

Two life belts were missing from the craft when it landed, but all parachutes and the rubber life raft were found in the gondola where the two officer-crewmen rode.

The blimp, sagging in the middle, with big tears visible in its fabric and with its two motors idle, drifted in from the Pacific yesterday morning, five hours after it had taken off on a flight.

The craft wandered along at tree top height, left one of its depth charges on the Lakeside golf course when a bomb rack scraped the ground, and settled to earth in nearby Daly City. It struck one house and two autos, but caused little damage.

One depth charge still in the bomb rack under the gondola offered no hazard, inasmuch as it would explode only under water at considerable depth, naval men said. The depth charge left on the golf course likewise did not endanger anyone.

ILLEGAL TO HOARD IRON AND STEEL SAYS CONTROLLER

No One But Dealer Can Have More Than 500 lbs. Scrap After September 1st

DRASTIC MEASURES

Ottawa, Aug. 17. (CP)—Steel Controller F. B. Kilbourn, faced with demands from war industry for vast quantities of scrap metal has issued a drastic order making it illegal to hoard iron and steel, whether in the form of machinery or scrap, it was announced today by the Munitions and Supply Department.

Without a permit, no person except a scrap dealer or scrap consumer, may keep possession after Sept. 15 of any scrap metal weighing more than 500 pounds. For purposes of the order scrap metal includes machinery, structural steel or any other article or commodity containing iron or steel, if it is not serving "an immediate vital purpose."

"The time has come when the shortage of steel calls for drastic measures", Mr. Kilbourn said in the statement. "Nearly 1,000,000 tons of scrap now are needed for ships, guns, tanks, planes and other war supplies. It is essential that we obtain that scrap".

"Although the definition (in the order) is broad enough to take in passenger cars and trucks not now in essential use, it is not our intention to order the disposal of such vehicles", he said. "We will, however, insist on the application of the order to vehicles which are in automobile graveyards".

Fences, steel in partly-completed buildings and machinery now in actual operation in non-war plants are covered by the order, but will not at present be affected.

"The object of the order", said Mr. Kilbourn, "is to compel the disposal of old or obsolete machinery or scrap metal, which has been held for a better price or because of some imaginary future need".

Negotiations Held For Four Days On War Problems

"Several Decisions Reached Covering War Against Hitlerite Germany"

MEET FIRST TIME

By ROBERT BUNNELLE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 17—(AP)—The announcement that "definite decisions" had been reached at Prime Minister Churchill's conference with Premier Stalin in Moscow was regarded in London today as evidence that the Soviet Union, Great Britain and the United States had reached a definite formula on how to beat the Axis and when to open a second front.

Source Close To Prime Minister Called the Meeting "An Epoch"

TWENTY IN PARTY

By EDDY GILMORE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Moscow, Aug. 17 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain has concluded a four-day trip to Moscow in which he and Joseph Stalin reached secret decisions on stopping and defeating the Germans, it was disclosed officially today.

The Prime Minister and his Anglo-American party of 20 were flown to Moscow in three big Consolidated Liberator bombers. They arrived on the afternoon of Aug. 12 and departed yesterday morning.

Communiques issued here and in London this afternoon, following Mr. Churchill's departure from Soviet soil, said the conferences had resulted in a number of decisions on the conduct of the war and that existing understandings between Russia, Great Britain and the United States had been reaffirmed in an atmosphere of cordiality and complete sincerity."

A source close to the Prime Minister, when asked what the conferences were about, replied:-

"Any child in the street should know the answer to that."

Twenty in Party

The fact that Britain, Russia and the United States were in agreement on the urgency of establishing a second front in Europe this year was announced this spring following Soviet Commissar Molotov's trips to London and Washington.

Twenty persons—including six Americans—were in the Churchill party on this first journey by a British Prime Minister to the Soviet Union.

They included Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, Commander-in-Chief in India, and Maj.-Gen. Russel Maxwell, United States Commander in the Middle East.

The communique, after listing the participants in the conferences, thus summed up the results:-

"A number of decisions were reached covering the field of the war against Hitlerite Germany and her associates in Europe. This just war of liberation both governments are determined to carry on with all their power and energy until complete destruction of Hitlerism and any similar tyranny has been achieved.

Wall of Flame Saves Malta Convoy From Stuka and Torpedo Attacks

The following first detailed account of the great convoy battle of the Mediterranean last week is written by a correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph News Agency who was on the British Aircraft Carrier Eagle, sunk early in the action. The convoy reached Malta after the sinking of the Eagle and the Cruiser Manchester.

(By ARTHUR A. THORPE)

Gibraltar, Aug. 16 (AP)—Today I heard details of the terrific air attacks launched against the convoy of merchant ships on its way to succor gallant Malta.

Hundreds of Axis planes were flung into the fight to prevent the much-needed supplies and reinforcements from reaching the island. But only a small proportion sent their bombs and torpedoes at the great armada owing to the magnificent work of the fleet air arm fighter planes.

High - level bombers, torpedo planes and stukas came out in huge formations from air bases in Sardinia and Sicily, but a cordon of constantly-circling fighters smashed up attack after attack and sent the bombers scurrying to their bases, their bombs exploding harmlessly in the sea many miles from the ships.

I was in the Eagle, a unit of one of the largest British warship forces ever to sail down the Mediterranean. Merchant ships plodded resolutely along over the blue sunlit waters of the Mediterranean.

Battleships, cruisers, aircraft carriers and many destroyers enclosed them in outer and inner rings of hundreds of long and short range anti-aircraft guns, while the carriers' fighters roared around out of sight awaiting an enemy onslaught.

The Eagle was sunk when we were nearing the edge of the battle zone. Some of her fighters were in the air at the time and flew on to one of the other carriers.

The first air attack came five hours after the Eagle was sunk. An officer in a battleship which returned to Gibraltar told me that four Junkers 88s evaded fighters and dived on his ship. An intense barrage of shells pumped up at them spoiled their aim and their bombs exploded in the sea.

"We knew that large formations were all around us," the officer said, "but the carriers' fighters were wonderful in splitting up enemy formations and driving them off.

"Axis planes never managed to reach us in really strong numbers. Wednesday about 9:30 a.m. twenty big twin-engined bombers carried out a high-level attack. They all dropped bombs. One fell very near a merchant ship. She was damaged and her engines stopped. (Soon afterwards she started again.)

"Then we saw about a dozen torpedo bombers coming in on the starboard side close to the sea. We had a surprise for them which they showed no liking for. We put up a barrage with high explosive shells. I have never seen anything like it. Our shells were exploding in a huge wall of flame, smoke and flying splinters. The planes made no attempt to face such a colossal barrage. They turned away. We saw no torpedo attacks.

"Later twenty Stukas broke thru' and screamed down at the ships. One dived down at us. Tracer shells and pom poms were pumped at him in red streams. I could see pieces flying off the plane, but the pilot kept on and a big bomb plunged into the sea very near to us.

"A few minutes later seven dive-bombers appeared suddenly out of the blue and dive-bombed a carrier. They roared down one after another and she disappeared from our sight behind climbing spires of water. But she was still steaming along when she came into our view again."

Hastings County Leads Province For Cheese Production in July

Hastings County again led the Province of Ontario in the production of cheese in July with 1,651,419 lbs., according to Agricultural Representative H. L. Fair, Stirling. This is a slight increase over July of last year, when the production for the month was 1,511,684 lbs.

In the seven months ending July 1942 Hastings County produced 5,563,322 lbs. of cheese, as compared with 4,401,694 lbs. for the same period last year.

Numerous showers throughout the summer have kept pastures in very good condition, with the result that a number of factories are making as much cheese now, as they have at any time this year. In 1941 Hastings County produced 9,426,779 lbs. of cheese. The prospects at the present time would indicate that this 1941 production will be exceeded this year.

The Cheddar cheese production in Hastings County for the first seven months of the year was 5,563,322 pounds as compared to 4,401,114 for the same period during 1941. Northumberland production for the same two periods was 2,396,024 as against 1,665,114 in 1941, while in Prince Edward 2,181,885 pounds were manufactured up to July 31st as compared to 1,400,357 one year ago. July production in each of the three counties showed a considerable increase over the same period last year.

NAZI PATROL BOAT SUNK, 3 DAMAGED

All British Light Coastal Craft in Clash in Straits of Dover Return Safely

London, Aug. 17 (CP)—A light German patrol boat was sunk and three others severely damaged in a spirited clash with British light coastal craft in the Straits of Dover last night, the Admiralty announced today.

All the British craft engaged in the clash returned to their base, but there were a few casualties aboard, the Admiralty said.

The German force consisted of "five or six enemy R-boats," the communique said.

British sailors set one afire and saw it sink. The German commanding officer was killed and 15 German sailors were picked up.

Another enemy boat was rammed and so seriously damaged it was believed to have failed to reach base.

Two more "R-boats" were severely damaged by gunfire, the Admiralty added.

Coastal Batteries in Action

Coastal batteries engaged in the action, the Admiralty said, explaining the mystery of gunfire heard in the Channel and the cross-Channel duels of German and British heavy artillery last night.

The "R-boat" is a German motor minesweeper, which usually is larger than the motor torpedo boat used by the Germans in the Channel. The designation was adopted from the German "Raumen," meaning to clear the way.

(The German high command said its heaviest type coastal artillery shelled "military targets in the area of Dover.")

Jane's lists two types of R-boats, one displacing 45 tons and another 90 tons.

BEER-DRINKING PARTY ABRUPTLY ENDED BY POLICE

Belleville's Noted "Goat Farm" Rendezvous Raided by Provincial Police

14 FOUND-IN

Fourteen persons, including men and women alike, had their beer-drinking activities abruptly brought to an end early Sunday morning, when Provincial Police raided a local rendezvous on Sidney Street. The occupants of the house, which is commonly known throughout the district as "The Goat Farm," had little opportunity to discontinue their quaffing of a cool flagon of ale before the police were inside the building and in possession of sufficient evidence to take the names of the found-ins, Inspector Frank Gardner announced today.

Some fifty quarts of ale and beer were confiscated and the Provincial Police stated today, that the occupants of the house and all "found-ins" would be charged with the violation of the L.C.A. in Thursday's County Police Court. Provincial Constables Robt. Duncan, Stanley Batt, Arthur Kellogg and Robt. Morrison conducted the raid under the direction of Inspector Gardner.

"Fourteen customers, two residents, and a number of goats were all on the premises, when we drove in and surrounded the building," revealed the Provincials today as they added no resistance was given. The names of those charged will be announced in open court Thursday.

RCAF Shepherds U.S. Army Fliers Over France

London, Aug. 17 (CP)—R.A.F. fighters and bombers, flying at such altitudes they could not be seen through the haze, roared out over the Channel today, presumably to make another foray over the occupied coast.

On the south coast a lone German raider dropped a few bombs which caused some property damage and a few casualties.

The night was fairly quiet.

Some enemy raiders stabbed inland as far as the North Midlands and bombs fell at one point on the east coast but damage was slight and there were no casualties reported.

A moderate-sized R.A.F. bomber force struck at western Germany Saturday night and despite thick clouds, the Air Ministry said, some of the crews found their targets. Five bombers were listed as missing.

A squadron of R.C.A.F. veterans shepherded United States army fighters in one long sweep over France during the weekend but the operation apparently was routine and a terse United States headquarters communique gave no details. Spitfires continued the aerial assault on occupied France yesterday with a tree-top run over a railroad with Belgian pilots participating. A freight train was damaged.

Next 80 Days Gravest Hours In War's History

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

The second Great War, more terrible and far-spreading than its 1914-18 predecessor, will be three years old in another two weeks. Yet there is a good basis for the assertion of high-placed British spokesmen that it is only now verging toward its crisis.

From two British sources a prediction has come within the week that by November 1 the flood crest of Axis attacking power will have been reached. Speaking in London, Oliver Lyttelton, Minister of Production, admitted a "sombre" outlook, and said Britain would face the gravest hours of her history within the "next eighty days."

Captain Bernard Newman of the British Ministry of Information, was even more specific. Speaking in Halifax, he said:

"If by November 1 we are still fighting hard, if by November 1st, we still hold Egypt, I think we will have won the war."

Here is the same thought, the same critical date setting, but differently expressed. What can be traced in both statements is the belief that Hitler and his Axis accomplices must reach a decisive victory before Winter sets in again in Russia, or not at all. And grave as are the war reports from the Caucasus, there seems yet no possibility that Russia can be crushed or forced to her knees in that time.

Cumulative Pressure

On the contrary, even by German victory claims, Hitler's armies, are now on the defensive from Leningrad to southwest of Moscow, from the Baltic to the upper reaches of the Don. Russians armies are being battered in the Central Caucasus, but the ramparts of the towering Caucasus range to the south still guard the Baku oilfields. That difficult terrain, well suited to defence against Nazi lightning war methods, is offered by Berlin as an advance explanation for an expected slowing down of the victory march in the south.

By contrast, Russian offensives at crucial points from Voronezh on the Upper Don, to north of the Valdai Plateau are reported by the Germans. Moscow gives them only passing mention, yet they may indicate a vast and cumulative attack pressure building up all along the north segment of the long Russian battle line now that Nazi forces in the south are badly extended. Berlin styles these thrusts as "relief" attacks and claims they have all been bloodily repulsed.

Nevertheless, with less than 90 days intervening before Russia's ancient ally, Winter, again comes to her aid, Hitler's armies are still far from having set up a short Winter line across Russia from the Baltic to the Caspian.

Crisis Before November

Tremendous new German advances to take Leningrad, Moscow and the Volga front below Stalingrad must be made before November if Hitler is to stand on a shortened Winter line in Russia and be prepared to face westward against Anglo-American power gathering across the English Channel. Failing that or a Russian collapse—of which there is no faint suggestion even in German propaganda—he will be more greatly extended in Russia next Winter than he was last, when he fell back.

There has been continuous expectation in London and in China that Japan would step into the European war theatre by attacking Russia from the rear at an opportune moment.

With United States sea and air forces at last on the offensive in the Southwest Pacific, however, a revision of the Japanese plan for Axis co-operation well may be in the making. That the stroke in the Solomons was in part timed by Washington to that end seems almost certain.

Nor can it be doubted that Japan, if she is to move at all against Russia this year, must move well before November 1. The Siberian theatre offers limited time for major action before Winter takes over.

On all counts, therefore, the British view that the three-year-old war will reach its crisis before November seems well founded. It probably affords a key to the timing of possible Allied moves in Egypt or in the west.

RESULTS OF DARING R.A.F. ATTACK

A Boston bomber of the R.A.F. command recently made an unescorted attack in daylight on objectives at Sluiskil, an inland port in south-west Holland, and returned with photographs showing the results. This remarkable close-up shows a bomb bursting on a gantry on the wharf, and splinters can be seen flying through the air.

VOLUNTARY RATION PLAN

New York, Aug. 17. (AP) — Apartment house dwellers accustomed to a constant flow of hot water would have the supply limited to between the hours of 6.30 and 9 a.m. and 5 and 8 p.m. under a voluntary rationing plan outlined in a broadcast Sunday by Mayor La Guardia. Formulated by a committee of dwelling-house operators, the plan would be part of the fuel conservation program for New York City.

BLIND IN ONE EYE

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 17 (AP)—The sign over a door in the medical department of the induction centre was efficient until a recruit blind in one eye, approached it from his sightless side. Clad in his birthday suit he popped through the door into a room full of stenographers, and hurried right out again. Then he discovered the sign: "Do not enter this door if undressed".

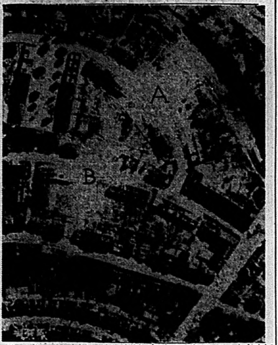
TWO "BLOCK-BUSTERS" DID THIS



The British air ministry released this air view of the German industrial city of Saarbrucken to reveal the potency of the huge, new "block-buster" bombs which are now being used by the R.A.F. in its sweep to wipe out Hitler's munition centres. All the damage in the above was caused by two of these missiles which landed in spots "A" and "B". The white, bare patches cover an area of 2½ acres which are completely levelled. Closer examination shows that virtually every building in the photo is roofless. The air ministry claims that the total area affected by the two bombs is approximately 16 acres.

The Experts Say . . . .

By MARGARET ECKER

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 17. (CP)—Tips to Canadian housewives from Ottawa experts:—

Jewelry

Don't worry about it, says Herman Levy, Jewelry Administrator for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. . . .Although metal costume jewelry and glamor pins are war casualties, artists have leaped into the breach and Mr. Levy says they have created dress ornaments and gadgets "more exciting and more attractive than ever before". Wooden articles are finely carved. . . Gay, colorful necklaces are being made from macaroni and from sea shells. . . "Yes", beams Mr. Levy, "Canadian women will be beautiful, despite war necessity".

Sugar

Make sugar rationing a game in your family, says Harold McPhillips, prices and supply representative for the Prices Board in the Western Ontario Region. . .On his rounds, Mr. McPhillips has picked up lots of games to stretch sugar ration. . .In one family, the mother measures a cup of sugar for each individual —this is his or her ration. . . If the members of the family are sufficiently economical in the amount they use on beverages, fruit and cereal, the surplus goes into a common pool— and mother can bake their favorite pies, cookies and cakes.

Fish

Government fish authorities frown upon the practice of feeding canned salmon to cats because it has nearly disappeared from the market. . . But the report comes that a Quebec City housewife has a dodge to observe wartime rules and still keep kitty happy. . .She buys beef lungs, which some butchers give away, though others feel they must charge a few cents a pound. Anyway, it's a nutritious dish for kitty—and they don't need beef lungs overseas.

Housewives and the War

A few weeks ago, thousands of Canadian housewives pitched in to help Byrne Hope Sanders, the Prices Board's "Mrs. Consumer", prepare cards for sugar rationing. . . . A few weeks later, along came coupon rationing of tea and coffee . . . "The volunteers didn't know it, but they were setting up the machinery by which tea and coffee rationing could be introduced at a moment's notice", Miss Sanders said in expressing the board's appreciation to housewives.

They're not ashamed of SHINY ELBOWS in Britain!

IN Britain they have to get along on 51 clothing coupons a year. Of these, a woman's woollen dress takes 11, a man's suit 26, his pyjamas 8, shirts 5, leather gloves 2. Everything is rationed even handkerchiefs.

But in Britain they would rather be free than fashionable, safe than smart. Wouldn't you?

Charter's Anniversary

A year has passed since the world became aware of the signing of the Atlantic Charter in one of the most memorable meetings of heads of nations in history.

On the anniversary President Roosevelt sent to Prime Minister Churchill a congratulatory message. The United States has been in the war since last December when Japan defied all rules and opened up her aggressive drive against the democracies. The head of the United States reaffirmed the principles of the charter which he said would bring the nations to a happier world.

The charter stanus as a declaration of human liberty. It is the defiance which democracy and justice hurl at the head of the renegade and blackguard powers, Germany, Italy and Japan. It is the expression of the heart of man seeking security and the hope and belief that "all of the nations of the world, for realistic as well as spiritual heasons, must come to the abandonment of the use of force." It is the expression of belief that disarmament of aggressive nations is essential "pending the establishment of a wider and permanent system of general security."

Against the moral principle of the Atlantic charter the assaults of the Axis tyrants cannot prevail. Powerful as they are, the Axis nations are faced with the full effort of the democracies carrying out the principles the democracies possess. It is a war of right against tyranny and the use of force. Right and democracy must win for the soul of man will not endure any other ending of this struggle.

Wrapping Paper

A good method of salvage is not to use anything that is essential until the use of it is necessary.

There is the case of wrapping paper. In many cases wrapping of parcels is quite unnecessary and the purchaser should ask the salesman not to wrap such an article.

That will eliminate a number of things, lost time in wrapping parcel, loss of the wrapping paper if the purchaser throws it away, and further time if the purchaser saves it and has to have it collected. By stopping the use at the source, a great deal of unnecessary handling is removed.

This elimination of wrapping can be applied to a number of articles, which do not require to be wrapped.

This is one way of saving labor and material.

In the Solomons

The United States Marines have with Allied air and naval co-operation been adding to their foothold or grip on the Solomon Islands and it is reported a fourth island has been invaded by the Americans. The United States forces have been able to establish beach heads with such success that the drive of the United Nations' offensive in the Pacific has caused great enthusiasm and optimism of outlook on the course of the attack in the Pacific.

Japan has been making typical Axis claims which have caused her to vary her statements but the world will pay little or no attention to the claims of the enemy in the light of the progress of the Allied forces. Enemy statements are invariably exaggerated.

The blow at the Solomons is yet developing and is the third great shock administered to the men of the Rising Sun. They can remember the Coral Sea and Midway and assuredly the Japanese cannot forget what has been happening in the Solomons which is entirely different in character from the two previous battles. The Solomons occupy a very important position in the Japanese defence—so important that success of the Americans and Allies may menace the whole scheme of the Japanese warlords in their struggle of aggression, just as was stated on Saturday in regard to the air raid on Tokyo and other Japanese cities a number of weeks ago, which, it is said, was so important that it upset the whole Japanese program of strategy.

The battle for the Solomon Islands has importance in the light of reports of recent weeks of a possible Japanese attack on Russia through Siberia. It may safely be imagined that Japan is thinking more of the attack on the Solomons than of Siberia at this moment, particularly when the Solomons occupy so strategic a link in the islands in the Pacific.

OURSELVES AND OTHERS...

TELL THE TIME BY THE STARS

Everyone is familiar with the use of a simple sundial to tell the time of day by the sun, writes F. S. Hogg, astronomer at Dunlap University. Fewer people know that it is fairly simple to estimate the time of night by the position of the stars. Some years ago at the conclusion of a visit of state to America, a celebrated prince from Siam was asked what that he learned in America pleased him most. He is reported to have answered that he had learned to tell the time by the stars. At this season of the year when camping trips or summer cottages lure many city-dwellers away from the city lights to the starlit skies of the country, it is interesting to try estimating the time by the stars.

Since the earth rotates on its axis from west to east once every 24 hours, the sky appears to rotate from east to west in the same interval. Thus by watching the motion of any stars we can estimate the time. One of the commonest methods, for dwellers in the northern hemisphere, is to watch the big Dipper or King Charles' Wain circle arouhd the North Star. Spencer, in the Faerie Queen, and North American Indians, in their legends, referred to the time by this constellation. Shakespeare, in Kink Henry IV, wrote:

"Heigho: an't be not four by the day I'll be hanged
"Charles' Wain is over the new chimney."

Since the sky changes from season to season, as the earth circles around the sun, we must take into consideration both the position of the stars and the date. This dependence on the season makes the telling of time at night somewhat more involved than the reading of a sundial. There are many suitable rules in use by different observers; it is largely a matter of personal preference what one is used.

One of these rules is as follows: Regard the northern sky as the face of a clock, in which the Pole star, Polaris, is the centre of the face. Consider a line from the Pole star to the pointers of the Big Dipper as an hour hand. Notice, of course, that this hand moves in the opposite direction to ordinary clocks. Now imagine the numbers 1, 2—12 set around the dial in the usual way, as in the diagram.

Estimate, to the nearest quarter hour, the time as indicated by the hour hand. Add to this time the number of months and quarter months that have passed since New Year's Day. Multiply the sum by two. Subtract the result from 16¼ (or from 40¼ if the product is greater than 16¼). This gives the local mean time.

To get standard time, remember that eastern standard time is the local time of the 75th meridian. In Toronto, we are 18 minutes west of this meridian, so standard time is 18 minutes later than the time determined above. For Toronto the standard time could be obtained directly by using 16½ instead of 16¼ in the computation.

Eastern war time is, of course, one hour later than eastern standard.

As an example, in the diagram the estimated time would be 8 hours. On July 6, 6¼ months have elapsed,

Time by pointers	8 hours
Months of year	14¼
Twice sum	28½

40¼-28½=11¾ hours.

Hence the local time is about 11.45 p. m., or the eastern standard time (for Toronto) is 11.45+18=12.03 a.m., or the eastern war time is 1.03 a.m.

SELF-WINDING CLOCK

Clocks have recently been built so delicately adjusted that they are wound by changes in temperature. A change of one degree Fahrenheit stores up enough power to drive the clock for four days. Since the temperature changes constantly there is little likelihood that the clocks will run down.

HOT DAY THOUGHTS

When the temperature runs high
Just an empty shell am I,
Merely flesh and bone and hide
Lost to everything of pride;
Blind to fortune; deaf to fame
And indifferent to acclaim,
Craft, profession, skill or trade
I'd lie dozing in the shade.

When it's ninety in the sun
Purpose seems all things to shun.
To my ragged shirt I'd strip
Giving care and need the slip;
Minding not what scornful eye
All disdainful passed me by,
Of no censuring word afraid
I'd lie dozing in the shade.

Through an August torrid wave
I've no courage to be brave.
Like some fellow feeling ill
All I want is to be still,
No ambition can I show
Until cooler breezes blow,
In some deep secluded glade
I'd lie dozing in the shade.

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

New York, Aug. 17.—The United States are conducting a war. For that purpose we have an army, an air force, a navy, an Office of War Production, and other special war agencies.

By and large, the public knows what they are doing and who is doing it. We even have from time to time communiques as to what is happening in each branch of the service and in the various departments. The activities of these institutions and the policies followed by them are openly discussed; and within reason, and with a view to the exigencies of war, they are criticized—in and out of Congress. It is our common democratic belief that this method is in the best interests of these institutions—always allowing for the proper social discipline in wartime.

We think mistakes are, to a certain degree, inevitable, understandable, and remediable. But what infuriates the public is to learn of something important to them which has been kept from them.

Psychological War.

Now, in all this, there is one exception. There is one branch of warfare, now being practiced by all the powers, which has proved itself of great potential power. That is the psychological war. That is the campaign by which we attempt to break down the enemy morale, encourage our Allies, mobilize guerrillas, convince neutrals that their interests lie with us, and prepare the way not only for winning the war, but for winning the peace.

Politically, this is the most important branch of the war. We cannot win the war with it, but we can certainly shorten or prolong the war, according to whether our psychological warfare is intelligent or stupid.

No one needs to be convinced of its importance, because we have seen what enormous Axis victories have been won with it.

Mussolini managed to keep the Allies bamboozled until the day Italy struck; the Japanese diplomacy and propaganda was thoroughly intelligent—for instance in Malaya. And we are feeling the repercussions of Axis propaganda throughout the world—in India, Arabia, Europe, and even in this country, as our sedition trials now show us.

Ideas Count for Much

Our Government knows that this war must be fought with planes and tanks and men and also with ideas. In fact, there never was a war in which ideas counted for so much. And our Government has set up a bureau to wage war with ideas. We don't call this bureau by its real name: the Office of Psychological Warfare. It has a neutral and nondescript title: the Co-ordinator of Information.

So far our knowledge goes. And there it practically ends.

What are we telling our enemies? What are we offering our Allies? What line are we taking? What purpose do we hope to accomplish? What evidence is there of any success? Who is in charge of short-wave broadcasts and other propaganda to, say, Germany? To Italy? To Vichy, France? To Occupied France? To Japan? To anywhere else on this round globe?

We know that hundreds of scripts are being written, day in and day out. By whom? Do you know? Does anyone know? Does the President know?

Now, this is the one branch of warfare which can be a military secret only to us. It is, by its nature, no secret to our enemies. A large part of it is directly designed for their consumption. The rest they can get from their listening posts. But the American people cannot get it, except very exceptionally and with great difficulty.

As far as I know not a single communique has ever been issued from this branch of our war effort, in any way dealing with policy.

But it happens that this branch of our warfare—the warfare dealing in ideas—most directly concerns the people of the United States, because it commits the people of the United States to ideas, programs, policies, that will not only affect the outcome of the war but play a perhaps determinant role in the outcome of peace.

And it not only commits us. It creates in Europe certain forces, certain political trends. Our political warfare is, presumably, playing hand in hand with our military warfare. Our armies are attempting to defeat the Axis powers, and our expectations are that their military defeat will result in political overturns. A political warfare must, therefore, work to assist the political overturn, and pave the way for a new political reconstruction. But to what groups do we look for revolt, and what reconstruction do we envisage?

Nobody knows. I hope the bureau itself knows, but if it does it is a profound secret. I, at least, have never been able to find out what the policy is. And who determines the policy is an even darker secret. If and when the time comes to strike at Central Europe with armies, I expect to know what generals are in charge of every operation. But we are striking day by day at Central Europe with ideas, and neither you nor I know who is responsible for them.

Suspects Planning Lack

I suspect that there is no planned strategy whatsoever. And I suspect it on very good evidence. For I myself am a participant in that warfare. Once a week, for months past, I have broadcast to Germany. Moreover, I have organized and edited other broadcasts to Germany. This has been done at the request of a network and with the consent of the Co-ordinator, whose bureau has passed on every script. But I have found it impossible to ascertain what anybody else is saying to Germany. I am unaware of being part of any planned strategy. Presumably there is a strategy and somebody is in charge of it, but I don't—officially—know who he is.

Isolated from the main body of troops (if there is a main body of troops) I am waging a little guerilla war. It's all very well to wage guerilla war, if your armies have been scattered by the enemy and there is nothing else to do. But it's a miserable way to begin a war, and even guerillas try to regain contact and receive instructions.

Our domestic propaganda tells us that this is a peoples' war. If it is not a peoples' war in the field of ideas, where is it a peoples' war? Why should we know what the Axis is telling us—information that is available to anyone who listens to short-wave broadcasts—and be in complete darkness as to what we are telling them?

This war is not a conspiracy. It is an open fight for freedom.

A DREAM IN MARBLE

The Taj Mahal at Agra, India, regarded as one of the most beautiful structures in the world, is being protected against possible Japanese bombs.

This building was originally projected about 1627 as a pleasure palace by the Mogul emperor Shah Jahan, a descendant of the Tartar conqueror Tomerlane.

Two years later the Shah's favorite wife, Mumtaz-Mahal ("Ornament of the Palace") died and he decided to convert it into a magnificent mausaleum for her and himself.

It was designed by a Byzantine Turk or Persian named Ustad Isa and was completed in 1645.

For nearly 18 years 20,000 men were kept on the job at all times.

In spite of the fact that the labor cost virtually nothing, the cost of the monument is estimated at between twenty-five and fifty million dollars.

The name of the Taj Mahal (pronounced "tazh ma-HALL") is derived from Arabic "taj," crown and "mahall," abode, and literally means place of the crown.

But the first part of the name of the mausoleum was suggested by the fact that it was built near the bazaar or marketplace known as the "Taj-makan," while the second part comes from the title of the Shah's favorite wife.

The Taj Mahal is composed of white marble and is decorated with mosaics in many colors and inlays of semi-precious stones.

With its domes, minerets, terraces, galleries, courts, porticoes, walled garden, monumental gateway, fountains, canals, marble pavings, clusters of cypress—the Taj Mahal is almost universally regarded as one of the most poetic pieces of architecture in the world.

Some of the doors are of solid silver.

It is said that the entire text of the Koran is inscribed in mosaics of semi-precious stones on the interior walls.

The central dome rises 200 feet from the ground level.

It is supposed to be modeled after a solitary dome that Tamerlane himself saw in Damascus before he burned that city.

After Tamerlane conquered more than half of the then known world, he refused to permit the Moguls to build according to any previous patterns of architecture. The Scourge of God himself invented a new system of architecture suggested by the cliffs and mountain peaks of his native central Asia.

CHAPTER ONE

IN SEARCH OF THRILLS

It was three minutes until five o'clock, and in the reception offices of Harcourt, Simmons and Hanover, Architects, pandemonium reigned.

Lost in the confusion of letters, envelopes and file baskets that littered her desk, Linda Phillips glanced briefly at her wrist watch and made a wry face.

"It's nearly five!" she wailed, turning to the middle-aged woman at the next desk, "and Mr. Harcourt hasn't signed his letters, and Kyle will be waiting for me downstairs, and maybe he'll get a traffic ticket, and—"

She paused for breath, staring thoughtfully at her co-worker.

"Jane—" she began uncertainly.

The other woman smiled, knowing what the request would be. Despite her austere manner, Jane Miller had a warm spot in her heart for Linda, and it was hard to refuse aid to Harcourt's little secretary.

"Run along and meet your sweetheart", she said smiling. "I'll get your letters in the mail and straighten your desk".

"Really?" The girl's face brightened happily. "I'll take you to lunch tomorrow for being such an angel".

Gathering up hat and purse, Linda blew an airy kiss to the other woman, and dashed through the door. Jane Miller watched as the slim figure disappeared down the corridor, thinking wistfully that her own youth had been drab and dull. There had been no young men waiting to drive her home after a busy day. No sparkling engagement ring had circled her finger.

Jane felt sudden nostalgia at her loss. On a sudden impulse she ran to the window to catch a final glimpse of Linda and her sweetheart. "How happy she must be", Jane thought. "She has everything she can want, and I have nothing".

Then, "You're nothing but a romantic old maid, Jane Miller", she reproached herself, but she experienced a sudden thrill for Linda's happiness.

In the meantime, Linda Phillips left the office building and approached a small, battered coupe parked at the curb. Smiling expectantly, she crossed the sidewalk to say:

"Going my way, mister?"

Kyle Norman nodded shortly, opening the car door to admit her. "You're a few minutes late tonight".

"Oh, I'm sorry, Kyle. Jane said she would finish my work so I could hurry". She settled down beside him as the car pulled away from the curb and into the stream of home-moving traffic. An October haze had fallen over the small city of Prairievale, and smoke from the factories for which this middle-western village was famous, filled the air. Still the fall breeze was fresh in Linda's face after the stuffy, over-heated office. She had opened the window, allowing the wind to caress her face and ruffle her shining, copper curls.

Watching the familiar scenery as Kyle drove toward her home, Linda murmured dreamily, "What a grand day this has been. The weather should be perfect for Sally's trip to Chicago".

It was said casually, but Kyle Norman scowled. To him this was no new subject.

"Are you going through that again?"

Linda smiled a trifle wistfully. "I'm afraid it's too late now for wistful thinking, but —" she paused, opening her purse to reveal a folded letter.

Linda clung to him "I do love you, Kyle," she exclaimed. "I do!"

"I heard from Diane Frazier today. She invited Sally and me to stay with her".

"Diane Frazier?"

"She once lived here," Linda explained. "Her parents were killed in an automobile accident when she was a child, and then she lived with an aunt in Priarievale until she was eighteen. She's been back a few times to visit Sally".

Sally Barnes was Linda's best friend.

Kyle frowned. "You'll refuse the invitation, of course".

Linda smiled faintly. "There's no use in writing. Diane knows better than to expect me'.

"I should think so," Kyle said firmly. "Of course I realize you'd like to attend your cousin's wedding, but after all, you hardly know her. She would be almost like a stranger to you now".

"It wasn't so much the thought of attending Betty's wedding as it was the opportunity of going to Chicago for a week-end". Linda answered. "It meant a chance to get away for a little while. I'm so tired of working. . .working . . . working".

The man moved uneasily. Unconsciously they had reopened an old subject. Always before Linda had been sweet and trusting, eagerly adopting Kyle's plans and dreams for her own. But of late there had been a difference in her manner, as though she was tiring of her job, her home—even of Kyle, her fiance.

Diane, in negligee, said, "If you'll excuse me, I'll get dressed."

In order to put an end to the discussion once and for all, the man said slyly:

"Of course, if a week-end in Chicago means more to you than our wedding next June, I suppose it could be postponed again—"

"Of course not, darling", she murmured, moving closer to him, at her gentle acquiescence, the man's jaw relaxed. Unconsciously he smiled a little.

The late-afternoon sunshine caught the bright sparkle of her engagement ring, and Linda twisted it nervously.

"But just the same, I can't help feeling there's more to living than settling down in Prairievale. I want excitement and thrills. I want to meet brilliant people; attend operas; see first nights".

Kyle grinned, his good-humor completely restored. "I can't offer you any operas or first nights, but there's a new moving picture in town tonight. Will that do?"

There was a moment of silence; then Linda broke into laughter at this rude awakening from her dreams. "All right, Kyle," she grinned. "I guess, after all, this is my future, and my place is with you".

Arranging her hair before dinner, Linda stared soberly at her reflection in the mirror. As a child it had been her dream that some morning she would awaken—changed. Instead of plain Linda, she imagined, would be a new and exotic woman-of-the-world; a glamorous, breath-taking personality who by a mere flicker of her lashes would capture the heart of every male in Prairievale.

Instead, Linda was a small, slim girl with wide amber eyes in a fragile heart-shaped face, and shining, copper-colored hair neatly arranged. The girl was not beautiful, but there was something haunting in her wistful face, and a definite charm in her manner. Staring at herself, Linda again experienced a familiar feeling that was like defeat. Again she thought, "Why am I so plain?"

Then Kyle appeared suddenly behind her, and Linda turned to smile up at him, trustingly, not knowing how that smile transformed her face into beauty.

Dinner was a common-place meal with the Phillips family. There were no servants, no sparkling glassware and damask such as Linda longed to possess. Instead, in a small, cheerless dining-room gathered John Phillips, middle-aged and graying, his equally fading wife, Mary, and their daughter Here, too, sat Kyle Norman, intent upon his plate, and with his brown eyes inscrutable behind shining spectacles.

The conversation, which had been none too inspiring at the start, floundered and died. John Phillips, who for thirty years had been sole proprietor of an inconspicuous grocery store, racked his brain for a suitable topic, and then gave up the attempt.

It was then that Linda's mother brought forth the query which was to prove a veritable bombshell in the Phillips household.

"Did you have a very hard day, dear?"

"Not very", Linda glanced up. "Mr. Harcourt was a little on the crusty side".

This, too, was a familiar subject, and Kyle suddenly waved his fork in threatening fashion. "Harcourt again, huh?" he exploded. "Why don't you demand a little consideration from him?"

Linda's composure was unmoved. "After all, he is my boss", she said serenely. "And besides, I like him".

'Like him! That old goat"? Kyle snorted. "Just because he happens to be your boss is no reason for him to treat you like— an underling. That's what I told old man Kraemer today". Kyle was warming enthusiastically to his subject, unaware of sudden stillness around him; of watchful waiting.

" 'Kraemer,' I said, 'just because I've been working as your clerk is no reason for you to take advantage of my services'. . . . ."

Slowly Kyle's voice died away as he became aware of Linda's eyes, fixed unblinking upon him. The silence in the little dining-room, continued.

Linda's voice, when she broke the silence was icy:

"Kyle—did you . . .lose . . . . your. . . . job?"

"Now, Linda—" her father remonstrated, but the girl silenced him with a glance.

"Did you, Kyle?"

The man's face grew sullen, almost defiant. "We-ll, yes".

"Oh!" Linda drew in her breath sharply. "How could you do such a thing! How could you!"

"Please, dear,' her mother whimpered nervously. She looked as though she could cry. John Phillips, tinkering futilely with his napkin, cleared his throat.

"Perhaps you'd better excuse us and settle this little quarrel privately".

"No!" Linda retorted stoutly. "You both knew about this. Why didn't you tell me? How long has he been out of a job this time?"

"We—we were getting around to telling you," her father explained hopefully. "We didn't want to worry you".

"That isn't true,' Linda replied quietly. "You were afraid to tell me. You knew how I would feel'.

"After all, dear," Mary Phillips put in gently, "Kyle had to work very hard for Mr. Kraemer. You know he has a reputation for being a slave-driver with his employees".

"But—" Linda was white. "—the last time it was three months before he found work. He was lucky to get a position in the Kraemer Hardware Store. I doubt if Mr. Kraemer would have hired him, but times were hard and he was sorry for Kyle.

"It isn't just that I'm disappointed", Linda went on, gripping the table edge for support. "It's only that I'm making so many sacrifices. Why, I—I'm wearing the same winter coat I've worn three years because I've been saving for our wedding. I—I only turned down the chance to go to Betty's wedding because Kyle and I had so many uses for the money, and I wanted to go. I wanted very much to go—"

With tears streaming down her cheeks, Linda regarded her silent audience, and an exciting, daring plan began forming in her head. She made a sudden decision—a decision that was to alter the entire course of her life; to cause heartbreak and happiness, the thrill of success and the bitterness of defeat.

"Well, since it begins to look as though I'm the only one who wanted to get married", she said defiantly, I'm going to have a honeymoon—a honeymoon all by myself. I'm going to Betty's wedding in Chicago, and—what's more—I'm going in style!"

The following day passed quickly—too quickly for Linda. Following her outburst at the dining table the previous evening, she had said nothing to her parents or to Kyle, but had gone to her room, composed, to make a list of the things she would need in Chicago.

Recklessly she had withdrawn from the bank a portion of the money placed in joint account with Kyle, and invested it in a neat, inexpensive outfit. There was a hat, plain and inconspicuous, and practical (how Linda had grown to despise that word); a dark dress for travelling; So much more serviceable on the train, my dear," the clerk had said, and a simple, not unbecoming print frock for the wedding itself. This was Linda's new wardrobe.

All the arrangements had been made. Linda was to board the train at midnight, in company with pert, pretty Sally Barnes. Sally had long been a close friend of Linda's.

They had shared school-year confidences, attended dancing classes together, but with their high school graduation had come the parting of their ways. Sally, only daughter of the Prairievale news—paper publisher, had gone to a smart finishing school while Linda stayed at home. Her marriage to banker Hugh Barnes a scant year before had been a brilliant affair in Prairievale. Their home on the outskirts of town was a favorite showplace. Yet, despite her social standing, her background of wealth and culture, Sally maintained her friendship with Linda, disregarding the latter's protests that she did not "fit in" with Sally's smart circle.

Like Linda, Sally had been invited to the Chicago wedding, but while Linda's decision to go came only in a fit of despair and bewilderment, Sally needed only to summon a maid to pack her smart gowns, blithely kiss her husband good-bye, and embark on a gay weekend.

There were no more angry words, but the Phillips household was caught in a flurry of packing, of haste and excitement on Linda's part that evening, before she was ready to leave for the railroad station.

Peering again into her mirror, Linda touched her fresh fingerwave, tipped her new hat at a precarious angle, and marvelled that her new dress seemed to brighten her old Spring and Fall coat.

Mary Phillips maintained an injured silence almost to the end but at last she said mildly, "I must say you've made Kyle feel very badly".

"I'm sorry, mother," Linda was distressed; then her pretty face cleared magically. "But it will be such a lark. I haven't seen Betty or Diane for a long time".

"But you were never a close friend of Betty's," her mother objected, "and if her wedding takes place on Saturday evening, and she's leaving immediately on a cruise, I can't see—"

It was true that Linda had never become very friendly with Betty Allison. Always the girl had stayed with Sally on her infrequent summer visits to Prairievale, despite the fact that she was Mary Phillip's niece.

They knew very little about her forthcoming marriage, except that Betty's fiance was a member of a prominent eastern family, but Linda, since receiving the invitation had dreamed of spending the weekend in Chicago—of seeing Diane and Betty. She had yearned for one final fling before she married and settled down, and now—now she was to have it!

Still, she could not explain to her mother how she felt; that this brief trip away from Prairievale would be something to cherish when life in the village became dull and monotonous.

At the last minute Kyle appeared, and Linda found herself stiffening defiantly, fully expecting another burst of bitter words.
he said humbly, "that is, if you're he said humbly, "that is, if you're not still sore at me". His eyes were wistful, and his manner so pathetic that Linda melted.

"Of course you may. I'll call Sally and tell her we'll meet at the station".

Riding to the station she looked slantwise at the man she was to marry, experiencing as she had on their first date years before, the same familiar thrill of delight Kyle was handsome, unusually despite the spoiled pout of his mouth. He turned suddenly and caught her appraising him.

"Still angry at me, dear?"

Fondly she put one small hand over his, resting on the wheel.

"No, I'm not angry. I—I'm just disappointed, I guess. We've been engaged for so long, Kyle. Four years is a long time to skimp and make plans and have our air castles tumble down again and again."

They had reached the nearly-deserted station now, and Kyle parked his car carefully before he spoke again. Then he turned, putting his arms around Linda's small figure.

"Don't you think it hurts me, too?" he queried. "But what else can we do but wait? If only I had a job—a substantial job, I mean; But how can I take care of you when I'm never sure of myself?"

That was true. Despite the doubt which had crept into Linda's mind of late, regarding Kyle's affection for her, the girl knew he had never had an easy time—a secure moment. The son of poverty-stricken tenant farmers, it had taken great effort for Kyle to put himself through high school in Prairievale. Still, Linda sometimes wondered whether the man at times didn't expect too much from his employers.

Scolding herself for her doubts, Linda touched his cheek with her finger-tips.

"Poor darling", she smiled. "We will manage somehow. There's no hurry".

"I'm not going to bother you with my troubles now", Kyle said briskly. "You have a good time and forget me. But don't" he paused to kiss her gently, "forget you belong to me'.

Sally was waiting on the station platform with her husband, and, as always, she greeted Linda with enthusiasm.

"I was afraid you'd be later", she cried, "but Hugh said I was foolish to worry".

Hugh Barnes was a large man with an impressive, jolly manner, and he adored his small, vivacious wife. That much was evident in the way he looked at her. Seeing them together, so gay and happy, always made Linda feel strangely lonely and neglected, as though they knew a gay secret which she could never share.

The train pulled in, steaming like a monster dragon, and Hugh bustled away with Sally following, and left Linda and Kyle to say their last good-byes.

"Were behaving like foolish children," Linda giggled, "acting as though we were saying good-bye for always, instead of two days".

"I'm not sure it isn't a premonition," Kyle answered, and his tone was so sober that the smile left Linda's face and she eyed him anxiously.

"What do you mean?"

"Nothing. Forget it Linda. You had better jump on the train before it goes without you".

She clung to him, suddenly, urgently. "I—I don't want to leave you now. I feel as though I'd been childish. I only said I'd go because I was angry and hurt".

Linda touched Kyle's cheek with her finger-tips "Poor darling", she said. "We'll manage somehow".

"Forget it," he said brusquely. He kissed her briefly, and then Linda boarded the train, waving good-bye until they had pulled away from the station and Kyle and Hugh were dim figures—vague little people Linda Phillips would never know again.

Later, with the tears still damp on her cheeks, Linda joined Sally in the drawing-room which Hugh had insisted on reserving for them. Sally was curled up on the seat, a diminutive figure clad in green velvet and a corsage of orchids. Her hair, the color of corn silk, hung to her shoulders, brushed soft and smooth and shining, and her brightly-rouged lips smiled a warm welcome.

"I'm so glad you decided to come along", she said frankly. 'Confidentially I dread making trips alone'. I hate being by myself. But—" she spread her slim hands expressively—'when you called and and you were going, it practically floored me! What made you change your mind?"

Linda flushed and bit her lip. Regardless of her close association with Sally, and her recent quarrel with Kyle, she could not bear for the other girl to know there had been trouble between them.

"You had a fight with Kyle," Sally said unexpectedly. So it had been unnecessary for Linda to confess! She felt her cheeks reddening, and nodded miserably.

"I—I wish now I weren't going", she admitted, "but Kyle lost his job. And I was—well, feeling badly, and I said I would go just to spite him. He —he didn't want me to."

Linda had expected sympathy from the other girl. Instead Sally laughed. 'I think he's being selfish," she said. "Surely if my husband urged me to go, it was only fair that Kyle would want you to get away for a little vacation. Goodness knows you deserve one!"

She stopped short, and Linda glanced at her. Had Sally meant anything by those words? Linda could not tell, and suddenly she was weary and confused. The innocent weekend jaunt seemed to have reached frightening proportions.

"I—I shouldn't have come," she cried. "I—I'll be out of place there!"

Sally patted her hand gently. "I'm very glad you came, honey. You'll have the time of your life. Somehow I have a feeling that life will begin for Linda Phillips, when she sets foot in the Windy City!"

CHAPTER TWO

DIANE

To Linda's inexperienced eyes, Chicago was a majestic city, and while the taxi bearing the two girls sped toward its destination, Linda viewed eagerly the shrieking elevated trains clattering overhead, the small, inviting shops and towering skyscrapers; exclaimed in delight when she first glimpsed Lake Michigan.

"You're getting a big kick out of this, aren't you, honey?" Sally said, watching her companion.

"Oh, yes!" Linda was enchanted. "I've never been in a large city before. I always wanted to travel, but after I got out of school and began working, I had to save my money". She did not say, "and then I met Kyle," but it was on the tip of her tongue, and Sally's swift glance was shrewd and understanding. Linda felt color suffusing her skin and began to chatter about the changing street scenes to cover her embarrassment.

The taxi came to a stop before a large apartment house overlooking the lake. Sally escorted Linda through the impressive lobby and into an elevator that swept them up to the fourteenth floor with a swiftness that left Linda amazed and breathless.

She hung back shyly, admiring the luxurious carpeting and lovely hangings in the corridor, while Sally tapped lightly at a door marked 1403. It opened promptly, to reveal a colored maid in a trim black and white uniform.

"Miss Frazier's expecting you", she said in reply to Sally's question. As the girls entered the room, Sally completely at ease, Linda a little awed by this show of splendour, a familiar voice caroled:

"Louise, is that Sally Barnes?"

"Yes'm it's Miss Barnes all right", the maid replied, and then dubiously, "but there's somebody else with her".

"Somebody with—" A shining red head popped around a door, and an expression of surprise and pleasure dawned on the pretty face.

"Linda!' cried Diane Frazier, coming forward. "This is a surprise!"

"I practically had to kidnap her away from Prairievale", Sally laughed, tossing bag, hat and gloves on a near-by chair.

"Prairievale!" Diane made a grimace of distaste. She motioned to the portly maid, saying, "Louise, take Miss Phillip's things to the guest room and then fix the girls some breakfast. They must be starved".

Then she held Linda's hand affectionately. "Darling, I'm so happy you could come. It's been ages since we three had a good, old-fashioned gab fest."

She gestured dramatically. "Remember our long talks in the Prairievale library? What topics we had! Boys, and clothes and all the latest scandal." She laughed vivaciously. "I used to exaggerate my opinions just to see Linda's shocked expressions, and watch her gasp in amazement because she thought I was bold and brazen. Didn't you, Linda?"

When the other girl protested feebly, Diane hugged her. "Never mind, darling. The topics of conversation never vary, but I promise I won't shock you with my ideas".

She motioned to her filmly negligee. "I just finished having my breakfast in bed", she explained, "so if you'll excuse me, I'll get dressed. Make yourself at home girls, and I'll be out in a jiffy".

She disappeared into her bedroom. While Sally stretched out inelegantly on a chintz covered sofa, Linda examined the living-room carefully. It was small and tastefully arranged, with quantities of beautifully-arranged flowers in gay pottery vases, Diane's exquisite artistic sense had been allowed to express itself in the selection and arrangement of the color schemes and Linda was not a little impressed by the result.

"Diane must make a great deal of money", she whispered in Sally's ear, "to have this beautiful apartment, and a maid, and not have to work unless she wants to".

Sally nodded, "She does very well for herself. She has a studio downtown, and does illustrations for several fashion magazines".

"I wonder why she's never married?" Linda said musingly. "Surely with her beauty and personality she's had opportunities".

"Undoubtedly", Sally yawned contentedly, "but Diane Frazier is a rather self-sufficient young person. Perhaps she's too independent and expects too much of her admirers because she's so clever and shrewd."

"I wish I had one-half her ability", Linda mourned. Then laughing, "I guess I'm just nothin' but a nothin';"

"You have something Diane has never had", Sally observed brightly. "We both have something more precious than all of Diane's glamour, and that's love. In all her twenty-four years Diane's never loved anyone but Diane". Sally patted herself lightly on the back. "I'm awfully glad I'm Sally Barnes."

The maid was arranging china on a small tabe near the windows overlooking the lake, and presently she brought in smoking hot bacon, crisp toast and steaming, fragrant cups of coffee. In an instant, Sally was on her feet. "Does my nose deceive me, or do I smell food?" she demanded.

Louise chuckled. "Yes'm you sure do".

"Then come and get it, Linda," Sally sang out, seating herself at the table. "Hmn, but it looks so good!"

Linda studied the colored maid's delighted face. Already she was won over to Sally's side. Linda wished she could be as much at ease and friendly as Sally, instead of covering her own shyness with a brusqueness she did not feel. Sally on the other hand, made new friends easily and quickly. Hugh once said of his wife, "Babies and animals love her, and servants fall down and worship her".

Yet, despite her timidity, those who were able to break down Linda's reserve found a sweet, gentle girl, generous and loyal to a fault.

"What's the matter, Linda? You aren't eating", said Diane, appearing beside the table, smart and sophisticated in sleek, black frock.

Linda flushed. "I—I was thinking".

"Better save that for later," Diane admonished, "or Louise will be highly insulted., She's very proud of her culinary ability".

Making a pretense of eating, Linda studied the artist carefully. Diane was undoubtedly pretty—with her titian hair rolled into a sleek page-boy bob, and with wide blue eyes that could be slate-green when she was angry. Yet Linda decided. Diane had changed since she last visited Prairievale. There was a certain hardness around her red mouth, an indifferent shrug to her slim shoulders that spelled boredom. The difference was not tangible, yet it was there. Even Sally seemed to sense it, for her eyes rested on Diane more than once in puzzled fashion, as though she, too, was trying to fathom the change.

Diane had always been rather worldly in looks and temperament. Her striking appearance, her artistic talents had set her apart from other Prairievale citizens. Her father had been an outstanding artist, her mother a musician, totally unlike the sister with whom Diane made her home following their untimely deaths. In Prairievale Diane had been a suppressed almost tragic little figure, misunderstood by her aunt, held in awe by classmates. No one was surprised when, immediately following her eighteenth birthday anniversary she took the money which had been placed in trust by her parents until she reached that age, and ran away.

Her climb up the ladder of success had been rapid, until now she moved in smart and exclusive circle. But she had never forgotten her unhappy childhood in Prairievale. Her dislike for the Iowa village was evident in her voice, her expressions—even her manner.

Idly sipping coffee, Diane said, "I suppose I should be polite and ask how everything is in Prairievale, but frankly I'm not interested.".

"I'll ignore that last remark and tell you," Sally said smiling, "that Hugh and I are still in the honeymoon stage, and Linda and Kyle are to be married next June".

"June, huh?" Diane eyed Linda carefully. "Do you love him, Linda?"

Linda reddened, confused by the direct question. Diane had always been famous for her frankness. Despite her fragile appearance her tongue could be sharp, and, as she had once admitted, she "never minced words".

"W-w-w-why of course I do", Linda cried indigdantly, "We've been engaged four years".

God's Handiwork

Just a peeping and a twittering
Soft movements in the brush
Just the faintest beams of golden
And the music of the thrush.

Just the roseblush of the morning
Tinging clouds of violet hue
With part color scheme of amber
Dropping sweet refreshing dew.

Just the pause upon the threshold
Of another glorious day,
The bees adroning softly
To the clover fields away.

Just the reverent praise of nature
To the Author of all good,
To the great and wise Creator
In His tender mercy's mood.

See the work of God in nature
In the calm and silent night
In the greatness of the firmament
With its greater worlds so bright.

See it in the early dawning
In the beauty of the flowers
In the music of the birdies
As they wing to scented bowers.

See it in the wheeling light Orbs
In the storm's fierce raging mood,
In the thunderbolt's swift arrows,
In God's judgment for our good.

Tests Disclose Food Sensitivity As Cause of Bowel Ulcer

Ulcerative colitis may turn out to be a serious, disabling disease if it is neglected too long. It is an inflammation which develops sores or ulcers in the lining of the bowel. For some years, some authorities have suspected that sensitivity to certain foods may, directly or indirectly, be responsible for this trouble.

Dr. Albert F. R. Andresen of Brooklyn, thinks that oversensitivity is responsible in more than two-thirds of the cases and that the persons who have the condition are sensitive to some food. And, what is even more startling, he found that in four out of every five patients, milk was the offending food or the food to which these allergic persons were sensitive. Other foods to which patients were found sensitive were wheat, tomatoes, oranges, potatoes and eggs. He also found that the elimination of milk and all milk products, as well as the other foods to which they were sensitive, from the diet of the sensitive person resulted in dramatic improvement.

To find out whether or not the ulcerative colitis is due to allergy, Dr. Andresen devised a test diet composed of five foods: milk, wheat, eggs, potatoes and oranges. The breakfast consisted of milk, egg, a wheat cereal, wheat bread and butter and an orange. Beginning with the milk, one food at a time was eliminated from the diet until improvement in the symptoms occurred which, in turn, indicated which food was causing the difficulty. In other words, if one of the foods was left out and improvement took place it could be assumed that this food was responsible for the trouble. Other foods which might cause the trouble could be detected by adding new foods to the diet each day and carefully watching the effect.

After this test has been carried out a list of foods known to produce the difficulty is given to the patient and he is instructed to avoid them. Of course, the diet must be planned so that it contains sufficient amounts of fats, starches, sugars, minerals and vitamins. The diet for each patient therefore, must be prepared individually, depending on the foods to which he is sensitive.

The patients studied by Dr. Andresen were instructed to get plenty of physical and mental rest and were given fluids in abundance. Injections of blood into a vein as well as injections of glucose and salt solutions to which vitamin C was added were also used. Fresh air, sunshine, ultraviolet light treatments, and getting rid of infections in the teeth, tonsils and sinuses also were parts of the treatment.

Does He Ever Say "I Loved Your Letter"?

His Girl Knows Writing Rules

From his happy smile you can bet his girl will never lose him by poor letters! She's made her letter style by beguiling and as smartly correct as her best date dress!

After all, when you're far away, your letter is your only representative. If you've written a dowdy "not been nowhere" instead of "not been anywhere," you're not there with a cute pout to laugh it off.

Nor does he remember your warm friendly smile when you write boring, tactless sentences like "Well, I have filled this sheet, so I guess I will close." He'll be charmed all over again, though, if you flatter: "Writing to you is such fun I hate to stop!"

You'll go farther at the office, too, if you keep the good will of clients with up-to-date letters. No deadening "Your letter received and contents noted" instead of "Thank you for your letter"! No cheap expressions like "A-1" when you mean "finest quality."

Our 32-page booklet gives proper business and social letter forms, 24 model letters of all types. Suggests topics to write to friends about, gives tips on grammar, helps you to write easily, charmingly.

Send 15 cents in coins for your copy of "Good Letter-Writing Made Easy" to The Ontario Intelligencer, Home Service, 166 Front Street, Belleville, Ont. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Choose Specs by Features

Mary Astor wears dark glasses at the beach.

By HELEN FOLLETT

IF YOU WEAR specs, have been unlucky enough to break them and need new lenses or frame, seek an up-and-coming optometrist who can give you expert advice about making selections. Designers have been busy creating new models that balance the facial features and overcome irregularities.

When the nose is long shallow lenses accentuate it, while wide, deep ones, together with a low bridge, make the nose look shorter. For the short, pudgy nose rimless glasses are offered, the lenses shaped away from the nose on the inner side, giving a longer look.

Little Round Face must avoid heavy frames that make her look owly. A high bridge proportions the nose, makes the face seem longer. For the long, thin face angular lenses and a low bridge are recommended.

Straight-sided lenses lessen the prominence of high cheek bones. Deep-bottomed oval lenses give a softness to a long square face.

You'll need dark glasses, it is likely, if you're going to hang around the beaches. Don't fancy that any old item you pick up will do. There are various grades of colored glasses, some better for eye health than others.

For formal occasions — theatre or dinner party—you should have glasses of gracious dignity.

Career girls do best with rimless spectacles with simply engraved gold mounting and cushion nose rest. The cushion means that there will be no discomfort or red marks in the flesh. All glasses should fit lightly but securely.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Is Engagement to Soldier More Binding than Others?

—If the youth of the country were summoned to jury duty and the questions proposed was "Is an engagement to a man in uniform more binding than to a civilian?"—what would the answer be?

The point has been brought up by a girl corresponden of mine who has been suffering agonies of indecision and remorse. She become engaged to Private Harry B. They were to have been married when he could obtain a furlough. Plans for the simple wedding were party made. She explains:

"We became engaged on the night before Harry left for camp. I better be frank and tell you that he had been in love with me for a long time, but I had gone around with other boys, and the fact that he cared so much for me made it hard for me to understand and decide about my real feelings for him. He was so much in love with me that he swept me off my feet.

"That last night he was so forlorn and appealing that I really tried to make him less unhappy, and there was only one thing I could do, and that was to promise to marry him, though I wasn't really in love. We kissed each other goodbye, he ran for the train. A few days later he sent me a lovely ring.

"He has been away six months. Two months ago I met a man with whom I've fallen in love with all my heart and soul. There will never be anybody else for either of us. Now that I know what real love is I don't want to go on with my engagement to Harry.

"Under any other circumstances I should play fair and tell Harry the whole story and ask him to release me? But isn't breaking your word to a soldier something like betraying your country? Keeping faith with the soldiers seems to be what is expected of us, and I believe it is right. What will people think of me, and deep down in my heart what will I think of myself if I take away from a man the thing he values most? But on the other hand, wouldn't it be a crime and equally unfair to Harry if I married him and do not love him? I must make my decision quickly and I need help.

B. B."

I'm afraid this young soldier will have to give up the girl he loves. If there is a moral to this little story, it is that girls should not engage themselves to soldiers, or in fact to anybody, from mere kind-heartedness. There's too much risk in trying to keep that sort of a promise, when your heart really isn't in it. It makes thinks so much harder for him in the end.

All said and done, it would be more cruel to marry this boy, loving someone else, than to tell him the truth.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

You Cannot "Contribute" by Proxy

There are things in life that so acutely concern one's very being that they simply cannot be left to another person. The spirit of generosity is one of these things.

No one else con "contribute" for you. What another person gives is that person's contribution, not yours.

This question as to whether a girl should make a separate contribution when the man with her makes a contribution occurs often in my mail. I like questions of this kind because they "point up" the eternal truth that good manners are not an unreasonable code of arbitrary rules, but a simple system of gracious forms founded on human values. In this matter of giving, as indeed in all other matters, the correct action is the gracious action. And the gracious action in this circumstance of giving is, of course, to give for yourself.

There are many calls to give these days . . . for war activities, such as the Red Cross and the U.S. and for your church, your local charities, etc. Remember that your relationship to the giving cannot be shared by proxy.

The gentle One who said, "It is more blessed to give than to receive" could not have meant that the blessedness of generosity was to be achieved at second hand. The personal quality of the giving, the willingness to give, is the measure of the blessedness.

Double "Thank-You Letters" Required

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Next month I am going to visit a very dear girl friend of mine. I have never met her mother. So, when I write my bread-and-butter letter, shouldn't I write it to my friend?

Betty

First you should write a thank-you letter to your friend's mother. Even if you have not met her before you go to visit at her house, she is your hostess. Then you would naturally write a thank-you letter also to your friend.

A Courtesy Tip

When you write to me in the service keep high in your heart the sound advice given by the Red Cross: "Too many times the folks at home put forth petty family problems in letters to their boys who are away in camp or fighting at the front. The result in many cases is the demoralization of a brave soldier. So the next time you write to Johnny Doughboy, be cheerful, and if you cannot be cheerful, be factual. A demoralizing letter, whether intentional or not, can be as damaging to the armed forces as any enemy bullet".

Right for now and for later on is a softly tailored frock of black triple sheer with three flap-pockets on either side of the bodice closing, which is a silver slide fastener.

THE ONE AND ONLY Beatrice Fairfax

AT the turn of the Century, when only one university had a recognized professor of psychology, and public defenders, marriage clinics, Freud and complexes were unheard of, there was a popular song

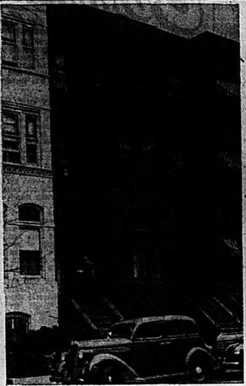
Just write to Beatrice Fairfax
Whenever you are in doubt.
Just write to Beatrice Fairfax
And she will help you out

It was inspired by a slender, comely Virginia aristocrat with a social conscience and an overwhelming desire to do something for others less fortunate, who had initiated under the encouragement of Arthur Brisbane a new newspaper service—solving the personal problems of readers who had no one else to whom to turn. The song is dead, but Beatrice Fairfax goes on helping persons by the thousand. In fact, the war now brings her more mail and problems than ever before.

There is a legend, foisted on the public by movie and fiction writers, suggesting that Beatrice Fairfax is a pipe-smoking, cursing, wise-cracking male who abuses the confidence of harassed youths with love confessions to make, or fakes the letters in the column. But the originator of Beatrice Fairfax (she took the first name from Dante's heroine, the last from her home county) is the one and only Beatrice Fairfax today. She is Mrs. Marie Manning Gasch of Washington, D. C., who started her column in 1898, before her marriage. There was an interval of several years, while Mrs. Gasch was bearing a family, when another woman, also a trained sociologist, was Beatrice Fairfax, but in the last quarter century the original columnist has borne the heavy responsibility.

In earlier days, the preponderant number of letters were from lovesick maidens. Men seldom wrote. Now 50 per cent of her letters are from men and "What shall I do to win him (her) back?" is but one of literally hundreds of her problems.

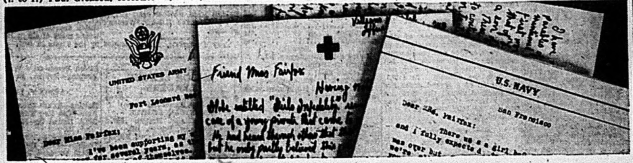
Marie Manning in 1898, when she originated "Advice to the Lovelorn."



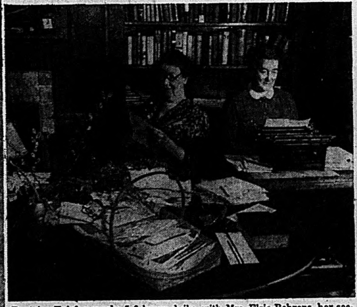
Her home in P Street, Washington. A postman is arriving with another of four daily mail deliveries.

Beatrice Fairfax at the White House with Mrs. Roosevelt. She goes to the highest authorities when she needs help in solving a reader's problem. Mrs. Gasch has been a White House reporter, covering the First Lady for International News Service, for 10 years.

She doesn't get service men's viewpoints secondhand; she visits camps and welfare centers to talk to them. Getting advice are (l. to r.) Paul Gleason, Morristown, N. J.; Marshall Hand, Elizabeth, N. J.; Wm. Murphy, Springfield, Ill.; of Navy; and Wm. D'Onofrio, Brooklyn, N. Y., of Army. One was in legal difficulties over an auto accident. "B. F." got things straightened out for him.



To many women writing to Beatrice Fairfax, it seems soldiers quickly forget the girls they leave behind. Fairfax mail from service men should be reassuring to them, for 72 per cent of her male correspondents are worried over the loved one left at home.



Beatrice Fairfax works 5-6 hours daily, with Mrs. Elsie Behrens, her secretary for 12 years, in an office in her home, in answering personally every letter in the largest mail of any U. S. woman except Mrs. F. D. R.

Son Manning (l.) is Washington realtor; Son Oliver (r. c.), a lawyer, is now an Army major; Husband Herman (r.) retired from business to fulfill an ambition to be a painter. Drew Pearson prizes a Gasch landscape.

She may solicit viewpoint of younger generations, as represented by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Manning Gasch and latter's daughter, Lynne, or consult others, but she never discloses identities of her correspondents.

Al Javery of Boston Braves Hottest Hurler in National League at the Present Time

Allows Only One Run in Four Games and Hurls 19 Innings Without Score

FIVE SHUTOUTS

By GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

After what happened to their pitchers in last month's all-star game, the National League master minds should be giving themselves a good mental kicking every time they read Al Javery's name in a box score these days.

The Boston Braves' string bean is about the hottest pitching proposition in either league, fast living up to Manager Casey Stengel's spring prediction that he would be recognized as one of the game's great hurlers before the season ended. On his present form, Al would have been a real ornament to the Nationals' all-star line-up.

When he blanked the Dodgers 2-0 in seven innings yesterday, setting the league leaders down with a single hit, Javery completed his 19th consecutive inning without having allowed a run. In his last four games he has given up exactly one run. Five of his ten victories this year have been shutouts, tall pitching for a seventh place outfit.

Not in Jeopardy

The decisive setback at Javery's hands did not exactly place the Dodgers' leadership in jeopardy, but taken in conjunction with St. Louis' Cardinals' double victory over Cincinnati, 10-5 and 6-3, it breathed a little life into the National League race. The Cards were back within eight games of the top today.

After absorbing a double licking the previous day, Chicago Cubs came back behind some tight pitching by Bill Lee and Les Fleming to hand Pittsburgh the same dose, 5-1 and 4-1. Fleming allowed only two hits in the second.

Mel Ott's Giants tightened their hold on third place in the National by trimming the Phils 6-5 and sweeping the four-game series.

The Boston Red Sox took a firmer grip on second place in the American League as they swept their second doubleheader with Washington in as many days, 6-4 and 10-3. They held a three-game lead over Cleveland today. Bill Butland and Yank Terry each went the route for the Sox.

Henrich to Join Coast Guards

Home runs by Joe DiMaggio and Joe Gordon, each with a mate on base, paced the Yankees to an 11-2 victory over the Athletics in a six-inning affair at Shibe Park. After the game Tommy Henrich, Yankee rightfielder, left the team temporarily and headed for Cleveland to take a physical examination for enlistment in the Coast Guard.

Detroit came from behind twice to win two decisions over Chicago White Sox, 3-2 and 7-3, the first game going 11 innings before Hal Newhouser bested Ted Lyons in a pitching duel.

Cleveland and the St. Louis Browns battled all afternoon to a stand-off, the Indians winning the first game 3-2 in 11 innings and the scrapping Browns coming back behind Al Hollingsworth to take the second 6-1.

Camilli Gets 20th Homer

In Saturday's National League games Captain Dolf Camilli of Brooklyn blasted his 20th home run of the campaign, with two out in the ninth inning and his team trailing by a run, to score Joe Medwick ahead of him and snatch a 5-4 victory for Brooklyn over Boston.

Pittsburgh took both games from Chicago, 8-5 and 8-7, the second game going 11 innings. New York Giants took a pair from Philadelphia, 5-3 and 4-3. The Cincinnati-St. Louis game was postponed.

In the American League, big Ernie Bonham pitched his fifth straight victory and 14th for the season against four losses as the Yankees beat Philadelphia 5-3 in the second game. The A's won the first 3-1 on a fine pitching exhibition by tall Dick Fowler, one of Connie Mack's two young Canadian hurlers.

Chicago beat Detroit 4-2 and Boston took a pair from Washington 2-1 and 7-6. St. Louis-Cleveland was postponed.

Toronto, Aug. 17—(CP) Error of the week: when Stu (Vancouver Province) Keate handed a story to a telegrapher at Kelowna, B.C., during its regatta the yarn described certain gal swimmers as "built like water seals." When the story reached print, the theme had varied, and much for the worse. It said the gals were built like water heaters!

Calgary's Jack Singer writes that he is willing to promote a bout in Calgary between Al Lust and Dave Castilloux, put up guarantees, pay for publicity and incidental expenses, and donate all proceeds but the fighters' purses to a war charity . . . It's a generous offer . . .Castilloux said last week he would turn personal profits of any such bout to an R.C.A.F. fund and his acceptance of a bout with Lust on Singer's basis would make it official.

Incidentally:

PO. Bobby Coulter, one of Toronto Argus' most-celebrated backs, is in charge of physical training at the new flying instructors' school at Arnprior, Ont. . . . Jim (London Free Press) Burns and Tom (Kenora Miner) Johnston have drawn public attention to a resolution considered but not passed by the Native Sons of Canada Convention in Kenora. . .It read: "Be it resolved that a purely amateur hockey cup be sponsored by the Native Sons of Canada as the Allan Cup now competed for is in our opinion no longer an amateur trophy." As you may guess, there was no argument regarding truth of the resolutions' precept, but it wasn't passed because the organization didn't feel it was proper to start an amateur-pro controversy in wartime. . .the Native Sons could get an argument on that, because the sooner our so-called amateur hockey is re-defined the better.

SWIMMING STAR BREAKS RECORD

Gloria Callen Swims 100 Metres in Relay Race in 1.17.1

Neenah, Wis., Aug. 17—(AP)—Gloria Callen, New York swimming star, today had one more national record to add to her long list of new marks, the only one established in the 1942 Women's National Amateur Athletic Union three day swimming meet.

Sharing honors with the young New York back stroke specialist was Betty Bemis, Indianpolis, who won the events and finished second in a third to amass 13 of her team's 63 points and win individual high point honors. Her team successfully defended its title without serious threats, piling up a total of 53 points, 20 more than the runner-up team.

Miss Callen, a member of the Women's Swimming Association of New York, set the new record while swimming the 100 metre first lap of the 300 metre medley relay, negotiating the distance in 1:17.1, four-tenths of a second under her old mark. Although she gave her team a record start, the event was won by the Multnomah Club of Portland, Ore.

ORIOLES SCORE WIN AFTER SIX STRAIGHTDEFEATS

Leafs Trim Buffalo in a Single Game by 7-2 Count

WINGS SPLIT

(By The Associated Press)

All was calm in baseball's Valhalla today as Hughie Jennings, Jonn McGraw, Wilbert Robertson, wee Willie Keeler and other baseball immortals who once wore the uniform of the Baltimore Orioles quit writhing—the present-day Orioles of the International League finally have scored a run.

Since Aug. 8 the 1942 Orioles have lost six straight games and in doing so failed to dent the plate, going 53 consecutive innings before breaking the drought in the first frame of yesterday's nightcap.

Milkman Jim Turner applied the white wash brush in the first game as Newark Bears defeated them, 4-0. Russ Derry hammered his 19th home run for the Bears in the fourth inning.

Behind the three-hit pitching of Clyde Smoll, however, Baltimore came through in the finale, 3-1. Bob Repass, recently acquired from Washington Senators, led the seven-hit attack on Al Gerheauser and Phil Page with a double and a single in four trips.

As you might have guessed, the Syracuse Chiefs were involved in another shutout. This time the Chiefs dropped a 1-0 decision to Jersey City Giants.

The Giants now have blanked the Chiefs five times and in turn have been held scoreless by Syracuse on six occasions. Syracuse has blanked its opponents seven times in its last nine games and has been shut out in the remaining two.

Rochester Red Wings split with Montreal Royals, copping the opener, 5-3, and dropping the aftermath, 3-2.

Emmett O'Neill was touched for 12 hits, but three double plays helped him hang up a 7-2 triumph for Toronto Maple Leafs over Buffalo Bisons. Al Rubeling was the big noise in the Leaf attack, hammering a homer, triple and single in five trips to the plate.

In Saturday's games Montreal slugged out an easy 9-3 victory over the cellar-dwelling Rochester Red Wings, while Toronto lost a pair of games at home to Buffalo, 2-1 and 4-0. Syracuse downed Jersey City 2-0 and the Newark-Baltimore clash was postponed.

Canada's Athletes at War

By MIKE GREENSTEIN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

(News of Canadian athletes in the armed forces will be welcomed for inclusion in this weekly feature and should be sent to "Athletes at War," The Canadian Press, 44 Victoria Street, Toronto.)

Toronto, Aug. 17 (CP)—From Port William, Irvin Rechtshaffen of the Times-Journal writes about Sgt. George Nyberg, at present stationed with an Army Training Centre there.

George apparently glorifies the life athletic and believes in lengthy route marches as one good way of keeping fit. A former pro boxer with an enviable record before his enlistment—Nyberg won 33 bouts, lost four and drew three—he was well-known in boxing circles in and around Chicago.

Recently he won a fight over Curly Martin of St. Paul, Minn., in a fight sponsored by the Port Arthur Junior Hockey Club. He had to get up at 5 a.m. every morning to train for the bout. George and his brother Alfred used to fight on amateur cards at Port Arthur, their home town.

Airwoman Ethel Boyce formerly of Vancouver, where she was well known in softball circles now is stationed at Ottawa where she still keeps up her extra-curricular activities on the diamond...Tennist Dolores Main, another coast girl, is a typist in the R.C.A.F. Women's Division.

Tony Desmarais, flashy forward with the Calgary Stampeders, has joined the army and now is posted with the Royal Canadian Artillery at Currie Barracks, Calgary.

Clayton Browne of the St. Catharines Standard passes on the information that Bob Groombridge, Kennedy and Jack Reid, three former rowing stars with St. Catharines Rowing Club, now sail under the colors of the Royal Navy.

A former all-round athlete, Sgt. Jack Lutes of Moncton is serving overseas with the R.C.A.F. He played basketball, baseball and hockey at Moncton and later starred in rugby, hockey and basketball teams at St. Joseph's University. George Bell, another Maritimes product in the air force, is a former front-line star for Moncton Maroons, three times Maritimes senior hockey champions.

Capt. Walter McGregor of Windsor, Ont., with the Essex Scottish overseas, took part in the recent extensive manoeuvres held by the Canadian Army overseas. Walt captained the University of Toronto senior basketball team in his final year at Varsity and was one of the outstanding cage guards of the intercollegiate wars.

CASUAL COMMENT by K.J.C.

DID YOU KNOW—In the first 112 games played by the New York Giants this year Ace Adams their overworked relief pitcher, saw action in no less than 46 of them. . Although the New York Yankees set a major league record of 196 double killings in 1941, the McCarthymen are well on the way to better even that record. . . .In their first 111 games this season the Yankees had completed 156 two-ply outs. . . . It's victory or elimination for Tommy Colden's SWACO lassies Tuesday night when they meet Leo Barrett's Deacon gals, who enjoy a one game advantage in a best-in-three series. . . .Mike Ryba of the Red Sox, is a battery all in himself. . . .Today he might be on the Boston hilltop pitching while the next game out Mike dons the catcher's paraphernalia. . . . Connie Mack says the 1942 edition of the Yankees is more powerful than the last year's American League champions, despite the fact they are behind in their home run production. . . . Connie says Phil Rizzutto, in his second season, is the best short-stop in the American League. . . . . The last major league pitcher to hurl a double header was Emil Levsen, who turned the trick for the Cleveland Indians in 1926. . . Ray Starr, of the Reds says, he wants to give the "ironman stunt" a try some of these days. . . Last fall Northwestern University had nine ace backfielders, but only four are left around which to build a grid squad this year. . . .They are Otto Graham, Ed Hirsch, Dud Kean and Don Buffire. . . Buddy Hassett only hit seven home runs in his six years service in the National League . . . He has poled out five already this year as a Yankee. . . .Maybe it's the atmosphere.

REMEMBER WHEN HENRY Armstrong spent the toughest 45 minutes of his career in the ring four years ago tonight when he defeated Lou Ambers for the world light-weight boxing title? It was "Hammerin' Hank's" third title victory in ten months. He had previously won the bantam and featherweight crowns.

THE CHIPS WILL BE DOWN for tonight' third game in the City Softball League finals. Both teams will be at full strength with the Flyers having Monty Lamour and Al Bell back from a week end leave to look after Skipper Green's hurling chores. Johnnie Bawden returned to labors at the C.N.R. to day his fractured toe being well on the mend. Pilot Barriage has Bawden, Jim Hunter and Connie Harris available for mound duty, but following Hunter's Friday night six-hitter he seems to be the logical choice if only for the fact that Bawden hasn't pitched in over a fortnight. Tonight's game means much as the winner can gamble on a fourth game. Both teams were noticeably short-handed when defeated, but tonight when both squads will be at full strength there should be no alibis in defeat. However, with two such evenly-matched nines tense and battling with every ounce of ability, the breaks of the game may decide the issue, as they usually do under such circumstances.

IT WOULD APPEAR AS though Promoter Frank Tunney has really got himself over the well known barrel. Tunney has advertised a world's championship wrestling bout, between Wild Bill Longson, current titlist, and Whipper Watson in the Gardens for Thursday night. Now it has leaked out that Longson is slated to meet Yvonne Roberts, another stylist titlist, in Montreal on Wednesday night for the advertised world heavyweight wrestling crown. If Robert happens to flatten "Wild Bill", where does that leave Mister Tunney with his advertised title bout between Longson and Watson. However, the situation here Wednesday night is different when Earl McCready and that mad Hindu, Nanjo Singh, meet in a British Empire elimination bout. Incidentally since he started his ring career Singh has had 56 stitches sewn into various parts of his anatomy by the medicos, twenty-six of which he received when hurled out of the ring at Niagara Falls a month ago. Singh is fully recovered and anxious to get at McCready.

"WISH" EGAN, ELOQUENT scout of the Detroit Tigers, who did a spot of pitching for the St. Louis Cardinals in the early 1900s, recently came up with the declaration he has the dubious distinction of pitching two of the longest home-run balls on record.

"It was back in 1905", orated Wish, "that I was a member of the Cardinal pitching corps and we visited Boston, playing the Boston Nationals, managed by Fred Tenney, at the old South End Grounds often referred to as the Bandbox.

"Back of left field was the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. The first batter I faced was Jim Delahanty. Jim, a righthanded batter, smacked the first Egan pitch over the left field fence into a gondola car of a freight train, headed for Willimantic, where the ball was eventually found.

"My second pitch was to Harry Wolverton, a lefthanded batter, who knocked the ball over the right field fence onto Columbus avenue, where it landed in a fat lady's lap in an open car bound for City Point, South Boston. Two pitches, two home runs, one good for approximately 800 miles and the other six miles.

"Even though the ball was dead, I don't believe the old Battering Bambino could match either one of them. And Mrs. Egans' boy, Wish, was through for the day"!

SHUT OUT, THE WINNER OF the Kentucky Derby, romped home an easy winner in the ancient Travers Stakes at Saratoga, N.Y., Saturday. It was the seventy-third running of the event. Shut Out also won the Belmont and Arlington classics and with the winning of the Travers is now chief claimant to the three-year-old champion. Eddie Arcaro —was up on Shut Out and got him off early to set the pace and romp home a winner for $17,825.00, the biggest pay-off for the Stakes in eight years. Shut Out's turf earnings for a year and one-half of racing was boosted to $253,482 to have him hurdled over the winnings of such turf greats as Man o' War and Exterminator. Actually Shut Out is now in the top twenty winners of all time.

ONTARIOMILITARY DISTRICT NO. 3 WINS TRACK MEET

Gunner and Lieutenant Win Double Victories for Their Team

O'CONNOR A STAR

Toronto, Aug. 17— (CP) — The Ontario Military Track and Field Championship pennant belongs to Military District No. 3 today, with a gunner from Petawawa and a Lieutenant from Kingston Individual stars in a track and field team so good it didn't really need individual stars.

Gnr. Pete Taylor won both the 100 and 200-yard sprints and Lieut. H. V. Bailey the discus throw and the shot put for the only double victories in the meet. Soldier-athletes from Eastern Ontario Training Stations won four of the five field events and three of the four sprints overcame the district's disadvantage of having no first-place material in the relays and the distance track events. M.D. 3's winning point total was 160. M.D. 2 had 133, M.D. 1 finishing with 66.

In addition to Gnr. Taylor's sprint victories, Pte. Fern Hodgson of Kingston took the C.W.A.C.'s 75-yard dash event. To Lieut. Bailey's shot and discus victories were added first-place points from Spr. E. M. Powell of Petawawa in the high jump and Pte. G. M. Paul of Kingston in the pole vault.

Second to Gnr. Taylor in the sprints was Cpt. Larry O'Connor of Newmarket, Ont., representing M.D. 2. O'Connor was another leading individual star in the meet. His closing dash in the 440 relay brought the Newmarket team from third to first—a feat a similarly fine finish in the hurdle relay failed to do. He also won an exhibition 120-yard race against a slow field. The time of 15-3 seconds was well off his own Canadian record of 14.4 seconds.

One of the most unusual athletes was Pte. Gerard Roy, who came third in the mile and first in the three-mile. Stationed at London, Ont., and representation M.D. 1, Pte. Roy weighs only 118 pounds and has been running for about a year. He started to work out on a track one day in London because he was without money between paydays and had nothing else to do. He finished both his races fresh and full of run.

Point scoring in the event was on a 6-5-4-3-2-1 basis in all events but the relays for which a 12-10-8-6-4-2 scale was used.

A commando-training exhibition by units from No. 20 basic Training Centre at Brantford, Ont., and No. 23 Basic Training Centre at Newmarket, Ont., was enjoyed by the crowd of about 1,500. A popular C.W.A.C. competition was the tire-changing race, won by an M.D. 2 team, Ptes. A. E. Allender of Toronto and Helen Birkett of Niagara Falls.

MEIGHEN CALLS FOR TOTAL WAR

Urges No Favoritism, No Sectionalism and No Racialism

Toronto, Aug. 17—(CP) — Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Dominion Conservative leader, yesterday appealed to the Canadian people to "move and move now to enforce the mandate of total, limitless war," and called for a master manpower plan spread over the whole nation "with no favoritism, no sectionalism and no racialism."

"Train, train, train right here in Canada—let that be the universal command—and train for the kind of war we have to fight," said Mr. Meighen addressing 2,000 persons at the annual memorial service for Sir Adam Beck, founder of the Ontario Hydro-Electric system.

"Fight, fight, fight wherever the enemy is," he declared. "Let every voice ring out. Let everything be sacrificed to those ends without a tear or murmur. It is only the clear-eyed and super-heroic who will survive this war."

The Conservative leader said no person "has the right to say whether he fights or when he fights, or where he fights."

"No, the individual has no such right," he continued, "and what is more, everybody in his heart knows he has no such right. . . . These decisions are the function of the state."

All on Same Level

He said, "The notion that there is any class of people in this country which has inherited these special, fanciful prerogatives is monstrous and absurd. We are all on the same level in this matter of rights and we are all on the same level in the matter of duty, and it is the business of the government of Canada, accountable as it will be to the end of time for the safety of this nation, to supplant what is futile and unfair by what is strong and just and to establish now in practical effect, equality of service, equality under the law."

It would be fatal for the country "if we are so weak as to permit the dregs of isolationism to poison or debilitate the national effort on this crisis. Isolationism in Europe, in America, in Canada is the parent of our calamities."

This is no time for Canadians to tell themselves how much they had done and how well they had done it, because the tide of battle was the only gauge to look at.

"The tide of battle is the only authority on the subject and it thunders at us to get busy and do more."

Cretan Patriots Pay For Loyalty With Their Lives

London, Aug. 17 —(AP)— A number of Greek patriots on the island of Crete who mistook German parachute practice for a British invasion and tried to help by seizing Candia airdrome have paid with their lives, reports reaching the Greek government today said.

Three hundred were said to have been arrested, and an undisclosed number shot.

These reports said that fishermen's stories of large ship movements off Crete prompted rumors that a British invasion flotilla was approaching the island and when the patriots saw German parachutists making practice jumps they assumed the hour of liberation had come.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Aug. 17 (AP)—This one comes by a roundabout route, but, if true, it sounds like good news for football fans....The story is that the Office of Defence Transportation has assured college representatives that they'll be able to get transportation for their teams this fall....Looks as if Dixie Parsons might be the Tigers' only catcher the rest of the season. Birdie Tebbetts is on his way to the U.S. army and the word is that young Harvey Riebe, just bought from Beaumont, may be called any day.

Tattle Tale.

Clyde Milan, the Washington coach, tells this Walter Johnson yarn that's new to this corner.... Seems that back in 1910 the Big Train pitched an exhibition against the Cubs and the first time up Johnny Evers slapped a single .... "So that's your great Walter Johnson," Johnny chortled to Milan. "We've got a dozen pitchers in the National League with more speed." ....The next three times up Evers couldn't get a loud foul and after the third whiffing he encountered Clyde again...."Damn you Milan," Johnny crabbed, "you told Johnson what I said."

Postman's Paragraph.

John McGill, Jr., of the Ashland, Ky., Daily Independent sends in a suggestion that the movie folks make a film story of Babe Ruth's life...."After all," McGill points out, "thousands of Ruth fans never had the opportunity to see him in action."

Bill Strang, who never bets money on his trotting horses, lost two suits of clothes to friends who had more confidence than Bill did in the Ambassador as a Hambletonian candidate.

A Bow for a Queen

A small boy performs a very dignified bow to Dowager Queen Mary during her visit to Cheltenham where she inspected the new Y.M.C.A. and the new fleet of cars acquired by that organization for war relief work. The mayor of Cheltenham stands beside the Queen Mother.

Destination Unknown

U. S. soldiers are shown as they line the rails of a troopship whose destination is unknown. The "doughboys" get their last look at the land of freedom before they hit the blue seas. The war department announced in Washington that the troops aboard this transport had arrived safely at their destination.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Algiers"

It's truly great! The most sinister and intriguing chapter from the vivid history of crime! Charles Boyer, his dark brooding fascination never at a greater advantage. Sigrid Gurie Gary Cooper's leading lady from Marco Polo, one step nearer stardom. Hedy Lamarr, who columnist Ed. Sullivan said was "the most gorgeous item in years." Joseph Calleia, a detective with Oriental charm who knew the day and the hour and produced in a painstaking thoroughness and richness that characterized a truly great picture. "Algiers" now showing at the Capitol Theatre with the added first run attraction "Behind Prison Gates" features Brian Donlevy. The Universal News Reel completes the double feature attraction.

AT THE BELLE

"Larceny, Inc."

Remember "Brother Orchid", the story about the guy who went gunning for culture? And remember the fellow who sold the Brooklyn Bridge? Well, Edward G. Robinson in his latest Warner Bros. comedy "Larceny, Inc." which will open next at the Belle Theatre plays the part of a fellow who could beat both those chaps at their own game.

Robinson, who has become famous in the role of a guy who can do some fancy nips-ups with a gun, gat, revolver, or anything else you care to call that lead-spitting mechanism, is cast as a lawbreaker who finds himself in a dilemma when he discovers that "going straight" might be profitable. His associate in confusion is played by Broderick Crawford, while the girl who tries to show them both that honesty can bring in that green stuff, is portrayed by pert and pretty Jane Wyman. Jack Carson, who is generally cast in semi-villainous roles, this time plays the part of a likeable leather-goods salesman who gets the girl (Jane Wyman).

"Larceny, Inc." has a fine supporting cast made up of Barbara Jo Allen, Edward Brophy, Harry Davenport and many others.

Bert Lahr in Comedy

Catchy song numbers and a wealth of laughs and hilarious situations feature "Sing Your Worries Away", the companion feature that RKO Radio introduces with the new fun team Bert Lahr and Buddy Ebsen.

Revolving about a gangster's efforts to gain possession of a three-million-dollar inheritance, the offering is said to be one of the year's gayest films. Much of the action takes place at a night club near New York City, a spot owned by the gangster. His cigarette girl and her cousin, a song writer, are the intended heirs to the fortune, but the gangster plans to do away with the song writer, marry the girl and then take over her bequest.

However, a young dancer in love with the girl manages to spoil the crook's scheme unwittingly when he saves the song writer's life and clears him of a framed-up murder charge. How the girl is saved from marrying the gangster by a last-minute rescue comprises the side-splitting conclusion to the picture.

Lahr plays the erratic song writer and Ebsen, the dancer, with Dorothy Lovett as the heroine and June Havoc as the girl friend of the gangster, Sam Levene. Patsy Kelly, as a hat-check girl and Morgan Conway as Levene's crooked attorney, have the other roles in the laughter-packed film, with Alvino Rey and his band and the King Sisters supplying the lilting tunes.

Four Mort Greene-Harry Revel songs, "Cindy Lou McWilliams", "How Do You Fall in Love", "Sally My Dear Old Sally", and "Sing Your Worries Away" are deftly woven into the action, while Ebsen turns in several novelty dance numbers.

The Belle News of the Day completes the program.

AT THE McCARTHY

"The Kennel Murder Case"

"The Kennel Murder Case," a Warner Bros. picture, brings William Powell back to the screen of the McCarthy theatre, now as Philo Vance, the famous detective created by S. S. Van Dine.

Powell made some of his first great screen successes in the role of this character. "The Kennel Murder Case" is considered the most baffling and thrilling picture of all the S.S. Van Dine stories in which Powell has starred.

The action is swift moving, starting with the murder of a prize Scottie and involving the slaying of two men and the attempted murder of a third. Mystery piles upon mystery as Philo Vance unravels the crimes in which seven suspects have both the opportunity and the motive for the killings.

There is more of romance in the underlying theme than the usual detective story, including a love affair between the niece of the murdered men and a titled Englishman as well as a clandestine affair, and a mad infatuation on the part of the uncle for his ward.

Playing in support of Powell are Mary Astor as his leading lady, Eugene Pallette as Sergeant Heath, a role he has played previously with Powell, Ralph Morgan, Helen Vinson, Jack LaRue and many others. Michael Curtiz, noted for his fine handling of action-packed dramas and mysteries directed the film.

Barbara Stanwyck

The second feature presentation now at the McCarthy, brings to Belleville one of the screen's favorites, lovely Barbara Stanwyck, with Joel McCrea, Pat O'Brien and C. Aubrey Smith in the hit that will steal your heart "Gambling Lady." Plan now, see this outstanding two feature program.

Little Benny's Note Book

My cousin Artie stayed at my house all night, and after supper pop was smoking to himself in his private chair and Artie and me were playing submareens under chairs and places, and I said, That's enough of this game, let's play something else.

Aw, this is fun, what's a use of talking like a sappy nut? Artie said, and I said, Dont you call me a sappy nut, anybody calls me a sappy nut gets maralyzed.

Go on, I'll patrogrize you, Artie said, and I said, you will, heh? Well I'll slambang you to smithereens and smashbong you to smitheroons, I said.

No you wont, you'll be too busy being blitzed to a grease spot and blatzed to a vacuum, Artie said, and I said, How would you like to land in a hospittle for mixed fractures and bruises?

That's where I'll land all right, if I expect to pay you a visit, Artie said. The only trouble is, you'll look so different I wont be able to reckonize you with a microscope, he said., and pop said, Cease firing for Peet sake, why dont you 2 gladiators shake hands and be friends?

Well jimminy, pop, that's what we are, I said.

Meaning friends, and Artie said, Sure, what makes you think we're not friends, Uncle William? and pop said, Are you serious, do you mean you really feel sociable tords each other?

Sure, G, course, why shouldn't we? me and Artie said, and pop said, Well by gollies I've been searching for a sane explanation for the war, and at last I've got a clue. The warring nations are really friends, and when it's all over it'll turn out that they're only kidding, he said.

And he got in back of the sporting page and me and Artie pretending to sharpshoot each other from behind ambushes.

Claim Employers Fail To Pay Living Bonus

Montreal, Aug. 17—(CP)—Complaining that their employers had failed to pay them a cost-of-living bonus decreed by the Regional Labor Council for shoe industry workers, 300 employees of the Daoust-Lalonde and Company shoe factory here left work Saturday.

Louis Daoust, co-proprietor of the factory, Sunday issued the following statement:

"Apparently there is a misunderstanding. On Sept. 10, we gave our employees a 10 per cent. raise in the form of a cost-of-living bonus. In several cases the raise exceeded the $1.80 bonus decreed by the Regional Labor Council. We have submitted to the council the matter of a further banus and expect a decision tomorrow."

New York, Aug. 17—(AP)—Two rescuers fought for fifteen minutes today with a 23-year-old Columbia University art student who hung by her fingertips from a window sill six floors above Riverside Drive before they managed to pull her back into her apartment.

Hundreds of spectators watched the struggle of the dangling student, Miss Mary Wurtz, of New York City, as Arthur Zohn, building superintendent and Jacob Dobson, Negro porter, grasped her wrists and pulled her to safety.

Miss Wurtz was taken to the Bellevue Hospital observation ward after she kept moaning: "They want to operate on me, I won't let them."

Winnipeg, Aug. 17—(CP) — The Manitoba Liquor Control Commission today announced four changes in the retail price of beer, effective immediately, to take care of increases in excise duty of malt announced in the federal budget.

W. R. Clubb, chairman of the board, said the price of a glass of beer in parlors, however, will remain at 10 cents.

Price of a pint bottle in parlors is advanced from 20 to 22 cents. Price of a two-dozen carton (pints) is increased from $3.60 to $3.80; a one-dozen carton from $1.95 to $2.05 and a half-dozen carton from $1.15 to $1.20

POWER PROBLEM IS CONSIDERED

Deputation Waits on Ministers Regarding Reports of Curtailment of Power

Ottawa, Aug. 17 (CP) — Spokesmen for a 10-man delegation of civic and industrial representatives from the Niagara district today expressed "complete satisfaction" with an interview this morning with Labor Minister Mitchell, Munitions Minister Howe and Elliott M. Little, Director of National Selective Service, on the possibility that power now being used by Ontario pulp and paper mills might be curtailed.

The delegates will confer further today with Mr. Little.

S. A. Stephens of Thorold, Ont., who headed the delegation, said the government men had promised to investigate the situation thoroughly and to consult the Niagara District Labor and Citizens' Committee before taking definite action.

Recent reports that power might be diverted from the pulp and paper industries, many of which are situated in the Niagara Peninsula, had raised the possibility of plants in that area closing down, with resultant lay-offs of labor.

Mr. Stephens said the delegation had been promised that full consideration would be given to curtailment of "luxury" power before any "dislocation" of the pulp and paper industry occurred.

He said there was no danger of the plants shutting down in the immediate future, and that the power shortage would probably not become acute until October.

The committee had been promised that "everything will be done with the minimum of dislocation," Mr. Stephens said.

Wireless Air Gunners Fly Across Atlantic, Take Further Training

Ottawa, Aug. 17—(CP)—A number of Royal Canadian Air Force wireless air gunners have recently flown the Atlantic as wireless operators and now are receiving further training at a station in Scotland, R.C.A.F. headquarters said today.

"These men say they thoroughly enjoyed their trans-Atlantic adventure and wish they could continue in that work," a headquarters statement said.

One of the men is Pilot Officer R. G. Ogilvie of Pense, Sask., who for three and a half months was attached to the Royal Air Force Ferry Command in Canada after training at Calgary and Mossbank, Sask.

Many of the men on the station in Scotland took operation training in Canada. After completing the course they are now on, and following three weeks' leave, they will probably go to an operational training unit in the United Kingdom for further experience.

Finds No Evidence Of 'Black Market' In Scarce Metal

Washington, Aug. 17 (AP) — Investigation into the charges of Higgins Industries, Inc., New Orleans shipbuilder, of a "black market" in steel has developed no evidence of black market operations "as the term is commonly understood in this country and England," the Compliance Branch of the United States War Production Board reported today.

The branch, summarizing findings of a hastily-ordered investigation, said that Andrew J. Higgins, head of the firm, "presented no evidence that scarce material has been diverted from the war program, and all of the deliveries cited by Higgins were made pursuant to high-rated defence orders."

The inquiry did indicate, however, that some steel warehouses may have violated War Production Board quota regulations "in addition to the 22 penalized last Spring in other cases," the branch declared.

CBC GOVERNORS CONSIDER REPORT OF HOUSE COMMITTEE

Ottawa, Aug. 17—(CP) — Rene Morin, chairman of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation Board of Governors, said today after a board meeting that consideration had been given to the report of a special House of Commons Committee on CBC affairs but that no decision was reached.

The governors will meet again, to consider the report further, on Aug. 28.

"It is a very complicated matter and we have decided that further consideration must be given the report and its recommendations," said Mr. Morin.

SILVER METEOR IN COLLISION

Clearwater, Fla., Aug. 17—(AP)—The seaboard's Silver Meteor, fast streamliner headed for New York, and a south-bound passenger train collided here today.

One passenger from the Silver Meteor was taken to hospital. It was not known immediately whether any other passengers or crewmen were injured.

Father Overseas, Son Loses Legs

Sherbrooke, Que., Aug. 17 (CP)—Jacques Desautels, eight-year-old son of Lt.-Col. Paul Desautels serving overseas, had both his legs cut off today at nearby Lake Magog by a Montreal-bound train.

The accident took place at a railway crossing. It is believed the boy tripped while running across the tracks.

Mrs. Desautels and her other children are vacationing at Lake Magog.

KILLED IN GUN BATTLE

Detroit, Aug 17 —(AP)—An unidentified man was killed by a uniformed patrolman today in a gun battle in which the officer himself was wounded. A second bandit, at first captured by the wounded policeman, escaped when the officer collapsed.

Patrolman Harry Irvine, assigned to watch a private garage on the tip that a stolen automobile was housed there, was fired upon by two men who entered the garage and saw his uniform.

INDIAN ISSUE

Although nine persons were injured by police fire yesterday at Calcutta, India's biggest city, the country generally was peaceful after the week of violence touched of. by the Congress' Mass Civil Disobedience movement under Mohandas K. Gandhi and the swift arrest of the leader and his lieutenants.

The spokesman for reconciliation was Sir Tej Bahadar Sapru, one of India's most prominent lawyers, who urged at Allahabad that Britain send a parliamentary delegation to India to discuss a settlement.

Sapru, who has served before as an intermediary, is understood to be planning to visit the Viceroy, Lord Linlithgow.

On the other side was Mohammed Alo Jinnah who threatened that any peace-seeking with the Hindu-dominated congress would be regarded by 80,000,000 Moslems as a sacrifice of their interests.

Consider It a Betrayal

"If the British now seek peace with the Congress", declared Jinnah, president of the All-India Moslem League, "we would consider that a betrayal of the Moslems who have been holding out a helping hand to Britain".

(In London, Arthur Greenwood, former Minister without portfolio in the Churchill Cabinet, lent the voice of the British Labor Party to an appeal to the government to make clear that "on abandonment of civil disobedience it would be ready to resume free and friendly discussions" looking to Indian self-government.)

Jinnah spoke as a leader of India's biggest minority and of a people whose men make up 60 per cent of the Indian army.

Jinnah contended the Moselm League repeatedly has been shunted aside because it had agreed to co-operate in the war effort. Asked if he would tell the Moslems to resist any Hindu government Britain might set up, he answered:

"I would do it even if it meant my death".

Greenwood Urges Plan

London, Aug. 17—(CP Cable) — Arthur Greenwood, former minister without portfolio in the Churchill cabinet, urged today in the name of the British Labor Party that the British Government make clear it would resume self-government discussions with Indian leaders upon abandonment of the civil disobedience campaign by the All-India Congress Party.

In a BBC broadcast, Mr. Greenwood said that Mohandas K. Gandhi, leader of the campaign in India and now under arrest, is "utterly oblivious to the urgency and gravity of the world situation."

However, he asked on behalf of the Labor Party that the government "make it clear that on abandonment of civil disobedience it would be ready to resume free and friendly discussions with a view of safeguarding and implementing the principles of self-government already proclaimed."

Mr. Greenwood said the "world does not expect that President Roosevelt's four freedoms and the wide declarations contained in the Atlantic Charter can be implemented until we begin to reap the fruits of victory. . . . There can be no future even for non-belligerents apart from a victory for the Allies."

He concluded his broadcast with a plea that "all who live for the ultimate and complete victory of the forces of freedom will use their influence to secure India's effective co-operation in mankind's great struggle against the forces of evil, on the basis that freedom won for the world will mean freedom won for the Indian peoples."

RAF Scores Hits Of Axis Shipping

Cairo, Aug. 17—(AP) — British light bombers, battering away at Axis Marahal Erwin Rommel's vital supply lines, attacked enemy shipping off the North African coast again yesterday and scored direct hits on lighters, a British communique announced today.

R.A.F. bombers also attacked Rommel's lines of communication in the desert, successfully bombing motor convoys despite attempts of Axis fighters to drive them off, the bulletin said.

Land activity was said to have been limited to night patrol clashes during which British troops attacked enemy positions and harassed working parties in the northern and central sectors west of El Alamein.

Aerial Forays

The aerial forays carried out yesterday swelled the record of successes credited to the R.A.F. in the last week, both in battering the Axis ashore and afloat and in sending out waves of land-blasted fighters to drive off enemy planes attacking a big British Mediterranean convoy.

R.A.F. spokesman said thirteen enemy bombers were shot down by fighters winging into the battle from island bases and that the R.A.F. Spitfires' air superiority over Malta gave the convoy comparative freedom from the last leg of the voyage to that island base with vital new supplies. Malta went through yesterday and last night without an air raid—the first consecutive day and night of calm since Feb. 19.

In week-end forays, British planes hammered at the Axis' supply bridge across the Mediterranean. Besides pounding at the ports of Tobruk, Matruh and Salum, planes hit an Axis ship and some lighters. The Australians, who attacked the lighters in light bombers, now claim seventeen as sunk in recent operations in addition to two more probably destroyed yesterday.

PRESSURE KEPT

The Japanese radio continued to broadcast sweeping claims of victory in the Solomons, which it failed to reconcile with the admission "the battle is continuing between our forces and American marines who have succeeded in landing."

No Confirmation of Claim

Relegating this fact to the background, a Tokyo broadcast this morning made much of an Imperial Headquarters communique claiming that Japanese submarines had sunk ten Allied vessels totalling 90,000 tons in Australian waters during the latter part of July and the first part of August.

(There was no confirmation of the Japanese claim from any Allied source.)

The communique, the Japanese announcer said, made it evident Australia has "become the orphan of the Pacific and the possibility of launching a counter-attack against Japan with Australia as a base of operations is absolutely gone."

Large Fires Started

The Allied announcement of the air attack on Timor yesterday said merely that large fires had been started in a Japanese-occupied town on the southeast coast and that all planes participating had returned safely to base, despite heavy fire from enemy anti-aircraft batteries.

The Melbourne Herald reported that Allied troops still are operating in the interior of Timor, and speculated that the almost daily Allied bombing attacks were intended partly to assist them.

An Allied spokesman said the land skirmishes in the Kokoda area of New Guinea were "not of particular importance," though the Japanese were reported to have been reinforced there of late.

ENEMY

"The German Fascists, who expected with the capture of Maikop to enrich themselves at the expense of Soviet oil, have miscalculated," the communique said.

"They did not get Soviet oil and will not get it."

The Russians had plenty of time to destroy the oil installations at Maikop and an announcement that oil supplies had been removed and "oil establishments themselves made completely unuseable" was taken here to mean that a typically thorough job of destruction had been performed. (The Germans claimed the capture of Maikop August 9.)

Retreat to New Positions

The great weight of numerical superiority, especially in mechanized equipment, is giving the German drive toward Grozny its impetus as the Red Army continued to fall back to new lines southeast of Mineralnye Vody, 140 miles from Grozny. There was no indication of a stiffening of resistance although the midnight communique said Soviet forces "retreated to new positions and continued fighting."

At Krasnodar, north of Maikop and 60 miles northeast of the Black Sea naval base of Novorossisk, the Russians repulsed heavy attacks by German tanks and infantry, killing more than 300 Germans.

The Red Army's most critical front seemed to be that in the Don Bend northwest of Stalingrad, especially in the Keltskaya sector, where the Germans were applying extreme pressure night and day in an effort to reach the important industrial and strategic centre of Stalingrad on the Volga.

Worse at Voronezh

The midnight communique reported "fierce defensive engagements with the enemy" there. Northeast of Kotelnikovski, on the southwestern approaches to Stalingrad, the invaders were likewise aggressive, but their attacks were reported repulsed with the routing of a Rumanian regiment.

The Russian position at Voronezh, on the Don some 300 miles southeast of Moscow, took a turn for the worse as large German forces launched an attack and broke into a village on the west bank of the river held by the Russians. Street fighting was reported in progress there.

The midnight communique said 369 German planes were destroyed in the week ended August 15th, against loss of 241 Russian aircraft.

Reds Recapture Woods

New and savage German attacks in a sector of the Voronezh front were reported in a Pravda dispatch which said the Russians were subjected to a severe hammering. The Germans forced them to withdraw from a large wooded area, the newspaper said, but the Soviet troops regrouped and wrested the wood from the Germans in a counter attack.

The momentum of the Soviet drive took the Russians beyond the wooded land to an important height, which was captured, Pravda said.

The mid-day communique added little to the picture outside Stalingrad and in the Caucasus, but it said the Germans had suffered severe losses in the fighting northeast of Kotelnikovski and were "throwing in reserves."

The heavy fighting southeast of Kletskaya continued, the communique said, and a Pravda dispatch said the Germans were continuing to move forward despite heavy losses.

"The main problem of our fighters is to increase their counterblows tenfold and not let the enemy into the depths of the defence," Pravda said.

There was no indication yet of a decisive turn in the struggle, dispatches reported.

Russian seaplanes operating in the Baltic area raided enemy bases and ships and caused widespread damage, Pravda said. One 3,000-ton German transport carrying munitions was sunk and the dispatch said 20 fires were observed after a raid on one enemy port.

CITATION TO BOMB-BATTERED MALTA

Lieutenant-General Sir William Dobbie, who until recently was governor and commander-in-chief of Britain's Mediterranean island stronghold of Malta, is shown holding the illuminated address presented to the island by the Canadian Legion as a tribute to the courage of its people. Malta is the most bombed spot on earth, but it carries on, and while it does so, Axis supply lines to Africa can never be called secure. At RIGHT is the Rt. Hon. Harold McMillan, under-secretary of state for the colonies.

DUKE INSPECTS MAINTENANCE CREWS

R. A. F. maintenance crews, although their work is less spectacular and less publicized than that of pilots, perform duties of paramount importance to effective flying operations and the success of the great bombing raids over Germany. Recently Air Commodore the Duke of Kent visited an R. A. F. bomber station where he met pilots and crews who had participated in the heavy attacks on Hamburg, and also talked with members of the ground staff personnel.

BESIEGED WITH COMPLAINTS

Kansas City, Aug. 17—(AP)—The Telephone Company, besieged with complaints from subscribers demanding new telephone numbers, is going to do something about it as soon as one of its executives can think of a good word beginning with the letters AX. The squawks are coming from the customers on the Axis exchange—so named because the company needed the AX combination for use on dial phones.

TURKEY GOBBLER IS CO-OPERATING IN HATCHING EGGS

How a big turkey gobbler is co-operating with his mate to increase the production of Thanksgiving fare was this morning told by Jerry Brant of the Mohawk Reservation near Deseronto. It seems that the Brant hen turkey several weeks ago began to make her nest and eventually started to set on seven eggs when the gobbler decided he would take over family responsibilities.

While the hen turkey was off the nest the gobbler took quiet possession and refused to vacate despite the entreaty of his mate. Not to be denied, however, the hen made another nest and is now setting on 11 eggs. Both senior members of the Brant turkey family are now tending their respective duties, the gobbler for the past two weeks setting on his seven eggs and seemingly determined to complete the job of hatching.

STOOK THRESHING HELD BACK BY DEW

Heavy dews, intermittent showers, and daylight saving, are combining to make stook threshing operations difficult, according to district farmers. The unusually heavy dew adhering to the grass and stooks for the first few hours of daylight does not permit threshing to start until well in the morning "by sun time," while intermittent showers during the past week have helped to hold up operations.

Daylight saving time tends to make things just a little more difficult in that milking must be done on "fast" time while threshing cannot commence until the sun has sufficiently evaporated the dew adhering to the stooks and grass.

ARMY MADE A MISTAKE

Glendale, Calif., Aug. 17—(AP)—The Union Army rejected Eaton J. Merchant in 1861 because of poor health. Merchant died yesterday at the age of 101. His family said he had been active until a few months before his death.

NEGOTIATIONS

The announcement issued through the Ministry of Information said Mr. Churchill's visit Aug. 12-15 could not be disclosed earlier "for reasons of safety."

The text of the announcement said:—

"The Prime Minister has paid a visit to Moscow.

"For reasons of safety no announcement of the visit could be announced until today.

"Negotiations have taken place in Moscow between the President of the Council of Peoples Commissars of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, J. V. Stalin, and the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom, Mr. Winston Churchill, in which Mr. Harriman, representing the President of the United States, participated.

Officials Attend

"There took part in these discussions:

"Peoples Commissar for Foreign Affairs, V. M. Molotov; and the Procureur General, Marshal K. E. Voroshilov, from the Soviet side; the British Ambassador, Sir. A. Clark Kerr, the Chief of the Imperial General Staff, Sir A. Brooke, and other responsible representatives of British armed forces and the permanent Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Sir A. Cadogan, from the British side.

"A number of decisions were reached covering the field of the war against Hitlerite Germany and her associates in Europe. This just war of liberation both governments are determined to carry on with all their power and energy until the complete destruction of Hitlerism and any similar tyranny has been achieved.

"The discussions, which were carried on in atmosphere of cordiality and complete sincerity, provided an opportunity of reaffirming the existence of close friendship and understanding between the Soviet Union, the United Kingdom and the United States of America in entire accordance with the Allied relationship existing between them."

FINANCE MINISTER

their pockets and in the banks than they have ever had. The total income of Canadians has increased more than 70 per cent since the war began, unemployment has practically disappeared and agricultural income has greatly increased.

"When a country steps up the proportion of its production which goes into war activities, then the proportion which is left for civilian use is stepped down," Mr. Ilsley said.

"This means a reduction in the standard of living and means an assumption of sacrifices — doing without things that we ordinarily could not think of doing without."

Mr. Ilsley said he had been impressed with the willingness of Canadians to assume sacrifices, but said there are some who felt they should not be asked to reduce their standard of living.

Standard Must Come Down

Some thought on the contrary that their standard of living should be increased.

Canadians had to bring down their standard of living as far as possible so that more resources might be thrown into the war. There was no easy way to win the war or to pay for the war.

If Canadians for some reason did not pay their taxes, and did not lend enough of their incomes to Canada to meet the borrowing needs of their country, tht government would be compelled to find the dollars it needed by outright inflation.

"I don't think I need to say much about the evils of inflation," said Mr. Islev. "They are pretty well understood."

Expenditures in the present fiscal year would exceed revenues by about $1,850,000,000. The amount to be obtained in the form of compulsory savings through the income tax would not exceed $100,000,000, leaving $1,750,000,000 or more than 90 per cent. to be provided by voluntary lending.

Compulsory savings had not been increased to cover all the borrowing needs of the country because it was considered preferable to ask people to size up their circumstances and make a voluntary all-out savings effort rather than bring them before a government board which would tell them how much they had to save.

Covered in Booklet

Col. Gibson said full details of tax calculation and collection would be covered in a booklet to be issued shortly by the Income Tax Division. Before the new tax deduction goes into effect after Aug. 31, employees should file a special form with their employers in order that the rates of tax and exemptions might be determined.

The form will contain information as to the number of dependents, payment on life insurance, annuities, superannuation, retirement or pension funds and principal payments on mortgages and agreements of sale. Unless this form were filled out employees might not obtain all the exemptions to which they were entitled. The form was available at post offices or local income tax offices.

Col. Gibson said that while the work of income tax collection has increased, the cost of collecting taxes over the present year is estimated at less than half a cent for each dollar collected. In the years preceding the war, the cost was nearly four times as much.

Reaffirm Close Friendship

"The discussions, which were carried on in an atmosphere of cordiality and complete sincerity, provided an opportunity of reaffirming the existence of close friendship and understanding between the Soviet Union, Great Britain and the United States of America in entire accordance with the Allied relationships existing between them."

The Prime Minister, Flying with W. Averell Harrimann, President Roosevelt's personal envoy, was met at the airport by Molotov and Russian military dignitaries.

On Wednesday evening, the day of his arrival, Mr. Churchill went to the Kremlin and saw Stalin immediately.

They talked for three hours and 40 minutes.

Again on Thursday night they had three long talks.

Generals Attend Conversations

British Generals attended the Stalin - Churchill conversations, while Gen. Maxwell and Brig.-Gen. S. P. Spalding, charged with Russian lease-lend affairs in Washington, conferred with Marshal Klementi Voroshilov, commander of the Red armies in reserve.

All three powers later held joint conferences.

Circumstances of the meetings were fairly secret, but newspapermen got their first inkling of them when they saw three Liberators soaring over Moscow, escorted by a number of Russian fighter planes.

Mr. Churchill's plane was piloted by two American members of the British ferry command—William Vanderkloot, 28, of Sarasota, Fla., and Jack Ruggles, 27, the co-pilot, San Francisco Calif.

Chief of Staff Present

Among the British conferees were General Sir Alan Brooke, chief of the Imperial general staff, who flew with Mr. Churchill to the United States in the Spring, and Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, commander-in-chief of the R.A.F. in the Middle East.

Also, Sir Alexander Cadogan, permanent under-secretary of state for Foreign Affairs, and Mr. Churchill's physician, Sir Charles Wilson.

Loy Henderson, assistant chief of European Affairs, in the State Department, was in the American group.

The visit was climaxed with a state dinner at the Kremlin on Friday night. Persons who attended it said both the Prime Minister and Stalin were in the highest of spirits.

One source close to Mr. Churchill called the meeting "an epoch."

THE WAR TODAY

(By DE WITT MACKENZIE)
(Associated Press War Analyst)

The progress of the battle in the Solomon Islands remains an untold story as the operation enters its 11th day, though an unofficial report from Allied headquarters in Australia says the United States Marines are believed to be extending bridgeheads won in hard fighting.

Washington is giving us what it can about this adventure, but communications and other circumstances connected with this isolated action are not such that we can have the tale red-hot as it unfolds. However, Jap resistance has been fierce and considerable casualties are likely.

Still, it would be a builder of war morale in the United States if detailed dispatches from the front could move the people in spirit right out among the fighters on those torrid isles.

The trouble in the United States is that the people are so far removed from the actual theatres of war that they haven't yet got the "feel" of this world conflict upon which their very survival depends. Allied civilians who are close to the battle-fields, and in many instances become an actual part of the bloody turmoil, have the acrid smell of powder in their nostrils and constantly rub shoulders with death. Their worry isn't whether they are to be inconvenienced by lack of gasoline for their cars, but whether their own hearths will come through this upheaval safely.

Meanwhile the fact that the United States has taken the offensive in the Solomons remains an event of vast importance—win, draw or lose. It's even of greater importance than the strategic value of these islands, for it is an exhibition of the spirit of initiative which is essential if battles are to be won.

It's constant initiative and reasonable daring that does it, as witness Hitler's successes thus far. The Nazi chief is a gambler, and that has been true of all the conquerors of history.

It is clearly evident that the spirit of initiative is growing in the Allied ranks as our resources increase. The Allies will be taking their chances as well as Hitler, but with this difference: he had no regard whatever for human life, whereas the Allied High Command never will sacrifice its men unnecessarily. The Allies can win without such bloody-mindedness as that.

As to progress of the fight in the Solomons, Australian circles are said to maintain a quiet confidence. The Japs are making wide claims of victory in the operation, though at the same time they admit the fighting continues. They are such colossal liars that we shall have to await word from Allied sources to learn the truth.

Their Fighting Days Are Over

Italian prisoners of war captured in the El Alamein area are shown being led into their "cage" by a British guard. These men and many more were captured when the British forces, aided by U.S. planes and pilots, doubled back and cut their lines during the heavy fighting around El Alamein.

SKUNKS CATCH BEES

Accidental Dumping Of Bait Container Has Happy Ending

Bass in the northern lakes like a diet of frogs, according to Mr. Geo. Reid, local insurance agent, but they like them when they're not attached to the end of a fishing line. At least that's the story told by Mr. Reid who over the weekend reported a nice catch of bass, after those same bass had whetted their appetites on "loose" frogs.

It seems Mr. Reid was out alone in the boat fishing at the time and wasn't having the very best of luck, when, in changing his position, he accidentally upset his container of frogs. The frogs immediately sought their return to their native haunt, the water, and Mr. Reid had visions of his fishing expedition ending abruptly and not too successfully.

But he had reckoned without the frogs—also the fish. One frog hopped to the gunwale of the boat, paused to bid adieu to the fisherman, and then took a long leap for the water. While he was in mid air, however, a four-pound bass leaped from the water and the frog disappeared down his gullet.

Needing no second invitation Mr. Reid quickly threw his line in where the big bass had disappeared and almost instantly had a strike. It was the same four-pounder that a moment before had taken the frog "on the wing." Neither frog was harmed by its brief stay inside the bass and Mr. Reid went on fishing with his remaining bait.

HITCH-HIKING IN PLEASURE

Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 17 — (AP)—Soldiers and sailors may sit at highway inter-sections downtown, thumbing rides from the shade of canopied benches "Pick up soldiers and sailors here," say neatly-lettered signs on the white benches. The Marines must have that situation in hand, or it was an oversight, for they aren't mentioned in the signs.

BRAZIL GOV'T VIGOROUSLY PROTESTS SINKINGS

RUSS RESISTANCE HARDENS IN SOME AREAS

5 Brazilian Ships Sunk in Five Days; Some Troops Lost

Officials Criticize Axis for "Disregard Of Elemental Concept of Human Life"

SURVIVORS RESCUED

Rio De Janeiro, Aug. 18 (AP) — The Brazilian Diplomat Exchange steamships Bage and Cuyaba remained in port today, the start of their voyage to Europe with Axis diplomats delayed, while public feeling flared into open demonstrations on resentment at the sinking of five Brazilian ships by Axis submarines in the past three days.

Strongly-worded editorials in the Brazilian press fanned anti-Axis sentiment, and cases of attacks on German property by enraged Brazilians were reported.

The Journal said the delay in departure of the diplomat exchange ships definitely was connected with the sinkings.

"We have been patient in excess," the newspaper declared.

The count of the missing from the five ships, one of them a troop transport, was still incomplete.

The Diario De Noticias declared Brazil was "neither intimidated nor disposed to forgive the crime."

Implies Weakness of Reich

The newspaper added that the attacks on shipping off the Brazilian coast actually implied a growing weakness of the Reich.

"German submarines, since the beginning of hostilities, have been expelled from the zones of major importance, starting with British waters, to the United States routes to Iceland, and from here to the United States coast, the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean, and now to the Brazilian coast," the newspaper said.

"If those undersea craft devote themselves to attacks on small vessels navigating between Bahia and Recife it is obvious that it is becoming more difficult to sink ships taking supplies to Russia, new materials to the United States, and arms to England."

The government, bitterly criticizing the Axis for "disregard of the most elemental concept of human rights," promised the attacks on Brazilian property and lives would not go unpunished.

Lifeboats containing many survivors from the five ships have arrived at coastal points, it was announced, but the loss of life is generally expected to be high. The five ships carried a total of 365 crew members and one was reported to be carrying 60 passengers.

Three others carried an unknown

STEEL WORKERS TO TAKE VOTE

Algoma Plant Back in Production After 24-Hour Holiday

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 18—(CP)—Algoma steel workers, back at work after a 24-hour holiday arranged to discuss their demand for a wage increase, today proceeded with a strike vote but a Union official said whatever the result of that vote, a strike would be called only "as a last resort."

"Even though the vote favors a strike, as is expected, a strike will only be called as a last resort when all other methods have failed," said William Mahoney, Secretary of the Union.

At 9 a.m., E.D.T., today more than 3,000 ballots had been cast in the strike vote decided upon at a mass meeting yesterday. It was at this meeting that workers acted after hearing the Ontario Regional War Labor Board's refusal to approve increase of the basic wage rate from 46 1-2 cents an hour to 55 cents.

The ballot boxes will remain closed until midnight tonight and it is expected that a total of 3,700 ballots will be polled.

The War Labor Board's revision was reported to the meeting in a communication from Hon. Peter Heenan, Ontario Labor Minister. It was then that officials of the Steel Workers Union, an affiliate of the United Steel Workers of America (C.I.O.) announced strike balloting would start last night.

Nine Britons Soon Captured

Belfast, Northern Ireland, Aug. 18 (CP)—Nine Britons escaped last night from an internment camp at The Curragh, County Kildare, Erie. Three were captured a few hours later.

In June several Canadian and English airmen attempted to escape from Curragh internment camp but failed because of weak bolts in the joints of ladders they used to cross barbed wire barricades. When the ladders collapsed, the guards rushed in.

The report of the attempted escape did not include the names of those involved but listed the following Canadians known to be at the camp: Flt. Lt. Grant Fleming, Calgary; PO. R. G. (Bob) Keefer, Montreal; FO. Jack Calder, former Canadian Press editor at Toronto, and Sgt. Pilot Paul Webster, Vancouver.

12 Billion Dollar War Production Yearly Seen in U.S. Motor Industry

Detroit, Aug. 18 (AP)—Production of armaments by the United States automotive industry has reached the rate of $5,000,000,000 a year Alvan Macauley, Chairman of the Automotive Council for War Production, said yesterday, and "at peak, assuming materials are available, the industry will be operated on a $12,000,000,000 annual basis."

"This is comparable to producing 15,000,000 passenger cars and commercial vehicles," Macauley said, "or nearly three times the industry's annual output in its best peace-time years."

Macauley, Chairman of the Board of Packard Motor Car Company, said the industry's output of tanks, trucks, guns, and other weapons is at the rate of $13,600,000 a day.

"This rate is rising steadily," he added. "Before the end of this year, monthly shipments are scheduled to be running at an annual rate of upward of $8,000,000,000..."

SOLID TOEHOLDS WON BY MARINES IN SOLOMONS

Japs Caught Flat-Footed in Tulagi-Guadalcanal Area By U. S. Troops

U. S. NAVY HELPS

Allied Headquarters, Australia, Aug. 18—(CP)—United States Marines have won solid toeholds in the Solomon Islands, the first step to victory in the first Allied offensive in the Pacific, while Allied airmen comb the southern seas to blast the Japanese in their ships and harbors wherever they may be trying to go to the rescue.

That was the broad picture today over thousands of square miles of the South Pacific where the fighting forces of the United Nations have begun to roll back the enemy in a campaign of growing magnitude.

It was the official story of the United States navy and of Allied headquarters.

A navy communique issued in Washington showed the attack twelve days ago on the Solomons to have been a mighty onslaught which caught the Japanese flat-footed in the Guadalcanal-Tulagi area, one of their most valuable bases.

One of the Best Harbors

The harbor of Tulagi is one of the best in the southwest Pacific and the airfield of Guadalcanal makes that island a gigantic aircraft carrier anchored athwart the sea lane from America to Australia.

Without divulging details of the still-continuing and still-growing battle, the communique gave these assurances that the first phase has ended in defeat for the Japanese:

1. The Marines have made several landings in the Guadalcanal-Tulagi area, "rapidly" overcoming enemy resistance, and their captured shore positions "have since been developed and are now well established."

Jap Fleet Backs Off

2. Japanese naval forces close in for action with the Allied fleet only one night, August 8-9, and backed off "before reaching the vessels engaged in the landing operations."

3. Enemy air attempts on the first two days of the landings inflicted only "minor damage" on the American troops.

The communique mentioned damage to both sides in the naval encounter but it kept the enemy guessing what the United States lost and what she knows of Japan's cost in trying to defend the Solomons' shores.

135 Acres in Mainz Completely Destroyed

London, Aug. 18—(CP)—Daylight photographs show areas of "complete destruction" totalling 135 acres in Mianz, German city blasted by R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. raids the night of Aug. 11 and 12, the Air Ministry announced yesterday.

"Great patches of devastation by fire and high explosive bombs" attested to the accuracy and effectiveness of the bombing which hit all parts of Mainz and its suburbs. The ministry said the pictures were not sufficiently clear for newspaper reproduction.

Mainz, besides having important industries, is a garrison town with permanent barracks and military depots, many of which were destroyed or damaged extensively.

ROUEN BOMBED BY U. S. FLIERS WITHOUT LOSS

German - Held Railway Yards Blasted in Daylight Sweep

SCREENED BY R.A.F.

By WES GALLAGHER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

An American Bomber Station in Britain, Aug. 18—(AP)—A growing American bombing offensive to smash at Nazi strongholds in Germany and occupied Europe in coordination with the R.A.F. until the war is won was under way today after a highly-successful bombing attack on the German-held railway yards at Rouen, France.

Twelve flying fortresses, with Brig.-Gen. Ira C. Eaker, chief of the United States Air Force Bomber Command, in one of the leading planes and screened by an escort of R.C.A.F. and R.A.F. fighters, mastered the best of Germany's fighter planes yesterday and left their target under "a great pall of smoke and sand."

Six other flying fortresses executed diversion attacks on Dunkerque and Cherbourg. All bombers returned safely to their bases but two escorting fighters were lost.

Canadian Pilots Get Plane

Canadian Spitfire pilots were credited with destruction of one Nazi fighter, probable destruction of four and damage to two others. A squadron commanded by Sqdn. Ldr. Bob Morrow of Toronto shot down the fighter and damaged another.

Flying at heights where tank-supplied oxygen was almost constantly necessary, the Fortresses hardly broke formation throughout the run.

The bombs which tangled up the railroad yards at historic Rouen, 87 miles northwest of Paris, pouffed out of ships bearing such designations as "Baby Doll," "Peggy D," "Johnny Reb," "Birmingham Blitzkrieg," "Big Punk" and "Berlin Sleeper." Gen. Eaker's plane was labelled "Yankee Doodle."

Maj.-Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander of the United States air forces in the European theatre, was plainly enthusiastic.

"We will bomb Germany as fast and as often as possible until we win the war," he said. "This marks the real start of an ever-increasing American bombing offensive."

He predicted devastating high-altitude "precision" blows at selected targets from the Flying Fortresses while giant R.A.F. bombers scourged German cities one by one at night.

UNLIKELY TO NEED EXTRA COUPONS FOR ESSENTIALS

Says W.P.B. Has No Intention to Ration Any Other Food for Next 3 or 4 or 5 Months at Least

NEEDS OF ALLIES

Ottawa, Aug. 18 (CP) — New ration books to be distributed before September 8 will contain emergency coupons for use, if necessary, in the rationing of commodities other than sugar, tea and coffee, but authoritative sources said today it is unlikely these extra coupons will be required to obtain essential foodstuffs produced in Canada.

At Lake Couchiching, Ont., last night, Kenneth Taylor, secretary of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, said before the Canadian Institute of Public Affairs: "The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has no intention of rationing anything else for the next three or four or five months, the calculable future as far as we can see ahead."

One authority said the only possibility he sees of additional food rationing is that the demands of Allied Nations overseas for meat from the United States or Canada would cause drain on supplies that "meatless days" or perhaps rationing would be necessary in the future.

But such conditions have not so far developed, he said.

Butter Production Up

Concern has been expressed in some quarters over butter supplies, but one food official said today that payment of a bonus of six cents a pound on butterfat has resulted in enlarged production. In July the butter output showed a gain of 2½ per cent over the same month last year, although during the earlier months of 1942 production generally showed a decline.

Total milk production had increased and the output of cheese had been so large that it was expected there would be sufficient to meet British requirements of at least 125,000,000 pounds, and home market needs as well.

"The prospects are that there will be steady improvement in butter production as time goes on," this spokesman said.

Sufficient Meat Without Rationing

"There is sufficient meat to get along on without rationing, but this situation is always complicated by the needs of other nations which look to Canada and the United States for meat supplies in wartime.

"If there are heavy shipments to the United Kingdom and to Russia for instance, there might have to be steps to reduce consumption at

CHURCHILL'S SUIT AND 2ND FRONT PUZZLE NEWSMEN

Much Speculation Over What was Said About Second Front by Conferees

USED 'SIREN' SUIT

New York, Aug. 18 (CP)—New York's leading morning newspaper today welcomed the announcement that Prime Minister Churchill had conferred with Premier Stalin.

Said The New York Times:-

"In one of the great crisis of the war Mr. Churchill has visited Moscow, as he had twice previously visited Washington, for the purpose of direct personal consultation with the leaders of an Allied government...Direct proof of our deep and inescapable interest in this mission was provided by the presence of American military and civilian officials at the conferences between Mr. Churchill and Mr. Stalin....

"Time alone can reveal what decisions have been made. Whatever they are they can hardly be more important than this fresh evidence of the close and friendly understanding now prevailing between the government of Russia and the two great democracies of the west."

The Herald Tribune:-

"Short of the announcement of a major victory, it is difficult to imagine better news than that conveyed in the communique reporting Mr. Churchill's visit to Moscow....

"For the first time in the whole course of the war the complete chain of personal contact, from Roosevelt to Churchill and from Churchill to Stalin, has been established between the heads of the three great Allies. For the first time it is possible to feel a genuine confidence that they understand one another, that their policies are in accord and that there is common strategy....

"We know that the Russian situation is extremely grave. But that 'jocular' final banquet in Moscow does not suggest that it is desperate. It implies that behind the events in Russia there is a plan of action, a broad concept of the war, which still sees a definite road to ultimate victory, however tragic the losses that must be sustained."

Counter Attacks Drive Enemy Back At Kotelnikovski

Invaders, However, Are Able to Force Two More Crossings Of Kuban River

TAKE IMPORTANT LINE

By EDDY GLIMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Moscow, Aug. 18 — (AP) — Red army troops counter attacking southwest of Stalingrad were reported today to have thrown the Nazis into retreat and reoccupied an important line. The invaders, however, wedged into Don bend defences north of that area and forced two more crossings of the Kuban River in the Krasnodar Sector.

Military dispatches said the Russian forces generally improved their positions in the area above Kotelnikovski, where a German force has been striking up the Stalingrad-Novorossisk rail line toward the Volga.

The counter attack appeared the strongest Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's men had undertaken since the invaders crossed the lower reaches of the Don.

Strengthen Positions

Several miles lost by the Russians were regained in assaults upon enemy-occupied hills and the army newspaper Red star said several invasion firing points were destroyed.

While shock troops occupied a defence section which has been hurriedly erected by the Germans and Rumanians, other Red army forces strengthened their positions guarding the lower Volga and Stalingrad.

Izvestia said Russian infantry, artillery and tanks "fulfilled their order to halt the enemy by all means" in the Kletskaya sector, northwest of Stalingrad.

"Descent Group" Used"

Pravda reported that a Russian "descent group" penetrated the German rear in this sector, fought off attacks by German planes and troops, and killed 300 Germans in a two-day battle with two battalions of enemy infantry.

The dispatch did not specify whether the descent group were parachutists or plane-borne troops.

On Voronezh battlefield fierce fighting was reported developed for control of a section of the west bank of the Don. Aerial activity there was restricted temporarily by heavy rainstorms.

Izvestia said Rumanian and Hungarian troops were being hurled into the fight in an effort to recapture important points which the Russians had taken in counter-attacks.

Battlefront dispatches said that one point Russian lines were pushed back, but described the withdrawal as slight. South of Voronezh Axis Forces were said to have attacked five times in a futile attempt to capture one community, while street fighting raged in another village nearby.

Britons Look for Multi-Front Offensive From Moscow Talks

London, Aug. 18—(CP)—Britons expressed belief today that the Churchill-Stalin talks last week initiated a new phase of the war which would swing the United Nations into a multi-front offensive that could end only in Germany's utter defeat.

Prime Minister Churchill, flown to and from Moscow with British and United States officers in three four-motored Liberator bombers, himself messaged Premier Stalin, "I am certain that our contact will play a useful part furthering our cause."

A Pravda dispatch broadcast by the Moscow radio said the result of the conversations was a "great political defeat for Hitlerite Germany."

Official announcements said the decisions concerned the "war against Hitlerite Germany and her associates in Europe" — a phrase specifically omitting Japan.

Secrecy Veiled

Secrecy veiled the details, but the Daily Sketch said "the final decision must have been made" on the question of establishment of a second European front in 1942 and suggested this should stop ill-informed agitation on the subject.

The historic Kremlin conferences, the smooth execution of the first of the promised daylight raids on Nazi-occupied Europe by United States bombers and indications the Solomon Islands offensive is progressing well all helped to show the start of what Britain regards as the victory trail after almost three years of defensive fighting.

Newspapers played up the visit of Mr. Churchill and the comment of the Daily Mail that "nothing but good can come of this conference" was typical.

The BBC, in an English-language broadcast beamed to the millions of men and women dominated by Hitler, said the joint Moscow-London announcement "inaugurates the final phase of the war which will see the decline and end of Germany's offensive power and the swift sequel of an Allied offensive."

May Be Prolonged

"The death throes (of Germany) may be prolonged," it said, "but every possible measure to curtail them was considered in Moscow."

The Times said the meeting "should ensure that any cobwebs which may have hitherto obscured corners of the military situation are swept away and that the two countries face together, with the fullest confidence on both sides, the dangers of the most urgently critical months which this war has yet witnessed."

The Daily Express commented: "It is realized on every hand that Britain and America must not only furnish Russia with all the aid she requires to hold fast now, but make ready for the day when we shall counterattack together."

"We can be sure," said the News Chronicle, "that decisions of the conference have been made in the spirit to launch an all-out offen-

Magistrate J. B. Garvin, of Kingston, presided over the City Police Court here today in an exchange of venues with Magistrate J. L. Lloyd. With the painters and decoraters still engaged cleaning and painting the police court rooms the morning's proceeding was held in the Chief Constable's office.

Not a single person charged appeared before His Worship, all accused persons having entered pleas of guilty with Acting Chief Harman and paying the conventional fines for minor offences before the proceedings opened.

The late Mr. Garvey who met his death by drowning in Frankford on Friday, Aug. 14th, was in his 55th year. He was born in Manchester, England, but since the age of nine has resided near Frankford, Ont. Farming was his life time occupation. Fraternally he was a member of both the Black Lodge and the Orange Order at Frankford.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. H. H. Lackey, pastor of the Stockdale United Church, and the large attendance at the funeral showed the high esteem in which the deceased was held in this community.

The bearers were Messrs. Fred Hall, Cecil Palmer, Ross Hubbel, Harry Orr, Ina Walt, and John Rogers.

He was a member of Picton United Church and served on the Official Board. At one time he served on the town council.

Body of Airman Recovered From Scene of Crash

Picton, Aug. 18 — The body of one of the three airmen killed in a crash on Friday, was recovered Monday afternoon from the waters of Lake Ontario, near Point Petre. Search for the two remaining bodies is continuing. The greater part of the wreckage of the Fairey Battle bomber has been pulled from the lake by a caterpillar tractor from No. 6 Repair Depot at Trenton but only the body of the sergeant pilot was found in the machine. It was brought to Picton and will be sent to Ottawa where the funeral will be held from the home of the deceased's fiancee, to whom he was to have been married this week.

Failure to find the other two bodies in the plane leads to the belief that these were washed from the machine during the high seas on Sunday. These were inshore and searchers hope to recover them soon.

The bomber was broken in several pieces and the engine, tail and the fuselage were recovered in that order. A diver from Kingston assisted in the work, which was held up on Sunday owing to high seas.

The Fairey Battle bomber crashed at noon on Friday during practice over the range at Point Petre, the three men being trapped in the machine as it dived into the lake in view of a dozen residents of the community. None had any chance to escape. Two of the airmen were from England and the other from New Zealand and all were members of the Royal Air Force station at Picton. This is the first fatal crash in the history of the R.A.F. while here. Names of the victims are being withheld until next of kin are notified.

Churchill's Visit Poorly-Kept Secret

London, Aug. 17—(CP) — Prime Minister Churchill's meeting with Premier Joseph Stalin of Russia was a poorly-kept secret in comparison with the visits of Soviet Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov to London and Washington.

Newspaper readers and radio listeners to Axis countries began hearing reports that Mr. Churchill had left Moscow two weeks ago. But Molotov's visits to Britain and the United States remained secret until officially announced, although hundreds of newspapermen in London and Washington knew of his journey for several days.

Urgent Need for Women And Girls in Canning Factories of Ontario

Toronto, Aug. 18 —(CP)— The Ontario Agriculture Minister, Hon. P. M. Dewan, said here Monday the Ontario canning industry needs approximately 4,000 workers during the next few weeks and the lack of available help was likely to create a serious situation.

Mr. Dewan said his department would launch a campaign to enlist the aid of girls and women in districts where canneries are located.

"There are roughly about 100 canneries in need of help," said Mr. Dewan. "The canning of fruits and vegetables is important and unless sufficient help is forthcoming, I am afraid many of the canning plants won't be able to operate."

The processing of the peach crop in the Niagara district is one of the pressing problems and if sufficient help is found to bring the crop through canning plants, it is believed other fruits and vegetables will be taken care of, he explained.

Special Stamp Sale at Carnival

Don't turn away from that attractive and handsomely costumed girl seen mingling through the crowd at the Rotary Carnival this week, proffering pretty corsages containing war savings stamps. She is the much advertised "Miss Canada", and is doing her bit to help swell the sale of war savings stamps and certificates in Belleville.

Sponsored by the National War Finance Committee of Belleville, these girls many of them members of local hospitality clubs, are volunteering their services each night of the carnival in an effort to make Belleville residents war stamp conscious. Two girls will mingle through the crowd at the carnival each night this week selling the corsages containing either, one, two or three war saving stamps, while two other girls will conduct sales of stamps at a special stamp booth on the ground.

The National War Finance Committee in Belleville is headed by Mr. James Barclay as president, with Vice Chairman of Hastings County being Mr. Clarke Kinnear. Harold Carruthers is chairman of Public Relations and is responsible for attaining the general good will of the public.

Satisfaction was expressed this morning, by Mr. Carruthers with the result of the first night's sales of stamps at the carnival when approximately $32 worth of stamps were sold. When the public become more fully acquainted with the idea, sales of stamps are expected to soar.

Activities of the "Miss Canada" campaign will not conclude with the closing of the Rotary Carnival, but the girls will be active at the Kiwanis Karnival next month and also at the Belleville Fair. In addition the girls will conduct a stamp booth at various locations on Front Street every Saturday until Christmas.

China Will Fight to End Confident of Victory J. Jeun Tells Rotary

"Chinese faith in Allied nations has now been vindicated; there is stil la long way to go, but China will fight on to the end confident of ultimate victory."

Thus Mr. J. Jeun, Chinese chemist at the Canadian Industrial Alcohol plant at Corbyville, summed up the reaction of long-suffering Chinese to events which have transpired since Pearl Harbor and the consequent declaration of war by many Allied nations against the Japanese.

Born near Canton, China, but coming to Canada where he attended and graduated from the University of Saskatchewan, later to return to his native country, Mr. Jeun personally experienced the Japanese aerial bombing of Canton. "Such bombings merely give the Chinese greater determination to fight on," stated Mr. Jeun, "air attacks on congested industrial areas do damage, but on China, which is essentially an agricultural country bombing cannot be very effective."

The "scorched earth" policy widely used by the Russians to hamper German advances in Soviet territory was not invented by the Russians, but by the Chinese, according to Mr. Jeun. In their five-year war against the Japanese these tactics have been used repeatedly to slow enemy advances.

Only Wishful Dreaming

"The Japanese strategy of making Chinese fight Chinese and making their war machine self-supporting by commandeering all commodities in occupied territory is more wishful dreaming than accomplishment," he said. "The Chinese retreat leaving not a grain of rice, not a radish, which the Japanese might use to supply their armies."

"Every Chinese village occupied by the Japanese is found a ghost town and all communications are found totally destroyed. The occupation so laboriously gained is found to be useless and cost the Japs "plenty."

The Jap policy of making their war machine self-supporting is necessary because of their "pitiable plight" in shortage of war materials and in man-power. Peasants and industrial workers in the main supply the great majority of recruits for the Jap army and this has depleted their home front production. Even popularized slogans such as "no new clothes" and "no new furniture", have failed to remedy the Jap production shortage.

Pays Tribute to Women

Mr. Jeun paid tribute to Canadian women in their work to assist in the war effort but claimed Chinese women are also doing splendid service. Chinese women are especially active in guerilla warfare and continually harass the Jap armies in enemy occupied territory. "Chinese women fight side by side with their men, they act as despatch riders, as army scouts and as nurses in the field."

Madame Chiang-Kai-Shek is a true leader of Chinese women, according to Mr. Jeun. "She has shown every woman how to fight for their country by fighting their utmost."

Five Factor Annunciated

Chinese have continued their fight against the Japs for five long years, with no money and little modern equipment. Five factors were given by the speaker as being responsible for China's ability to continue the fight.

The first of these was the tremendous space of the country, yet only one-tenth occupied by the Japs. Secondly the numerical superiority of the Chinese, her army now is larger than it was five years ago. The capacity of the Chinese for hard work had enabled the building of many roads through the interior by hand labor without tools. Friendly assistance from allies and the Chinese patient but unfaltering faith in ultimate victory.

There had been a feeling in China that her war with the Japanese would ultimately be the spark to start off a second world war, stated Mr. Jeun. "The tide has now turned," he concluded, "but the faith of China has been vindicated and she will fight through to the end."

James V. Boyle introduced the guest speaker with O. H. Scott expressing Rotary appreciation. President Lloyd Hicks was in the chair with Chas. Allen as pianist and Jamieson Bone as song leader.

OSNABRUECK GIVEN PASTING BY R.A.F. BOMBERS

Spitfire Pilots Destroy One Nazi Machine and Probably Four More

START MANY FIRES

(By LOUIS V. HUNTER)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 18 (CP Cable) — Canadian Spitfire pilots who formed part of the United Nations fighter screen around American Flying Fortresses on their first bombing mission from British bases were credited today with the destruction of one Nazi fighter, the probable destruction of four and the damaging of two others.

Credited with one Focke-Wolfe-190 probably destroyed was Sgt. H. P. Fuller of Hortonville, N.S., who after angling with eight enemy craft saw one of them heading toward the ground with smoke streaming from it.

The engines of the Spitfires were still warm when other Canadian squadrons roared into the night to continue the air offensive that will become heavier as United States forces muster their strength on this side of the Atlantic.

A Boston intruder squadron whipped over German airdromes in Northern France where another German machine was shot down. At the same time a Hampden bomber squadron commanded by Wing Commander John Twigg of Ottawa, joined the R.A.F. force which took advantage of the weather to deliver another bomb blow at Germany.

Two young Canadians, PO. Stephen Best of Woodstock, Ont., and PO. S. P. Marlatt, Lillooet, B.C., were aboard the Boston intruder squadron which destroyed the returning German aircraft over a station in occupied France.

Short Work Made of Nazi

Sqdn. Ldr. P. L. Caldwell of Paisley, Scotland, was the pilot and with the Canadians spotted the enemy plane as it approached its home 'drome for a landing. The Boston got it in its gunsights and made short work of it.

"The plane burst into flames immediately after we hit it," reported Best. "The back part of the fuselage dropped off. Then the aircraft simply disintegrated."

Osnabrueck, the target of the bombing raid was plastered with explosive and incendiary bombs and the navigator in Twigg's aircraft, Flt. Lt. Gordon Fisher of Regina, said "the town really was given a beating and I do not think any sensible German would have wanted to be within miles of it."

He added the bombs spattered the target and started scores of fires.

The crews, all of whom returned safely, reported night fighters out in force. One got close enough to Twigg's aircraft to absorb a burst of machine-gun fire from the tail-gunner, PO. Paddy Reynolds, D.F.M., veteran Irish flier.

Evasive action became even more violent than usual and PO. Dave Williams of Vancouver, threw his machine around so violently that the entire crew, long experienced on operations, became as air sick as rookies in a training school.

TOMATOES SUFFER SHARP DECLINE

Tomatoes suffered a sharp decline in price from Saturday's market on the Tuesday produce market, selling at 35 cents the basket as compared to 60 cents last week. Quart boxes of tomatoes sold at straight ten cents, a nickel less than last week. Peaches varied little from earlier quotations with selects bringing 75 cents the basket, No. 1's 65 cents and No. 2's 55 cents. Long blackberries were quoted at 25 cents and raspberries at 15 cents for pint boxes. Green corn was 35 cents the dozen and potatoes 45 cents the peck.

Many Fine Attractions Delight Crowd at Rotary Carnival Opening

Everybody loves a carnival, or at least that was the impression received during a visit to the opening night of the Rotary Carnival at Victoria Park Monday evening.

Favored by perfect weather young and old Bellevillians attended opening-night performances in large numbers with local Rotarians expressing satisfaction of the response shown their enterprise. If last night's crowd continues through the balance of the week Rotarians feel their Crippled Children's Fund will be swelled considerably.

Entertainment in all its varied forms is supplied by Queen City Shows with a full repertoire of rides for both young and the very young. Judging by the lineups in front of the ticket booths of many of the rides, they met with the entire approval of the crowd.

Topping the rides in popularity was a new innovation for Belleville amusement seekers, the "Bullet," giving its passengers a brand new thrill in amusement. Other rides included the ever-popular ferris wheel, the merry-go-round, the ridee-O, sky-ride chairs, miniature auto rides for the very young and their glorified counterpart for the older folk.

Many Diversions

Concessions of almost every type offer diversion for amusement seekers, the grounds being replete with games of skill, ball-throwing and other concessions. Bingo is available for those desiring this popular pastime, while palmistry experts are on hand to look into their customers' future.

The two Rotary concessions appeared to do a fair amount of business and will be manned by various members of the local Rotary club for the remaining days of the carnival. And not forgotten was the booth selling tickets on the dollar-covered doll which will go to some lucky winner later in the week. The whole show is one of good clean fun and is certain to retain popular attention for the balance of its stay in this city.

Band Parade Each Night

Heightening the interest in the carnival for the next four days starting tonight will be parades from the upper bridge to Victoria Park by the bands of district air stations and by the Belleville Municipal Band. Starting tonight at eight o'clock, Mountain View Band will head a parade of gaily decorated cars to the amusement park, while Wednesday night No. 5 Initial Training School band will head the parade. Trenton R.C.A.F. Band will be the centre of attraction for Thursday night's parade, while Belleville's own Municipal Band will parade to Victoria Park on Friday night, the last night of the carnival.

As an added attraction the amusement grounds will be open to the public on Wednesday afternoon for a children's matinee. Special prizes will prevail on all rides for the children during the matinee performance.

Churchill - Stalin Talks Praised By United States Papers

By EDDY GILMORE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Moscow, Aug. 18 —(AP)— The two chief riddles remaining after Prime Minister Churchill's visit so far as newsmen are concerned are: What did he say to Premier Stalin about a second front and why did he wear a flying suit to the state dinner in the Kremlin?

For obvious reasons details of the conversation between the statesmen are kept secret, but to date no one here has figured out the blue, jumperlike suit under which the Prime Minister wore no shirt.

"But that's Mr. Churchill," correspondents were told. "He's individual, you know."

(Although puzzling to Eddy Gilmore and his colleagues in Moscow, that strange costume Mr. Churchill wore was recognized in Britain, Canada and the United States as a "siren suit," a zipper cover-all to be donned quickly in the event of air raid alarms. Mr. Churchill wore the suit when he visited Washington.)

Victory Sign Mistaken

In the wake of Mr. Churchill's dramatic visit to Moscow with President Roosevelt's personal representative, W. Averell Harriman, this story quickly made the rounds here:

Upon alighting at the Moscow airport, Mr. Churchill, as he has done frequently in many parts of the world, raised two fingers in the "V"-for-victory sign.

"See that," said a man in the crowd, "he's got up two fingers. Catch on—that means two fronts."

When the Kremlin dinner crowd first sighted Mr. Churchill in his curious suit someone asked if that was the kind worn by British parachutists on commando raids.

"It would serve for such a purpose," a British officer answered jocularly.

Stood Bareheaded in Rain

One of the more trying experiences the Prime Minister had to undergo was in store for him at the airport when the party was leaving the capital. The band played several national anthems and became so enthusiastic that several were played twice. The Prime Minister and others stood with bared heads in a soft rain. But if it bothered, he let nobody hear about it.

Mr. Churchill missed the famous Russian ballet, althought he had been invited to see it.

He said he was too busy, remarking, "I never let pleasure interfere with my movements."

The Prime Minister lunched several times at the British Embassy country house called, in Russian, Dacha. It is situated in a garden near a small stream.

Halifax Inconvenienced By Broken Water Pipe

Halifax, Aug. 18 (CP)— A water shortage in sections of Halifax was ended late last night by the repairing of a broken pipe after two days of inconvenience to householders, industries, business places and institutions.

The break, in a pipe joint at a new suburban booster pump station, had reduced the flow of water to a trickle in some of the city mains. The downtown section was among the hardest hit.

Hundreds of workers at the Halifax shipyards, where two destroyers are being built for the Royal Canadian Navy and repair work done on damaged vessels, were handicapped for a time by the shortage. But salt water was substituted for fresh, and the work went on.

Ice was rushed into the breach at Moir's, Limited, engaged in making bread for the army. The melted ice enabled the bakery to continue operations, but the company's candy plant was forced to shut down.

The Cogswell Street military hospital was without faucet water, but it was carted in with buckets and other containers.

Publication of The Halifax Mail was delayed an hour by lack of water used to cool molten metal from which plates are made for the press in the sterotyping department. As an emergency measure, water was hauled to the building and pumped into the composing room.

TWINS COMMONPLACE

St. Thomas, Ont., Aug. 18—(CP) —Twins are commonplace things at the nearby Bannockburn farm of Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn where three sets of twin calves have been born in the same barn and twin onions are numerous in the fields.

THE WAR TODAY

By GLENN BABB
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

For Russia this is still a one-front war. She wants a Second Front, but she wants it in the right place. The Churchill-Stalin conference at Moscow, while reaffirming the alliance of three great powers whose lands girdle the globe and whose forces fight the enemy on all the seas and all but one of the continents, emphasized once more Soviet Union's anxiety to confine her share in the war to one front until her Allies can marshal the power and choose the time and place for the second.

Japan was not mentioned by name in the communique which announced the results of the Moscow conclave. But the care taken, obviously at the instance of Joseph Stalin, to exclude Japan from the announced scope of the decisions showed clearly that the threat of Hirohito's army in Manchuria was never far from the minds of the conferees even as they grappled with the deadly urgent problem of stopping Hitler.

For the second time in ten weeks the leaders of the United Nations have made this pointed exception. Yesterday's announcement declared again that the agreements concluded early in June were against "Hitlerite Germany and her associates in Europe".

The United States and Britain, much as they may hope to see Eastern Siberia ultimately available as a base of operations against Japan, are compelled to accept their ally's single-front stand with sympathy and understanding. One of the great dangers confronting the United Nations is that the much-debated Second Front will be opened by Japan before Britain and the United States are ready to strike, that it will come at the eastern extremity of the great Eurasian land mass instead of the western.

No Time to Challenge Nippon

Certainly this is no time for Russia to challenge the Mikado's Kwantung army, which reports from any quarters described as growing steadily in numbers and striking power, ranged along the Amur and Ussuri Rivers, ready to thrust deep into Siberia in the fine autumn weather that begins in a week or two in northeastern Asia.

Russian-Japanese regulations are regulated, according to repeated official statements, by the neutrality treaty the two powers signed at Eastern, 1941, in Moscow. Although Japan has been at war for nearly nine months against her two principal Allies, Russia insists on holding with rigid correctness to the letter of her engagement.

Does the Kremlin really believe that Japan will honor her pledge a day longer than it fits her purposes? Or is Stalin trying merely to avoid giving the provocation that might be all the eager Kwantung army would need to send against Vladivostok?

What Russia hopes for or expects from Japan remains one or this war's great mysteries. Obviously, however, that is not the time from Russia's or her Allies' points of view to complete the global nature of the war by turning Siberia and Manchuria into a battleground.

War, Two-Chapter Affair

That may come later, when the German phase of the war gives way to the Japanese. All signs now point to this conflict—assuming that we win it—being a two-chapter affair, with the decision in the Orient postponed until Hitler is disposed of. One of the most convincing of such signs is that phrase in yesterday's communique —"Hitlerite Germany and her associates in Europe".

Meanwhile it may be that a far-away third front is playing a telling part in the United Nations' urgent effort to ensure that they and not Japan shall open the Second Front. The battle of the Solomon Islands remains obscured in the murk of tropical rains and official secrecy, but indications grow that this may become a vortex which will draw an increasing share of Japan's naval and air strength into battle.

She dares not let this contest go by default. She confronts the danger that in the Solomons the Allies may definitely reverse the tide which Japan set in train with her December 8 assaults on the Philippines and Malaya and carried to the flood in New Guinea and at the rates of India.

home, irrespective of whether the actual shipments went from Canada or the United States."

Cereals in Abundance

This authority said Canada had cereal foods in abundance and the vegetable crop was good.

Other authorities said there appeared to be little prospect that tobacco or fruit would have to be placed under rationing control.

Wartime Prices and Trade Board officials, in charge of rationing, said they could give no idea as to what commodities might be covered by the emergency coupons, but they recalled that sugar rationing books contained emergency coupons which proved of value in bringing about tea and coffee rationing when that became necessary.

"The situation can change so quickly, especially in respect to imported foodstuffs, that we have found it wise to be ready for further rationing should it become necessary," one official said. "Such precautionary steps are taken before it is known where the rationing is required, and our experience with tea and coffee has justified such steps."

BOMB CAUSES 200 CASUALTIES

London, Aug. 18—(CP)—Reuters news agency quoted the Vichy radio today as saying 200 persons were killed or injured by a bomb explosion during a religious ceremony at Bilbao, Spain.

It said Gen. Jose Varela, Spanish Army Minister, was present but escaped injury.

Say Weekend Visitors Forced Vichy Farmers To Sell Potatoes

Vichy, Aug. 18 —(AP)— Newspapers in the unoccupied zone reported today that mobs of weekend visitors from as far apart as Lille and Le Havre overwhelmed gendarmes in the potato-growing centre of Villagers—Bretonneux and forced farmers to sell them potatoes under threat of pillage to the farms. Three farmers were fined 5,000 francs each for yielding.

Police attributed the invasion to a rumor that potatoes would be sold without ration tickets.

Meeting in Moscow

One more of those momentous visits has taken place, a visit which has resulted in a gathering of the great men of three of the United Nations, a meeting in which Prime Minister Churchill met for the first time Premier Joseph Stalin of Russia at Moscow.

At no time has there been a setting of greater importance than that, of this meeting as the war moves on along its course. The official communique of the meeting pointed out that a number of decisions on the conduct of the war had been reached and that the three great nations, United States, Russia and Britain reaffirmed existing understandings. These decisions were aimed at one thing, the all-out prosecution of the war with all the power and energy of the Powers "until complete destruction of Hitlerism and any smilar tyranny has been achieved."

The decisions in the very nature of conditions will be momentous. The very brevity of the communique stimulates optimism and steadfast determination.

The Convoys and Malta

Heroic Malta stands firm against Axis assault for two great reasons, the one, the nature of the territory of the island and the undying courage of the people, inspired by the heavy duty which rests upon them of preserving this bastion of the Empire lifeline. and the other, the efficiency of the British convoys and the courage and devotion even unto death, if need be, of the crews of the ships which pass through the sea where their presence cannot but be known to the enemy.

The annals of the British in the Mediterranean and North Africa area are rich with the courage which has given Britain her prominence as an Empire-maker and as a leader in democracy and freedom of the spirit of man.

There are proud records which are being made in these days of the greatest threat to the true values of life for in this war more is at stake than in any other war. For this very reason the people of such places as Malta and London rise to the heights of grandeur in heroism and love of country. The same holds for the men in so many theatres of the war and for the people in the bombed areas. In Russia likewise deeds are being performed by myriads which will enrich Russia. To the many nations in the Allied cause, out of this turmoil must come the pure gold of so much sacrifice and effort. the full expression of the spirit of the nations who are fighting to preserve democracy and freedom for all the world.

Cretans' Devotion to Liberty

The spirit which inspires the people of Axis-dominated Europe was shown in a news story yesterday concerning a number of Greek patriots who, mistaking German parachutist practice for a British invasion tried to help by seizing the airdrome at Candia. paying with their lives for their patriotism, so the Greek Government in London has learned. Three hundred were reported arrested and a number shot by the Huns.

Such is the enthusiasm which will be shown in all Europe now under the Axis domination, when the time comes to strike the Hun. Hitler's occupation forces are sitting on powder-kegs, the constantly repeated incidents on the Continent prove. In Yugoslavia there is every sign of the most alert spirit of revolt and uprising against the Huns and Italians. In Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, The Netherlands, Belgium, France, the same spirit is manifested.

When the day of liberation nears all Nazi-held lands will show the spirit with which the countries are seething today despite the repression and cruelty of the invaders. With these nations it is the holiest and truest of wars to throw off the yoke of the Hun and Italian and to strike to recover the liberty stolen from them by the treacherous Axis powers.

The Greek patriots in Crete were members of that great international and interracial company or army of free men and patriots who stand ready to strike in co-operation with the British, Russian and American armies, navies and air forces to deliver the fatal blow to Hitlerism and Mussolini's Fascism.

OURSELVES AND OTHERS...

BROMIDES AND OTHERS

Between thirty and forty years ago, a humorist named Burgess wrote a clever brochure called "Are You a Bromide?" Briefly, the author classifies humanity as (a) Bromides and (b) Sulphites. The former is a harmless, often loveable conformist, who usually utters platitudes and does his or her thinking "by syndicate." With a show of gallant reluctance, Mr. Burgess implies that some men, and most women, are Bromides; and the majority of his cited "Bromidioms" are certainly feminine.

The Sulphite, in contrast, "does his own thinking and has surprises up his sleeve." Though frequently convulsed with inner mirth at the Bromide's artless and inevitable pronouncements, Sulphites preferably seek their own kind, refrain ever from uttering the obvious, and presumably write all our admirable books on correct English usage.

I should judge that most Bromides are amiable beings and good citizens. If she likes you, the Bromide may urge you to "drop in and take pot luck" around supper time. In the dog days she explains that "it is not the heat so much as the humidity" that makes you swelter. She muses smilingly that "it is a small world after all" when she discovers that you once met her cousin's fiancee, out in Saskatoon. She congratulates the parents of a new boy by reminding them that now they will "have someone to carry on the name," or else she welcomes the newest girl-child by the delighted assurance that "she's going to be great company for her mother later on." When a Bromide shampoos her hair she "just can't do a thing with it" for a week at least; and she is usually "tickled to death" to make a fourth at bridge when you need her.

Yes, we all know Bromides, and we like them. Sometimes, indeed, we love them. They are good people to have around.

Nevertheless we can get very tired of hackneyed phrases, even if we are Bromides ourselves. After you have smiled for the thirty-first time when someone has switched on the lights at twilight with the gay suggestion that we need "more light on the subject" you are apt to grow moody. After a weekend at the lake in the middle of the small fruits season, can you be really gratified when you are told repeatedly that you are "as brown as a berry?" I'm no disdainfrl Sulphite, but for years I have felt that something should be done about "the law of the Medes and Persians which altereth not."

Writers and lecturers must heed word experts' dicta, of course. But despite all dictionaries, Bromides have things pretty much their own way in conversation. For generations to come, every time one Bromide chats or writes to another she will probably pronounce the weather, an acquaintance, an attractive picture, a dress, a new dessert—anything she approves of—as "nice." That is a handy little word. I almost said "a nice little word." Ignoring all dictionaries, "nice" means simply anything we imagine the speaker wants it to mean in favourable comment. It may mean "delicious," "entertaining," "fortunate," "becoming," "congenial," "companionable' or even "symmetrical." In the same cheerful way we forget "cute's" alleged meanings ("sharp, clever, shrewd, ingenious") and croon it out as an endearing adjective describing babies, kitchenettes, hats and pups. A librarian friend of mine—a competent research worker and successful historian—wrote me the other day, and ended her letter with the assurance that young Private So-and-So "is a nice lad," adding that an acquaintance of ours had "just bought a cute little house. Carping purists, turn the page! For the young draftee must be nice, very nice, if my friend says so; and I, for one, am glad that A. has found a cute little house in the lively New England town where cute houses are no rarity.

And there's a century-old speech outrage that is also defensible——that is "O.K." A hearty, hurried "O.K." over the telephone really means: "Of course I'll do what you ask. I like you, and like obliging you." Has the dictionary any word for all that?"

To return to our starting-point: Are you a Bromide? If you are, slip into the library some day, take down Fowler's "Modern English Usage" and look up "Hackneyed Phrases." It is humbling, but amusing experience. Mr. Fowler isn't a Bromide.—M. A. McPhail, in Bluebell.

THE PATIENT EARTH

The patient earth braves good and ill
And fills our market baskets still.

Each spring the farmers all complain,
Too much or else too little rain.

The early frosts (or are they late?)
With shaking heads they contemplate.
The harvests triumph over all.
In spite of storm and wind and cold
The fields grow rich with autumn gold.

The orchards once again dispute
Men's spoken fears with ripened fruit.

And though the odds be great or small
The patient earth still feeds us all.

BOMBSIGHTS

The superiority of American bombsights over foreign bombsights may spell the difference between victory and defeat in the present war.

Yet you will not find the word "bombsight" defined in any dictionary.

Of course, present-day American bombsights — intricate calculating devices of amazing accuracy—are closely guarded military secrets.

In its original form this product of Yankee ingenuity was invented in 1914 by Georges Estoppey.

It was a simple affair, consisting of a fixed pin, two moving pins on a belt, two small pulleys and an ordinary stop-watch.

On this device, somewhat improved, Estoppey obtained his first patent in 1917.

The next year two other pioneers in this field, H. C. Ford and A. H. Boettcher, sought a patent on their design for a bombsight. Other inventors began to enter the field.

Early in 1918, during the first World War, the first actual tests with the Estoppey bombsight were made at Mineola, Long Island, in a Caproni plane piloted by Captain William of the U. S. Air Service and Estoppey himself acting as experimental bombardier.

The results were good enough to attract the attention of Prof. Novis Russel, ballistics expert of Princeton University, who recommended adoption of the bombsight by the U. S. War Department.

At that time, however, the war department took no action and the war ended without the adoption of a bombsight.

But Estoppey, with typical American patience and persistence, continued to improve his invention.

From 1921 to 1926 Estoppey worked on bombsights in co-operation with the U. S. Army at McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio.

Soon Estoppey's D-1 became the standard U. S. bombsight.

It was one of two bombsights used in September, 1923, to blast to bits the obsolete battleships NEW JERSEY and VIRGINIA off Cape Hatteras from altitudes of 10,000 feet. Planes equipped with the Estoppey bombsights made more hits than those equipped with the Seversky C-1's.

In the year of this historic experiment off Cape Hatteras, Estoppey designed an automatic bombsight with a telescope, calibrated for altitudes up to 30,000 feet.

When Estoppey left McCook Field in 1926, and in the years following, he entered into agreements whereby the government was permitted to manufacture his bombsights.

Today, twenty-five years after getting his first patent, Georges Estoppey continues to work on bombsights, and he foresees in the future the development of bombsights with an efficiency that will surpass those of the present day to the extent that those of the present day surpass his crude bombsight of 1914.

Designed by Nutrition Services of the Department of Pensions and National Health as a stimulant to healthful living and a guide to correct eating, special four-color nutrition charts have been made available to the public. The charts form a simple and entertaining way to check on daily consumption of calories, proteins, minerals and vitamins and are likely to prove very popular with children as in the illustration above, for instance where a healthy young Canadian keeps her color chart beside her as she drinks her glass of mid-day milk. WEDDINGS

ALLISON—TURNER

The lawn at Appanrose Farm, Stirling, the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bailey, was the scene of a lovely August wedding at eleven o'clock yesterday morning, when Isobel Turner, Belleville, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Patrick Turner, Regina, Sask., became the bride of Charles Gordon Allison, Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Allison, Carrying Place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Townsend. Mrs. William Heath played wedding music and the soloists were Mrs. Townsend, who sang "I Love You Truly", before the ceremony, and Mrs. Carleton Potts, who sang "Because", during the signing of the register.

Baskets of gladioli and late summer flowers with fern made an attractive lawn setting for the ceremony which took place in the presence of a large number of guests. Given in marriage by her grandfather, Mr. Allen Bailey, the bride was charming in a floor length gown of white bridal satin with redingote of white applique net and matching fingertip veil. She carried a shower bouquet of Talisman roses and bouvardia.

Mrs. Ken Wright, Belleville, (nee Ruby Bray), was matron of honor, wearing a floor length dress of heaven blue sheer with fitted bodice, bouffant skirt and long full sleeves. Clusters of roses formed her headdress and she carried Briarcliffe and Sweetheart roses.

Little Miss Ruth Lin, Mount Pleasant, was flower girl in a floor length frock of peach faille taffeta, carrying an old-fashioned nosegay.

Little Jimmy Phillips, Belleville, in white, was ring bearer. Mr. Jack Warner, Kitchener, was groomsman.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold engraved bracelet, to the bridesmaid, a gold compact, to the soloists and pianist pearl necklaces, to the flower girl, a manicure set, to the ringbearer, a model builder set and to the groomsman, a gold key chain.

AVONDALE NEIGHBORS' AID

The August meeting of the Avondale Neighbors' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. E. Windover, Trent Road. Mrs. A. J. Clare reported for the July war work committee. There were 300 cigarettes sent to each of seven local boys overseas. (Since the meeting the committee voted to send the remaining funds raised ($10.00) to the British War Victims' Fund.) Because of sickness and a member having moved away it was decided to combine the efforts of the August and September War Work committees, who are planning a shore supper to raise funds; also to pack larger boxes, being Christmas boxes, to boys overseas.

Several very interesting and appreciative letters were read from boys overseas. It was moved by Mrs. M. B. Button seconded by Mrs. F. Reid that this Aid dispense with all lunches at the regular meetings, for the duration.

Mrs. O'Connor was appointed treasurer to succeed Mrs. C. Ling. The meeting closed with the Mizpah. A delicious picnic supper was enjoyed on the shore. Mrs. Elvidge moved a vote of thanks to the hostess, seconded by Mrs. O'Connor.

Having not reported the June meeting at Mrs. S. Lough's home and the July meeting at Mrs. Ketcheson's it is interesting to note the various undertakings at these meetings. The May and June war work group raised $36.30.

Four boxes were packed and sent overseas; $10.00 sent to Kinsmen Milk For Britain Fund; $10.00 sent to Red Cross.

300 cigarettes to each of 4 boys overseas.

HEALTH CHATS

By Dr. Herman N. Bundesen
President, Chicago Board of Health

Constant Standing May Result in Spinal Condition

Persons past middle age and overweight persons who are required to stand much of the time at their work, may develop osteoarthritis of the spine, an inflammation of the joints in the spine. Disturbances of the glands of internal secretion, together with elimate, improper nutrition and infection, also may be among the underlying causes that may help to bring on the disorder.

Soldiers, factory workers, dentists, surgeons, policemen, salesmen, cooks, waiters, housewives, and any one else who must stand for long periods of time, are particularly susceptible to this disorder. In younger individuals who participate to a great extent in athletics, the same sort of condition may develop.

It would appear that the repeated slight pressure on the cartilages between the bones in the spine which occurs in such persons may result in the development of this condition. The continued pressure applied to the cartilages in the spin cuts down the circulation of blood and other fluids for short periods of time and this interference with the circulation means that the nourishment of the cartilage is affected, and the cartilages are damaged.

In treating this disorder an effort must be made to prevent the repeated slight pressure on the spinal cartilages. To do this, changes in the body position during work or other activity must be made. Secondly, treatment with diathermy, which produces heat deep in the tissues, exercise and massage is often helpful. Any deformities of the feet, knees or legs should be corrected since they cause abnormal pressure on the parts of the spine. Other disorders of the joints which may be present must also be treated. In addition, measures must be used directly to overcome the osteoarthritis of the spine itself.

In osteoarthritis there is an overgrowth of bony tissue which tends to product pressure on nerves which, in turn, causes pain. Many of the patients can be relieved of their pain only by wearing a cast for several months. Other forms of treatment that have been used with benefit consist in the giving of large amounts of a pure form of Vitamin D, but this should be given only under the close supervision of the doctor. There is no method known at present which will get rid of the excess bone growth.

It would appear, however, that to keep the condition from progressing it is necessary to alter the person's occupation or activities so as to keep the repeated pressure on the spinal cartilages from occurring.

Reducing Figure Bulges

Jane Wyatt demonstrates an exercise for reducing hips

By HELEN FOLLETT

KEEPING a watch on the sugar bowl is going to be a big help to the heavyweights who have postponed the reducing [illegible] from year to year. It's always some time in the future when they're going to start the slenderizing campaign. Sweets in any form are their enemies, next to fats. Fat in the frying pan and butter on the bread make bulges on the figure.

Adipose cushions on hips and buttocks can be flattened by exercise, and that should be the recourse of the woman whose upper portions, arms and legs have remained normal while spread amidships has come to worry her soul.

Reducing Hips

She should lie on her back on the floor, hands at the sides. Lift the right arm and the right leg high. Roll to the left, stretching arm and leg to the very limit, touching the floor with fingers and toes. Then to the left and back again. Six times. Lift the left leg and left arm, go through the same movements. The pressure of the body against the floor and the stretching of fibres will crush fat cells. Don't expect results immediately. That's the trouble with figure remolders. They lack patience. Fat that has been years forming isn't going to go off in a hurry.

Cutting Dress Right

Bulges can be accentuated or shadowed to a certain extent by the cut of the dress. Hips are more outstanding when the belt is high than when it is dropped a few inches. Fabrics with cross lines are out of order. Brocades, taffetas, and all heavy, stiff materials, add to the appearance of bulk. The lady who is built like a cream puff should wear soft, thin, clinging materials.

To equalize the figure, wear frocks that provide length of line. Crownless hats and lifted skirt hems take from the height and make the poor dear look broader.

"We're a couple in our middle forties and are disagreeing completely for the first time in our married lives. The question concerns our 21-year-old adopted son whom we love as dearly as if he were our own.

"Now that he is in the service and likely to be sent overseas, my husband feels that we should tell him he is not really our son. The situation has grown more complicated because he has just become engaged to a lovely girl, and though they do not intend to be married for the duration, my husband thinks it's only the square thing to tell him of his parentage.

"His mother was a schoolmate of mine, his father a married man, and as we had no children we promised this girl to take her son and rear him as our own. As my husband's business caused us to live in a good many parts of the country, it has been possible for us to keep the secret of this boy's birth and adoption so that he has never suspected he was not of our blood.

"And may I say we could not love him more if he were our own son. But this engagement raises this question in my conscience—should he be told? Let me say he has met his mother several times with no idea of her identity. He has not been drawn to her especially, and has treated her as he would have any friend of mine. She has married, has two children and is entirely submerged in these new ties —you see the situation is terribly difficult.

"As a disinterested party, in possession of all the facts, what would be your suggestion for telling or withholding the truth from our son?

Foster Mother"

Of all possible times for telling the boy he is not the actual son of his devoted parents, I should say this is about the worst. What could be more unfortunate for the boy's morale than to have this matter to brood on after he goes to camp? If he returns and God grant that he may, then it seems to me this will be time enough to tell him his foster parents have found, in their relations with him, complete happiness.

CHATTERTON W.M.S.

The August meeting of Chatterton W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Walter Lindenfield at Oak Lake on August 4th. The president, Mrs. E. B. Finkle was in charge. It was decided to ask for a 25c collection for the next meeting to aid in finances. The theme for study was "The Bible, the Word of God" and the responsive Scripture was read.

Mrs. Searles, group leader, took charge of the meeting. Mrs. B. Mitts gave a reading "The Stewardship of Self."

Mrs. Lindenfield sang a solo. Mrs. Searles read "The Meaning of Stewardship." Stewardship is acting as a partner with Christ in the use of time, talents and things for the promotion of the Kingdom of God. The meeting closed with prayer from the Missionary Monthly.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Wedding Announcement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

Would you be so kind as to tell me which is the proper form of the wording to be used in a wedding announcement? I think it should be:

Mary to
Mr. James Smith
Ensign, United States Naval Reserve

But I am told this is incorrect.

A. C.

You are correct. However, the line below the name should be in smaller type than that used in the name.

A Stork Shower Question

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I would like to have your advice as to whether or not it is proper for an aunt to give her niece a stork shower.

Janet

When a relative of the guest of honor gives a shower of any kind it does definitely give the appearance of a too-obvious bid for gifts. Don't you agree? It's more a question of taste than of rule.

Remembering Sick Doctor

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1.—Please tell me if it is proper for me to send flowers and cards to my doctor who is ill in the hospital. I would like to go to see him too, if you think it would be proper.

2.—If you tell me it is proper to send cards, should I sign the cards with my husband's name too? I am the only one in my family who knows the doctor.

C. L.

1.—Yes, it is proper for you to send a card and flowers to your doctor who is ill. I am sure he would consider it gracious and generous of you. Don't over-do it. . . one card would be enough to show four friendliness and good wishes. It would, under usual circmstances, be proper for you to go to see him, but not unless you telephone first to his nurse, to find out if it is convenient for him.

2.—Yes, even though your husband and the doctor haven't met, it would be best form for you to sign both your names to the card.

"Vets" Take Third Game In Softball Finals Winning Over No.5 I. T. S. by 7-4

Hunter Beats Al Bell in Pitching Duel, Throwing Eight-Hitter

CY BARRIAGE GODD

With errors playing a paramount part in practically all runs scored, the Army and Navy "Vets" moved into a commanding lead in the City Softball League finals with a 7 to 4 win over the No. 5 I.T.S. "Flyers" before 600 fans at the Exhibition Park last night. It was the second consecutive win for elongated Jim Hunter, who scattered eight hits in a manner that assured victory for the Vets. The winners now enjoy the odd game in three in a best-in-five series.

A five-run splurge in the fourth inning was good enough for the Vets to win behind Hunter's eight-hit mound effort. With errors playing a prominent part in the ultimate scoring, the Airmen scored first in the second frame St. Louis dropped Forman's lifter with two out and the latter scored when Connelly pumped a double into right-centre.

Excitement Runs High

Excitement featured the bottom half of the fourth, when the Vets scored five times. Cy Barriage opened with a single and Ethier drove through the box for a base knock. St. Louis hit far into left for a base hit, but Ethier over-ran second and forced Barriage off third. In the subsequent rundowns on both Barriage and Ethier, Wilson threw wild to the plate, Barriage scoring on the peg, with Ethier pulling up at third and St. Louis squatting at second. Green singled scoring Ethier and Bennett walked before Kiser doubled into left-centre scoring two more. Hunter went out swinging, but Jim Barriage beat out a bunt and as he stole second Kiser was out at the plate on an attempted double steal. Archie Green made a sensational running catch of Henn's lifter into right to retire the side as the Vets batted around their order. The Vets took a commanding lead in the seventh to score two on singles by Cy Barriage and St. Louis and Green's double coupled with Parry's bobble.

Flyers Rally

The Flyess made their final bid in the eighth, when Smith, who had replaced Conway after the latter was ejected from the game for arguing with Umpire Bawden, singled, but was forced at second by Hannon, batting for Green, Wilson popped to M. Green for a second out and Parry doubled Hannon around to third. Kiser muffed Weir's skier and two scored. It remained to have Cy Barriage make the game's sensational put out, when he retired the side with a diving spear of Jones' grass-cutting liner.

Hunter showed remarkable control last night as he failed to issue a single base on balls, while with three exceptions the Vets gave him fine support in the clutches. He struck out three. Al Bell, laboring on the Flyers' mound, yielded up thirteen hits, six coming in the disastrous fourth, walked two and struck out five.

Added Thrills

Coach Kiser led the hitters of the night with a perfect batting average, getting four hits in as many turns at bat, three being doubles. Murney Green collected a double and a single, while Cy Barriage, the fielding star of the game, had a brace of singles, as did St. Louis. Weir with two singles paced the losers, as Connelly and Parry hit doubles.

There was added excitement injected into the pastime when Umpire Bawden gave Conway the heave-to in the seventh, when the Flyers verbally protested a first base call. Then in the bottom half of the frame Umpire Schrieder called Shud Ethier out for batting illegally, after the batsman had pumped out a triple, all of which added spice and the old moxie to the pastime as the contesting clubs meet in the fourth, of a best-in-five series, Wednesday night. Green's running catch of Henn's lifter in the fourth was the feature catch for the losess.

LEADING PITCHER

Cecil "Tex" Hughson, pitching ace of the Boston Red Sox, is shown in a pre-game workout at Fenway Park, August 15th "Tex" hung up his 15th victory of the current campaign as he defeated the Washington Senators 2-1 in the first game of a double header. This win was his ninth in a row and gave him leadership in total victories in both leagues, Tex has lost but three decisions this season.

TORONTO LEAFS LOSE TO CHIEFS BY 3-2 COUNT

Leafs Had Tying Run on Third but Lambert Equal to Occasion

NEWARK BLASTED

(By The Associated Press)

Although Syracuse didn't score another of its numerous shut outs, it was tight pitching last night that gave the Chiefs a 3-2 verdict over Toronto Maple Leafs and lifted the club into fourth place in the International League.

Clayton Lambert was on the mound for the winners and he entered the ninth frame with a one-run lead. With only one man out the Leafs pushed the tying run to third base but Lambert protected his edge by forcing Al Rubeling to ground out and then fanning Floyd Yount.

Weather conditions prevented all other schedule contests except the meeting between the cellar-dwelling Rochester Red Wings and the league - leading Newark Bears which the Birds won, 11-4.

Four Newark pitchers were battered for 11 blows and dealt out eight passes to ensure the Rochester triumph. Out in front by a single run at the start of the ninth the Red Wings put together four hits, three walks and a wild pitch for six tallies, all at the expense of Joe Page.

Ira Hutchinson, who pitched seven and a half innings for Rochester, also was generous with passes, walking eight men but staggered to his fourteenth triumph with the aid of Lou Sakas.

Paul Y. Davoud Leads Squad. To Meet Title

With the R.C.A.F. Somewhere in England, Aug. 18—(CP) — Led by their commanding officer, Wing Cmdr. Paul Y. Davoud of Kingston, Ont., who himself scored 10 points, track and field athletes from an R.C.A.F. night fighter squadron swept a meet held for Canadian personnel stationed in the midlands. Fifteen teams took part.

The night fighters more than doubled the score of their nearest rivals from the demon squadron of coastal command. The demons rolled up 23 points to take second place, while a team from a wireless station scored 20 points, all won by Sgt. J. Addison of Victoria who took four firsts. Addison, who ran under the colors of Victoria Y.M.C.A. and represented Canada in the 1934 empire games, won the individual honors by sweeping the sprints.

In second place in the individual contest was FO. Tom Brundage of Toronto, a Davoud man who had the weights events all his own way. Sgt. Pilot Mart Naylor of Vancouver was third.

The meet was organized by the Canadian Y.M.C.A., which presented the silver cup donated to the winning squadron. Flt. Lt. Jim Steel, R.C.A.F. sports officer, assisted the "Y" organizer, Hart Devenney of Ottawa. Steele took time out to win a handicap race for officers. Prizes were presented by Group Capt. A. P. Campbell of Hamilton, Ont.

In the event, throwing rugby ball, Sgt. Larry Deebank, Cornwall, Ont., was first, with Sqdn. Ldr. Lloyd Hession, London, Ont., second.

In the three-mile run, FO. Ralph Pym, Toronto, placed first, with Flt. Lt. E. L. McMillan, Chatham, Ont., second.

YANKS, DODGERS BUILDING FEUD FORWORLDSERIES

Brooklyn Runs Opposition Double Bll Against Yanks on Sunday

CARDS CUT LEAD

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

If New York and Brooklyn Dodgers don't meet in the World Series next fall, they'll waste a grudge that would be worth more at the box office than all the .300 hitters on both clubs.

Born in the post-season classic last October but lost amid the pennant squabbles of the current campaign, the ill-feeling between the crosstown rivals has come out of retirement.

Sudden reappearance can be traced directly to the front offices of both teams, the occupants of which know better than anyone else how many customers a good grudge battle can pull through the gates.

It all came about when the Yankees discovered their army-navy relief doubleheader with Washington Senators at the Stadium Sunday would have the toughest kind of competition at Ebbets Field, where the Dodgers had increased their meeting with New York Giants from a single game to a double bill.

When the Dodgers refused to strike one of their games off the day's calendar, Yankee officials were angered as well as embarrassed. Now the Yankee players, who feel the Dodgers are trying to show up the American League in general and the Yankees in particular in the matter of war relief funds, are recalling the happenings of last October.

Among other things, they remember those close pitches, one of which nearly led to blows between New York's Joe DiMaggio and Brooklyn's Whitlow Wyatt. So the feud is on again, and the fellows who handle the ticket sale hope it stays on until World Series time.

Cards Not Conceding Flag

Regardless of what St. Louis Cardinals think about it, there is more reason to believe that the World Series will be played between the Yanks and the Dodgers than there is to believe it won't.

However, the Cardinals aren't conceding the Dodgers the National League Pennant. With Brooklyn idle yesterday, the Cards sliced the Dodger lead to 7 1-2 games by whipping Cincinnati Reds, 5-2, to sweep a four-game series.

St. Louis broke a 2-2 tie in the seventh with two runs on a double by Marty Marion, a triple by Johnny Hopp and a single by Howard Krist.

In the only other National League game, New York Giants tightened their grip on third place, four games ahead of Cincinnati, by edging out Boston Braves 3-2. Babe Barna broke up the game when he singled with the bases loaded, the score tied and two out in the last of the ninth.

Ruffing Gets Shutout

The runaway Yankees played their last game of the season in Philadelphia, swamping the Athletics, 15-0, as Red Ruffing hurled his fourth shutout of the year and the 42nd of his career. Ruffing, who tops all active pitchers in total shutouts, registered his 11th victory of 1942 and the 255th of all time to tie Ted Lyons of Chicago White Sox for the lead among all present day hurlers in lifetime wins.

The defeat, leaving the A's 35 games behind the Yanks with only 33 left to play, eliminated Philadelphia as a pennant possibility.

St. Louis Browns came from behind twice to beat the Cleveland Indians, 5-2, in a night game, the only other contest on the schedule. John Niggeling pitched seven-hit ball for the Browns, who pulled within a game and a half of the third-place Tribe.

HE SPOILED IT ALL

If it hadn't been for Roger Cramer, shown running to first base, Al Milnar, Cleveland scuthpaw, would have had a no-hit, nine-inning game to his credit. Cramer, the Tigers' outfielder, banged out a hit with two out in the ninth in a game against Cleveland to ruin Milnar's masterpiece. As it was, the Indians couldn't get anything off Tommy Bridges, Detroit hurler, and the score ot the time was 0-0. After 14 innings and the score still 0-0, the game was halted because of a league rule. Leslie Fleming is the Cleveland first sacker, above.

CASUAL COMMENT

by K.J.C.

PERHAPS THE BEST STROKE of luck to befall Skipper Gerald Barriage's Army & Navy Vets. was the day Vern Goyer offered his services to the armed forces of his country and was accepted to give the Vets a military replacement, according to O.A.S.A. regulations. Barriage and company selected elongated Jim Hunter, veteran pitcher who has been to Belleville softball about what Walter Johnson was to the American League for years. A good pitcher unfortunately languishing with a second division club. However, Hunter is coming into his own as a military replacement for the Vets., having pitched and won two games for them in the current City Softball finals against the No. 5 I.T.S. Hunter tossed a six-hitter and won in his first appearance in a Vet. uniform and last night showed some fine pitching to hurl an eight-hitter as the Vets. fielded and hit well behind him to win 7-4. The round now stands at two games for the Vets. and one for the Flyers, in a best-in-five series.

THERE WERE ADDED ATtractions injected into last night's game, with Umpire Bawden giving Eddie Conway the heave-to for too strong language in the seventh. The next thing came, when Umpire Schrieder called Shud Ethier out for illegally hitting a ball, that was good for a triple. In his previous turn at bat the Flyers had protested Ethier's batting stance, contending he was well out of the batter's box when he singled and Schrieder had both eyes focussed on Ethier next time and there was little argument, except naturally from the batter, who lost a triple in the score book. Errors afield were not too frequent, but strangely enough every error committed directly resulted in runs being scored and making it that much tougher on the pitchers. Al Bell, the Flyers good moundsman, weakened momentarily in the fourth and the Vets. capitalized to collect six hits and five runs, sufficient to win the game. Orchids to the two Barriage boys, Jim and Cy, both of whom made sensational defensive plays. Incidentally shortstop Cy has been playing strong defensive ball for the Vets. all through the current play-offs.

THERE'S A BIG, HUSKY-looking guy named Chapman who's doing some right smart pitching for a Piedmont League club these days. He hurled a little in relief, started a game and lost to Portsmouth (the league leaders), 5 to 4, a little while back.

But just last week he really hit his stride. First he shut Charlotte out on four hits, 4 to 0. Then he shut Asheville out, 2 to 0, on six hits.

He's throwing a fast ball with a little hook. And, oh yes, he's smart. But, he'd have to be, because he's manager of the Richmond club, and his first name is Ben. Seems like he spent about 12 years with the Yankees, Senators, Indians and White Sox, but nobody ever thought he was good for anything but stealing bases!

ACCORDING TO THE LATEST information along cauliflower row, Phil Lawson is getting the credit for "Whipper Watson's latest "avalanche hold." However, Watson will need more than Lawson's advice when he meets the winner of the McCready-Singh bout after Wednesday's elimination scrap. That mad Hindu, Nanjo Singh, can always be depended on to create something new in the ring, but against the powerful McCready the Hindu will have to show more than craftiness to beat the popular westerner.

AFTER BEING A POWER OF strength in Western Canada football circles for the past 31 years, during which time they won 16 western grid championships, the once-powerful Regina Roughriders are no more. Last week the Roughriders' executive announced they would be unable to continue owing to the shortage of manpower, the latest loss being Dean Griffing, who for the past six years has been coach and centre for the 'Riders. Griffing left to assume war work in Prince Albert. Since the outbreak of the war the Regina football organization has contributed 41 members to the various branches of Canada's armed services, a record that cannot be matched by any other rugby football club in the Dominion. Incidentally Coach Griffing was originally imported from Kansas City State College as playing coach in 1936 and since the outbreak of war has tried to join all branches of the Canadian services.

REMEMBER WHEN A 15-FOOT putt, that stopped six inches short of the cup, almost cost Sammy Snead, America's golfing gob, $1,000 and the Canadian Open golf championship at Toronto two years ago today? The extra putt left Snead deadlocked with Jug McSpaden, of Winchester, Pa., the defending champion. Snead won the play-off 71-72.

SEE WHERE LUKE SEWELL manager of the St. Louis Browns, recently had himself reinstated as an active player. Sewell broke into the major leagues June 30th, 1921 against Detroit and there isn't a player on either contesting club that day still connected with major league baseball.

LEO DIEGEL, ONE OF GOLFER'S named players, comes up with an idea whereby some real money can be raised by the major baseball league clubs towards the war relief in the United States. Diegel merely suggests the American and National Leagues play a series of interleague games involving all clubs concerned. Diegel's idea is to have the teams of respective position standings meet in a series, aside from the world series. The idea is to continue baseball into October by the scheme that brings together the second placed clubs in each loop in a three-in-five series. At the same time the third, fourth, etc., placed teams would be playing similar series with points given for wins, thus Diegel says the fans could get a more accurate idea of the strength of the respective leagues.

THIS AND THAT — Coach Leo Barrett was most unhappy when he called a practice for his Deacon lassies last night, only three turned up .. "And we have a play-off game with the SWACO Tuesday night," bewailed Skipper Barrett .. In their semi-final series Deacons enjoy a game advantage in a best-in-three series .. Babe Ruth is to return to the Yankee Stadium next Sunday; no, not to play with the Yankees, but to give a batting exhibition for the Army and Navy Relief .. Red Ruffing racked up his 255th major league triumph yesterday as the Yankees pushed the Athletics around to the tune of 15 to 0. .. Joe DiMaggio (he's hittin' again) pumped out a homer and a triple to drive in three runs .. Already 52 colleges in the United States have abandoned football for the duration, while over 60 secondary schools have already been forced to hire grid coaches. .. If old Ted Lyons can pitch four more years in the majors, he may raise his lifetime diamond triumphs to 300. .. Chalk up, pal.

TORONTO JOCKEY FINED IN COURT

Frankie Mann Charged With Creating Disturbance and Intoxication

Aylmer, Que., Aug. 18. (CP) — Frankie Mann, 29-year-old Toronto jockey, was fined $15 and costs or 15 days in jail last night on a charge of creating a disturbance in a public place "by shouting, swearing, or singing or by being drunk".

Mann was arrested Aug. 8 on a vagrancy charge but J. Noel Beauchamp, prosecution counsel, obtained permission last night to amend the charge to that of creating a disturbance.

Police Chief D. Dumoulin of Aylmer testified that he and his son, Constable Robert Dumoulin, of Aylmer testified that he and his son, Constable Robert Dumoulin, found Mann lying "face down on some rocks" on the shore of Lake Deschenes near Aylmer. He said he and his son carried Mann to an automobile parked nearby and took him to the police station.

Mann said he went to the beach with a group of friends after the races at nearby Connaugh Park Aug. 8 and went to sleep on the Beach after a few drinks. He said he awoke to find a flashlight focussed on his face and acknowledged " Iwas in pretty bad shape when I got to the station"'. He said he did not remember doing any shouting or swearing".

The Quebec Racing Association announced last week it had requested an inquiry into Mann's arrest on the ground he had been attacked from behind and forced into an automobile, but there has been no indication since that the inquiry would be held.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

The Wisdom of the Body

We have all marvelled at the wonderful make up of the human body, of how each part helps, and is itself helped by other parts. The fact that so many parts of our body are in pairs, ears, eyes, kidneys, lungs, and others—gives us a feeling of security. Yet, as we realize that we have only one heart, one liver, one pancreas, one thyroid gland, one stomach, one intestine, it makes us wonder.

What about these organs or parts where there is only the one? What provision has Nature, the friendly force behind mankind, made for us should these organs be damaged?

In their Health Bulletin for Teachers, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company says, in part,

In the case of umpaired organs we often find an even greater amount of surplus tissue than in paired organs. The internal juice, insulin, which is manufactured by clusters of cells in the pancreas, is required for the proper use of sugar in the body. Yet, if only one-fifth of the normal pancreas is left, enough insulin is produced to supply the body with the quantity it needs.

The liver is the largest organ in the body and has more different jobs to do than any other organ, yet Dr. Walter B. Cannon, in his book "The Wisdom of the Body", points out that three-fourths of he liver can be lost without causing any serious interference with the important jobs it performs.

The digestive system also has a wide margin of safety. Most of the stomach can be removed without greatly interfering with digestion and nutrition. Some people have lost as many as ten feet of small intestine without serious results, and a large part of the large intestine can be cleared away without danger to life.

It is because there is such a wide margin of safety in our bodies that we live our lives according to an economy of abundance, no thought of any scarcity. This abundance, this wide margin of safety, is really meant for emergencies such as severe illnesses or accidents, whereas many of us use up much of our abundance, much of these reserves, by our everyday careless method of living.

"Thus, the fact that our bodies are constructed on an extravagant scale is no reason for sacrificing our reserves to ambition, carelessness, ignorance, preventable infection", or whatever else that helps to shorten our life span of usefulness.

Thirty-Five Players Report at Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Aug. 18 (CP)—Thirty-five football players, including 16 who performed for the Dominion champions, Winnipeg Blue Bombers in other years reported last night for the first workout of the 1942 campaign.

The Bombers, Dominion champions in 1935 '39 and '41, will play in a three-team city loop this year. Other teams are the Royal Canadian Air Force and the University of Manitoba Varsity.

The City League was organized following announcement that the Western Interprovincial Football Union would not function this season.

Last year Bombers, Regina Roughriders and Vancouver grizzlies formed the W.I.F.U.

Plugs surrounded by rubber washers and inserted with long ramrods have been invented for shutting off the flow of gas in broken mains, even if it has ignited.

Steady Stream Of Supplies Reach 8th Army

By EDWARD E. BOMAR

Cairo's disclosure that American air fighters are ready now to go into action in Egypt in their own squadrons is a hopeful turn in a situation which otherwise is puzzling and discouraging.

The development suggests the arrival of substantial reinforcements and promises further augmentation of Egypt's defenders, in keeping with the crucial importance of North Africa and the entire Middle East.

After months of intensive improvement of the cross-Africa aerial route, it can be hoped that a fast and steady stream of short-range fighter planes as well as bombers can be kept plowing to Egypt under their own power. Definite information on this point naturally is lacking.

Troops, tanks and bulky supplies for the desert struggle still must move by ships on 14,000-mile, U-boat imperilled voyages from the United States or Britain.

Race for Reinforcements

The current Egyptian puzzle is that in the month since Marshal Rommel's army was brought to a halt, General Auchinleck has not seen fit to launch a full-dress attempt to drive the invaders back to the Libyan border and relieve the threat to the Nile.

Discouragement arises from the suspicion that the British Commander decided his 8th Army was unequal to the task, that now Rommel may be gaining in time for reinforcements, and that when the desert front flames into a new crisis it again will be the invaders who take the offensive.

Hopes were high last month that reinforcements had given the British forces a temporary margin of superiority in men and tanks. They appeared to have retained an edge in the air all along.

In United Nations capitals there was a widespread expectation that Auchinleck would momentarily attack in force. But he did not. There was one formidable tank foray of a day and a half, which was reported to have been more costly in tanks to the attackers than to the foe.

This setback, it may be, accounts for a decision to dig in and engage in a race for reinforcements. But in such a race, unfortunately, the odds of geography are heavily weighed in favor of the Axis.

Despite the continuous aerial lambastings of Nazi and Italian convoys and of Bengazi, Matruh and other North African bases, it must be recognized that Rommel's strength is being built up. Convoys of merchantmen from Sicily and Greece have been badly battered by bombs, but fast motor boats and self-propelled barges are able to slip across the Mediterranean by night and in day-time periods of low visibility.

What Auchinleck is receiving, aside from the new American fighter squadrons, is a military secret which Cairo despatches can only hint at. The defenders have one primary advantage in that to a limited degree the middle east fronts are mutually supporting. Some diversions can be risked from Palestine in Syria, and munitions originally destined for India and even Russia may be sidetracked.

Time also permits expansion of American depots to repair and service fighting equipment of all kinds. Malta, replenished at the cost of a British aircraft carrier and cruiser, remains a sharp thorn to the Axis effort, and the British Navy is back in action smashing at the ports of origin of the enemy supply line.

In default of detailed information the Allied publics can only strive to be as hopefully patient over the outlook in Egypt as over the prospects for a second front in Europe.

Little Benny's Note Book

The Jollity Ice Cream man went passed and Mary Watkins was sitting on her front steps eating a Jollity ice cream bar with dainty motions, and me and Puds Simkins and Sid Hunt were sitting there tolking and arguing and showing off, and Mary Watkins said, Oh dear, there goes a big drop of chocklit right on the front of my dress, oh dear where's my hankerchiff, I thought I had a hankerchiff right in this pocket, have any of you boys got a clean hankerchiff?

I've got a hankerchiff, Puds said.

Not saying whether it was clean or not, and he didn't even take it out of his back pocket. Proving it wasn't, and I started to reach for my hankerchiff and stopped half ways on account of remembering what color it was the last time I saw it, and Sid Hunt said, I've got a clean hankerchiff

Well lend it to me quick, oh dear, Mary Watkins said holding out her hand for it, and Sid said, I guess I must of left it home.

Proving his probably wasn't any better than ours, and Mary Watkins said, Oh, here's my hankerchiff, it was in my other pocket, how silly of me.

And she took it out, being all folded up neat and just as clean as laundry, and she started to wipe the stain off, saying, Oh dear how could I of been so careless, if there's anything I hate and dispize, it's a stain.

Probably meaning especially on herself, and I said, My hankerchiff is pretty clean.

So's mine, Puds said, and Sid said, I was just going to lend you mine when it was too late because you found yours, mine's practically all a ways clean.

Mary Watkins not asking us to prove it, making us feel lucky.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Poison Pen"

"A dynamic personality!" That's the way American critics hailed Flora Robson after seeing her outstanding performance in "Fire Over England." As Queen Elizabeth, she unpacked a veritable bag of theatrical tricks that were seldom paralleled in motion picture history.

Now, to prove that her versatility goes beyond the realm of royalty, Miss Robson appears in a role of almost the opposite category. Forsaking her regal robes for the more simplified cotton dresses of the typical middle-class Englishwomen of small, rural towns, the actress portrays the Vicar's sister in Republic's "Poison Pen," a vivid picture that combines the better characteristics of mystery and melodrama.

The film, next attraction at the McCarthy Theatre, opens in what, from all indications, might be considered a Utopia where each inhabitant is gainfully employed, living in the happiness that arises from the fruits of his labor. Suddenly, for no apparent reason, a series of poison pen letters, driving wife against husband and friend against friend, makes its appearance. Overnight, the townsfolk become suspicious of a poor dressmaker who appears to be the guilty correspondent. But, following her suicide, the letters continue! Who, then, is the guilty party?

Popular supporting players in the film include Robert Newton, Belle Chrystall, and Ann Todd. Walter C. Mycroft was in charge of production with Paul L. Stein handling the megaphone.

Excellent Second Hit

Universal's new adventure story of the timberlands, with plenty of thrills and drama in every minute of its screening "Timber" featuring Andy Devine, Leo Carrillo, Dan Dalley, Jr. Marjorie Lord and Edmund MacDonald is the excellent second feature to be presented in addition to "Poison Pen" making a program Belleville Theatregoers will thoroughly enjoy.

AT THE BELLE

"Larceny Inc."

The most delightful type of comedy is one which blends drama with humor, and that is just what Warner Bros. Latest laugh hit, "Larceny Inc.", does. It tells the story of a gangster who finds himself kept so busy in an honest enterprise that he hasn't the time to rob a bank. The star of the film, which makes its local debut today at the Belle Theatre, is Edward G. Robinson, whom no one can surpass in gangster roles whether they be of the "Brother Orchid" or "Little Caesar." type. In the feminine lead, is Robinson's adopted daughter. Vivacious Jane Wyman, who tries her best to see that her father goes straight, and much to his chagrin, she succeeds.

Robinson's partner, both in larceny and honesty, is played by Broderick Crawford. Mr. Crawford, big, burly, afraid of no man (but Robinson) is cast as a fellow who sticks by his friend even when he doubts that "honesty is the best policy." Jack Carson has a role in the picture that is different from any of his previous one. In "Larceny Inc.," he is not the innocuous villain, but a bright, affable leather goods salesman.

Romance and song in New Film

A swanky night club outside New York and a typical theatrical boarding house, provide the principal settings for RKO Radio's song-studded comedy, "Sing Your Worries Away," announced as the companion feature attraction.

Bert Lahr and Buddy Ebsen portray the top roles of a wacky songwriter and a struggling dancer from the country. Their romantic interests are played respectively by Patsy Kelly and Dorothy Lovett, while June Havoc, Sam Levene and Alvino Rey's band featuring the popular King Sisters figure importantly in the gay plot.

UNCERTAIN DESTINY

CHAPTER THREE

Cinderella

"What is Kyle doing? Does he have a good job?"

Linda dropped her eyes to her plate. "He—he isn't working just now"

"Oh?"

"It isn't his fault," Linda defended her sweetheart passionately. "It's just that he's had a streak of bad luck. Everything will be all right as soon as he's on his feet again".

Diane's voice was silkily smooth. "And Linda will be a housewife, with a little cottage and a baby or two, and the Prairievale Sewing Society to occupy her spare time. Won't that be cozy?"

Linda felt her cheeks redden hotly. How dared Diane make it sound so —so cheerless!

"I think it sounds wonderful!" defiantly.

"Of course you do." Diane said smoothly. "Of course. I quite understand".

Linda felt that Diane had not entirely understood the situation, that she could not know how Linda really felt toward Kyle Norman. She was, as always, a trifle uneasy in Diane's presence. Somehow this shrewd and worldly young woman had a way of revealing the truth.

"I've arranged to meet a few of the girls to do some last minute shopping for Betty," Diane was saying. "You know—extra flowers and things. Poor Betty has so much on hand that I promised to help out. Two of the girls are her bridesmaids, and I'm sure you'll like them, Linda".

"You're sure I won't be interfering?" Linda questioned anxiously. "After all, they probably know Sally, and since I'd a stranger—"

Diane smiled, slipping an arm around the shoulder of her timorous friend. "Of course not, honey, I'm sure they'll like you very much."

"I hope so," Linda whispered fervently. "I do hope so". In a sudden burst of confidence, she cried, "I'm so unlike you, Diane, or you, Sally. I never know what to say to people!"

"Then take a tip from me, darling" Diane grinned wickedly. "Act as though you owned the world, and people will think you really do".

The confidence in her voice buoyed Linda as the three of them taxied downtown and listening to the lilting of the others' voices, she busied herself in imaginary conversation with Diane's friends—preparing herself for what Sally might consider exciting, yet which to Linda was an ordeal the ordeal of meeting strangers!

When Linda entered the lobby of a famous midtown hotel with Sally and Diane, they were met by a bevy of smartly-clad friends — Diane's friends, and as they conversed gaily, Linda stood back, nonplussed. She suddenly was aware of her shabbiness, of the dated cut to her coat and the fact that the hat she had believed to be so smart in Prairievale resembled an old mop, compared with these tiny, feathered or befurred chapeaux.

Diane introduced her friends to Linda so rapidly that names whizzed by her ears without apparent connection with these polite strangers. She nodded and smiled confusedly, until a dark-haired, vivacious girl stopped Diane short.

"I'm afraid Diane is making it difficult for you," she said . "I'm Mary Baridon, any any friend of Mary's is a friend of yours, so come along with me and I'll see that you get acquainted with the others.

It was as easy as that. Throughout the morning and early afternoon, while the girls hastened to and fro in an orgy of shopping, Linda staying close beside her new friend, and through her she became acquainted with the others.

She learned that Mary Baridon lived in Chicago. Her father raised thoroughbred horses and Mary rode them in society horse shows. She became acquainted with a tall blond beauty wearing a mink coat. The girl's name was Brenda Jordon, and she was, Mary explained to Linda, to be married the following month to a wealthy Chicago manufacturer. Brenda eyed Linda closely, and said in a tone that implied she was none too interested. "So you're Betty Allison's cousin. Did you go to school together?"

"Oh, no," Linda admitted readily. "I've seen Betty only a few times in my life. You see, I didn't go to college."

Linda had been quite honest, but now she could see Brenda's shoulders shrug as though she was thinking, "I'm afraid you're hardly the type of person to interest me."

"You see," Linda went on because, suddenly, she wanted these newly-made friends to understand her position, "I never had the advantages you girls have. I was raised in a small town and my father wasn't able to send me away to school. I've been a stenographer for a firm of architects for nearly three years." She stopped, embarrassed by her torrent of words.

"Don't be a doormat, darling," Diane said suddenly, because the girls were eyeing one another nervously, and the silence seemed to grow noticeable. "Girls, she's a swell kid, and, after all, money isn't everything—"

"And don't feel badly because you have to work," Mary Baridon said with spirit. "Diane works and certainly the Baridons couldn't be any more hard up — you can ask Brenda if that isn't true, and—" she paused, to look directly at Brenda, "— and even she works."

At this remark everyone laughed uproariously, with the exception of the person referred to, and the look she flung Mary was venomous.

"I—I don't understand," Linda whispered in the girl's ear, and Mary laughed unconcernedly.

"Brenda works very hard at gold digging, I'm afraid," she confessed. "She was practically engaged to my brother Steven, who's poor but honest, when Jerry Coleman came into her life. He can't hold a candle to Steve for looks and brains, but he has millions." Mary shrugged. "That's about all there is to it. Jerry was sunk as soon as Brenda pounced on him."

"Then she really doesn't love him. She's marrying him for his money?" Linda was shocked. "I could never do anything like that. Never!"

"Brenda's father was wealthy at one time," Mary answered, "and although he lost all his money in the crash, Brenda never got over her delusions of grandeur. I suppose that accounts for her determination to marry millions, no matter what the cost."

"You mean—she still loves your brother?"

"Who knows? Steve adored her. She was his first and only sweetheart and we took it for granted they would marry one day. The shock of her decision to marry Jerry nearly broke Steve's heart, but Brenda emerged from the battle unscathed. Above everything else, Brenda loves Brenda best of all."

The conversation drifted around to the wedding that would take place that evening and Linda listened enviously as Betty's wedding presents were described in glowing detail. Of the bride herself, Linda could learn nothing save that she was ecstatically happy — that her husband-to-be was "simply lousy rich," as Diane expressed it flippantly, and that the couple would live in New York following their wedding cruise.

"Don't these girls ever think of anything but good looking men and having lots of money?" Linda asked the artist.

Diane shrugged. "That's the price we pay for living in this mad, mad social whirl." Her tone was heavy with sarcasm.

They were still lingering over the late luncheon when Diane exclaimed, stricken: "Good Heavens! It's nearly three o'clock and I'm having guests in for cocktails at five. Come along, Linda, and you, too, Sally. Girls, you're all invited. Remember I'm having men."

Someone said, "Men! Oh, Goody," and there was hand-clapping and cheering, before Linda was borne away.

Bathed and refreshed, she sat cozily in Diane's bedroom, listening to the patter of conversation between the others, happily she thought, "I wouldn't have missed being here for the world." Never had Prairievale seemed so far away. Only the pretty, softly-lighted room, the rise and fall of voices, the scents of powders and lotions around her were important. Linda seemed to be dwelling in an exciting world of make-believe from which she would never awaken.

She glanced up, suddenly, to see Diane's blond head emerging from the depths of a diaphanous slip and heard her saying:

"I'm wearing blue chiffon velvet, Sally. How about you?"

Sally held forth a formal frock of turquoise-colored taffeta. "My latest acquisition," she grinned. "A going-away present from Hugh."

Linda stared at them, disbelieving. "Is—is this a formal wedding?" she whispered.

Diane's face mirrored her surprise. "Why, yes, honey. Didn't you know?"

Pride kept Linda from confessing that never in her life had she possessed a dinner gown. Instead, she said with an attempt at levity, "Just my luck not to have a single evening gown along, isn't it? I'll stay home and you two girls bring me a big slice of Betty's wedding cake."

She turned away to blink back hot tears of disappointment. How could fate have dealt her such a humiliating blow!

Diane and Sally exchanged glances and then the artist said, gaily, "We'll do no such thing, Linda. You mustn't miss the fun on your first night out in the big city."

"But I've nothing to wear," Linda murmured miserably. "In my excitement over coming, I didn't stop to think how important this wedding would be."

"Then leave everything to your Aunty Dinah," she was counseled. "I think I have just the medicine your case requires."

While Linda watched, puzzled, Diane opened her wardrobe door and withdrew a dress that made Linda draw her breath in sharply. It was white and shining, with a voluminous tulle skirt.

"Here," Diane thrust it into the other girl's arms. "Wear this, Linda. You're just the type."

"Oh, Diane! I couldn't think of such a thing!"

"And why not? It's too ethereal for me. I bought it one day in a fit of weakness but I never expected to wear it, and you're just my size. Let's just say it's my present to you—a wedding present, you might call it."

"I couldn't think of accepting it like that," Linda insisted. "I'll be very glad to pay for it." Inwardly she wondered how she could ever afford such a gown, knowing as she did Diane's extravagant tastes.

"You'll do no such thing." Diane was indignant. "Stop being noble, darling, and let's see how you look dressed up."

The "dream of a dress" as Sally called it, fitted Linda perfectly, and, breathless with pleasure, the latter stared at her reflection in the mirror. The tightly fitted, strapless bodice of the gown was composed entirely of the tiny sequins that glittered with her every movement, and a ballerina skirt of misty tulle over silver cloth billowed and swirled around her ankles.

"It's worth the price I paid for it," Diane said admiringly, "just to see you wearing it."

"Now sit down before the dressing table." Sally ordered happily, "and we'll do your hair. It's far too plain for such a glamorous dress."

Seated before the mirror, her eyes tightly closed in compliance with Sally's stern demand, Linda allowed the girls to re-arrange her shining, coppery curls, to pin a fragrant gardenia atop her head. Diane touched the girl's lashes with mascara, brushed glistening eye-shadow softly over her lids. Then the two conspirators stood back in satisfaction.

"Now, you may look," Sally said.

Gingerly, Linda walked to the full-length mirror and paused transfixed. This was the realization of her dream—a transformation from "plain" Linda Phillips to a glamorous, and exciting stranger.

"Can this be me?" she wondered "with a flower in my hair and painted eyes?"

"I don't know what to say," she confessed aloud, "except that it must be magic. I feel like Linda Phillips, I talk like Linda Phillips, but I must be someone else."

She spun around in Diane's silver slippers that were a tiny bit snug, and her laughter was merry, like the tinkle of silver bells. "I know who I am," she cried. "My name is Cinderella, and you—" she clasped hands with Sally and Diane—"are my fairy godmothers!"

Sally laughed delightedly, and returned the eager pressure of her fingers, but Diane's face was sober, her manner grave.

"It isn't magic at all, Linda," she said. "This is the real you. The Linda Phillips of Prairieville will never exist after tonight. She'll waken to her own possibilities."

"You mean that a kiss from the handsome prince will waken her?" Linda challenged happily.

"A kiss from the handsome prince?" Diane mused. "Perhaps you're right, darling. Perhaps that's the answer, after all!"

MONKEY-BUSINESS.

Chicago, Aug. 18 —(AP)— Ollie Smile frowned as he telephoned police that all door knobs, locks and hinges and towel racks vanished just as his workmen were preparing to instal them in the house he was building. Police suggester Smile's six workmen take a lie-detector test. Two had passed successfully when the detector broke down. Then the hardware arrived in the mail. Police, checking the return address, found only a cemetery.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from J. S. McKeown or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results your druggist will gladly return your money.

WALL STREET

New York, Aug. 18 (AP) — Rails and air transports continued to pilot the stock market toward higher levels today although progress mostly was confined to fractions.

Investment demand remained as a bolstering influence and some further bidding was attributed to apparent American successes in the battle of the Solomons and signs of a little more resistance by the Russians in the Caucasus. The Churchill-Stalin conferences were viewed as encouraging marketwise.

In the Canadian section International Nickel and Canadian Pacific were gainers, Nickel up ¼ and C.P.R. ⅛. Hiram Walker and Dome Mines were unchanged. Distillers Seagram was off ⅛. Canadian bonds were quiet.

Stocks edging into new high territory for the year included Atlantic Coast Line, Erie Certificates, U.S. Leather "A", National Distillers, U.S. Rubber, Greyhound Corp., United Air Lines, Pan American Airways, Transcontinental and Western Air, Northwestern Air Lines and Lehigh Valley Coal Pfd. Among laggards were American Crystal Sugar, Seaboard Oil, Sears Roebuck, U.S. Gypsum and Westinghouse.

Premier King To Broadcast Wednesday Night

Will Speak on Additional Measures Being Taken to Ensure Services of All the People

SPEAKS AT 9 P.M.

Ottawa, Aug. 18—(CP) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King will speak to the nation by radio Wednesday night at 9 p.m E.D.T. "on the additional measures being taken to ensure the efficient use of the services of all the people of Canada for the winning of the war," his office announced today.

The Prime Minister will speak over the National Network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Mr. King was originally expected to broadcast last week but the talk was postponed.

For some time it has been anticipated that drastic changes in the National Selective Service are in prospect. Recently newspaper publishers came to Ottawa for an in camera conference with cabinet Ministers and Elliott M. Little, Selective Service Director.

There have been strong indications that the changes will be put into effect before September.

It is understood that the new regulations are likely to be announced by Mr. Little around Aug. 25.

Resounding Blows In Solomons May Relieve Pressure

Chungking, Aug. 18—(AP)—The resounding blows of United States forces in the Solomon Islands, which are attracting widespread attention and stimulating hope here, soon will relieve Japanese pressure in China, a government spokesman said today at a press conference.

"This epoch-making battle is sure to have important repercussions here," the spokesman said. "By drawing substantial portions of Japan's naval, land and air forces into mid-Pacific, the Japanese inevitably will be forced to revise their campaign on the continent."

Axis Supply Vessel Sunk by British Subs

London, Aug. 18 (CP)—The Admiralty announced today a large Axis supply vessel had been sunk in the Mediterranean by a British submarine while two supply ships were "considered sunk" also by submarines off the coast of Norway.

These announcements were part of recent successes of British undersea craft.

The statement said one of two Italian cruisers hit by torpedoes during last week's convoy battle in the Mediterranean had 60 feet of her bow missing.

MACHINE GUN AND 'NO.4' RIFLE PRODUCTION UP

Cost of Bren M. G. Has Been Reduced to $192 in First Quarter of 1942

SPEED-UP IN OTHERS

Ottawa, Aug. 18—(CP)—For the second successive day, Munitions Minister Howe today reported progress in Canadian small arms production, in a statement saying the Bren light machine gun and the "No. 4" rifle were produced in record volume during the past three months.

These weapons are described as "two of Canada's most important small arms."

Mr. Howe said Bren gun production during the second quarter of the year was almost one-third of the total output of these guns up to June 30. Cost of this weapon has been reduced from $390 in the first quarter of 1941 to $192 in the first quarter of this year. The Canadian-built gun is in use on all battlefronts.

"For every four No. 4 rifles turned out in June, an extra one was turned out in July," said Mr. Howe. "The present rate of production is twice what it was in April."

The No. 4 rifle is equipped with a new, short-style bayonet and simplified back sight. The magazine holds a charge of five rounds and 15 aimed shots can be fired in a minute by trained personnel. Some of these rifles, especially selected for accuracy, are equipped with telescopic sights for snipers.

Yesterday Mr. Howe announced that Canada has begun production of a "new and improved" rapid-fire tank machine fun, the Browning .30 calibre, and said there has been a speed-up in monthly output of the Browning aircraft machine gun.

ROUEN BOMBED

"The Germans seemed to pull away and appeared leery about attacking us," said Maj. Paul Tibbet, 28, of Miami, Fla., co-pilot of the "butcher shop."

Gen. Baker warned that one successful flight did not prove a heavy daylight attack would always work, but he said "the raid went exactly according to plan and we are well satisfied with the day's work."

Smooth Sailing

Some British aviation writers had expressed doubt of the Flying Fortresses' ability to execute a successful daylight raid over the continent.

"It was smooth sailing all the way," said 2nd. Lieut. Richard Stark of Midway, Ky., pilot of "Johnny Reb."

Rouen is the communications hub for northwestern France, being an important inland port of the Seine and the railway link between Le Havre and Paris. It was there that Joan of Arc died at the stake in 1431.

A British Flight Lieutenant, who flew one of the escorting fighters and watched the bombing, said "dust, smoke and all sorts of debris came up into the air and it looked as though the bombing had been very good."

SOLID TOEHOLDS

Its only figure was at least 36 Japanese planes destroyed, 18 of them seaplanes demolished before they could get into action and fully as many more land planes knocked out in the vain attempt to stem the marines' rush ashore from the transports.

Lasted One Night

(The navy previously announced that one United States cruiser was sunk and that two cruisers, two destroyers and one transport were damaged. The new information, that the close-quarter sea battle lasted but one night and ended in the enemy fleet's failure to reach its quarry, however, evidently exposed as false the Tokyo claims of some 40 United Nations' ships sunk or damaged.)

Allied airmen, meanwhile, scoured the Japanese-held harbors in the South Sea Islands close enough to the Solomons to reinforce their imperilled garrisons.

A communique said that Allied planes on offensive reconnaissance bombed shipping in the port of Kavieny, on the island of New Ireland, but that the results were unobserved. New Ireland is northwest of the Solomons in another link of the island chain at the top of the Coral Sea.

Bombers Raid Timor

Medium bombers also raided Timor for the third attack in as many days on that island far to the west where scattered Netherlands-Australian forces are said to be continuing a guerilla resistance against the Japanese.

For the first time since Aug. 1, however, enemy raiders struck back forcibly at Port Moresby, in southern New Guinea, causing casualties and damage to installations.

In the only land action besides that in the Solomons, the Japanese inched ahead in the Kokoda area of New Guinea, 60 miles east of Port Moresby, but a spokesman said the advance was not significant.

The second phase of the battle of the Solomons apparently was the mop-up of Japan's battered shore and sea forces.

While the navy communique indicated the Marines' job now was to track down whatever enemy forces remain in the islands, a New Zealand press association correspondent reported a fleet "of great strength" harrying the Japanese surface forces in the surrounding seas.

Vice-Admiral L. Ghormley, he said, probably has split his fleet into a striking force to stand guard over the troops ashore and a reserve force fanned out to prevent interference.

Losses Not Above Expectations

Much of the reserve strength already has been in action, this correspondent reported, and "so far there is no indication that Allied losses exceed expectations or have seriously reduced the strength of the offensive."

A summary issued by the Allied Air Command for the Darwin area said today that since the Japanese first attacked Darwin Feb. 19 they had sent against the target a total of 308 heavy bombers, 54 dive-bombers and 160 fighters.

The Allies, it said, shot down 30 bombers and 33 fighters and probably shot down 12 other bombers and 15 fighters.

It was estimated the Japanese dropped a total of 700,000 pounds of bombs, causing a few service casualties and damaging most of the houses and shacks left unoccupied when civilians moved out.

Allied bombers in the Darwin area raided enemy occupied territory 53 times since the first Japanese attack on Darwin. Losses were given as six bombers and 17 fighters.

number of passengers, including Brazilian troop units on the 4,801-ton Baependy. In addition to the Baependy, the ships lost were the 1,905-ton Annibal Benevelo, the 4,872-ton Araraquara, the 1,075-ton Arara and the 2,169-ton Itagiba.

Large Crowds Gather

Large crowds gathered at the offices of the Lloyd Brasiliero Navigation Lines to learn the fate of relatives on the ships.

(In Montevideo, President Alfredo Baldomir of Uruguay sent a message of sympathy to President Getulio Vargas of Brazil in which he condemned the "spirit of evil ferocity against South America" from a country "which seems devoted to being consecrated as the enemy of mankind.")

A Brazilian announcement said the Baependy was carrying an army unit "with reduced number of forces," but added that "rumors dispersed about high military losses have not the slightest foundation."

Population Remains Calm

(The announcement apparently referred to the first word on the sinking, quoting the Brazilian embassy at Montevideo as announcing the loss of the Baependy with 700 or 800 troops.)

"Our country within its traditions does not flinch before such brutality and the government is examining methods to take in the face of these events," the Brazilian Department of Press and Propaganda Sia Din a statement.

"The population should remain calm and confident in the assurance that crimes practised against the lives and goods of Brazilians will not go unpunished.

The attacks occurred between Bahia and the State of Sergipe a few miles off the coast south of the eastern bulge of Brazil.

The sinking brought to eighteen the number of Brazilian ships sunk by Axis marauders. The attacks began after Brazil broke relations with the Axis Jan. 29, 1942. The government already has taken stern reprisal measures and ordered partial confiscation of Axis property in Brazil.

Honored Murdered Dutch

The Germans killed their first five hostages in occupied Holland outside Rotterdam in reprisal for the wrecking of a train carrying Nazi soldiers to the coast last Friday. The Dutch legation is shown in Washington with its flag at half mast in honor of the five slain.

Star Sells Stamps

Gloria Swanson, motion picture star of another day whose screen allure was the talk of the continent, took time off from her stage appearance at Toronto to boost the sale of War Savings Stamps. Great crowds gathered at the Stamps Booth of a department store when she joined with Miss Canada to get more "fighting money" for Canada's armed forces.

Walwyn, himself wearing the D.S.O. With Commander Prentice in the cabin of the famous Canadian corvette are Mrs. Prentice, Heather and James Douglas, Jr. Commander Prentice is a native of Victoria, B.C., who turned to ranching after having served for 20 years in the Royal Navy, and then entered the R.C.N. at the outbreak of present hostilities.

CHIEF OF STAFF RETURNS HOME

Lt.-Gen. Kenneth Stuart Pleased With Condition of Canadian Army

Ottawa, Aug. 18 —(CP)— Impressed by the increasing confidence of Canada's Army Overseas, Lt.-Gen. Kenneth Stuart, Chief of the General Staff, is back in Canada after a trip to Britain which included talks with ranking British and Canadian Military Leaders.

Gen. Stuart stepped out of a Trans-Canada Air Lines plane which brought him here from Montreal last night and almost his first words were in praise of Canada's fighting men overseas.

"I am very pleased with the condition of the Canadian army overseas," he said in an interview after he landed at nearby Uplands Airport with Col. L. M. Chesley, Director of Staff Duties, who accompanied him to Britain by air a fortnight ago.

The he told how he had noticed a change in the Canadian army since he had seen it a year ago.

"They have been through the most difficult and trying forms of training," he said. "They have taken the training in their stride and their confidence has increased accordingly. This confidence and the knowledge that they are fit for what may lie ahead of them is expressed in their appearance."

Gen. Stuart, who made a tour of Canadian army units while in the United Kingdom, had a word for the Canadian people.

"May I say to the Canadian people and in particular to those who have dear ones overseas," he said, "that what I saw of the appearance, bearing and behavior of all ranks of the Canadian army overseas, both on duty and off duty, made me appreciate my privilege of wearing the same uniform and made me very proud of being a Canadian."

Seek Solution Of Man's Death

Detroit, Aug. 18. (CP)—Prosecutor William E. Dowling today sought the solution to the mysterious death of John Duval Dodge, 43-year-old son of the late multi-millionaire automobile manufacturer, from new witnesses produced by police in an all-night roundup.

Dowling was to add their statements to those of more than a score of persons, already questioned, who saw Dodge during the 48 hours preceding his collapse in a police station last Wednesday of a hemorrhage which an autopsy indicated was the result of a 10-inch skull fracture.

More than 40 persons are under subpoena to appear at a coroner's inquest Thursday morning. At least eight are men under detention in the precinct station where Dodge collapsed after refusing to explain his presence in a home later shown to be that of a friend.

Police Inspector John Whitman said the only injury Dodge was known to have suffered was when he threw himself backward and struck his head on the concrete floor of the Precinct Station.

Yesterday's roundup of miscellaneous witnesses begin while funeral services for Dodge were being conducted in an undertaker's chapel. Only close relatives and about 150 friends were admitted.

Russian Paper Praises Talk

Moscow, Aug. 18 (AP) — Russian publications suggested today that the United Nations carry the war to Germany "with all their power and energy" and devoted front pages to the Kremlin conversations of Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin.

Photographs portrayed the British and Russian war leaders beaming at each other—Stalin in his usual khaki tunic and Churchill wearing a blue flying suit.

The government newspaper Izvestia italicized the phrase "with all their power and energy" from the communique concerning the talks and asserted this peak effort was awaited by the great public masses of Britain and the United States.

Izvestia asserted that Hitler "already has laid bare other vulnerable parts of his front in Europe in order to obtain success on the Soviet-German front."

Canadians Accompanied by American Rangers, British Special Service Troops And Some Fighting French—Tanks Used For First Time in Commando Raids

RAID IS CONTINUING

(By ALAN RANDAL)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 19 —(CP)— Canadian troops landed in France early today with tanks and heavy weapons, and more than nine hours later they and their British, American and Fighting French Allies still were waging ferocious battle with the Germans around Dieppe in the greatest commando assault of the war.

Overhead the Royal Canadian Air Force, the R.A.F. and the United States Army Air Force maintained a constant thick umbrella of bombing and fighting planes against bitter German aerial opposition. British observers state 1,000 Allied planes were participating.

From dawn on through late afternoon the constant shuddering roar of heavy explosions denoting the battle's continuance shook buildings on the English side of the channel.

The Canadians were not identified but a Combined Operations Headquarters communique said the force consisted mainly of Canadian troops. They were accompanied by American Rangers, British Special Service Troops and some Fighting French.

One Third Canadians

The Canadian Press learned that Canadian troops comprise the main body of the landing forces, constituting about one-third of the total personnel taking part.

The raid, by virtue of its larger scope, was seen as marking an important forward step in a planned program of offensive action.

No matter what the result, an operation of this size is sure to provide invaluable experience in the employment of substantial forces and the transport and use of heavy equipment.

For the Fighting French it was their first landing on French soil since they were evacuated to Britain after the fall of France in 1940. The American Rangers are a picked outfit from the United States army forces in Britain, named after a Colonial American fighting unit which won fame in the French and Indian wars.

The landing was made at several selected points in the early hours of today and heavy fighting is proceeding.

The Canadians, who recently participated in the greatest attack manoeuvres ever held, took tanks with them against Dieppe.

There was strict secrecy surrounding the raid and it was not until some hours after it was announced fighting was in progress against heavy opposition that it was made known that Canadian forces made up the bulk of the attack.

First Since Spitsbergen

This was the first opportunity since the Canadians participated in the famous Spitsbergen raid that they had had to carry out an attack for which they had been especially trained.

That they had learned their tasks well was shown by the combined operations reported that one landing party was initially repulsed but managed to carry the beach by assault.

R.C.A.F. units co-operated in forming umbrella protection for the Canadians as they landed and fought against a stiff defence force. It is understood that Canadian air units participating included army co-operation planes and fighters which roared across the channel in an unending stream all day.

Especially on the left flank of the Canadian attack was heavy opposition encountered while tanks were landed in the centre and troops on the right flank achieved their objective.

The right flank force knocked out a six-gun battery, destroyed an ammunition dump and then re-embarked, combined operations headquarters said in a noon communique while the fighting continued.

The Canadians had been waiting for just such a chance as the Dieppe raid since they began training with the Commandos headed by Vice-Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, who watched their most recent attack training.

Only Known to Authorities

The fact Canadian soldiers were participating in the raid was known only to the highest Canadian army authorities but more than one soldier noted the absence of Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian Army Commander, from the Canadian forces track and field championships Saturday, at

CANADA'S ARMY REINFORCED BY NEW ARRIVALS

Support Formations For Armored Troops And Other Units Included in Convoy

LARGE CONTINGENT

By DOUGLAS AMARON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Somewhere in England, Aug. 19—(CP Cable)— The attacking power of the Canadian army has been strengthened with the arrival in Britain of support formations for armored troops already in the country, while the first member of the Canadian Women's Army Corps the first naval nurses and the first members of a Social Service Corps now are at work.

Artillery and other auxiliary units of the armored forces, bolstered by small regimental and headquarters formations, already are established at camps at the Canadian army area in southern England where they will be joined later by the main body of their force.

The newly-arrived soldiers—who numbered in the thousands—were accompanied by Allied forces trained in Canada—including Belgian soldiers and merchant seamen and soldiers of the Netherlands army.

To Serve as Staff Officer

The convoy which brought the soldiers carried Maj. Alice Sorby of Winnipeg, first member of the C.W.A.C. to reach Britain. She will serve as a staff officer at Canadian military headquarters.

Small, blond, 38—and looking 10 years younger—the major wowed Fleet Street in a press conference at the ministry of information. It was her first overseas assignment and she was a soldier every fraction of the 51¾ inches that show on her medical card.

She said her husband, Lieut. Walter Sorby, an artillery instructor, had talked to her on the telephone for the first time since February, 1941, and "I'm pretty sure that when we meet we won't worry much whether we salute each other."

Hepburn Says Restrictions on Beer And Liquor Sales Help Bootleggers

Toronto, Aug. 19 (CP)—Premier Hepburn said today the Ontario government will bring in any restrictions on the sale of liquor and beer "which will be effective but we will not do anything deliberate to drive the business into the hands of the bootlegger."

The Premier was commenting on the action of the Saskatchewan government in introducing restrictions of the hours of sale, non-delivery of liquor and banning of special and banquet permits.

Mr. Hepburn said the Ontario Liquor Control Board does not deliver liquor and banquet and special permits are rarely given and are practically non-existent.

"If we make the laws more restrictive", Mr. Hepburn continued, "it will drive the business into the hands of the bootlegger. We have found that from our own experience. We don't create the traffic. It is created by the public and it is our duty to regulate it as best we can."

He continued: "As soon as the people of Ontario of their own volition decide to stop drinking there will be no distilleries, wineries and breweries. I have long counselled them to be more temperate in their drinking habits."

Full Employment Seen As Central Theme Of Postwar Reconstruction

Calgary, Aug. 19—(CP) — Full and secure employment for every man and woman who desires it must be the central theme of post-war reconstruction policies in Canada, Dr. F. Cyril James, principal of McGill University, today told the Dominion Association of Chartered Accountants in annual convention here.

"That is not a new idea, but I think its modern concept transcends the definition which was current before 1939," said Dr. James, who is chairman of the Dominion Committee on Reconstruction.

"We are not only concerned with providing employment in order that a man and his family may eat; we must find opportunities for employment which engage man's spiritual energy, which develop an esprit de corps, which encourage each individual to put forth his best efforts because he realizes that the work which he is doing is itself a contribution to the creation of a better society."

Dr. James said there were three main sections of reconstruction policy, which he defined as:

1. Policies dealing with that group of problems which is wholly within the powers of the Canadian people.

2. That group of policies in which the problems transcend national frontiers.

3. Policies in regard to that overriding group of problems which are international, in the sense that solution can only be attained by the co-operation of several of the leading governments of the world.

Program of Projects

He suggested a program of publicly financed construction projects, such as the careful preparation of plans for housing schemes that involve new buildings and slum clearances and construction of dams and water power projects.

"We must adapt our own policies fairly closely to those of the United States and also keep in mind clearly the British policies and the developments in Central Europe," he declared.

Dr. James said, as in the case of industrial rehabilitation, the effective solution of agricultural problems depends in large part upon the thinking and action of agricultural groups and individual farmers.

Referring to the post-war monetary policy, he said while the gold standard had broken down "in building a new structure we are going to find that gold itself is the most useful balance weight that we can find for international payments."

He said a probable development in regard to international capital movements will be a kind of international lease-lend on a peace-time basis whereby a country like Canada will supply goods to countries like Russia or China free of charge to build up a prosperous economy in the receiving country in the expectation there will be growing demand for Canadian manufactured goods.

ARMY SHAKEUP PUTS SPOTLIGHT ON MIDDLE EAST

Possibility North Africa May Become United Nations' Second Front

CHANGE COMMANDERS

London, Aug. 19 (CP)—The infusion of new brains and new blood on Britain's Middle Eastern front, coupled with the close attention Prime Minister Churchill gave it on his way to Moscow, stamped that battle theatre in many British minds today as a zone of impending major action.

North Africa has immense strategic potentialities. It might become the United Nations' second front. With only a thin 80 miles separating his armies from Alexandria, on the other hand, Hitler scarcely could neglect that arm of his vast Middle Eastern pincer if his goal is to master the Trans-Caucasus by winter.

Britons, therefore, weighed these sudden developments with some optimism and some anxiety:-

1. Mr. Churchill's stop-over in Egypt en route to his talks with Stalin, during which he inspected the front at such close hand he came within earshot of the enemy and met virtually the whole "who's who" of the United Nations leadership in North Africa;

2. The announcement, swiftly following his visit, that Gen. Sir Harold Alexander had been called to command in the Middle East in place of Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck. Sir Harold, "the last man out of Dunkirk," headed the 1st British division in France and was visited by Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton and his staff soon after the first Canadian division reached Britain in 1939.

3. The arrival in Egypt of new United States contingents, including ground staffs for the American army air forces whose medium and heavy bombers already are in action and whose fighter planes have completed their last desert training.

What Happens to Auchinleck?

Although in Gen. Alexander Britain has picked an advocate of attack and surprise to match wits with the Axis' wily Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, some of the misgivings arose over the fact that Britain once again had switched Middle East commanders.

"The process of selection by trial and error already has proved far too costly," commented the Daily Mail.

One unanswered question was whether Gen. Auchinleck had resigned, or was being given another post. No new assignment was an-

U. S. PILOT SINKS AXIS SUB OFF BRAZIL'S COAST

Biggest South American Republic Near to the "Gates of War"

DEMONSTRATIONS SEEN

Rio de Janeiro, Aug. 19—(AP)— All Brazilian soldiers on leave were recalled urgently to duty today and the navy forbade furloughs for regular reserves as this nation at the "gates of war" hastened steps to meet the threat of Axis submarines that recently sank five Brazilian coastal ships.

One of the submarines lurking off these coasts was destroyed by a United States plane, a Brazilian official announced.

It was learned authoritatively that two submarines had been located at widely separated positions in the Western Atlantic and that one was of large size.

Meanwhile a merchant marine spokesman said all Brazilian coastal waters were clear of shipping and that 13 ships which were in the submarine zone had reached ports safely.

First official word of the sinking came from Cmdr. Ernani A.R. Amaral Peixoto, federal liaison officer in the state of Rio de Janeiro, who told a crowd gathered before the presidential palace that one of the undersea raiders had been destroyed

Government press department and other accounts in Brazilian newspapers gave this version of the attack:

The submarine was sighted 50 miles off Brazil's coast by a United States plane piloted by Capt. Jack Lacey. The plane dived, machine-gunning the submarine and forcing it to the surface with bombs, when it attempted to submerge.

Damaged in First Attack

The Diario Carioca, quoting authorized sources, said the submarine apparently was damaged in this first attack. The plane dived again, this time finishing the submarine with direct bomb hits.

Radio reports purportedly from British Guiana were heard here saying R.A.F. planes, based on that British South American territory, attacked a second submarine off the northeast coast of South America yesterday, and sighted a third.

These developments came as renewed anti-Axis demonstrations flared in the streets of principal cities throughout the country Brazil's could not yet be foretold.

FLENSBURG, NAZI U-BOAT BUILDING CENTRE, ATTACKED

R.C.A.F. Bombers Participate in Raid On City Almost At Danish Border

FOUR PLANES MISSING

London, Aug. 19 (CP)—Flensburg, the Nazi submarine and shipbuilding centre almost at the Danish border, was the chief target of R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bombers Tuesday night, their second night in a row over Northern Germany, the Air Ministry announced today

A communique said four of the raiders were missing.

The weight of the attack was not disclosed immediately. Aircraft of one Canadian squadron participated.

A few German bombers were over England during the night. The Ministry of Home Security said bombs dropped in East Anglia caused some damage and slight casualties.

Berlin is broadcasts said Germany also was attacked from the east, where Russian planes were said to have bombed parts of east and west Prussia.

They named Norwich as a target of German raiders over England during the night.

One enemy raider was downed off the English east coast this morning.

Major Air Activity

Folkestone (CP)—Air activity on a major scale swirled over the English Channel this afternoon as British commandos slashed at German ground defences in the Dieppe region across the channel. Large formations of planes swept across the channel in the direction of Dieppe as the distant roll of gunfire continued.

Dozens of fighters flying just above the sea thundered toward northern France shortly after 11 a.m. and about an hour later another formation of fighters roared over the waves. They were lost to view in mid-channel still heading for Dieppe.

Other formations of planes were heard operating at a great height over the channel some going out, others returning.

Visibility improved after noon as a freshening wind blew away the mist. The weather was fine.

Seek 2 Escaped Nazi Prisoners of War

Wallaceburg, Ont., Aug. 19 (CP)—Provincial, town and Royal Canadian Mounted Police today searched here for two German prisoner of war who escaped from a Northern Ontario Internment camp. The men were reported seen in the town and immediate rural district early this morning.

They were said to answer closely descriptions of two men who escaped from an internment camp Saturday. Two young women from Port Lambton, Ont., on the St. Clair River, gave the men a ride to Wallaceburg and there the men tried to obtain a ride to Windsor from Ernest Irwin of Wallaceburg.

Strong German Reserves Poured Into Don Bend

Progress Made by Enemy, Reaching But Not Crossing Don At Bend

HEAVY CASUALTIES

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Moscow, Aug. 19 (AP)—The Germans poured strong reserves today into the Don Bend and Caucasus battles from the south of Voronezh to the high plains of Pyatigorsk and the bolstered onslaught presaged a full-scale drive against Stalingrad and along the Baku rail line to the shores of the Caspian.

The Russians were fighting back fiercely. A communique said the Nazi gains since May 15 had cost 1,250,000 casualties—twice those of Russia—and that Hitler was draining western Europe for the new fighting men required in the East.

The Russians fell back in the Don Bend where their counter-offensive appeared spent and gave ground in the region of Pyatigorsk, 170 miles southeast of the destroyed and abandoned Malkop oil field.

Resistance Stiffens

(In London a British source whom it was not permitted to identify by name said the Germans had made some progress toward Stalingrad, reaching but not crossing the Don River at the Bend He declared, however, that Russian resistance had stiffened in the Caucasus, slowing German progress considerably.)

The Nazi drive down the Rostov-Baku rail line across the Caucasus had as its next apparent objective beyond Pyatigorsk and Mineralyne Vody the rail junction town of Georgievsk, only a few miles beyond the Nazi spearheads.

Grozny, heart of the Grozny oilfield, lies 130 miles southeast along the railway, and the Caspian is 100 miles beyond Grozny.

In the Northwestern Caucasus the Russians reported repulsing German attacks in the Krasnodar area sixty miles east of the Port of Novorossisk.

300 Slain by Sabres

While the Germans "succeeded in somewhat pressing back our troops" in the Pyatigorsk sector, Cossacks cut down 300 of them with sabres in a surprise raid, the Soviet information bureau announced at mid-day.

While the Germans gained in a Don bend sector, three vain attacks were cited in which they lost four tanks and more than 300 men. More than 180 German automatic rifle men were reported slain on the approaches to a village.

Southwest of Stalingrad, Red army patrols were active overnight and one was credited with the destruction of seven Nazi supply trucks, a searchlight installation and two anti-aircraft guns behind the German lines.

Bryansk Front Active

Fighting flamed again on the Bryansk front southwest of Moscow. The information bureau said a Soviet artillery battery repulsed eight attacks, wiped out a river crossing and killed at least 500 Germans.

Midnight reports indicated a resurgence of Nazi effort along both arms of a pincer groping toward Stalingrad and the Volga, while the Red army counter-attacked in the Krasnodar sector and stood off assaults in the Pyatigorsk area of the Caucasus.

10,000 Axis Troops in Prisoners Alone Lost by Rommel in Last 2 Months

Cairo, Aug. 19. (AP)—A farewell message to the British 8th Army from Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck today announced that in the last two months in Egypt Field Marshal Erwin Rommel has lost 10,000 Axis troops in prisoners alone.

"In the last two weeks", the retiring Middle East commander told his forces, "You have stopped the enemy and forced him on the defensive".

The Egyptian battlefront remained quiet today as Gen. Sir Harold Alexander took up his new job as Britain's Middle East commander and as newly-arrived United States troops bolstered the Allied reserves for the next phase of the fight.

The first communique since the announcement that Gen. Alexander had succeeded Gen. Auchinleck reported only "little air activity" yesterday and minor patrol actions Monday night.

(Reuters reported in a Cairo dispatch that the new American force was the "biggest contingent so far".)

"Special Service Troops" Form Commando Units

London, Aug. 19—(CP)—When the public talks about "Commandos" it is speaking of "Special Service Troops," whether it knows it or not.

The men who made the daring raids on Lofoten, Vaagso, St. Nazaire—and today Dieppe—are "Special Service Troops." And any one of these dawn-dynamiters, says Combined Operations Command, is a "Special Service Trooper."

An individual cannot be a Commando, though he may be a member of one, for Commando is the formation or unit in which he serves. The word originated in the Boer War, applied to small mobile Boer formations operating behind British lines.

Prime Minister Churchill, a Boer War correspondent, first applied the word to British formations. His comparison of Special Service Troops with Commandos caught the fancy of the public and the press.

Just for the record, Combined Operations says the plural is spelled without the "e" — Commandos.

The so-called Super - Commandos being trained at Helena, Montana, are the "1st Special Service Force," a joint Canadian-U.S. unit.

Planes Collide In Mid-Air, 6 Airmen Killed

Hamilton, Aug 19 — (CP) — A twin-engined bombing plane and a single-engine aircraft from No. 1 Bombing and Gunnery School, Jarvis, collided in mid-air near the school bombing range in Lake Erie yesterday afternoon and plummeted downward, carrying an officer and five airmen to instant death. One of the planes crashed into the lake and another crashed on land.

According to officials at the station, four of the bodies have been recovered, but two more are being sought in the lake. The aircraft which crashed into the water will be raised this afternoon. Death of the three occupants in each of the planes was said to have been instantaneous.

The crash occurred in the vicinity of Evans Point, in the Dunnville district, and not far from the Jarvis school's bombing range in Lake Erie.

The names of the victims are being withheld until next-of-kin have been notified.

Raising of the plane from the waters of the lake would be a difficult operation, it was reported, but it was expected that the job could be completed this afternoon.

Belleville Boy Included in Party Of Newsmen Arriving in Britain

First Section of Party of 12 Canadian Writers Arrive Safely

London, Aug. 19—(CP Cable)—The first section of fa party of twelve Canadian writers representing news services, daily and weekly newspapers, farm and business papers and magazine groups arrived in Britain today.

They are in the United Kingdom to report on operations and work of the Canadian armed forces and civilians overseas. They are travelling as guests of the Canadian Government, on joint invitation of the three Ministers of National Defence and War Services Minister Thorson.

Those who arrived today are Charles Bruce, general news editor, The Canadian Press, Toronto; Percy Cole, Monetary Times, Toronto; Herve Major, Montreal La Presse; Maj. Bert Wemp, Toronto Telegram; H. Napier Moore, Maclean's Magazine, Toronto; G. H. Sallans, British United Press, Montreal; and J. R. H. Sutherland, New Glasgow (N.S.) News.

It is expected the party will spend from four to six weeks in Britain.

Percy Cole, Editor of Monetary Times, Formerly Reported on Papers Here

Percy T. Cole, former Belleville newspaperman and son of Mrs. Cole and the late George F. Cole, of this city, is included in the party of Canadian newsmen who have arrived in Great Britain by bomber on an inspection tour of the Canadian Armed Forces.

The group of newsmen were chosen by the Canadian Press to make the trip to get first-hand stories from Canadian soldiers in England. Mr. Cole is at present editor of the Monetary Times, Toronto.

"Perce" Cole, as he is well known in Belleville, started his newspaper career in this city with the Belleville Intelligencer and transferred to The Ontario Intelligencer when the two papers merged in 1930. Later he left to join the editorial staff of The Toronto Telegram as aviation editor, a position he filled until 1941, when he became editor of The Monetary Times and associate editor of Commercial Aviation Magazine.

While with The Toronto Telegram he was detailed by his newspaper on many stories of importance across Canada. In 1936 he was the first newspaperman outside of Halifax to reach Moose River Mine, covering the story for his paper throughout. He was the first newspaperman to fly from Bermuda to Toronto via commercial airlines within a one day period and was one of several aviation editors to make the first flight across Canada in 1939 via Trans-Canada Air Lines.

Interest in aviation was gained by "Perce" while in Belleville after having his first flight with the late Arthur Leavens off the ice on the Bay of Quinte in 1927. Since then he has done considerable flying in the north and with the Air Force.

Stories of the Canadian newsmen in England will, in all probability, appear in future Canadian Press releases.

Two Farmers Fined For Misuse of Cream Cans

Two Peel county farmers were found guilty by Magistrate F. C. McDonald, of Brampton last week on charges under the War Measures Act. Both farmers had been found guilty of using creamery-owned cans to ship cream to other than the owners of the cans, of withholding creamery cans from the owners, and of placing a foreign substance in the cream cans.

The evidence showed that Mr. Norman MacLeod, a farmer living near Snelgrove had seven cans belonging to six creameries, in addition to those required for his regular shipments of cream. He had at no time ever shipped cream to any of these.

Mr. Arthur Ford of R.R. No. 3 Caledon, had cans belonging to Teeswater, Orangeville, Streetsville and Mount Forest creameries, and at no time had ever sold cream to any of these. Water was found in two cans on this farm.

These were two test cases of an order issued last March under the War Measures Act, to safeguard the supplies of tin and steel. In previous years many cans were put to improper uses on the farms, and creameries were required to buy thousands of cans each year to replace them. Now, no new cans are available, so it was necessary to compel all holders of creamery cans to return them to the owners. Unless each creamery uses only its own cans it is practically impossible to trace the cans and prevent losses.

Creameries co-operated, and for a couple of months this spring and summer held cream can exchanges at many points throughout Ontario. Today any farmer who has a can not belonging to the creamery where he sells his cream, can hand the empty can in at any creamery, or place it on any creamery truck, and it will be delivered to the owners.

Under the War Measures Act, as it stands it is now an offence for any farmer to do any of the following, with respect to creamery-owned cream cans:

(a) To hold, and fail to promptly return to the owner any can not currently being used to transport cream to the owner of such can.

(b) To use any such can to transport cream to any other than the owner of the can.

(c) To put anything except milk or cream into such can. (If gasoline or oil is placed in the can it is useless until it has been retinned, and this is considered a serious offence. Even water standing in a cream can soon ruins the tinning, and rust develops, making it unfit for use without re-tinning.)

TWO BOYS LOCATED IN EAST AFTER LONG RIDE ON BICYCLE

Following an extensive search of Eastern Ontario two 'teen-aged Belleville boys, who had left home early Sunday, were finally located late Tuesday when one of the lads notified his parents of his whereabouts at Carleton Place.

The two boys, Roger Cornell, 290½ Albert St., and Jimmy Kennedy, 299 Albert St., left their homes early Sunday morning on Kennedy's bicycle. The lads apparently rode two-on-a-bicycle to Tweed and then proceeded on Highway No. 7 to Carleton Place, arriving Tuesday. Young Cornell became weary and telephoned his parents telling of his whereabouts, returning home by way of Kingston and the hitch-hiking route. Young Kennedy continued on his bicycle to Ottawa, where police informed him it would be advisable to return home today.

Milk Shortage In Kimgston Purely Local

The shortage of milk for city consumption reported recently in Kingston appears to be a purely local matter with the Belleville area not so affected, it was reported by Belleville city dairy proprietors this morning. All dairies contacted by the Ontario Intelligencer reported they were receiving all the milk they could handle, with no shortage in sight.

The Kingston Milk Producers' Association have recently endeavored to secure an added 4,000 pounds of milk daily to supply city dairies and creameries. Shortage of gasoline and farm labor, together with the high prices being paid for milk designed for processing into cheese and other products is the cause of the reported milk shortage in the Kingston area, it is claimed.

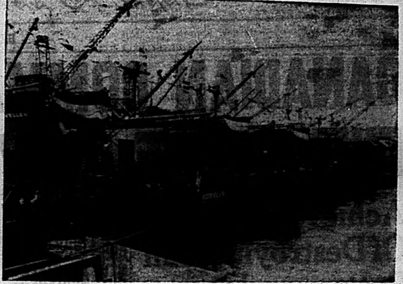
Ships For England In Record Launching



Pictured lined up are five new 10,000-ton freighters which were built for the British ministry of transport and launched at the Todd-Bath Iron Shipbuilding corporation in South Portland, Maine. The ships are (LEFT to RIGHT): Ocean Traveller, Ocean Stranger, Ocean Wayfarer, Ocean Gallant, and Ocean Seaman. These five ships, two destroyers and one Liberty ship of 10,500 tons were launched in South Portland and Bath in what is hailed as a record day of ship launchings. The British cargo ships were built in a sunken basin in a horizontal position and when ready for launching water was let into the basin until its level reached that of the bay at which point the vessels are fully afloat.

Magistrate Garvin Discusses Traffic Situation

"We will average 3,000 cases of violations of city traffic regulations in Kingston this year. That is to say, minor infractions of failing to stop at designated stop street signs, beating the traffic signal lights, overtime parking, etc.," was the view Magistrate J. B. Garvin, of Kingston expressed yesterday after he had presided over the Belleville Police Court on Tuesday.

"We find in the Kingston area that the majority of speeding cases outside the city are on country roads, rather than the main provincial highways. There have been increased convictions of speeding, under the War Measures Act, recorded in the Kingston Police Court this year, but the majority of such cases have come from the suburbs and county road sections," added the Magistrate in discussion with Acting Chief Arthur Harman.

"Police in that district inform me that motorists, who used to travel at above the 60-mile-and-hour rate, have dropped down to 50 miles an hour, but they are still in violation of the Federal 40-mile-an-hour regulation. However, while driving from Kingston to Belleville on Tuesday morning along highway No. 2 there wasn't a single motor vehicle passed me, which would substantiate the police theory that the majority of the excessive speed driving is done on our country roads,' suggested His Worship.

Magistrate Garvin presided in Belleville in an exchange with Magistrate J. L. Lloyd on Tuesday.

AUCHINLECK RELIEVED OF COMMAND

London, Aug. 19—(CP)—Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, who commanded the British forces in the Burma campaign, last night was appointed Commander-in-Chief in the Middle East.

He succeeds Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck.

The British War Office announcement made no mention of any new assignment for Gen. Auchinleck, who was in command when the Allied armies retreated from Libya almost to the gates of Alexandria under Axis attack.

Shannoville Airman One of Crew Of Plane Which Blew Up Armament Ship In Attack on Bengasi

In a letter written in Britain where he spent his leave after service in the Middle East, Wireless Operator Carman Stewart Spencer whose home is at Shannonville, tells an interesting story of his experiences. When he came to Scotland on a Sunday he says, "I tried to buy a big dinner and here I am four days later trying to buy it. However, outside the shortage of food one can have a very good time over here or at least a better time than can be had in Egypt or Palestine where the prices are high and one needs about a hundred dollars for a week's leave.

His Visit to Malta

"Some time ago I flew from England to Egypt and stopped off for two weeks at Malta to the tune of heavy bombs that seemed to be falling like rain and as a matter of fact there have been more bombs falling at Malta than rain. The spirit of the people at this island fortress is absolutely magnificent.

"When the Germans came over I was hitting on all eight cylinders for the nearest air raid shelter and the poor Maltese so upset by my sudden turn of speed could do nothing but stand and gaze in wonderment at the human thunderbolt as he went whizzing by. Some of the Maltese live in natural underground caves and therefore a bombing raid means nothing more than a lot of noise and a beautiful sight as the light ack-ack attempts to find the intruders.

"When I left Malta I flew to Egypt where I joined my squadron and started to operate against various targets such as Bengasi, where I did a number of trips, Crete, Salamis in Greece, Corinth Canal in Greece, Tripoli, Bardia, the Island of Rhodes, and various other targets.

Blow up Armament Ship

"The most successful operation we did occurred at an opportune time. On this occasion there were only... aircraft detailed. In one there was a BBC radio broadcaster and in another a New York Herald Tribune correspondent. We were by ourselves.

"When we approached the target at Bengasi at about 8000 feet we found the searchlights on and aircraft on them so we went stooging over the target which was the harbor installations and shipping in Bengasi harbor.

"We saw a nice-looking ship moored along one of the cement moles and turned out to make a run over the ship. When we turned around to come in again we found another aircraft caught in the searchlights, so we came in unmolested. The navigator cries out, his notice and we started our straight and level approach for the target. "Left, left" shouts the navigator and to the left we go and then he shouts "steady" and at the last minute he decides on a last minute correction and says very quietly "right" and a slight deviation to the right and he says "steady". Now the ack-ack is getting very close and the captain says "Are the bombs gone?" and nothing is heard from the navigator. All at once I hear over the inter-comm., "I've hit it, I've hit it," and sure enough a terrific explosion lights up the sky and the aircraft actually shakes at 8000 feet. As I am standing next to the captain I have a bird's-eye view and can see the debris flying throughout the sky and we decided that it must have been an armament ship we had hit and sure enough it was and when we returned we were very proud of ourselves and about a day later we heard the broadcast over the radio I saw a copy of the dispatch to the New York Herald Tribune in the Egyptian Gazette. For this raid our captain was awarded the Distinguished Flying Medal which he richly deserved as he was a wonderful pilot. In our crew there were six of us, two pilots, one navigator, wireless operator (myself) and a front and rear gunner. There were two other Canadians into the crew besides myself. One hailed from Deseronto and the other from Ottawa. They formed the gun pair in our crew and were very good to say the least.

"Throughout our operations we always had the same crew and fortunately we were all N.C.O.'s and therefore had a very good time together."

(Carman S. Spencer was formerly correspondent for the Ontario Intelligencer at Shannonville).

which time he presumably was making last-minute arrangements for the embarkation of his troops.

It seemed unlikely that the Canadian Army Commander was along on the raid, however, as he conferred with Maj. C. G. Power, Canadian Air Minister, on Monday and it now is known that the Canadian Commandos started off on the raid before that date.

The Canadians already had suffered more than one disappointment when all was set for a raid on the continent and at the last minute the plans were called off.

Took Tanks to Sea

Now, it is indicated, they have had the leading role in the biggest raid of the war on the French coast, for which the recent combined operations manoeuvres of the Canucks can be taken as having been a dress rehearsal. In that scheme as in this operation the Canadians took tanks to sea with them.

Announcement that the attack met with stiff opposition means, that for the first time Canadian land forces have been in action with the enemy. Canadians who reached France just before Dunkirk in 1940 were ordered back.

The BBC, from the early morning on, continued warnings to the French populace, emphasizing the "limited and temporary" character of the action adding that it had nothing to do with the military decision taken at Moscow recently."

Information on R.C.A.F. participation was sketchy. It is known that "large" forces of Canadian airmen are taking part but it is not the first time that Canadian airmen have done such a job—they flew as protection on the Vaagso and Bruneval raids.

Canadian Airmen Busy

While fighting is still continuing on the French coast, it is known that Canadians flying fighter planes already have caused damage among the Nazi air opposition, scoring one plane damaged and one probable.

At the same time, in connection with the Dieppe attack, it is known that other Canadian air squadrons were forming a screen of high-level bombing operations.

In the meantime it is believed that Maj. Power, now in Britain inspecting the R.C.A.F., is getting a first-hand picture of the operations connected with the commando raid. He spent the day at bomber command headquarters with Air Marshal Sir Arthur Harris and Capt. Harold Balfour, Under-Secretary of State at the British Air Ministry.

Many Planes Involved

Observers on the British south coast said there were more aircraft than ever before seen and heard over the channel, as bombers and fighters shuttled across to assault or reload, indicating the size of the present operation, it was recalled on at least one previous occasion 1,000 fighters participated in a sweep across the channel.

The raid, first announced at 6.45 a.m., (1.45 a.m., E.D.T.), was still continuing at noon when a supplementary communique was issued.

After that, as the mists burned away and a fine, fair day developed, persons on the English coast still could hear the heartening sounds of offensive battle.

Informed quarters cautioned, however, that for all the broad participation of troops, tanks, naval guns and planes, the raiding forces would be withdrawn when they had achieved their objectives. This was not a second front.

Their objectives obviously were extensive, since it was the first time landing parties have used tanks.

The objectives appeared to be these: to test the enemy's defence organization and to test the Allied plans for landing and the air force's ability to cover a big landing force.

Additionally, it was bound to disclose disposition of German troops and equipment in the cross-channel area that once was a vacation resort but now is a nest of Nazi fortifications.

Dieppe, only 100 miles northwest of Paris, is regarded by observers as one of the points along the 700 miles of German-occupied coastline from Holland to Brest where a landing might be made in the opening of a second front.

Berlin Version of Raid

Berlin, (From German Broadcasts), Aug. 19—(AP)—DNB reported today that British Commando forces launched an attack on a broad front with tanks and heavy air support in the region of Dieppe on the French channel coast early today and claimed hundreds of the attacking Commandos have been killed.

The attack was "on a larger scale than previous landings and exceeds the usual proportions of so-called British Commando operations," the Germans said.

DNB claimed that several transport ships were sunk or set afire before they reached the coast.

A Nazi counter-attack for "the final mopping-up of the landing force is in progress," the Nazi news agency said.

The attack was aimed at the town and harbor of Dieppe and developed on both sides of the town, it reported.

The broadcast several hours after the start of the raid said "whether there are still British troops in the town or harbor of Dieppe or whether they now are only on both sides of the town along the coast could not be ascertained here at this moment."

Strong air and naval forces backed up the British attack which was carried out with the aid of tanks, DNB said.

Large Crowd Enjoys Carnival

With the blare of a trumpet band leading carnival-goers to Victoria Park, the second night of the Rotary Carnival saw increased crowds seeking pleasure and amusement amid the din and the roar of the Queen City amusements at the park.

Again ideal weather conditions favored all concerned and the evening's frivolity commenced when the trumpet band from the Mountain View R.C.A.F. base paraded Front Street, from the upper bridge to Victoria Park, as an added attraction to help the Rotarians in their humanitarian work among the crippled children of the district. Blaring martial music from the bugles, trumpets and drums, the Mountain View band was viewed by a large gallery of citizens along the Front Street thoroughfare during their parade, later joining the trek to the park.

The conventional carnival entertainment with merry-go-rounds, ferris wheels and games of chance and skill all blended together in a perfect "Luna Park" atmosphere and increased crowds milled the park in what appeared to be perfect entertainment for both old and young. Most popular in the rides concessions is the "Bullet," which gives all potential fares something new in the line of thrills mid-air while other rides add to the diversion expected at such an entertainment in the out-of-doors atmosphere of the summer night. All for fun and fun for all is the motto of the annual Rotary Carnival that is attracting increased crowds each night of performance.

Last evening the Mountain View trumpet band paraded in conjunction with the Rotary Carnival, while tonight the No. 5 Initial Training School band and a detachment of airmen from that station will parade in the downtown area commencing at eight o'clock. On Thursday the crack Trenton R.C.A.F. band will parade while on Friday night Belleville's own Municipal Band will similarly assist the Rotarians.

PRIME MINISTER SPEAKS TONIGHT

May Sketch New Blueprints for Manpower Treatment in Address

Ottawa, Aug. 19 —(CP)— Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who outlined Canada's selective program in a House of Commons address last March, may sketch new blueprints for manpower treatment in a radio address tonight.

The Prime Minister goes on the air over the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's National Network starting at 9 p.m. E.D.T. and his half-hour speech is expected to contain the whys and wherefors of impending changes in the selective service program.

In his first important address since he spoke on the conscription-enabling bill July 7, Mr. King is expected to reveal some of the important decisions which the government is known to be planning for guiding more and more men and women into war industry and the armed forces.

The Prime Minister's office announced yesterday that the address will deal with "additional measures being taken to ensure the efficient use of the services of all the people of Canada for the winning of the war." The wording suggested plainly enough that the broadcast will deal almost exclusively with manpower.

The expectation here is that Mr. King will lay stress on the reasons for the proposed new policies, leaving a detailed announcement to the men responsible for formulating them. It has been previously reported that the new regulations will be formally announced by Elliott M. Little, Director of National Selective Service, possibly next Tuesday.

One suggestion already advanced is that the recruiting policies of the armed forces may be co-ordinated more closely with Mr. Little's department, which up to now has been concerned chiefly with labor supply.

368 BRITONS KILED

London, Aug. 15 —(CP)—Civilian air raid casualties totalling 368 killed and 803 injured seriously in Britain during July were announced yesterday by the Ministry of Home Security. The dead included 40 children and 160 women.

nounced for him and the War Office offered no comment. Some unofficial sources, however, said it is unlikely that a man of his standing and experience would be sent into retirement.

Silence concerning the replaced Middle East commander might mean that Britain is keeping enemy guessing. Gen. Auchinleck commanded the forces which took Narvik from the Germans in 1940 but when the Nazis invaded France soon after his arrival in Norway he was ordered back to defend Britain. He later succeeded Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell in North Africa and the latest Nazi drive, stalled now at El Alamein, was stopped after he had taken personal direction of the 8th Army in the field.

Met Many Leaders

Among the leaders Mr. Churchill and Gen. Sir Alan Francis Brooke, Chief of the Imperial General Staff, met in "important discussions," an announcement from Cairo disclosed last night, were: Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts, Prime Minister of South Africa; Maj.-Gen. Russell Maxwell, United States commander in the Middle East; Gen. Charles De Gaulle and Gen. Georges Catroux of the Fighting French; and King Farouk and Prime Minister Nahas Pasha of Egypt.

CANADA'S ARMY

The troops who included ordnance forces, a field ambulance unit, anti-aircraft artillery, Royal Canadian artillery, signals, engineering and postal forces, have spent the last few days unloading their personal luggage and looking forward to their debarkation leave.

After that leave they will start the intensive training that Canadians have undergone since the first contingent arrived just before Christmas in 1939.

With the ground forces came hundreds of members of the R.C.A.F., many of them ground crew technicians and some new pilots to strengthen the growing striking arm of Canada's birdmen.

With the troops came 24 members of a civil arm, The Canadian Children's Service. With them were teachers and social workers who will help handle the problem of Britain's war orphans and evacuees.

An East Coast Canadian Port, Aug. 19 (CP) Machinists, mechanics and skilled tradesmen of all kinds from many parts of Canada sailed for Britain recently in a large group of reinforcement of ordnance troops. Arrival of the troops in Britain was announced last night.

Easterners predominated in the ordnance men, and Maritimers were especially plentiful. Nearly all had been skilled in their respective trades before the war, and others were trained in the army's workshops.

U. S. PILOT SINKS

Meanwhile, a naval spokesman said an Axis surface raider prowling the South Atlantic had been sighted near the Brazilian Island of Trindale, 1,000 miles off the coast several days ago.

Throughout the country Brazilians called upon the government to avenge the affront to Brazil's honor and the apparent loss of several hundred lives, including those of women and children, in the recent wave of ship losses.

Lt.-Col. Joao Pinto Pacca, speakin gfor War Minister Gen. Eurico Gaspar Dutra, told one crowd here the country is at the "Gates of War" and the army is "ready to obey the order of the chiefs who direct this nation".

Demonstrations Mount

Demonstrations against the Axis mounted so dangerously that the police here ordered all bars and cafes closed at 9 p.m. daily and advised residents to be in their homes by 10 p.m.

Announcements showed only 185 persons known to be saved of the 836 listed as being aboard the five vessels which were sunk. There was a report, however, that several lifeboats with survivors had landed on an isolated beach.

Both President Getulio Vargas and Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha violently denounced Axis "piracy" and gave hints that strong measures would be adopted.

"I can assure Brazilians that, forced by the brutality of aggression, we will offer a reaction which will serve as an example to peoples who seek to destroy contemporary civilization," Aranha said.

Papers Call For Revenge

Newspapers echoed the popular cry for revenge. Radio stations scrapped light programs for martial music and almost continuous news announcements. Rio de Janeiro's three gay casinos closed last night in memory of the dead.

Roundups of Axis fifth columnists received new impetus. In the city of Juiz De Fora, about 100 alleged Axis sympathizers were arrested.

The German and Italian ambassadors and some other Axis diplomats still were in the city, two days after their exchange ship had been scheduled to sail. The sailing was cancelled, apparently because of the U-boat attacks.

The new Chilean ambassador to Brazil told a crowd that "Chile stands in solidarity with Brazil and condemns the barbarous aggression Brazil has suffered." Chile and Argentina are the only two American countries still maintaining relations with the Axis.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT CRUISER AND DESTROYER LOST

Four British Ships Were Sunk in Recent Convoy Operations in Mediterranean

LOSS OF LIFE SMALL

London, Aug. 19—(CP)— Malta has received vital supplies, brought by a convoy which made a hectic voyage under heavy attack to the Mediterranean stronghold at a cost of four British warships, the admiralty announced today.

The anti-aircraft cruiser Cairo and the destroyer Foresight were sunk, in addition to the aircraft carrier Eagle and the cruiser Manchester, loss of which had been announced previously.

Swarms of Axis aircraft and many submarines attacked the convoy in a battle which started east of Gilbraltar on Aug. 11 and continued through Aug. 13.

Punishment Inflicted High

While British losses were considerable, the punishment inflicted on the enemy was high, the admiralty said. It was announced that 66 enemy aircraft are known to have been destroyed and that it is extremely probable many others were lost.

There also were some losses of Merchantmen in the convoy, but on this point the admiralty said a large proportion of the convoy reached Malta.

The communique said the Admiralty would not divulge the number of ships in the convoy or the number of ships which arrived at Malta because "the extent of reinforcement which has been received by the fortress of Malta is obviously information of considerable importance to the enemy."

The Cairo, completed in 1919, was an old 4,200-ton cruiser which had been re-armed in 1939 for anti-aircraft duty. She carried a normal crew of 400 men.

The foresight, completed in 1935, was a 1,350-ton destroyer capable of better than 36 knots.

The Admiralty said it was natural that in such a hazardous operation "some losses were suffered in the convoy."

The fact that the loss of life and damage was not greater was due to the gallantry of the air crews and the seamanship of the sailors, the communique added.

66 Axis Planes Destroyed

The communique said that at least 66 Axis aircraft were certainly destroyed during the fight over the convoy.

Eight British aircraft were lost, but four of the pilots were saved.

Elk Herd Wanders From Reserve

Living near a crown game preserve has its disadvantages according to farmers in the Apsley district in Peterborough County, who claim their gardens, mangels, and turnips are being "blitzed" by the "cute little Elk'" living in a nearby protected area.

"Sure", farmers claim, "there are boundary signs at the edge of the park but the elk just ignore them completely and forage where they wish". Apparently the picking is better in the neighboring farmers' gardens and oat patches than in the preserve.

One man, Albert Johnston, this year had a nice patch of turnips and one night heard the elk nearing his farm. He promptly hoofed it out to the patch and chased them away just as the elk made a start at their midnight lunch. Finally seeing no more of the elk, he went back to the house, but the next morning the turnip patch was completely cleaned out.

Such carryings on by the elk disrupt the farmers' plans for the next winter as they eat the turnips and oats being grown for their cattle the following winter. When their crops are cleaned out in this manner it upsets their whole calculations.' It is reported affected farmers have had just about enough and are threatening to get their hounds and rifles out to see if they can get action.

Wooden Canteen At Plant Burns

Montreal, Aug. 19 —(CP)— Fire today destroyed a wooden canteen at a new war plant under construction in the north-eastern part of Montreal.

Damage was estimated at 5,000. Firemen worked two hours before bringing under control flames which were threatening six other wooden buildings nearby. Origin of the blaze was not determined.

RACE FOR LIFE

Wrapped in blankets, five-year-old Joy Ann Blood, believed to have an obstruction lodged in her lung, is being placed in a plane by her father, Gerald Blood, Remson, N.Y., at LaGuardia Field. The girl was rushed from Syracuse to Philadelphia by plane so that Dr. Chevalier Jackson, noted specialist at Temple University, could attempt to remove the obstruction. Dr. Jackson recently removed a peanut key from the throat of four-year-old Sharon Bell, daughter of a Vancouver, B. C. policeman.

THE WAR TODAY

By GLENN BABB

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Canadian and other Allied Commandos were giving Hitler this morning a foretaste of "The Day of Liberation".

Lord Louis Mountbatten's tough young men reminding the Fuehrer that while leaders of the Allies have been plotting the outlines of their grand strategy in the East, fixing the lines at which his surge toward Asia is to be held, the preparations for the eventual offensive in the West have gone forward with a grim, fierce determination that the Nazi defenders of the Dieppe Beaches now know at first hand.

Today's obviously is the greatest of all the Commando raids, larger in scope and of longer duration than its four predecessors which have harried the invasion coast. The Canadians, Britons, Americans and fighting French swarmed ashore with tanks and other fighting equipment heretofore unused in such operations.

The Dieppe raid, therefore, takes on the aspect of a full dress rehearsal which may be followed soon by the real thing, the opening of a Second Front, using all the weapons that will be used on that day—the umbrella of air support overhead, the heavy fighting ships offshore laying down a barrage, the special landing barges disgorging their steel-clad fighting machines on the beaches that once formed one of Europe's gayest playgrounds.

The German radio's description of the raid stresses its scope and boldness of conception. This may betray genuine alarm, may reflect the mounting anxiety with which the Germans doubtless watch their western barricades while trying desperately to finish the war in the East before the blow falls elsewhere. Or it may be merely a build-up for a story of an alleged failure to be broadcast after the Commandos have returned across the Channel. It would be naive to assume that the enemy betrays his real feelings over the air waves.

Whatever the outcome of this adventure, it emphasizes again the steady development on a unified, worldwide plan of action to which the United Nations are beginning to fit their conduct of the war. Especially is the pattern of the war against the European end of the Axis becoming more definite. The United Nations still have nothing to match the singleness of direction which Hitler's general staff gives to the campaigns in Russia and Africa and the defensive dispositions in Western Europe. But Winston Churchill's journeys reveal that something that ultimately may match the unity that Hitler imposes on his own people and his satellites is in the making. The Prime Minister, in Washington in June, London in July, Cairo and Moscow in August, has made himself into the most distinguished liaison officer in history, binding together the purposes of the world's greatest powers, helping stiffen the resolve of Russia at one extremity, helping assure at the other that the growing might of the Allies will be brought to bear in the battlefields where it will be most effective.

An Appeal to Women and Girls

This year more than ever Canada needs all the foodstuffs that can be produced and canned. There is a bumper crop of fruits and all kinds of vegetables throughout the country and all that is needed is sufficient help to harvest this and process a large part of it. In other years there has not been too much trouble getting labor to do this work but now when nearly every available person is employed in war work there is a real shortage of labor and other sources must be canvassed to secure help that is required. Our canning plants must not be allowed to remain idle through lack of workers.

Today, the Ontario Agricultural Minister, Honorable P. M. Dewan, is appealing for around 4,000 workers during the next few weeks in the canning industry. He, particularly, appeals to the thousands of girls and women who live in the vicinity of the canning factories who have never been inside a factory or who do not have to work for economic reasons to lend a hand as a patriotic effort in the processing of needed vegetables and fruit. The period of work is expected to last from four to eight weeks commencing immediately.

This is a good opportunity for those who cannot otherwise assist actively in the war effort to do their bit and to respond in good numbers when the call is made by district canneries.

British vs Nazi Nerves

At different times we read of how well the British people stood the severe bombing that Hitler instituted to bring Britain to her knees. Some authorities thought that illnesses of all kinds would develop not the least of which would be an increase in neurotic sicknesses.

A study of this was made by Dr. Aubrey Lewis, clinical director of Maudsley Hospital, writing in the British scientific journal, The Lancet.

He found that where, in the more heavily bombed areas of London and other cities, neurotic reactions followed intense bombing, the patients readily responded to rest and a mild sedative. He says that hysteria was rare and that the most common unbalance seemed to be caused by anxiety over the disruption of homes. Besides this there was no increase in alcoholism or insanity. There was, also, no neuroticism among fire-fighters and other defence workers.

In direct comparison to this we read in dispatches from a German medical journal that "bomb-shelter nerves" had become quite prevalent in Germany, with increased nervous tension apparent throughout the nation.

The author states that the use of sedatives and sleeping drugs in the Reich has reached "unbearable" proportions constituting as great a danger to the population as alcoholism. He blames the British raids for lack of care provided for workers by their employers.

We can infer from these reports that British nerves are better than the Nazis in standing the strain of bombings. If the Allies can keep up their bombings on the scale that they were begun some time ago we can expect there will be a resulting decrease in morale and marked drop in production of war production from this factor alone.

American correspondents who have written that they could observe little change in the German people from the effects of bombing were speaking from their observations made before the British embarked on their new policy. We hope the Allies will keep it up and not care too much where their bombs drop except that they will be placed in the areas where they will do the most good.

"Perce" Cole

The many friends of Percy Cole, former newspaper man from here, will be glad to know of his safe arrival in Britain. It is a distinct honor to be chosen to go on a journey of this kind. We think that it is a trip of a life-time and one of those rare opportunities that come along to those who are prepared and have made good in their field of endeavor. It is interesting to note that the Monetary Times of which "Perce" is editor has just issued their Jubilee issue consisting of 140 pages of matter relating to the business of development of Canada for the past 75 years along with the regular weekly features.

THINGS TO SEND THAT SOLDIER BOY
(By One of Them)

Flashlights are useful these days. Include an extra bulb and some batteries.

Small metal mirrors are handy. Remember to choose things small and compact, because we have so little room to keep them in the barracks, and we often like to carry them along on manoeuvres.

Special shaving soaps, razors, and lotions are perfect, because then we can start out the day with the thoughts of home close to us.

Drop in a little pocket comb, some shoelaces (brown), a bar of soap, a package of cough drops, a calendar, a deck of cards, something for chapped lips, some stamped envelopes, pencils, a tin of aspirins, a colored wash cloth, ointment for cuts and bruises.

Those are the things a soldier always used at home, and will continue to use in the Army. And he still wears socks, drawers and undershirts, and he still blows his nose.

If you have a little more money to spend, don't go hog wild. We haven't room to keep a lot of things, either in our uniform pockets or in our barracks bags. Rather than have you buy us two $1 pipes, we'd rather you buy us one $2 pipe.

And speaking of smoking: there are cigarette lighters, cases, cigars, pipe tobacco, pouches, and cleaners. Those of us who entertain the vice are not allowed to indulge it much of the time (never during drill, in classrooms, during training films, near ammunition, stables, etc.), but when we do, we probably relish it more than we did at home.

Send him books. Some camps have good libraries. Others have none. But even if he has a fine library in his camp, he'll get a bang out of getting a book in which you've put his name, out of reading a book which you've selected for him. Personal touch.

A small, well-bound notebook is a good thing for a soldier. So is a pocketknife, a key ring, a wallet. The little writing portfolios—the kind you can use while you are sitting on your bed—are useful too.

We spend much of our time out of doors and our sweet teeth are well developed. Let's have some more candies and cakes and cookies. Please wrap these carefully, preferably in tins.

And don't think you can be too silly about presents. One fellow's Christmas package included one of those perfumed bars of soap with a long ribbon attached to be worn on his shoulder, like a canteen, in the showers. He minced coquettishly through the troop street modelling it for the laughing soldiers. Another fellow got a little kewpie doll that was immediately recostumed into a general's full-dress uniform and given a place of honor in the troop's day room. Try out your sense of humor in package form.

Getting a package is an event in a soldier's life. Getting a package sets that day apart from all other days. You can't send a captain's commission, or a furlough, or a blonde, but you can make an art and a game of packages, which to us are substantial and eloquent expressions that you care. And please remember this: that game can be played the year around.

Big Sea Battles Seen Brewing In Solomons

Melbourne, Aug. 19 — (CP)—Big sea battles still brewing in bitterly-contested waters of the Solomon Island chain may prove the turning point in the fight for the barrier bases north of Australia, a special correspondent of the Melbourne Herald reported from a South Pacific port.

He said that although Allied headquarters in the South Pacific area was issuing no statements about the progress of the Solomon operations, it was clear that naval developments in the islands are attracting the greatest attention.

Latest reports of fighting there, he continued, emphasize the cardinal fact underlying the whole future operation: That since the Americans now apparently have established satisfactory footholds in the islands, victory must go eventually to the side controlling the sea lanes.

The Allies, he said, cannot win the islands as long as Japan can fling in fresh forces; nor can they maintain their hold there unless they can keep the marine supply lanes open.

Battles Likely to Develop in Size

His conclusion was that the battles were likely to develop rather than diminish in magnitude once the Solomons were in Allied hands and the operation became increasingly an Allied offensive.

Japan's tenure in New Britain and Papuan ports will become increasingly precarious in such a case, the correspondent said, and he predicted that the Japanese would not yield the Solomons until decisively defeated at sea in that area.

He said if the enemy did not try to overpower American naval units there, he might attempt a counter-blow in strength elsewhere in the South Pacific in the hope of drawing off Allied ships.

ON THE RECORD
By DOROTHY THOMPSON
The Secret Theatre of War—II

New York, Aug. 19. — Now, although our psychological warfare is in a secret theatre, from which the public is excluded as far as any official information is concerned, the overcurious can occasionally worm their way in.

If one knows foreign languages, or has friends who do, one can occasionally catch a wavelength on which we speak to our enemies. (I hope there is no death penalty for listening to one's country's own broadcasts.)

Having indulged in this faintly seditious occupation on numerous occasions, I confess that I do not know what we are up to. Our news to Germany, for instance, is sometimes very dramatic, if drama consists in it being uttered by various voices in a drama-of-the-air technique. But if you ask me what is the political line, I do not know the answer.

Listening to our broadcasts to Italy, I have been somewhat clearer, but not, I confess, happier. For it seems that, as far as Italy is concerned, we are playing up the House of Savoy against Mussolini, and hoping for a revolt from the most reactionary and moribund elements in Italy.

Lack of Understanding.

In fact, we can fall into the most hopeless political morass through a lack of clear understanding of the real dynamics of social forces in Europe. If, for instance, we intend to outbid the Nazis in appeals to reactionary elements, we will certainly fail, for the Nazis are playing with far more active forces than tottering monarchies, decadent aristocracies, and political groups that are out of power through their demonstrated weakness and incapacity.

Yet we are playing with them—and apparently on the thesis that we should offer hope to all the disgruntled, regardless of who they are.

But effective propaganda cannot be made this way. The Axis knows it. It is true, for instance that Japan tells a great many flatly contradictory stories and makes a great many contradictory promises. But she does not make contradictory promises to the same listeners. She says one thing to the Chinese, another to the Malayans, another to the Dutch in the Netherlands East Indies, and still another to the Australians. But she so beams her propaganda that the Australians cannot hear what she is saying to the Dutch and Chinese. Therefore, the contradictions are not caught, except as the Allies catch them and retransmit them.

Now everything we send to one European country can be heard by everybody in Europe—as far as the wavelength reaches. And to whatever country we broadcast our words we must be sure that they reach and reflect the mental tendencies of the broadest part of the population.

Tied with Mussolini.

If we broadcast to Italy praise for he House of Savoy, some aristocrats may be pleased, but the peasants and the workers will spit. For twenty years now the House of Savoy has been tied with Mussolini and has never made a move against fascism, or against any of its major policies.

Besides this, for the Italian worker and peasant, even Mussolini is a step beyond the House of Savoy. It is the fake shot of socialism in fascism, and its claim to be run by a man of the people gives it its power.

Political warfare, in the epoch of the twentieth century, to be at all effective, must be revolutionary. And you cannot make revolutionary propaganda without a revolution.

Now, as I have said in previous columns, rebellion and revolt are not, of themselves, revolutionary. It is frivolous to call upon European workers to shoot at the Fascists, and to indulge in other rebellious acts outside the frame of some major revolutionary objective to be achieved.

Look Beyond Nationalism.

And I fear that the trouble with American propaganda to Europe is that we do not understand the stage of development which Europe has reached. Europe is nationalist—yes. It is against being dominated by one power. But bitter experience has led the masses of the people to look for something beyond nationalism.

Europe is also Socialist—that is to say, all the active and dynamic forces in Europe are Socialist. As far as Europe is concerned, there is no issue between capitalism and socialism. The only question at issue is, What kind of socialism? We could put our influence behind a democratic and moderated socialism, plus political federalism, and personal freedom, and have a program that would appeal to Europeans. But if the outworn ideas of old diplomacies prevent us from coming out for federalism, and if we are so scared of socialism that we back ghosts, for what can we ask the people to revolt? Our propaganda in that case can be not only ineffective but positively harmful.

Lie For Clear Purpose.

The Axis propaganda has a policy because the leaders of the Axis powers have a perfectly clear picture in their minds of the kind of world they wish to achieve. Their propaganda is a perfectly tuned instrument for the achievement of that world. When they lie, as they do, they lie for a very clear purpose.

But we even tell the truth without any clear purpose. For we have no clear picture of the kind of world we wish to achieve. Our only guides are the extremely amorphous statements of the Atlantic Charter. We promise to free people from want and fear, but we don't say how, and so we don't convince them. We don't even convince ourselves.

In fact, we go to war with that iron determination described by an English schoolboy, in Cecil Hunt's "Book of Howlers."

"The Duke of Marlborough," wrote the boy, in a school examination, "was a great general who always commenced every battle with a fixed determination in his mind to win or lose."

Preventing War Neuroses

Thousands of men who fought in the last war are receiving pensions, and they deserve these pensions because what's known as war neurosis, "nerves" due to war, was not fully recognized and properly treated at the time the symptoms first occurred.

I have in mind a number of men who fought bravely in the war, apparently were all right when they returned home, only to find when they attempted to return to their former studies or employment that they were unable to concentrate and ordinary work or study which was performed daily before the war, after the war loomed too hard or heavy for them. Had we been keener as medical officers, we would have noted some of the early signs—apparent laziness, lack of neatness in their appearance, and irregularity or indifference in personal hygiene.

That early treatment in the last war would have saved many of these cases from becoming pensioners is the opinion of Dr. Uno H. Helgesson, Navy psychiatrist. Just as early treatment of infection of these patients suffering with war neuroses is absolutely necessary if they are to become their former selves.

"Tens of thousands of soldiers could have been saved by a few hours treatment. But war neuroses were neglected in the last war until it was too late. They became chronic cases".

Many fighting men who had shown incredible courage day after day, suddenly collapsed after their job was done. Two or three days after the actual danger is past, they often fall into a stupor with no memory of their recent experience.

What is the cure that restores these soldiers (or civilians also) to their normal state of mind after war or other desperate experiences?

"Unless this soldier can be made to remember his frightful experience and to re-live it, he is in immediate danger of developing permanent symptoms". Cure depends upon the skill of the psychiatrist in guiding and controlling the acting-out process, once the patient begins to talk. It is unravelling the tangled skein of thought and behavior.

It will be noted that this method of finding the underlying cause, bringing it to the light, and carefully examining it together with the patient, is in line with the present methods of treating and preventing mental ailments in the civilian population.

KNIGHT OF THE CLOAK

From London comes the story that Major General Carl Spaatz, commander of the U. S. Army air force in Europe, took off his military coat and placed it over the shoulders of Queen Elizabeth to protect Her Majesty from a shower of rain that suddenly began to fall while she was inspecting the American air forces.

It was inevitable that this gallantry on the part of the American general would remind everybody of the story of Sir Walter Raleigh and another Queen Elizabeth who lived in London some 350 years ago.

The legend is that romantic Sir Walter, after his return to England from Ireland where he had taken a conspicuous part in suppressing the Desmonds rebellion of 1581, on one occasion threw his mantle over some mud in the path of Queen Bess to enable her to walk dry shod over a puddle.

The Queen, who naturally was pleased by this gallantry, commanded the courtier to wear the "muddy cloak till her pleasure should be further known."

At that time Sir Walter was in high favor with the Queen and the old chroniclers give added point to this alleged act of gallantry by explaining that his court clothes represented "a considerable part of his estate."

Unfortunately historians have not been able to find any evidence that Sir Walter ever laid his cloak on the ground for Queen Elizabeth to step on.

The story rests on nothing better than the gossip of later generations.

It was popularized in 1821 by Sir Walter Scott who in his "Kenilworth" related the legend as if it really happened.

The legend, however, is true to the extent that it correctly represents the chivalrous spirit of the age in which Queen Elizabeth and Sir Walter Raleigh lived.

Raleigh, Essex and a dozen other courtiers at Elizabeth's court would gladly have offered their mantles to protect the queen's feet if they had had the opportunity and if the idea had occurred to them.

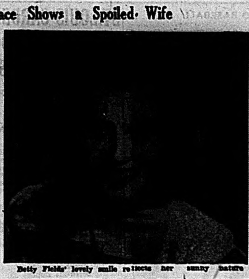
Face Shows a Spoiled Wife



Betty Fields' lovely smile reflects her sunny nature

By HELEN FOLLETT

YOU HEAR a good deal these days about spoiled children; every neighborhood has its quota of juvenile nuisances. But what about the spoiled wives and mothers? They are present, also. They demand immediate attention from trades people, and are rude to them.

If the daddy says he would like to have dinner with his old college friend the spoiled mama blubbers and bawls, says she hates to stay home alone, so daddy drags her along and there is no pleasant "don't you remember" conversation between the two men.

She has to have the celery hearts while others take the tougher stalks. Nothing but the white meat of the chicken will do for her. She gets a new evening dress that she doesn't need, the kids have patches on their pants, while daddy worries because his club clues aren't paid.

Look at her face! Weak mouth and soft chin advertising selfishness and greed. As selfishness and laziness are twin sisters she makes others wait on her.

Unhappy and Selfish

You'd think her conscience would catch up with her some time, but it never does. She was a spoiled child. She will never get over it.

Selfish women don't seem to know that life is made simple, easy and sweet by being reasonable, tolerant, patient.

It is doubtful if they are half as happy as women who face responsibilities, prefer to wait on themselves, hate to make other individuals uncomfortable. The piggy ones are a fussy, neurotic lot. They worry. They believe that every hand is raised against them, that fate is forever picking on them.

Let the mother of a spoiled daughter think on this subject visualize what the child will be like in later years.

Rural Women's Devotion to Red Cross Even in Strenuous Harvest Times Is Inspiration to Fellow-Workers

Rural women who make up Red Cross units associated with the Belleville branch of the Red Cross Society take their responsibilities in this great humanitarian work very earnestly. Proof of this is in the fact that although the women in the country have been faced with the most arduous summer they have ever had, a summer which has called more of them, than ever before to the fields to help save crops for next winter's sustenance, they have managed to keep up a fine work for Red Cross. Weary from their day's work, they still did some sewing or knitting in their few leisure moments.

Doing Splendid Work

"We can't say enough for the women of the country", said an official at the Red Cross headquarters yesterday in paying a heartfelt tribute to the zeal and industry of the rural Red Cross workers. "They are doing a magnificent work, and so willingly. They are an example to their city sisters who have much more leisure time."

Any women who are newcomers to the city, or who have not previously been able to devote time to Red Cross but now may do so, are invited to come to the Red Cross Headquarters, Campbell Street, (opposite the Y.M.C.A.) where they will receive a ready welcome and a place for them doing the special work they prefer. Already there are groups of women meeting morning, afternoon and evening, at Headquarters while still more work in their own homes.

Help Is Sought

Yesterday afternoon saw many more at the Red Cross rooms. With workers returning from holidays the routine is being taken up again, and with added assistance the special project of sheets for the Russian Red Cross is making progress. Four hundred were packed last week and four hundred again this week.

"If two hundred women, "it was pointed out, "would make five sheets in a week we would have our quota done in no time".

There are fifty groups affiliated with the Belleville Red Cross and most of them are working tirelessly to help finish up the sheets. A little added help would be greatly appreciated.

Glove Knitters Needed

If you are a glove knitter, the Red Cross headquarters would be grateful for your help at the present time. Many knitters hesitate to attempt the knitting of gloves, and there are a good many glove experts in the city. Their co-operation would help mov along the glove quota.

Among the very expertly finished articles for the forces are the sweaters for women, and the ampe. (amputation covers) for hospital use. The latter are of very fine wool and beautifully knit. Those who do them seem to give them special loving care, deeply touched by the purpose for which they are intended.

Parcels For Prisoners

Other projects of the Canadian Red Cross continue with unabated zeal, and one which is howing a steady growth is that of providing parcels for war prisoners. These are packed in large centres and are made possible by the funds collected in this community and every community across Canada in the annual Red Cross drives. Since it is definitely established, by three thousand acknowledgment cards that have already reached Ottawa that the prisoners are actually getting the parcels, this work has become one of the most popular projects. The letters of appreciation point out that Canadian parcels are very acceptable because of the butter, sugar, biscuits, cheese, and the "wonderful" chocolate that are included.

Previously 75,000 parcels a week were sent out from the Toronto and Montreal depots. A new centre has just been opened in Hamilton and now 25,000 a week more are expected to be sent to prisoners of war in Europe. When a proposed depot is established in Western Canada a total output of 111,000 parcels a week will leave Canada.

HEALTH CHATS

By Dr. Herman N. Bundesen
President, Chicago Board of Health

"Sulfa" Drugs Should Be Used Only Under Doctor's Directions

Since physicians first began to use the remarkable sulfonamide drugs, they have recognized that these drugs may bring on serious reactions in certain sensitive patients. I have taken these drugs on two occasions and have had reactions in both instances. In fact constant search is being made for new forms of these "sulfa" drugs that will not produce undesirable reactions.

Drs. Richard H. Lyons and Harry Balberor of Michigan have carried out some interesting studies with sulfathiazole. They noted that in a number of patients who had received the drug over a given period of time and then were given a second course of treatment after a few weeks, fever developed, although no fever had developed as a result of the use of the drug the first time it was used. The patient's temperature usually rose suddenly to as high as from 102 to 106 degrees and the fever was often accompanied by chills, prostration and weakness. A number of patients who had fever when they received the second course of the drug had a similiar reaction when a third course was given. Even though the interval between the first and the second course of treatment was as long as 40 days, the fever nevertheless developed.

On the other hand, in several hundred patients in the hospital who were given sulfathiazole for the treatment of an infection, fever as a reaction from the drug developed in only five from the first course of treatment. In none of these instances did the fever occur before the seventh day of treatment. These physicians therefore think that the reaction with fever is due to hypersensitivity to the drug. The interval between courses of treatment increases the sensitivity and makes it more likely that the second course of treatment will bring on the reactions. It was noted that patients who had fever as a result of sulfathiazole were able to take other sulfonamides, such as sulfanilamide or sulfapyridine.

These facts bring out the importance of using sulfonamide drugs only under the directions of the physician and in the dose which he prescribes. When the drugs are used, the patient must be watched carefully so that any reactions which occur, such as fever or skin rash, may be detected promptly and the use of the drug stopped. The continued use in patients who are sensitive to these preparations may be most harmful and even result fatally.

Many of the patients who receive these drugs are suffering from infections which produce fever, so if the drug also is responsible for a rise in temperature its effect may not be understood and its use may be continued even when it is producing severe reactions.

Examination of the blood at intervals during treatment with sulfonamide drugs also is important, to detect any effect of the drugs or lessening the number of white or red blood cells. There is no doubt that the sulfonamide drugs have saved many lives, but their misuse may also be responsible for much discomfort if not for actual fatalities.

MADE TO GO ANYWHERE and look right is a new black satin frock with deep square neckline, one side of which is gathered into a big soft bow. Skirt drapery is gathered into a bow at the top on the opposite side to the neckbow.

Country gals are going in for giddy blouses of printed calico to wear with black linen skirts. One blouse is done in yellow, red and black with black wood buttons and a neckline that ties in a huge bow.

Take time out on your suit lapel in the form of a new military cap lapel watch in silver with gold insignia.

First dress of the new season might well be an attractive number in dark green crepe with collarless surplice neckline scarves that extended into peg-top pockets on the skirt. Tucks in front of the skirt and the pockets.

Going places this autumn is the little cocktail suit, ideal from five o'clock on. A typical model is of black woollen, the collarless jacket fitted and trimmed with pet arabesques on either side of the jet button fastening. Gored skirt with black satin bodice top with high round neck and short sleeves.

Everyone is looking for the hat that is a balance between the dressy and the quite casual. A good choice might be a brimmed felt in dark green, the entire brim, which is adjustable, embroidered in red wool yarn.

Charming Table Manners Win Gala Dates

Used Napkin Left Under Plate

It's the little things that count in table manners and a smart hostess is oh, so aware, whether you observe them!

Naturally, after a dinner party, you don't fold your napkin. But it's what you do with it that counts! The lovely girl in our sketch correctly half-folds hers and puts it under the edge of her plate.

When she is served first she knows it's all right to begin before the others—but what counts is, she doesn't dive right in, table manners being based on the idea that you're not starving!

On a restaurant date, she knows it's the man's place to choose a table and pull out the more desirable seat for her; but if it's a double date she'll sit opposite the other woman.

She herself is a charming dinner hostess. Offering a second helping she says "Will you have some lamb?" not "Will you have some more lamb?"

Knowing such fine points you can't possibly worry about making slips. Our 32-page booklet tells what silver to use for each course, how to eat unusual foods. Gives rules for restaurant dates, teas, buffets, formal dinners.

Send 15 cents in coins for your copy of "Good Manners" to The Ontario Intelligencer, Home Service 166 Front Street, Belleville, Ont. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and name of booklet.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Not Proper For Widow to Combine Maiden and Married Surnames

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1.—In your column recently I read of the correctness of a divorcee combining her maiden surname and married surname . . . Mrs. Allen Smith, for example.

Please tell me if it would be correct for a widow to use this form too. Would it, for example, be proper for her to use this form of name on the card she sends with flowers to her mother-in-law's funeral?

2.—I believe it is proper for a widow to keep her husband's name for general usage. But for business reasons I still use my first name, since my Civil Service papers and other business and professional papers all are in my name using my first name. . . Mrs. Mary Smith, let's say. What about this?

N. E.

1.—Yes, correctly a divorcee should use a combination of her maiden surname and her married surname. Mrs. Allen (maiden surname) Smith. However, it would not be proper for a widow since usage has established this form to mean that the woman is divorced. A widow is expected to retain her husband's name . . . .Mrs. William Smith. "For Mother, from Mary" would be a proper message for a daughter-in-law to write on the card with the flowers she sends to her mother-in-law's funeral. Or if she addresses the card to the family or to the next of kin, she might write, "With dearest love and deepest sympathy, Mary".

2.—I suggest that even if you use your first name in your business or profession, you use the correct social form . . . Mrs. William Smith. . .for social occasions. For example on your visiting-cards, in your club membership, in social lists (as printed in newspapers, for example), in registering at a hotel, etc.

About Junior Bridesmaids

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please answer some questions about junior bridesmaids?

1.—How old should a junior bridesmaid be?

2.—What part does she take in the procession?

3.—May the junior bridesmaid (the bride's only sister) be the only bridesmaid? The wedding is to be a small wedding. . .maid of honor best man and four ushers.

T. V. L.

1.—A junior bridesmaid is usually between ten (a tall ten) and sixteen years old.

2.—The junior bridesmaid usually either walks alone before the pairs of bridesmaids, or she may walk alone after them, and before the maid of honor.

3.—Yes, it would be proper (and a very lovely plan) for the bride's young sister to be the only bridesmaid. Then the ushers would walk first, two by two. Then, the junior bridesmaid, alone. Then the maid of honor, alone. And last, the bride, on her father's right arm.

Deacons Defeat Swaco 11 to 3 And Advance Into Softball Finals With Successive Wins

"Barrett's Beauties" Push Eastenders Into Elimination in League Semi-Finals

STEWART STARS

Playing heads-up ball behind the eight-hit hurling of "Stewie" Stewart, Deacons won the first round in the City Ladies' softball playoff series against SWACO's at the Fair Grounds last evening when they defeated the East-Enders by a decisive 11-3 count to take the series in two straight games.

Deacons will now await a winner to be declared between Zellers and Corbins who are now tied in their series at one game each. The pay-off between these two clubs will be on Thursday evening.

Orchids for the Deacon win over the heavier hitting SWACO nine must go to their diminutive hurler, "Stewie" Stewart who pitched like a veteran to keep the losers' bingles well scattered. With her teammates hanging up a good working margin in the earlier innings "Stewie" literally coasted to victory in the abbreviated seven inning pastime.

Errors Costly

Errors on the part of the SWACO nine dispelled any chances the East-Enders had of winning the pastime and prolonging the series to another game as Jean Rogers was kept continually in hot water by her teammates miscues. Irene Colden suffered a disjointed finger and was forced out of the game and the SWACO nine missed her hitting ability as many players were left stranded.

No one player on the Deacon team stood out offensively as every girl hit safely at least once, with Joyce Woodhouse being the only player to hit for extra bases. Extra bases were made by other players on her team but were as the result of errors on the part of the opposition.

Langman Stars

Twila Langman, for the losers was the strongest offensively, connecting for a double and two singles, although following batters failed to drive her home with needed counters. M. Ronsky in left robbed Deacons of what looked like several safe hits, when she raced in to make at least two difficult catches.

The line-ups:

SWACO—I. Colden, 3b; O. Fralick, 2b; T. Langman, c.f. and c; D. Rowbotham, 1b; M. Ronsky, l.f.; N. Corneal, r.f.; L. Nelson, c. and 3b; Peg. Allin, s.s. and Foster, c.f.

Deacons—"Stewie" Stewart, p.; G. Samain, s.s.; J. Corneal, 1b.; J. Sharpe, l.f.; F. Freeman, 3b; J. Moreland, 2b; D. Hansey, c.f. and J. Green, r.f.

HUBBLE AGAIN IS THE GIANTS' MEAL TICKET

Veteran Hurler Runs Up String of Eight Straight Victories

NEARLY FORTP

By SID FEDER

New York, Aug. 19—(AP)—Melvin Ott doesn't know whether it's monkey glands or a Fountain of Youth or a diet of vitamins that has put the blush of youth back in King Carl Hubbell's southpaw soupbone again. And what's more, Master Melvin doesn't care.

"All I know," says the New York Giants manager, "is that he's pitching better now than at any time in the last three or four years."

Which is a motion the National League's better hitters will rise up and second unanimously. They've been trying to knock old square-pants' block off and getting nowhere since July 11, while he piled up a string of eight straight victories, after losing six of his first seven outings.

You might like to pooh-pooh this somewhat, but don't forget that Hubbell is well on the way to his 40th birthday, now, and has been kicking around in the big time for 13 years.

Ott should know what he's talking about when it comes to Hubbell. They've been the closest of pals since John McGraw brought them up.

Hubbell Won't Talk

As usual, the Hub won't do much talking.

But Ott says that Hub had to start the year against the league's top two clubs—the Dodgers and Cardinals—seven times in a row "simply because we were in a spot and when you're in a spot, there's only one guy you'll ask to pull you out—Hub."

Then Cliff Melton's left arm went bad and King Carl was told to go out there and take a regular turn. He hasn't lost since. In fact, when he knocked off Casey Stengel's Boston beauties yesterday for the 247th win of his big league career, he did it on three days' rest.

"Why," Ott added, "Y'know, I finally had to tell him to lay off pitching batting practice every day."

He's allowed only 23 runs in his eight games, but oddly enough 11 of them have come on enemy homers.

MONTREAL WINS TWIN BILL AND IN SECOND PLACE

Defeats Baltimore Orioles Going Ten Innings in the Second Game

LEAFS BEAT CHIEFS

(By The Associated Press)

Clyde Sukeforth, Manager of Montreal Royals, is probably the happiest person in the International League as his fledglings flutter about in second place following seven triumphs in their last nine decisions.

The victories have returned the Royals to the runner-up slot in the standings, two games ahead of the third-place Jersey City Giants. The Royals chose Baltimore as their latest victims, hammering the Orioles twice, 11-4 and 7-5, yesterday.

Ed Albosta coasted to an easy victory in the opener as his mates gave him an early 9-0 lead. Alex Kampouris, with two homers, and Jack Graham and Gene Moore, with one each, highlighted the 14-hit attack against five Oriole tossers.

The nightcap was a pitchers' battle for seven innings. Montreal made it look like a rout when they counted four times in the eighth, but thanks to a pinch homer with the bases loaded by George Staller, the Birds tied it up. Montreal finally won out in the 10th by scoring two runs.

Leafs Defeat Chiefs

Toronto Maple Leafs defeated Syracuse Chiefs, 4-1 as Harry Shuman scattered nine hits in gaining a verdict over Ewell Blackwell. It was a scoreless tie until the seventh when the Leafs pushed across two tallies. Toronto scored its final markers in the ninth and the Chiefs' lone score also came in the last frame.

After the league-leading Newark Bears pounded Gene Lillard for a 7-0 verdict in the first game, Rochester Red Wings came back to win the nightcap, 5-4. The second game was halted at the end of the seventh because of a power failure.

Randy Gumbert won his ninth victory in the first game by limiting the Wings to three singles. Russ Derry hit his 20th homer of the season for the Bears in the fifth.

Bill Beckman was the winning twirler in the second contest and gave up only five blows, but two of them were four-masters by George (Snuffy) Stirnweiss, his 10th and 11th of the campaign.

Jersey City split a twin-bill with Buffalo Bisons, winning the opener, 2-0, behind the four-hit hurling of Adrian Zabala and dropping the aftermath, 3-1.

Although he was relieved, Andy Sierra was credited with his 16th conquest of the year in the finale.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Ellis Clary, Senators — Singled with bases loaded to beat Athletics.

Max Lanier, Cardinals—Shut out Cubs on seven hits.

Denny Galehouse, Browns — Blanked White Sox on seven hits.

Johnny Lanning, Pirates — Scattered six hits in whitewashing Reds.

First to come through were Craig Wood with two dozen and Harry Lewis of Cleveland's Acacia Club with 60.

Taking things lightly:

Major league clubs that think they've had troubles with twilight games lasting too long, should listen to this one about a Lynchburg-Newport News doubleheader in the Virginia League. . . . The first game was a long one, interrupted by rain, and the clouds made things so dark it finally had to be called because the ump ruled a game started by daylight couldn't be finished under the lights. . . . Then the arcs were turned on and the second tilt began . . . but by the second inning the clouds had moved away, the sun was shining, so the lights were turned off and the game finished by daylight.

Shorts and shells:

Look for something to boil over in the Conn-Louis stew in about a week—unless they turn the heat off again. . . . The Yanks claim that Dodgers-Giants doubleheader won't hurt the gate for their Army-Navy relief bill Sunday, but ads in the local papers appeal: "Yankee fans go to bat. The Yankees have never let you down. Now don't let them down.

ST. LOUIS CARDS THREATEN LEAD OF THE DODGERS

Run Streak to Five in Row Defeating the Cubs by 5 to 0 Score

BROOKLYN BEATEN

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

After nearly everybody except their relatives had given them up for lost, the St. Louis Cardinals are threatening at last to make a race out of the National League pennant drive.

They still trail the front-running Brooklyn Dodgers by six and a half lengths, but they have knocked three full games off the Dodger lead in the last three days and apparently have gathered enough steam to make things hot the rest of the way down the stretch.

With Southpaw Max Lanier hurling seven-hit shutout ball, the Cards ran their latest winning streak to five in a row last night by beating the Chicago Cubs and Claude Passeau, 5-0.

The Dodgers dropped into Philadelphia for a one-night stand and were jolted, 3-1, by the 'Phils, whom they had expected to roll over and play dead.

That defeat was the second straight for the Brooks, who have lost five of their last ten games. The Cardinals have won ten of their last twelve.

While the Dodgers can look for trouble in their remaining six meetings with the Cards, they also have a problem close to home in the surprising New York Giants.

Giants in Third Place

The Giants, in third place and unwilling to vacate without a struggle, have won six and lost eight with the Dodgers and still have eight more battles scheduled with the Flatbush flock.

Carl Hubbell pitched the Giants to a 10-2 triumph over the Boston Braves yesterday, scattering six hits as his boss, Mel Ott, chipped in with his 21st home run and took over the leadership of the league.

It was the sixth straight in the longest Giant winning streak of the year and the eighth in a row for Hubbell, whose victory string is the longest unbroken one among National League pitchers.

In beating Passeau for the first time in three attempts this year, the Cardinals backed up Lanier's effective pitching with a nine-hit attack led by Terry Moore and Johnny Hopp. Lanier fanned eight and didn't issue a single base on balls.

It was Rube Melton, once the property of the Cards, who turned back the Dodgers for the Phils. Melton yielded only seven hits and collected two of his team's nine blows off Max Macon.

Pirates Drop Reds

The Pittsburgh Pirates dropped Cincinnati five games behind the Giants by whitewashing the Reds 3-0, on the six-hit hurling of Johnny Lanning in another night contest.

In the American League, the Boston Red Sox ran their winning streak to five games by edging out the New York Yankees, 8-7 in ten innings.

Johnny Peacock doubled off relief pitcher Johnny Murphy in the tenth and scored the winning run on Dom DiMaggio's outfield fly, handing the veteran Yankee fireman his seventh straight defeat. The loss chopped New York's lead to eleven and a half games.

Denny Galehouse turned in a seven-hit shutout in a night contest as the St. Louis Browns whipped the Chicago White Sox, 7-0, and climbed to within a single game of the third-place Cleveland Indians, who were idle.

Jack Wade gave the Browns their first hit of the game in the sixth inning but they buried him under a six-run assault in the seventh and continued their 11-hit attack on Joe Haynes.

The Washington Senators came from behind to trip the Philadelphia Athletics, 2-1, in another arc light tilt, with Alex Carrasquel shading Phil Marchildon in a mound duel.

Casual Comment by K.J.C.

. .DID YOU KNOW—TWO OF THE biggest comeback campaigners in 1942 major league baseball are with the Dodgers—namely Pitcher Larry French and Joe Medwick. . .Moe Berg, former major league star now filling a Good Neighbour post for the U.S.A. in South America, speak seven languages—but he never learned to drive an automobile. . .There has been a decided decline in home runs hit in both major leagues thus far this season. . .Up to a week ago there had been six less circuit blows hit in the National League than over the same period in 1941. . . But wait—in the American League there had been 145 less round-trippers than during the same period the year previous. . .A less-lively ball is attributed the major factor for the decline. . . .Only the Browns and the Tigers had hit more homers over this period in the American League, while in the senior circuit only three clubs, the Giants, Braves and Reds are ahead of their 1941 early August home run mark. . .The Yankees were down 47 and the Dodgers 31 over the same period . . .To M.E.C.— "If base runner is in foul territory when struck by a batted ball he is not out, but must go to original base and the batters resumes his place at bat. It is only a foul ball". . .Following two weeks vacation Kingston Scribe Bill Walsh is back at his Limestone City sports desk and immediately takes up his pen to cry—"hockey for Kingston in the Ottawa Valley" . . .However, with the two Colvilles and Pratt of the Rangers training with the R.C.O.C. at Kingston, along with several minor league pucksters, it has been rumoured Kingston may have a senior "A" team in the O.H.A., Mister Walsh's views notwithstanding. . . Belleville's softball playdown series is attracting attention in both Oshawa and Peterborough, where the Quinte City Mushball prowess is always respected. . . However, such is not the case in Trenton, where Jess Baker's cohorts entertain little fear of our softball troops. . . .Nicky Sero may be picked up as a military replacement by the Peterboro' Plazas, if that team wins the Liftlock City softball honors.. . .

IT'S LIKELY TO BE JOHNNIE Bawden and Ray Smith as the opposing moundsman for the 4th Vets.-Flyer City League final tonight. Although Bawden has been laid up with an injured toe for well over a fortnight, Manager Gerald Barriage intimated Vets would probably start their veteran hurler in this important fixure, despite the fact Jim Hunter has turned the Green-led Flyers back on two successive occasions. Bawden enjoys the creditable league mound effort of eight wins without a single loss and providing his lengthy lay-off hasn't left him off stride, the Vets should about terminate matters tonight. Skipper Green feels that providing his team can refrain from running into one bad inning, as has been the case in both of their play-off losses, the Flyers should even the count by sundown. Both nines have strong relief hurlers. the Vets with Con Harris and Jim Hunter and the Flyers with Al Bell and Monty Lamour, that is providing Bawden and Smith get their respective pitching assignment tonight. Regardless it will be the tidbit of the series, so come early and avoid the rush for choice seats. . . .

HISTORY REPEATED ITSELF in the Belleville Ladies Softball League Playdowns this year when the SWACO lassies were eliminated in the playdowns. Playing like champions throughout the regular league schedule, in 1941 and again this year, the "eastenders" faded badly in the moneyed series and were eliminated. This year it was Stub Barrett's Deacon gals that turned the trick, pushing the SWACO's aside to advance to the league final championship series versus the winner of the Zeller-Corbin series, that concludes Thursday night. It was when Skipper Barrett was in dire straights and in need of a pitcher that lady luck favoured him and his Deacons in the final stages of the league schedule when they discovered their regular second sacker. "Stewie" Stewart, had been practically wasting her time strutting around the keystone sack. "Stewie" went in as a relief hurler late in the season and in the league playdowns has been a tower of strength to the Deacons' mound as her eight-hit hurling proved last night. Otherwise the Deacons have been playing sterling ball behind Miss Stewart and deserve their spot in the league limelight. . .

WHEN NANJO SINGH HOPS into the Hume arena ring tonight it will mark his first official ring appearance since he sustained that 26-stitch gash in Niagara Falls a month ago. However, the Mad Hindu has been working out at the Lake Couchiching athletic camp for the past ten days and reported to Promoter Frank Tunney in fine fettle. "Somebody's going to pay for that hospital bill in the Falls and it might just as well be McCready and Watson, because I'll tear that pair apart to regain the Empire crown," snarled Singh on Monday. However, beating McCready, especially in a title elimination bout, is a man's sized job, as "Big Earl" has the happy faculty of rising to the occasion in the clutch. Incidentally Promoter Tunney has added two sure-fire prelims. for tonight's elimination show.

. REMEMBER WHEN DON BRADMAN and W. H. Ponsford, both of Australia, set an all-time partnership record for any wicket in test cricket at London five years ago today? Batting against England, the pair rolled up 499 runs—Ponsford hitting 205 not out and Bradman 244. Ponsford was out the next day for 266 runs.

THE MONTREAL ROYALS OF the International League, claim to have the only father-and-son batboy combination of professional baseball.

The father end of the duo is Geoffrey Lefebvre, who has looked after the batrack for the Royals for the past eight years.

This year, his 10-year-old son, Gerard, was signed as assistant.

The Lefebvres are French-Canadians, as are many of the Montreal fans. Daddy Lefebvre speaks very little English and little Gerard knows nothing of it.

THIS AND THAT—ED BARROW President of the New York Yankees, says Napoleon Lajoie and Joe Gordon are two of the best second basemen he ever saw....However, there was a young fellow once by the name of Rogers Hornsby, who wasn't such a slouch around the keystone sack....Mel Ott pounded out his 21st homer of the season yesterday and now leads the National League in that respect .... See where Schoolboy Rowe and Babe Dahlgren refused to report to the Montreal Royals yesterday.... It's quite a comedown from the Yankees to the Royals in one season, what?....Babe Ruth is taking his Sunday appearance at the stadium really serious, he ordered three new bats from Louisville for the occasion....Larry MacPhail is again trying to join the United States army....Larry was in the First World War and after the Armistice he and a buddy concocted a plan whereby they were to kidnap the old Kaiser....They got into Holland, but not into Doorn....It very nearly meant a court martial ....With bronze being a valued metal in war industry today the Kentucky Golf Association has discontinued giving out bronze medals to winners....In his major league career Carl Hubbell, who won his 8th game yesterday by beating Boston, has altogether beaten the Pirates 46 times, while losing to them but 20 times in all his years with the Giants....Including everything.

Jammed Jottings: although clubs of the London Football League (now known as the Football League South) will run under Football League auspices next season, they'll have their own cup final at London's Wembley Stadium with May 1 as the suggested date. . .Final figure of the pool distribution for the season just passed to London League soccer teams is $1,475. There will be no pool next season. One-third of the receipts will go into the Football League coffer for distribution to all clubs playing under control of the parent body.

Survivors Escape Torpedoing But Machined-Gunned Aboard Raft

Jonquiere, Que., Aug. 19—(CP)—Being shelled, sunk and machine-gunned by a German submarine is bad enough but when you have to jump into shark-infested waters your worries really begin, according to the sea-faring Michaud brothers, Lorenzo, 19, and Guy, 20, of this Saguenay district town.

The boys are home to rest up from the ordeal they went through when their tanker was shelled and sunk in the Atlantic. And this is the story they have to tell:-

"About nine o'clock on our eighth night out of Corpus Christi, Texas, the watch sighted a submarine about 50 feet astern. . . .

"We placed ourselves close to the life-boats so that we could act at the right moment.

After an unsuccessful torpedo attack the submarine drew up opposite the ship at a distance of 60 or 70 feet and began shelling with everything she had.

"The first shell struck the pilot's cabin and started a fire. Pieces of shrapnel killed our good friend Eugene Allard of Jonquiere. We were astern and we tried to get the life-boat into the water but in our excitement we overturned it and it sank in the sea. Then we rushed to launch a raft through a hail of shells and machine-gun bullets from the sub but we succeeded without getting hurt.

"However, our troubles were only beginning. We had to jump into the shark-infested waters and swim to the raft.

"Five of us climbed on to the raft and 15 other crew members piled into another life-boat. Of the 21 officers and men aboard the ship, one was killed and 15 injured.

"We had only rowed a few yards when the sub spotted us and began to machine-gun us. Our three companions were injured. After a while the submarine ceased fire, asked to talk to the captain and then submerged.

"Even then our troubles weren't over. The oil which spread on the sea took fire and we had to row like mad to keep away from the flames. We spent 15 hours on the raft before being rescued by an American destroyer which also picked up the occupants of the life boat.",

SPORT SHORTS FROM BRITAIN

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Aug. 19—(CP)—Back in Canada spectators sit down to watch a baseball game. So it amazed members of the Canadian and United States' army when they put on a match before 6,000 people in a soccer stadium to discover that most onlookers stood up throughout. (Incidentally, the Canadians lost by the basketball score of 19-17.)

What the players didn't understand was that in Britain football clubs usually prefer to spend great sums for players rather than on improving the comforts of the masses who watch. The stadia seats won't hold nearly the thousands who pass the turnstiles.

Of the game itself, a London sports writer said he doubted whether baseball would attract English crowds. He added most of those present "went out of curiosity" and that "while they had a slight knowledge of sport and were helped by a Canadian commentator, they could not appreciate the finer points of play."

Anyway, the crowd cheered mightily and Pitcher Eddie Smith of Kingston, Ont., added to their thrills by belting a homer.

Not that it really matters, but did anyone ever wonder how much crack greyhound racer would cost? Albeit, top price of 120 guineas (about $600) was paid for one at a sale in Eire. Other prices ranged down to $200.

Word reaches London of the death in Auckland of George Tyler, member of the famous All-Blacks that toured Britain in 1905. He represented Auckland at rugby for 12 years and once held the New Zealand swimming record for the 100-yard free-style event. . .Tom Kirkup, Grand Old Man of London soccer and secretary of the London Football Association the past 40 years, received hundreds of congratulatory messages on his 78th birthday.

St. Patrick's Boys Boxing Club of Nottingham forwarded a guinea to pay for "a punch on the nose" for Hitler. . .Lieut. William Sinclair MacDonald, Scottish amateur football international and Queen's Park forward, has been awarded the D.S.O. for devotion to duty in the Royal Navy.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop had a hard day at the office besides the fierce heat, and he started to fan his face when he came home, saying, I feel low and useless, I feel like an undersized worm that's just been blackballed by the other worms. I feel like a cancelled one cent postage stamp that's been detected trying to steal another ride through the postoffice, he said.

Now William you do not, such nonsense, ma said. I'll fix you up right after dinner with the electric fan and a big pitcher of your favorite ice tea, and you can put your feet up behind your cigar and feel like one of those nabobs of the tropics that always look so comfortable in the movies, she said, and pop said, The way I feel, I wouldn't be comfortable even if I had a cyclone blowing on me and a bottle of champagne in one hand and a mug of nectar in the other.

Maybe you'd enjoy a nice picture in a nice air cooled movie, ma said. Maybe we can find one full of horses and shooting for your sake, she said, and pop said, I wouldn't enjoy a picture painted by Rembrant even if somebody gave it to me and it was worth an ex-king's ransom. By gollies there's one thing I'll never get used to and never want to get used to, and that's unbearable heat, he said.

Well, I really wasn't going to tell you because it's not fit activity for man or beast in such weather, but Herb Lewis telephoned to say the boys are getting up a game around at Fret's bowling alleys tonight, though I hope you wont be so foolish, ma said, and pop said, Well, it's a bit hot but I dont like to let the boys down.

They dont really expect you, ma said, and pop said, Well, I'll think it over.

The result being he ate supper with a happy expression and left right afterwards.

AT THE BELLE

"Larceny Inc."

A sparkling comedy called "Larceny Inc." starring Edward G. Robinson, Jane Wyman and Broderick Crawford, is now on the Belle Theatre screen.

"Sing Your Worries Away"

Bert Lahr, one of Broadway's top flight comedians, and Buddy Ebsen rated one of America's best eccentric dancers, merge their respective talents in the smart musicalcomedy, "Sing Your Worries Away" announced as the added laugh feature attraction.

Song-studded and loaded with laughs, the gay offering also features Patsy Kelly, June Havoc, Dorothy Lovett, Sam Levene, and Alvino Ray's Orchestra and the four King Sisters.

"Her Cardboard Lover"

Combining their talents for the first time since their remarkable triumph in "Escape", Norma Shearer and Robert Taylor again co-star in "Her Cardboard Lover", coming to the Belle Theatre. Their reunion is a worthwhile screen event. As a demonstration of their versatility, this comedy from the play by Jacques Deval is an ideal vehicle. The story has been lavishly mounted, with spectacular backgrounds placed in a smart Florida winter resort. The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer art department went the limit, as did the costume designers and photographers. The direction by George Cukor is further evidence of his suave ability in sophisticated material.

Frank McHugh and Elizabeth Batterson have rich comedy roles in support. McHugn and Taylor form a song-writing team which composes a number called "I Dare You", that becomes a hit. Actually it was written by Burton Lane and Ralph Freed, and is charming melody.

"Her Cardboard Lover" is sheer entertainment all the way through—or to coin a phrase, "Shearer Comedy Taylored to perfection".

"Joe Smith, American"

Unfolding a story permeated with suspense and excitement, "Joe Smith, American", is the companion feature attraction, with Robert Young and Marsha Hunt scoring as a typical young American, married couple.

The theme was conceived for a magazine story by Paul Gallico, well-known newspaper man, who wrote of events that are common in the headlines of the day. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer produced the film, with Young in the title role.

The quiet restraint of Young's technique, hailed in his recent title role characterization in "H. M. Pulham, Esq." is again effective here. He appears as a typical American defence worker in a seething aircraft factory. Miss Hunt gives a warm and sympathetic portrayal as his wife, and Darryl Hickman is excellent as the small son who emulates his father's integrity and courage.

"Voice of Canada", a timely and thoroughly entertaining film completes the program.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Timber"

Absorbing drama, furious action and sincere, solid performances make Universal's "Timber," now playing at the McCarthy Theatre, a stirring screen treat.

Co-starred are a trio of favorites—Leo Carillo, Andy Devine and Dan Dailey, Jr.

The colorful, punch-packed story follows mainly the adventurous career of rangy government agent, Dailey, sent to a timber project to stamp out suspected sabotage.

Story Has Significance

Actual war-time significance is attached to the tale in that Carillo, mill-boss, and Devine, logging chief, are threatened with loss of an important war contract if persistent work slow-ups aren't stopped.

Dailey's calmer moments in the film—he has several whirlwind fist battles — are shared with comely Marjorie Lord. Carillo, too, has a heart interest, lovely Jean Phillips. But Miss Phillips turns out to be a villainess.

Of breath-taking interest is the diabolically clever method the saboteurs employ in disposing of great truckloads of lumber careening down a steep grade to the mill.

Distinguished names in the well-balanced supporting cast include Edmund MacDonald, James Seay and Wade Boteler. Nestor Paiva, Paul Burns, William Hall and Walter Sandre are outstanding in picturesque dramatic roles.

"Poison Pen"

McCarthy patrons are also favored with another outstanding feature, "Poison Pen," which is another story by Richard Llewellyn, author of "How Green Was My Valley." "Poison Pen" comes to the McCarthy screen rated as one of truly unusual motion pictures to reach the screen. A picture you will talk about for a long time to come. The cast includes Flora Robson, Robert Newton, Ann Todd and Reginald Tate. "Poison Pen" is one of the year's best.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Son of Fury"

"Son of Fury", 20th Century-Fox's fiery adventure film starring Tyrone Power, will be at the Capitol theatre starting tomorrow. The critics and public alike have hailed "Son of Fury", one of the best films of recent months—a box-office "natural."

"Son of Fury," the story of Benjamin Blake, is the swashbucking tale of a man battling the world for his birthright—living and loving riotously—sailing the seven seas to find fortune and love in a tropical paradise. Full of suspense and exciting drama, "Son of Fury" highlights the flaming romance of Tyrone Power and the four women who influenced his life—Kay Johnson, who loved him as her own, Frances Farmer, ruthless and coldly beautiful—Elsa Lanchester, a slatternly girl who aided him in a perilous moment and finally Gene Tierney, exotic and lovely—who gave him peace and love that defied time and distance. "Son of Fury" is the magnificiently thrilling dramatization of a man who knew how to love as fiercely as he could hate.

The role of Benjamin Blake is portrayed by Tyrone Power with gusto and charm and it is a perfect characterization for this top ranking star. Power's dynamic performance rates with his other outstanding work in "A Yank in the R.A.F." and "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

Gene Tierney gives an unsurpassed performance as Eve, the native girl—easily her best performance to date. Equally impressive are the featured roles played by Frances Farmer, George Sanders and Roddy McDowall.

On the same program is Buck Jones and Tim McCoy in "Gunman From Bodie."

CHAPTER 4
Prince Charming

Diane's smart apartment was filled to overflowing with noisy, laughing people — guests who munched Louise's carefully-prepared sandwiches, and sipped delicious cocktails in tall-stemmed glasses. Through the milling group walked Diane, unperturbed, with one arm around Linda and the other around Sally.

Linda had acknowledged so many introductions that her head began to swim dizzily, and she escaped at length into a corner to recover her balance. From this position she commanded a view of the entire room. She watched the colorful panorama with eager, interested eyes.

This, Linda told herself, was living, and she could not refrain from comparing Kyle with these casual, well-dressed men. What would he think of her now, she wondered. She felt with certainty that Kyle Norman would not approve of his sweetheart's presence at a sophisticated cocktail party, but the thought was instantly dismissed. Regardless of whether he would censure her actions, Linda was enjoying every minute.

Perhaps a slight disturbance at the far end of the room caused her to glance in the direction of the door, but at that very moment it opened and a young man entered the room—tall, handsome, broad-shouldered, with a shock of wavy red hair.

He said something to Louise as he handed her his hat, topcoat, something that caused the maid to chuckle, then shake her head reprovingly. For a moment he surveyed the crowded room with an expression of boredom, and then, as though drawn by sheer magnetism, his eyes fell on Linda, slim and sweet in the shining white dress and held her attention unwaveringly while he walked across the room to her side.

"Hello!" he said, and it was like an exclamation. "I don't believe I know you, but you're beautiful."

For a long moment Linda was lost in the depths of compelling blue eyes, the bluest she had ever seen, and then:

"Hello," she answered, uncertainly. "I — I don't believe you do."

She was suddenly weak with a strange, heady excitement.

Slowly his eyes slid down over her face in a glance that was almost a caress as they came to rest on her soft mouth. "I'm Greg Hollister." he was smiling.

"I—I'm Linda Phillips." How false her voice sounded to her own ears!

"Chicago?" His question was polite, but Linda sensed a diffidence in his manner toward her. His eyes flickered suddenly in the direction of the other guests, and Linda thought, rebelliously, "He's losing interest in me because I'm dull; because I can't carry on a conversation. Why can't I be witty worldly and fascinating as Diane?" and vivacious like Sally, or as Suddenly she was talking animatedly to hold his attention. Words tumbled from her lips and Linda scarcely heard them.

"And so as a corn-fed Iowa gal, I'm at a loss to know what to say to you city slickers." She was started, "What am I talking about?" she asked herself.

She stopped short, glancing up at her companion and wonder of wonders—he was smiling. Then, surprisingly, they were laughing together and her first fright had passed, leaving Linda completely relaxed and natural.

"I've a suggestion to offer," the handsome newcomer said. "I'd like to show the bright lights of Chicago to a little corn-fed gal."

"Oh, I'd like that very much, but—" her voice was regretful. "I believe Diane has arranged for someone to escort me to the wedding reception."

"Diane?" He gave her a swift glance, and Linda nodded.

"I'm staying with her over the week-end. Diane is an old friend of mine."

"I see." He was strangely quiet and Linda said quickly, "you know Diane Frazier, don't you? After all, she is the hostess."

"Yes. I know Diane quite well," Greg Hollister replied.

He glanced casually around the smoky room and then said, smilingly, "I promised to stop in for a minute, but I'm afraid I've got to be running along now."

While Linda experienced a sharp stab of disappointment, the man's voice dropped to a whisper, and his bold glance made her pulses quicken, her white neck flush with scarlet.

"I'm going to see you again, Linda Phillips. Will you save a dance for me?"

Linda smiled sweetly, trustingly. "Of course I will," she promised.

When he had wended his way through the crowd, pausing to say only a few words to Diane, Linda saw him turn and nod in her direction, and a radiant smile flashed across her face. She had never met anyone so boldly fascinating as Greg Hollister before. Would they—could they meet again?

After he had departed, the party seemed to lose its zest for Linda. She found herself looking forward anxiously to the wedding reception and was relieved when the guests began to leave.

After the last visitor had gone, the three girls hastily consumed sandwiches and coffee, and then there was a hurried taxi ride across the city to the church where Betty was to be married.

The wedding was beautiful and inspiring. Watching Betty Allison, so lovely and demure in her white wedding veil, with confidence and trusting shining in her eyes as she faced her proud young bridegroom at the altar, Linda felt a lump in her throat. She wanted to laugh and cry, to sing her happiness for her cousin.

"This is what I want," she vowed to herself. "I want a ceremony of beauty and sanctity. Something to remember and cherish always!" How little Linda knew of the fate awaiting her, or of the events already moving swiftly to change the entire pattern of her chosen life.

All too quickly the ceremony was over, and Linda had only a brief moment to whisper her congratulations to the happy couple. Betty pressed her hand. "I hope you will be as happy as I," she said. Then the newlyweds were surrounded by anxious guests and whisked away to their train.

The reception followed—a reception minus bride and bridegroom, but replete with a famous orchestra in an ornate, brightly-lighted ballroom, champagne and the customary wedding cake. Linda's escort was a polite if slightly vague young man, but she scarely noticed him.

Remembering Greg's prophecy that they would meet again, she admonished herself briskly. "Don't be getting foolish ideas, Miss Phillips," she scolded herself, "and over a perfect stranger, too!" Still, her heart was singing throughout the evening. Her eyes sparkled into the eyes of adoring males as she danced every dance and even Sally was puzzled by this remarkable change in Linda's personality.

"What has happened to you?" she whispered, puzzled. "You've looked right through me at least twice, and every time any one comes through the door you get white as a ghost."

"It—it's nothing." Linda attempted to laugh. But was it? For the first time since she had met Kyle Norman, Linda was unsure. This new attraction was so strange—so compelling—that she suddenly was ill at ease, torn between the desire to run away before it was too late and a yearning to stay—to see Greg Hollister again.

Dancing with her escort, Linda thought, "Maybe he won't come. I was foolish to imagine anything." She saw, as if in a dream, a broad-shouldered young man with a shock of red hair, who tapped her partner on the shoulder and then gathered her impatiently into his arms.

"Hello, Linda Phillips," said a low, exciting voice. I told you I'd be seeing you again."

Linda looked up, swaying dizzily as her eyes met those of the man smiling so boldly, so lazily down at her.

"Greg!" So he had kept his promise. There had been something strangely fascinating between them, and he had come again! Thrilled she could only move slowly across the floor in his arms. For Linda, the evening was complete.

It was nearly four o'clock in the morning when Greg escorted Linda back to the apartment house and up to Diane's door.

Linda was as fresh and gay as though the evening had just begun. Only the fragrant gardenia she had worn was faded and crushed, and Linda eyed it ruefully. "That," she said sadly, "signifies the end of a perfect evening."

"You did enjoy it?"

"Oh, yes, Greg. I don't know when I've had such a good time."

"Then that makes me happy, too." Soberly he lifted her chin with one finger, until his eyes met hers.

"Good-night, sweet little Linda," he whispered. "I'm not going to say good-bye. Fate has a strange way of playing tricks with us. Who would have guessed I'd walk into Diane's smoky, noisy apartment this afternoon and find a vision of white smiling into my eyes."

He drew her, unprotesting, to him, tilting her face to his. "That vision was you, Linda, and I have a feeling we'll meet again soon."

Then, simply and naturally, she was in his arms, and his lips found and claimed hers in a long gentle kiss that caused her to sway weakly, her pulses to race.

"It's odd," she murmured thoughtfully, "but Diane prophesied today that a kiss from a handsome prince might change the entire course of my life."

"Thank you for letting me be your prince," he said. His voice was not steady, "Good-night, Linda."

"Good-night," she answered, softly, before trembling fingers found the door-knob and the door closed between them.

A lamp had been left burning, and by its dim light Linda found her way to the guest room where Sally lay sleeping peacefully. But beside her, Linda turned and tossed until the first rays of the sun touched the room. Each time she closed her eyes it was to see again a vision of Greg Hollister smiling down at her—that intimate, fleeting smile; to hear again his low, caressing voice.

"Perhaps," she whispered half-hopefully, half-fearfully, "I'll have forgotten all this by morning." But inwardly Linda knew she had known no moonlight infatuation. There had been something compelling in Greg's manner. Something that had made her forget completely her sweetheart in Prairievale. Even now, Kyle seemed a shadowy figure in her dim past, and only Greg was vital, important. Only Greg mattered. "So Diane's premonition was right," Linda told herself. "I am a new person. I've just begun to live!"

Bonderized Steel, Tin Substitute, Will Be Produced

Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 18 (CP) — Construction is under way at two local steel plants of facilities for manufacture of a substitute for tin, known as bonderized steel, which will be in production early in October, it was learned today.

Transfer of patent rights controlled in the United States has been approved and U.S. authorities have also granted necessary priorities to enable the local concerns to start production of the metal, which is expected to relieve the shortage of tin experienced for some time past.

The tin substitute is said to have been in production for the past year in the United States, with success.

Nations Headed For Shortage Says Chairman

Washington, Aug. 19 (AP)—The United States and the other United Nations are headed for an acute food shortage, Chairman Hampton Fulmer (Dec.-S.C.) of the House of Representatives Committee said today.

It will come about the end of 1943, he predicted in an interview, and "the officials and bureaucrats handling the program now won't do anything about it until it smacks them right in the face."

Fulmer said he based his belief on a growing shortage of farm labor and what re rescribed as an increasing tendency to disregard the problems of the farmer.

Meanwhile, the War Production Board's Food Requirements Committee headed by Agriculture Secretary Claude Wickard recommended government allocation of meats to butcher shops and other retail outlets to permit equitable distribution of limited supplies.

The only solution he could see to the farm-labor problem, Fulmer said, to boost farmers' income to permit the payment of wages that could compete with off-the-farm pay.

He expressed the opinion Leon Henderson and the office of Price Administration "are hell-bent and determined to destroy agriculture asd the small independent business concerns and their employees."

Successes Accumulate In Solomons Offensive

Allied Headquarters, Australia, Aug. 19. (CP)—The final expulsion of Japan from the Solomon Islands apparently rested today on the completion of two tedious, difficult jobs—the mop-up ashore where United States Marines have landed and the consolidation of naval mastery in that South Pacific zone.

This still was a triple-header operation of major magnitude, involving land, sea and air forces, but every indication in the absence of official fact and figure pointed to accumulating successes.

The Japanese radio's only reference to the battle today was a commentator's warning that the United States onslaught might lead to further attacks on Japanese-held territory "or even on Japan herself".

'No Thought Of an Election' Says Hepburn

Toronto, Aug. 19 (CP)—"There is no thought of an election", Premier Mitchell Hepburn said today in commenting on reports that his trip to Sault Ste. Marie, Fort William and Port Arthur indicates a Fall election. He said the trip, which starts tomorrow, is "a business trip, had no connection with an election and election talk is just in fertile mind of people with great imaginations".

"Absolutely no political significance is connected with this trip", Mr. Hepburn declared. "I have not been there for some years and people have been asking me to come up. Consequently, I'm going."

The Premier will go first to Sault Ste. Marie, likely on Friday, but will not speak there. He will also visit the Helen Mine and later go to Port Arthur and Fort William where he will address public meetings. He will also inspect the new Geraldton-Hearst highway, the connecting link in the Trans-Canada Highway now completed. He may also speak at Sault Ste. Marie when he returns there next week.

Kiwanians Hold Business Meet

At the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club held at the Queens Hotel on Tuesday, plans were outlined for the holding of the annual fall Kiwanis Carnival and the reports received from General Chairman Jack McVeigh and chairmen of the various committees were most encouraging. The publicity campaign is well under way under Bert Reid and cards have been placed in all prominent places in the district. All the feature attractions, "the Miss War Worker" and "Junior Girl" contest are progressing favorably. There was no speaker at the luncheon and a business meeting was held with Jack Trudeau presiding. Eddie Shapiro collected the fines when he had the box and Harold Carruthers was song leader. Alec Gordon presided at the piano in the absence of Leo B. Riggs.

The members of the club and their wives and sweethearts will be guests of Fernleigh Lodge, in North Hastings, on Wednesday next when a fish dinner will be served. Frank Domenico, in charge of Inter-club relations has this trip in hand and any information required can be obtained from this member. The members also dug down for a contribution to the "Hope Chest," which the Kiwanis ladies will conduct at the carnival, the same as in past years and from which the sale of tickets has yielded a large sum. The club is under a heavy expense in preparing the the Blood Donor Clinic centre and it is hoped the debt can be greatly reduced by the carnival proceeds.

Captured Youth Faces Charge

Toronto, Aug. 19 —(CP)—Twenty policemen laid siege to several blocks in North Toronto for two hours today to capture a youth in military uniform, said to be a member of the reserve admy, who was charged with assault and robbery of Mrs. Davida Anderson, post office employee. Police said she was beaten and robbed after alighting from a street car at 4.30 a.m.

Four shots were fired during the siege as the accused was spotted running around the houses.

Mrs. Anderson's purse contained only 25 cents.

The accused, Pte. John Sova, 17, appeared before Magistrate J. D. McNish and elected summary trial. Crown Counsel suggested the court should have medical evidence concerning injuries to Mrs. Anderson, and the case was adjourned to tomorrow.

Police said the woman was grabbed about the throat and was struck several times. The assailant then knocked her to the ground and fled. Mrs. Anderson, who works on the night shift at the post office, is confined to her home with severe shock and lacerations to her lip.

Elton Jackson Receives Wings At Yorkton, Sask.

Trenton, (Special)—Among those to receive their wings at No. 11 Service Flying School at Yorkton, Sask., on Thursday last was Elton (Bob) Jackson, nephew of Chief Constable and Mrs. W. Bain, Trenton.

While attending High School in Trenton, Bob became a sergeant in the Hastings & Prince Edward Regiment, Headquarters Company, under Col. B. C. Donnan. On Sept. 1st last he enlisted in the R.C.A.F. and received his training at Jarvis, Belleville, St. Eugene and Yorkton, Sask.

Observations on Police Convention

Chief Constable and Mrs. W. Bain have returned from Niagara Falls where the chief attended the 10th annual convention of the Ontario Police Association. A large gathering of police officers from all over Ontario were present and they had some interesting and educational discussions. Mr. K. M. Piper, special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the United States gave a most interesting paper on International Police Co-operation. Before the advent of the F.B.I. the Canadian policeman was looked on by Americans as a super-policeman mainly because of his record in dealing with crime and criminals. The members of the F.B.I. have now become the idols of the American public and this is due in the first place to the superior type of men who are chosen for this work. Seventy-five per cent. of the F.B.I. men have graduated as lawyers from colleges in the U.S.A. before being taken on as agents of the F.B.I. The other twenty-five P. C. have graduated in art, commerce or science, the result being that today the American nation has the service of the best brains of the country in their police work.

The Canadian policeman is realizing that in order to keep abreast of the times he must follow the American example and today in the city of Toronto and Hamilton there are several policemen on the forces who have graduated in the different law schools of Ontario. A resolution was passed at the convention requesting the government to set up schools in Ontario where all policemen will be compelled to take courses in police work.

The convention was also addressed on radio and its adaptability to police departments. This address was given by chief radio operator Professor Lawrence D. Geno of Buffalo, N.Y. A resolution was also passed by the association requesting the government to adopt a system of radio communication for the use of every police department in Ontario.

Mr. Telfer of Toronto gave a most educational and instructive talk on juvenile delinquency. This was also elaborated on by Judge Mott of the Juvenile court of Toronto. It was the decided opinion of all the members present that the proper method of attacking juvenile delinquency is through the church and school organizations, these having already been established, and it is through these channels that the other organizations such as service clubs, children's aid societies and police forces should work. In this way the problem could be met by laying out different means of recreation and sports thus helping to develop a stronger and healthier race of children. It was recognized by the convention that it is by training of the youth that the Axis powers have had such a measure of success on the battle fields of today.

Five Injured in Head-on Crash

Five people were seriouly injured in a head-on collision on Front Street, on Saturday night about 11.20 when a car owned and driven by Byron Fitchett of Cookston, Ont., ran into one owned and driven by Clinton Cooney of Frankford. Cooney was driving north at the time and perceived Fitchett coming south toward him and driving for some unknown reason, in a zig-zag manner. He came over on the east side of the street forcing Cooney to take the west side and just as soon as Cooney swung to the west side, Fitchett did the same thing and they collided head-on.

Constable Morgan of the local police investigated and found both cars had been badly wrecked, $125 damage being dope to Cooney's car and $250 to Fitchett's. Cooney was driving a 1929 Ford coach and Fitchett a 1938 Dodge sedan.

Passengers in the Cooney car were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith of Frankford. Mrs. Smith received face lacerations from flying glass and Mr. Smith's left leg was injured as well as deep cuts in his face. Mrs. Cooper of Catharine Street, Trenton, a passenger in the Fitchett car, received a possible fracture of the skull and a fractured left leg. She was rushed by Cobley's ambulance to Belleville General Hospital. Percy Dafoe, also of Catharine Street, another passenger in Fitchett's car, received severe lacrations in his forehead and lower part of his jaw. Dr. Byrne of Trenton, dressed the wounds of Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Mr. Dafoe.

Fitchett received a possible fracture of the left hand, also deep cuts over his nose. He was attended by Dr. Johnson. He was arrested by Constable Morgan for careless driving and is at present out on bail.

Struck by Car

Mr. Con VanAlstine who owns a service station on North Front St., was severely injured on Saturday evening, when struck by a car owned by Cyrus P. Garrison, Trenton, and driven by LAC Douglas Atkinson of 6 A.R.D., Trenton Air Station. Mr. VanAlstine was serving a customer at the gas pump, when the car driven by Atkinson coming north on Front Street, turned into the service station. It is alleged that he was driving in such a reckless manner that he approached the pump and pinned Mr. VanAlstine between the pump and the car. Mr. VanAlstine's right leg was severely injured and he is being X-rayed at his home to ascertain whether or not it is fractured.

Atkinson was arrested by Constable Morgan who investigated the accident and charged with reckless driving and driving without a permit. He is at present on bail.

Mr. Bird, after turning around chased the car and obtained the licence of same. Trenton police are investigating.

CHINESE REPULSE JAPANESE ATTACK

Thrust Westward to Close Gap in Railway is Foiled

Chungking, Aug. 18 (AP)— A determined Japanese attack aimed at closing the gap in the Kiangsi Province railway front has been hurled back after thrusting westward 12 miles from Shangjao, a Chinese army spokesman announced today.

The Japanese objective was Hengfeng, 24 miles from Shangjao, he said.

Simultaneously the Japanese drove wedges northwest and southwest from Shangjao to protect their central column from flank attacks, the spokesman reported.

The Japanese recently have transferred 1,000 or 2,000 soldiers from Haipong to Langson, in French Indo-China near the Kwangsi Province border, but this was a "minor activity without any special significance", the spokesman added.

The Chinese communique today, describing the same Kiangsi province fighting on which the spokesman reported, said the Japanese had captured four townships in Central Kiangsi.

7 Persons Indicted As Ring Leaders

Cleveland, O., Aug. 19—(AP) — A United States grand jury Tues. indicted seven persons as ringleaders in what District Attorney Don C. Miller termed "one of the greatest white slave rings ever uncovered" in the United States.

Miller and Federal Bureau of Investigation Agents said the ring's operations centred in Canton, O., and included New York City, Saratoga Springs and Glen Falls, N.Y., Meadville, Pa., Miami, Fla., Little Rock, Ark., Cleveland, Lorain, Akron and Zanesville, O.

Naming the seven as conspirators, the indictment charged they placed "women and girls in fear of physical injury by giving or administering physical punishment. . .For the purpose of making them continue in the practice of prostitution and debauchery and other immoral practices, to wit, illicit sexual intercourse."

F.B.I. men said scores of girls were involved in the asserted operations, covering the period from Jan. 1, 1940 to July 1, 1942.

No Exception Under Padlock Orders

Ottawa, Aug. 19— CP)—An official spokesman for Oil Controller G. R. Cottrelle said bluntly Mon. night that "no exceptions whatever" will be made in enforcing a padlock order on service stations convicted of violating gasoline regulations.

"The answer is a definite and unequivocal 'No.' " This official said in commenting on a request from Vancouver Service Station operators for permission to reopen their stations Wednesday instead of next Monday.

"No exceptions whatever will be made in the Vancouver area or elsewhere."

The Vancouver request was telephoned to Mr. Cottrelle following a meeting of 15 Vancouver Service Station operators.

Two hundred and twenty-three gasoline service stations, 33 of them in Vancouver, are affected by the closure order. In announcing the action Saturday, Mr. Cottrelle said the stations were padlocked because they had accepted loose gasoline ration coupons or coupons issued for cars other than those supplied with gasoline.

GERMANS DEALT JOLTING BLOW IN DIEPPE RAID

RUSSIANS TAKE INITIATIVE ON CENTRAL FRONT

Nine Hour Assault Hailed as Great Success By Allies

New Assaults on Nazi-Occupied Europe Predicted as Dieppe Lies in Flames

CASUALTIES SEVERE

By ALAN RANDAL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 20 (CP) — New assaults on Nazi-occupied Europe, attacks to make ruined Dieppe a mere sample of what full-blown invasion will be, were being predicted today with the forces of four nations barely ashore after the fiercest smash against the Nazi's gun-studded coast. Canadian troops spearheaded the nine-hour assault.

Power-driven barges and other vessels arrived along the home coast throughout the night bringing the tired troops back. The last wounded commandos were brought ashore during the morning, while squadrons of Spitfires and Hurricanes kept up their droning patrols overhead. Even after dawn small British fighter forces were seen streaking over the channel, some of them headed for Dieppe.

That Dieppe, once a bastion of German anti-aircraft defence and a sally port for Nazi submarines, lay flaming and shell-torn was of secondary interest.

What mattered was that Canadian, British, American and fighting French commandos — had stormed that formidable coast and had achieved every goal in a nine-hour battle engineered with such precision that it wound up within six minutes of schedule.

What mattered was that the Germans had been dealt a jolting blow where they had boasted they were invulnerable, that the Allies had massed fighting men and tanks and ferried them ashore at a strong point of the Nazi defences under cover of perhaps the greatest aerial umbrella in history.

The Canadians formed approximately one-third of the total personnel of all services combined. The Canucks were under Maj-Gen. J. H. Roberts, 51-year-old resident of Kingston, Ont., the highest ranking officer on the combined operation. It was the first time the Canadians engaged the Germans in fighting and they were declared to have acquitted themselves well.

(In Ottawa, Defence Minister J. L. Ralston said in a statement last night that "casualties were severe" but added that "our men battled their way forward, reaching objectives which included the destruction of many of the enemy's defence works."

(His statement did not indicate clearly whether the reference to "severe" casualties were applied to Canadians who took part in the assault, or whether it included casualties of the whole invading force.)

Strength Military Secret

The strength in manpower and air-naval might sent against Dieppe still is an Allied secret but it was announced in advance that the time still had not come for the liberation of France and that only a Commando raid was intended.

Canadian Airmen Give Troops Greatest Aerial Cover Ever Provided

ALLIES LOSE 98 PLANES

By ALAN RANDAL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

London, Aug. 20 (CP Cable)—Canadian airmen protecting their own troops from enemy air assault for the first time gave the Dominion's attack force in the battle of Dieppe the greatest aerial cover ever provided, it was indicated today.

Flying with the R.A.F., Spitfire and army co-operation squadrons of the R.C.A.F. formed a big proportion of the trans-channel shuttle service during the operations yesterday.

Some made two and three trips, pausing only long enough at their home base to refuel and reload with ammunition.

While Canadian losses were not announced—it is known Allied losses were 98 planes and the Nazis 91—The Canadian victory score stood at nine German aircraft destroyed and many probably damaged.

Expected to Rise

But these were just early figures on the Canadians' part in this amazing triumph over the German air force in French skies—amazing from the Canadian and Allied point of view because the losses were so nearly equal, whereas the Germans lost four and five to one in the Battle of Britain.

It is expected that the Canadians' tally will rise as all reports are checked and double-checked. It is likely that planes probably destroyed or damaged will run well beyond a score.

One quarter said "the early figures probaly will not do full justice to the Canadians' accomplishments."

At one station, while awaiting their dispersals for the takeoff on the third sweep of the day, Canadian pilots only then learned via radio that Canadian troops were taking part in this assault.

. lready at fever pitch, they were more than ever eager to sally out again.

Take Part in Escort Work

In addition to providing an actual umbrella for the assault troops the Canadian Spitfire Squadrons took part in escort work, accompanying United States Army Air Force Flying Furtresses on the raid on Abbeville, which was closely related to the Dieppe attack.

Papers Agree Attack on Dieppe Prelude To A Second Front

(By WILLIAM STEWART)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 20 (CP Cable) — The story of the alleged Commando raid on Dieppe exploded across the front pages of today's morning newspapers in stories which all agreed that the attack on the Nazi-held French port was the prelude to a second front.

The Express said: "We attacked one of the best defended points on the occupied coast in order to find out some more about German strength without revealing too much about our own."

The Cardiff Western Mail termed the "phychological effect" of the operation perhaps "even more important than the tangible military results."

"Nothing would affect the German people more profoundly than establishment of a second front," said The Western Mail.

The Glasgow Herald noted the "relatively prolonged nature of the daylight attack and very extensive provision for air cover" in addition to tanks pointed to the test as "preparations made for invasion of the continent on an immensely large scale."

The biggest Commando job of the war was opportunity's loudest knock in months for the military analysts and they made the most of it. They all agreed the operation was a success, though a costly one.

Morley Richards of The Daily Express wrote that the "real strength of the German land and air defences in western Europe now is known."

The Express in a special article by William Taunton entitled "The Canadians Prayed for This Day," pictured the raid as a "Rundstedt vs. McNaughton Duel" and compared the backgrounds of the Nazi commander-in-chief in western Europe and the Canadian army commander.

Cartoonists drew everything from tiny winged Commando troopers stinging Hitler over the caption "This is a record Summer for wasps" to towering blackfaced men stepping down on the French coast to slap Nazi Propaganda Minister Goebbels who recently dared the Allies to "land in France."

RESTRICT CHANGES IN JOBS BY NEW MANPOWER ACT

Prime Minister King In Radio Address Outlines New Plans to Keep all Working

RIGHTS RESTRICTED

(By FRANK FLAHERTY)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 20, (CP) — The time-honored rights of Canadians to work or not to work at all, to work or not to work for a particular employer are to be restricted in the interests of maximum mobilization of the nation's manpower.

In an address broadcast over the National network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation last night, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said no employer will be permitted to lay off an employee and no employee will be permitted to quit his employment without giving reasonable notice in writing, a copy of which must be sent to the nearest employment office.

This was one of a series of measures embodied in his proposed plan to bring all but "the very old, the very young, and the disabled" into their maximum usefulness in war activity.

Speaks of Dieppe

Speaking a few hours after announcement of Canadian participation in the Dieppe raid, Mr. King said it was a memorable day but warned that the United Nations have not yet begun to win the war.

"The danger is not only plainer than ever, it is greater than ever," he said. "We shall gain nothing by refusing to face the gravity of the situation. It should not be the occasion for despair but rather for grim determination. It is clearer than ever that the freedom of the world and with it the freedom of our own continent and our own country can only be saved by the exertions of all the United Nations".

Voluntary Recruiting to Continue

Contrary to some expectations, Mr. King did not announce immediate contralization of all mobilization activities under one authority. He said the Army, Navy and Air Force will continue as before with voluntary recruiting.

(Compulsory recruiting for the Army, however, will be transferred in the near future from the Department of National War Services to the Department of Labor under which National Selective Service now operates in relation to manpower for industry.

Russian Air Raiders Blast 3 Baltic Ports, Fires Left Blazing

Moscow, Aug. 20—(AP) — The Russian air raid two nights ago on the German Baltic coast cities of Koenigsberg, Danzig and Tilsit was described today by the Russian Army newspaper Red Star as one of the greatest mass operations of the Red Air Force.

The three cities were under continuous bombing by several squadrons for several hours, Red Star said. Tass, Soviet news agency, said that the large raiding force bombed military and industrial objectives in all three cities without a loss.

"As a result of the bombing many fires broke out in Danzig, including seven large ones, which were seen by the crews on their return way as long as visibility permitted," Tass went on.

"Sixteen explosions were registered, of which five were very powerful and sent forth bright flames and great clouds of black smoke.

"Ten fires broke out and two heavy explosions were registered in the vicinity of the port administration, warehouses and the Danzig dockyards.

"As a result of the bombing in Koenigsberg 13 fires broke out and heavy explosions were observed in the vicinity of the Western railway station. Four fires and one powerful explosion broke out in Tilsit. All our aircraft returned to their bases."

CANADIAN TROOPS SHOW MATCHLESS COURAGE IN ACTION

Col. Ralston Says It Is Duty of Canadians at Home to be Worthy of Youths Who Fought at Dieppe

WAR CARRIED TO HUNS

Ottawa, Aug. 20 (CP)—Defence Minister Ralston's reference to "severe" casualties in the massive nine-hour assault on the French coast town of Dieppe was interpreted today as emphasizing Allied military opinion that it was the biggest hit-and-run raid of the war.

"Casualties were severe," the Defence Minister said late last night. "For that we must be prepared, for war is a grim business."

While his 353-word statement dealt almost exclusively with the Canadian troops who formed one-third of the attacking force, Col. Ralston's associates quickly quieted fears that the Minister might be referring specifically to Canadian casualties, or that his statement was based upon anything but the general feeling that casualties in such a major operation would be large.

"It must be clear even to the layman," a source close to the Minister told The Canadian Press "that in an attack of such magnitude both sides are likely to suffer heavy casualties."

This was substantiated by the communique from combined operations headquarters in London that "casualties are likely to have been heavy on both sides."

Col. Ralston said also that "fighting was severe," but he added:-

Canadians' Matchless Courage

"Reports from our commanders overseas clearly indicate that in this, their first actual contact with the Germans, the men of Canada's new army bore themselves with stout-hearted resolution and matchless courage."

FOUR AXIS PLANES DESTROYED

Cairo, Aug. 20 —(AP)— British fighters destroyed at least four enemy planes in a sudden increase of aerial activity over the Egyptian battle front west of El Alamein, British Headquarters reported today.

The communique mentioned no bombing raids, however, and said there was nothing to report concerning land operations yesterday.

Ottawa, Aug. 20—(CP)—Distribution of the new permament ration book—No. 1—will start through the Dominion's post offices Aug. 24.

POLICE CAPTURE 2 NAZI PRISONERS NEAR THESSALON

Germans Offer No Resistance When Confronted by Provincial Police

ESCAPED SATURDAY

Sudbury, Ont., Aug. 20. (CP)—The two German prisoners of war who escaped from a Northern Ontario Internment Camp Saturday, were captured late last night by Ontario Provincial Police at Saube Crossing, about seven and a half miles east of Thessalon, Ont.

The two men, Hans Gibert, 26, and Walter Gloeckner, 25, were walking on the Canadian Pacific railway tracks towards Sault Ste. Marie when they were apprehended. They offered no resistance.

The arrest was made by a party headed by Provincial Constable G. B. Carmichael. When the police officers drew their revolvers and covered the two men they threw up their hands and surrendered without a word.

Seen Near Lake

Police said they had been informed that two suspicious looking characters had been seen near Dean Lake Tuesday evening. Following up this lead, they set a trap for the Germans, and patrols were stationed and ready in the nearby bush.

Two men had been missing from the camp since the morning roll call last Saturday. It was not known how they made their escape.

Gibert and Cloeckner are the 90th and 91st prisoners to escape from Canadian Internment camps since the begining of the war. Four were shot resisting capture and one, Sub.-Lt. Baron Frans Von Werra, escaped to the United States and from there made his way to Germany where he was subsequently reported killed in action. The rest were recaptured.

Retaking of Wenchow By Chinese Stabiizes Military Position

Chungking, Aug. 20 —(CP)—Chinese dispatches today said the military position in eastern China had been stabilized by Chinese recapture of Wenchow and the widening to 60 miles of the gap between Japanese forces seeking to strike from east and west toward each other along the Kiangsi railway.

The Japanese have made a number of efforts to close the gap, Chinese advices said, but now were reported digging in around Yingtan in the west and Shangjao in eastern Kiangsi.

Today's High Command communique said that following the recapture of Wenchow Japanese remnants around the town were mopped up.

175,000 FARMERS RECEIVE SUBSIDIES

Ottawa, Aug. 20. (CP)—The Department of Agriculture announced today that about 175,000 farmers in the five eastern provinces and British Columbia have received subsidies so far this year under the governments plan of paying subventions on fertilizers used on feed crops.

The subvention policy is being continued until December, 1943.

Subsidies will be paid in the fall of 1942 for fertilizers to be used on pastures meadows and fall wheat, the Department said.

ALLIED BOMBERS STRIKE NEW BLOW AT JAP WARSHIPS

Attack Made 400 Miles North of Tulagi Island — Results Not Known Yet

AUSSIE CRUISER LOST

Allied Headquarters, Australia, Aug. 20 —(CP)— Allied bombers struck a new blow in support of United States marines fighting to dislodge the Japanese from the Solomon Islands by blasting at enemy warships almost 400 miles north of the battle area yesterday, Allied Headquarters announced today.

The communique disclosing the attack also announced the loss of the 10,000-ton Australian cruiser Canberra in the first stages of the Solomon Islands battle while serving with United States naval forces under the command of Vice Admiral Robert Lee Ghormley.

Australian authorities listed casualties aboard the Canberra—which carried 816 men—as 84 dead and 109 wounded. Among the fatalities were the commander, Capt. Frank Getting of Sydney.

All Planes Return

The announcement concerning the aerial assault on Japanese naval units yesterday said merely that Allied heavy bombers had attacked enemy warships near Faisi—a small island near Bougainville at the northern tip of the Solomons—with unknown results, and that all the raiders had returned safely despite heavy anti-aircraft fire.

The announcement constituted the first official mention of operations against Japanese naval units in the Solomon Island area since the battle in which the Canberra was lost almost two weeks ago.

The Japanese fleet was reported to have withdrawn northward after that engagement and there has been considerable unofficial speculation concerning its whereabouts.

Attack Town in Timor

In addition to the attack on the enemy naval units, Allied bombers made a low-altitude raid yesterday on a Japanese-occupied town in Timor, far to the northwest of Australia.

Prime Minister John Curtin praised the Canberra's men in a message of sympathy to relatives of those lost in the action.

"The battle record of this ship, bearing the name of the national capital, will add another illustrious page to the imperishable record of Australian forces in this war," he said.

The Canberra was the first Allied casualty in the battle of the Solomons to be identified by name. The United States navy previously announced the loss of one cruiser and said two cruisers, two destroyers and a transport had been damaged, but did not identify the vessels.

Brisbane, capital of Queensland and one of the largest cities on Australia's east coast, had a short air-raid alarm early today, but there were no reports of bombs being dropped.

Hint at Increase of Tea Ration If Supplies Arrive in Some Quantity

Ottawa, Aug. 20—(CP) — They qualified their statement with two or three wartime "ifs," but informed sources said today an increase in the tea ration of one ounce a week for each person over 12 years of age is something to which Canadians may look forward with a degree of optimism.

When the increase may come depends on the success of United Nations ships in traversing 8,000 miles of hazardous water from sources of supply in India and Ceylon, they said, but if supplies do reach Canada in some quantity the courage and skill of Allied merchant seamen will be reflected in more frequent and stronger—tea.

It was understood that the one ounce ration was a minimum, announced Aug. 2 after consideration of the stocks on hand and the shipping situation. Had the ration not been set low, stocks on hand would have been depleted rapidly without any certainty of their being replaced for a considerable time.

"It was considered best to set the ration low to spin out supplies in sight as equitably as possible and make upward adjustments later "if new arrivals made this possible," one official said.

"The rationing of tea could not be accomplished without the rationing of coffee because the difficulty in obtaining the normal supplies of tea would have placed an intolerable burden on coffee stocks as buyers sought the more acceptable substitute.

"But while coffee has been obtained closer to home than the tea taken from India and Ceylon, its procurement is not without difficulty and it does not follow that increases in the coffee ration are any more probable than those for tea."

Before the war, Canada imported about 42,000,000 pounds of tea a year and ships made the trip from the Orient in an average of six weeks. Now the voyage takes three or four months.

"If a ship carrying a tea cargo is lost, 1,000,000 pounds of tea — enough for 16,000,000 weekly rations—disappears," an official said.

Offensive Opens From Bryansk To Lake Ilmen

Carefully-Timed Series of Sharp Assaults Force the Enemy on Defensive

HOLD IN SOUTH

(By HENRY C. CASSIDY)
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Moscow, Aug. 20 (AP)—The Red army has taken the initiative in battles developing on four key central Russian fronts along the 400 miles from Bryansk to Lake Ilmen while holding doggedly before Stalingrad and in the Caucasus, battlefront dispatches reported today.

Centres of the Russian attack were listed as the Bryansk front, 210 miles southwest of Moscow; the salient 130 miles west of Moscow in the Vyazma area; the Kalanin-Rzhev salient, 130 miles northwest of the capital; and the Lake Ilmen front south of Leningrad.

(This was the first specific mention of Red army offensives of these fronts in Russian dispatches, although German communiques for days have told of desperate resistance there by Nazi forces hurled onto the defensive by strong Soviet attacks.)

No Complete Details

No complete details of the central campaigns were given, but the Russians said they had taken a heavy toll of garrison forces left to man the central and northern battleline while the Nazis massed their greatest strength for the Don Bend and Caucasus offensive.

"Great losses were suffered by the Germans on the Bryansk, western, Kalinin and northwestern fronts where the initiative in active military operations belongs to our troops," said Red Star, the army newspaper.

The Russians apparently were striking out along this whole line in a carefully-timed series of sharp assaults.

Wipe Out Bridgeheads

In the south, where the Germans concentrated newly-reinforced troop and air strength, the Russians said some Axis troops had forced a crossing in the elbow of the Don in their drive upon Stalingrad, but were "completely wiped out" on the east bank.

The communique report that Soviet soldiers had killed or rounded up all who made the thrust implied that they had regained full mastery of the east bank of the Don in the defence of western approaches to Stalingrad, industrial and shipping centre on the Volga.

Southwest of Stalingrad, a see-saw battle was reported in progress for a railway station on the Caucasian line from Kotelnikovski, 95 miles away.

Some Withdrawals

"Southeast of Krasnodar," it was announced, "our troops fought fierce defensive engagements against enemy tanks and motorized infantry. The Germans launched several heavy attacks, forcing our units back. Soviet artillery-

FUNDS TO ASSIST CIVILIAN DEFENCE

Belleville is Among 16 Cities to Which Offer is Open

Toronto, Aug. 20 (CP) — Civilian defence organizations in 16 Ontario cities will be recognized and assisted with funds and equipment providing such organizations are established by the local authorities, Attorney General Gordon Conant announced today.

This step is taken and approved by the Ontario Civilian Defence Committee, Mr. Conant said, because of their importance as centres where war industries are located and "because the general situation is becoming more serious."

"I am of the opinion we will have to extend civilian defence to every centre of any importance in the province just as far as our facilities and organization will permit," he said.

The municipalities to which the offer is extended are: North Bay, Chatham, Stratford, St. Thomas, Woodstock, Galt, Preston, Guelph, Belleville, Gananoque, Cornwall, Parry Sound, Brockville, Prescott, Midland and Collingwood.

"If and when civilian defence organizations are established they will be recognized and assisted according to funds and equipment provided by the Dominion Air Raid Precaution office," Mr. Conant said. "The civilian defence organizations of these municipalities will be inspected by officials of the Ontario Civilian Defence Committee when sufficiently organized and an inspection is requested."

Rangers to Teach Rough-Tumble Tactics to Men

Washington, Aug. 20. (AP)—The American Rangers who fought with the Canadians, British Commandos and Fighting French in yesterday's spectacular raid on the Dieppe area of France will teach their slashing rough-and-tumble tactics to still more American fighting men.

This is on the authority of Robert P. Patterson, Under-Secretary of War, who told a Press Conference today:

"Our participation in the Dieppe raid was by troops specially detailed to the Commandos for training and experience and they will be sed for instructors, both in Britain and the United States."

Similar training already is being given to soldiers in this country, he said, notably to the first special service force, made up of both Canadian and Americans, at a camp near Helena, Mont.

The Americans detailed to the Commando training in Britain, Patterson said, were commanded by Brig. Gen. L. K. Truscott, Jr., who was a member of the staff of Lord Louis Mountbatten, the Commandos' chief.

Jones' superb solos, it has been proven again that the Bible ably and clearly expounded is its own attraction—particularly in times like these. Farmers could not have been more busy, yet in an active farming community they gathered from miles around. Those responsible hope much good has been done. All expenses were just without appeals or collections, in answer to prayers of the people; statement of accounts is in the hands of Miss Peck, of Belleville, the conference treasurer. Rev. Geo. A. Adamson, one of the promotors, returned in time to join in closing days. Conference may be continued another year, if so decided.

Mr. W. E. Tummon, ex-M.P., Foxboro, winner of Field Crop Competition, sponsored by Belleville Agricultural Society, for the Counties of Hastings and Prince Edward, has just finished threshing his prize winning field of Erban Oats, and reports a yield of 87 bushels to the acre.

NO CHARGES LAID AS YET AGAINST 14 PERSONS FOUND-IN

A large gallery of curious citizens were somewhat disappointed at the weekly session of County Police Court held before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd at the Court House Thursday morning. The inquisitive populace were citizens who had hoped to hear charges of violations preferred against the occupants of a residence on Sidney St., commonly known as "The Goat Farm," which was raided by Provincial Police last Sunday morning when it is alleged by the authorities that a quantity of beer and ale was found in the premises along with 14 persons, who police say, were consuming the beverage illegally. However, Provincial Police had not preferred charges today, but stated the matter would be brought before next Thursday's court.

JUVENILE STEALS $14 FROM GAS STATION

A juvenile entered the Shell Gasoline station situated at the corner of Bridge and Coleman Sts. Wednesday afternoon and stole $14 from the cash box. The robbery was committed while station attendants were engaged in servicing a motor car outside. Later Belleville police aprehended the 'teen-aged thief and recovered $12, revealed Acting Chief Harman today.

TRENTON SOLDIERS TO DONATE BLOOD

Sixty-five members of the Second Battalion of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment from Trenton will arrive in Belleville by bus at nine o'clock Sunday morning. The unit will gather at the Market Square and parade in uniform to Kiwanis Centre on Dundas Street, where they will donate blood to the Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic. The parade will be in charge of Lieut.-Col. B. C. Donnan, commanding officer of the Regiment.

FINED FOR FAILING TO ATTEND PARADE

Charged with failing to attend military training in the reserve forces of the Dominion, Malcolm R. Rose, of Tweed, was fined $11.25 including costs, when his plea of guilty was accepted by Magistrate J. L. Lloyd in County Police Court here today. It marked the first time such a conviction had been registered for failing to attend drill, in Canada's reserve forces, in a local court. Rose is attached to the reserve army and admitted being a man of military standing did fail to report for parade or drill after being duly notified. Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C., prosecuted the case while Chief J. C. Hayes of Tweed preferred the action upon authorization from Ottawa after Rose had failed to attend parade in Tweed recently. A similar charge was preferred against Thos. Lindale, of Madoc.

SERGT. PILOT KEMPTON-WEROHIA

(New Zealand)

Full Air Force honors were accorded Wednesday morning at funeral services at All Saints Church, Ottawa, for Sergeant Pilot Blyth Kempton-Werohia, of the Royal New Zealand Air Force, who was killed in a crash in Lake Ontario, near Picton, on Friday last.

Sergeant Pilot Kempton-Werohia was to have been married this Saturday to Miss Margaret Mary Humble, Ottawa. Miss Humble and members of her family were among the mourners at the service.

The body was brought to Ottawa on Tuesday evening and rested at the parlors of George H. Rogers, Limited, 172 Elgin Street, until the time of the church service which was conducted by Rev. R. J. Flander, assisted by Flight Lieut. A. I. Higgins, R.C.A.F. chaplain.

Following the service, the casket, draped with a New Zealand Air Force flag, was carried from the church on the shoulders of fellow New Zealanders and Canadian pilots while the escort and firing parties came smartly to attention.

The casket was placed aboard an Air Force tender and the cortege moved off for Beechwood cemetery, where interment was made.

Flying Officer J. Lalonde, Rockcliffe and Pilot Officer Hughes, of Picton, were in charge of the funeral party of airmen while other officers present included Flight Lieut. O. Evans and Flying Officer E. W. A. Drake, both of the New Zealand Air Force.

The young airman is survived by his parents, Captain and Mrs. Kempton-Werohia, of Taranga, N.Z., a sister, Diane, a nurse in New Zealand and a brother also in the New Zealand Air Force.

Among the floral tributes were those from the High Commissioner for New Zealand and his staff; Royal New Zealand Air Force; Officers and Men of "B" Flight, Bombing and Gunnery School at Picton; Senior N.C.O.'s of Picton; Officers of Picton; Airmen of Picton; and the Girls of Sixteen Millimeter.

Mrs. Harriot (Evans) Crozier, widow of Major J. A. G. Crozier died in St. Catharines on Tuesday, August 18. Her late husband was a son of the late Dr. Crozier, who was a resident of Belleville many years ago and the family resided on William Street, north of Victoria Avenue.

Interment will take place in Belleville Cemetery on, Friday about one o'clock p.m.

POLICE COURT

Highway Traffic and L.C.A. cases constituted the majority of cases heard in the Thursday morning County Police Court here before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd today.

James Martin, Toronto, paid $25 in all after pleading guilty to two charges of violations of the H.T.A. those of driving without a permit and also of careless driving. Convicted of speeding in a restricted area, Harold Greenhalgh, also of Toronto, paid $7.50 including costs, while several other such charges were laid over for a week owing to the failure of summons service.

"I have no instructions to proceed with such cases as this. Anyhow its a Federal case under the Wartime Prices and Control Board," remarked Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C., when the name of Harold Garrison and Clara Townsend, both of Thurlow, were called to face charges of violations of the Wartime Leasehold Regulations. "There are no Board representatives here to present the charges, so I will ask for an enlargement", concluded Mr. Donnan. The matter will be heard next week.

Liquor charges brought fines of ten dollars and costs from Gordon Bateman of Springbrook, Elwood Wilson of Stirling, Thomas McNally of Deloro and Thos. Maloney of Marmora.

Traffic Officers W. G. Milton and J. H. Hatch preferred the traffic counts, while Provincial Constable Robt. Morrison presented the violation of the L.C.A. charges.

"MOOSE" FULTON NOW MISSING

Only a few days before he was reported missing on a bombing raid, Wing Commander John "Moose" Fulton, D.C.O., D.F.C., A.F.C., of Kamloops, B.C., was honored by the lord mayor of London on behalf of the people of his home town. Grinning with embarrassment he never showed when he was pounding the Germans, Fulton stammered, "I'm not used to this sort of thing," thanked the mayor and citizens of Kamloops, and sat down. The last pictures of him were taken on that occasion. Here he examines the gift, a silver cigarette case, with his brother, Lieut. David Fulton.

Airmen From No. 5 I.T.S. Parade To Scene of Rotary Carnival

With a squadron of planes from the Mountain View bombing school roaring overhead in formation flight and a detachment of airmen from the No. 5 Initial Training School parading along Front Street thousands of citizens lined the main streets of Belleville last night to subsequently journey to Victoria Park and take part in the annual Rotary Carnival.

By kind permission of Wing Commander Snetsinger a detachment of airmen from the No. 5 I.T.S. training centre with rifles and fixed bayonets attracted the attention of Belleville and was headed by the I.T.S. bugle band for a parade that preceded the Rotary Carnival on Victoria Park. The airmen marched with military precision that brought applause from the spectators who lined Front St. The parade was under the command of Flt.-Lieut. A. C. Hinton, and the entire picture was enhanced by the sudden appearance of a squadron of bomber planes from the Mountain View R.C.A.F. base.

President Lloyd Hicks of the Belleville Rotary Club, expressed his personal thanks today to the commanding officers at both Mountain View and the No. 5 Initial Training School for their co-operation in assisting the Rotarians in their current carnival. "Especially we might mention the fact that the personnel of the No. 5 I.T.S. has been an inspiration in the guidance of the local unit of the Air Cadet Squadron, sponsored by the Belleville Rotary Club," added President Hicks today.

Again last night the true carnival spirit reigned supreme at Victoria Park where the Queen City Shows are attracting large crowds for the Rotary Carnival. Receipts derived from the carnival will be given into the Rotarians' "crippled children's fund," a charitable institution in itself that must function regardless. The R.C.A.F. band from Trenton will parade tonight.

Hastings Loses Pioneer Resident In Death of Benj. Lavender, Marmora

Marmora (Special)—In the passing of Benjamin Lavender at the residence of his son William D. Lavender on Wednesday evening the village of Marmora has lost an interesting and much respected resident. About six years ago the deceased came to reside with his son and although then an octogenarian, took a keen interest in affairs in general and enjoyed renewing of old acquaintances and the making of new ones in the village. His long life of eighty-six years was blessed with excellent health until a few months ago when he contracted the illness which proved fatal.

Born in Tudor Township

He was born in Tudor Township North Hastings on Nov. 30th, 1855. His father, whose name also was Benjamin was a native of the county of Norfolk, England. He served in the 26th Cameronians and after being in the West Indies and other parts of the Empire on active service, purchased a shanty in Tudor Township, eight feet by ten feet which had been put up with block and tackle by two sailors who in Bermuda had seen an attractive advertisement offering them free land in North Hastings The late Mr Lavender often related that wh-n he was born there were "nothing but Indians around." His mother, Amelia Quiltrough found the district a contrast to her native Bermuda.

Drove Oxen at Seven

Possessing a strong voice and ready flow of speech that many public speakers might well envy, this hardy old veteran would remark "I can say I was driving oxen when I was seven. My father when plowing had difficulty in keeping the oxen in the furrow so I had to walk along with the oxen to keep them in I chopped fallow for ten years before I was baptised. There were nine of us baptised that day in a farm house. Ministers used to walk as far as Bancroft from Belleville. It was an Anglican minister from Belleville by the name of Jones who baptized me (presumably the late Rev. Septimus Jones).

Another of his claims was that he had lumbered all the way from Quebec boundary to the head of Lake Superior. He spent nine winters in New Ontario during which he never wore a cap. "Talk about adventures," he said on one occasion, "Look here, no one has time to write them all down."

Married at 30

When he was about thirty, he was married to Minnie, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Sweet of Tudor Township, who predeceased him some years ago. After his marriage, the late Mr. Lavender went into the bush about a mile from where he was born to hew out his own home. In his life as a shantyman, he worked for the Gilmour, Rathbun and Page companies. It is noteworthy that when eighty-one years of age, he visited Glanmire his native district and working alone, tapped one hundred trees. One day he broke trail a mile long, where snow was in some places three feet deep. He cut the wood for the boiling of the sap and obtained the finished product without any assistance. Until few weeks ago, he followed the world events with closest interest, being an inveterate reader. He astounded all who knew him with his wonderful memory. Many will miss his cheery greeting and friendly attitude.

Ten Children Survive

Mourning his passing are ten children, Nelson, Glanmire; Richard, Windsor; Charles and Joseph, Wellington; Manley and William, Marmora; Carl, Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. F. Davidson (Beatrice) Millbridge; Mrs. A. Moore (Ida) Windsor and Mrs. V. McPherson (Alma) Windsor. Also surviving are two sisters, Miss Mary Lavender, Toronto and Mrs Keoecca Brown, Millbridge. The funeral took place on Thursday leaving the residence of his son, William D. Lavender at 1.30 p.m. for service at St. Andrew's United Church conducted by Rev. Dr. W. P. Fletcher. The interment was in Wellington cemetery.

Garage Operators Discuss Question Of Keeping Open After Regular Hours And on Sundays for Repair Work

Automobile repair stations if they so desire in Belleville will remain open on Sundays and after the regular seven o'clock closing hour now in effect for gasoline stations, it was decided at the regular dinner meeting of the Hastings and Prince Edward Garage Operators' Association held at the Y.M.C.A. on Wednesday evening.

The association's provincial body is desirous of obtaining the province-wide viewpoint of garage operators on the Sunday closing question pending the asking of a government ruling, but for the time being the matter will be left entirely up to the wishes of operators in the various municipalities.

Many centres throughout the northern part of the county have already by local agreement decided to keep only one service garage open on a Sunday, but due to the heavy transport traffic through this city, the plan was not thought feasible for Belleville.

Ask For Discounts

Concurrence in a petition regarding a recent government order defining who was entitled to discount rates on automobile parts was asked at the meeting by President George Jordan of Trenton with the majority of members present signing the petition.

President of the provincial organization, Jack Trudeau, gave a brief summary of the last provincial meeting held in Toronto at rates on automotive parts was asked tractor parts manufacturers for consideration regarding discounts on tractor parts. Many garage operators across the province do shop work on tractors and receive remuneration only for the work involved. Several tractor companies have expressed willingness to cooperate with garagemen in the matter.

President Jordan Resigns

President Jordan surprised Garage Operator members by announcing his resignation from office after fulfilling the position since his election early in the year. Shortage of labor to handle his business has made it impossible for Mr. Jordan to attend all meetings and in the interests of the organization, he thought it was better to resign. A new president will be appointed at a future directors' meeting.

Owing to the inability of the Y.M.C.A. Women's Association to cook for the dinner, the ladies of Holloway Street United Church catered to the dinner meeting.

Arthur Boudreau, Home on Leave, Tells of Torpedoing of His Ship

Survivor of a German torpedoing in mid-Atlantic, Arthur Boudreau, 20, son of Mrs. A. Boudreau, 381 1-2 Front Street, member of the Free Merchant Marine, and ex-member of the local 34th Battery, is home on leave.

In a little less than one year as a member of the merchant marine he has experienced the comparative security of travelling with dozens of other ships convoyed by warships of Allied navies, and has also seen his boat beat a lone path through ocean lanes to fall prey to a lurking submarine.

One morning early last spring while a crew member of a Canadian freighter which was plowing her way through the Atlantic swells a submarine hove in sight out of the mist and sent a torpedo through the stern of the craft.

"Although the boat sank in about eight minutes, every member of the 23-man crew got safely away", related Arthur. "The captain and first mate would not leave the boat after ordering the crew away and were forced to jump into the water as boat settled rapidly".

The two men were picked up by the submarine crew and later transferred to sunken ship's lifeboat. After four hours in the lifeboat, the entire crew was picked up by a fine freighter, bound for the west coast of Africa.

U-Boat Commander Apologizes

"The U-boat captain was not a bad sort", related the Belleville boy. "He hailed us in almost perfect English with the words "Sorry boys, but it had to be. There's a war on you know". The crew was furnished sandwiches by the Germans.

A member of the crew wanted to know if the U-boat commander was Nazi or Italian. "Neither", was the reply, "I'm a German".

The Canadian freighter's crew was landed in Free French Africa, where twelve of the negro crew members took time off to visit their homes in the interior. The Canadians waited their chance to ship with boats bound for the United States or Canada. Arthur shipped to New York with a freighter.

Norwegian sailors are fine fellows, according to Arthur, who has nothing but praise for the treatment received during forced passage on their boats. Norwegian boats are the finest in the world, he says. In his less than twelve months at sea he has visited many world ports and has a treasured snapshot record of all his ports of call.

Sailors in the Free Merchant Marine receive "about $110 a month", according to Arthur, and although he admits it is a hard life he says he's going back when his leave is up. Early in the war he enlisted with the local 34th Battery and was stationed in Eastern Canada for a time before he was discharged owing to a sight difficulties.

Thousands, of Chinese on Verge Of Starvation, Need Our Help; Tag Day Will be Held Saturday

Six Chinese Girls from Toronto Will Assist Local Canvassers

LETTER FROM CHINA

After five long years of privation as the result of treacherous Japanese invasion of their homeland and the ruthless bombing of their homes and cities, thousands of Chinese have either starved, or are on the verge of starvation, as food prices soar almost beyond the reach of even the most wealthy families.

That starvation is rife in the war-torn land of our long-suffering Chinese ally is indicated by excerpts from a letter received from a sister in China by Mr. William Wong, of the Paragon Cafe, here.

"In a large majority of the cases whole families have starved and many others are on the verge of facing the same fate," writes Mr. Wong's sister. "This deplorable condition is attributed to the fact that food prices are soaring beyond reason. The average civilian must now subsist on a daily menu of two meals of rice gruel and well-off families of a few years ago have become destitute to the point of paupers."

We, in Canada, seldom realize the conditions of extreme hardship that can prevail in a war-torn country like China. There the situation is really desperate and only a miracle can save thousands of hopeless people from a terrible death.

Belleville residents will be given their opportunity to assist in this worthwhile endeavor on Saturday when the St. Julien Chapter of the I.O.D.E. will hold a tag day in aid of the Chinese War Relief Fund.

The co-operation of the Belleville Chinese Patriotic Federation has been proffered to help make the tag day a success and six Chinese girls from Toronto will be in the city to assist local taggers.

Give all you can spare for this worthy cause. What you have t offer will do much for the relief of widespread suffering and will be greatly appreciated by our Chinese allies.

NINE HOUR

Only the Germans, apparently to sugarcoat the bad news at home that the Allies were showing their strength in greater measure than ever before, pretended to believe this was the actual start of the second front.

Both sides suffered heavily, ashore and in the air. Combined Operations Headquarters announced today that 91 enemy planes definitely were destroyed in addition to some 100 others counted as probably shot down or damaged.

Ninety-eight British planes were lost but these were the only losses out of probably 1,000 aircraft in action on the Allied side. Thirty pilots shot down are known to be safe, it was announced.

All Aircraft Aloft

Every Royal Canadian Air Force Fighter Squadron was aloft along with British and American aircraft. Twenty-four United States Army Air Force Flying Fortresses, accompanied by R.C.A.F. fighters, made diversionary raids on other Nazi-occupied coastal points.

Canadian army co-operation squadrons were in action for the first time, flying American-built Mustangs, reputedly the fastest reconnaissance planes in the world. No details of the part the Canadian squadrons played in the attack were disclosed but the Press Association's air correspondent, writing of the Army Co-op commands' contribution generally, said that when the full story is released it "will tell of the great dash and daring of the Mustang pilots."

Prepare For 2½ Years

The first formation of the army co-ops arrived in Britain in February, 1940, and like the Canadian commando troops, they have been preparing for 2 1-2 years for just such an action as the Dieppe operation.

Many of the commandos came back with wounds, the majority minor. This, too, was to be expected; the storming of an enemy shore is one of the most difficult of all military operations—so forbidding that the Germans, even at the crest of their strength and at the depth of British power, never ventured such a channel crossing.

Although ambulances and hospital trains carried off some of the men from the waterfront, and the floor of a former dance hall soon was filled with the slightly wounded, many of the others stepped ashore from their power-driven, sea-going barges elated and singing despite their fatigue and the grime of battle on their torn uniforms.

Analyse Results

Allied military leaders already have begun analysing the results and British military experts said that if investigation bears out the first indications of success, the uneasy Nazis on guard along the coastline of western Europe might be pounded by more heavy attacks by land, sea, and air.

Each assault, they said, probably will seek to eliminate a focal point of German defence—like Dieppe—in preparation for the day when they cross the channel to stay across.

These experts discounted the importance of having destroyed a radio-location base at Dieppe and the demolition of coastal defence and anti-aircraft batteries.

The real results, they said, were:-

1. Ample proof that the British navy and the R.A.F. still rule the English Channel and the air above it.

2. Invaluable lessons in army-air co-operation, in battle tactics and in landing methods—for weak points in British operations since the outbreak of the war have been in land-air co-ordination and landing techniques.

Can Now Be Assessed

3. Prospects of establishing a permanent bridgehead for landing an invasion army now can be assessed—and the problem of whether such a bridgehead might be opened in the fall and held through the winter also may be reviewed.

4. The real strength of German land-air defences in western Europe now probably is known to the Allied high command. One informed air source also stressed the blow to the German Air Force in the nine-hour battle.

Probably one-third of the Nazis' fighter strength in western Europe was destroyed in one day's fighting, he said, and the estimate of 100 German planes probably knocked out of action can be regarded as conservative.

Not only was enemy fighter strength depleted, this source said, but German bomber squadrons, weak in western Europe since Hitler invaded Russia, were drained by heavy losses inflicted by R.A.F. fighters and naval anti-aircraft fire.

Jeer at Nazi Claims

Informed Britons jeered at Nazi claims to have withstood the Dieppe assault "without calling up of reinforcements of important strength."

They said it was probable that the entire machinery of the German defence plan in the west was set in motion.

There was no confirmation of the German claim to have captured 1,500 prisoners or to have destroyed 28 armored cars. Some tanks, however, were known to have been lost.

Also without confirmation, the Nazis listed three destroyers, two torpedo boats and four transports as Allied sea losses.

To suggest that the attack was more than a raid, a special German communique broadcast by Berlin radio said 300 to 400 landing boats launched the first wave of the attack and that 35 transports stood by in reserve "to get into action as soon as the first landing wave had succeeded in forming a bridgehead."

French Not Notified

It was noted here, however that the vitally-affected French people received their first news of the landing from the official Vichy News Agency at 9:30 p.m. last night in the form of three dispatches datelined Berlin. There had been no published reports in Unoccupied France up to last evening.

British editorialists and experts warned Britons that the price of such operations was high but there was good reason to expect raids even on cities some distance from the coastline where the Germans have established anchors for their deep coastal defences.

The British press acclaimed the raid, not only for itself but also for its implications to Russia. Following so swiftly on the Churchill-Stalin conferences in Moscow, the News Chronicle commented, it was "psychologically most opportune".

Germans Are Jittery

To The Manchester Guardian Britain's best assurance that the Germans are jittery over their own "thinly strung" defence forces was the "hysterical tone" and "wildness of their claims" in trying to disparage the Commandos' successes.

Some air writers called the air battles the greatest of the war and the Daily Mail hailed the use of tanks and the air umbrella as "a great advance in Allied planning for a large-scale offensive which sooner or later is bound to come".

Although satisfied over the boldness in concept of the attacks and the daring in carrying it out, the Times suggested the Nazis' general defence line-up still had not been severely tested and that no accurate guage of the operation's success was possible until meagre first reports had been amplified.

RESTRICT CHANGES

Compulsory recruiting for the army is under the direction of Maj.-Gen. L. R. Lafleche, Associate Deputy Minister of National War Services, and the National Selective Service Branch is headed by Elliott M. Little.)

Close Co-operation Promised

In anticipation of this transfer, Mr. King said the two agencies will operate in close co-operation and regional war services cards will act as tribunals for appeals from decisions of National Selective Service.

Amplifying his forecast of employment control measures to be adopted, Mr. King said:—

"No employer will be permitted to interview or engage an applicant who has not secured a permit from an employment office. Permission to seek employment may be restricted to a given locality, industry, occupation or establishment.

"Control will be adopted over "Help Wanted and Situations Wanted' advertisements.

"After a fixed period, unemployed persons may be required to accept any suitable work and persons employed less than normal full-time may be required to transfer to available, full-time, suitable work of which there is a special need, or in other words, what is spoken of as work of 'high labor priority'."

Other Measures Announced

Other measures announced as in progress or to come included:

1. Development of day nurseries and other family welfare agencies in connection with increasing employment of women.

2. Curtailment or elimination of all non-essential civilian activities.

3. Continuance of labor training "on a growing scale."

Opening his speech with a review of the war situation, Mr. King said the Germans were advancing into the richest areas of southern Russia, threatening Russia and India and the Japanese were preparing to attack India

However much free peoples sympathized with Indian aspirations for self-government they could not "have any sympathy for a course of conduct which places in danger the freedom of mankind," he added.

At sea, the naval supremacy of the United Nations was threatened but the situation was not wholly dark. Russia and China, though weakened fought on. Offensive action from the British Isles base was increasing. Blows had been struck at Japanese power in the Pacific.

The government's manpower policy will "necessarily affect all but the very old, the very young and the disabled among us," said Mr. King.

Administer Without Favor

It will be administered without fear or favor and without regard to race, creed or class. The lives of the fighting men depended on reinforcements for their ranks and unremitting toil in civilian occupations.

"The efficient use of services of men and women for war purposes demands two things," said Mr. King. "It demands that the services of all persons not needed to maintain the health and efficiency of the people be employed directly for war purposes, Secondly, it demands that the services of the persons who are thus mobilized be employed in the most useful manner."

Compulsory service or conscription had been the law of Canada since 1940. Control and direction need not be wholly compulsory. Application of compulsion required men to enforce it. Unnecessary compulsion was a waste of time, labor and money.

"In times of peace compulsion may readily be kept at a minimum," said the Prime Minister. "In times of war, however, its use becomes increasingly essential to an all-out effort."

CANADIAN AIRMEN

A Canadian Army Co-operation Squadron, in its first big operation was considered one of the most important units in the attack and kept in the air from the outset of the assault until the troops departed from French soil late in the day.

From all squadrons as the weary aerial soldiers forsook their planes for much-needed rest came stories of action and heroism in this the greatest day of the war for Dominion servicemen.

One Canadian squadron, commanded by Sqdn. Ldr. Syd L. Ford of Liverpool, N.S., reported five German aircraft destroyed and three damaged.

Ford himself set the pace. He downed a Focke-Wulf-190 and a Messerschmitt-109 with Spitfire cannon.

PO. H. J. Murphy of St. Claire, Me., bagged another brace. Flt. Lt. George Hill of Digby, N.S., shared in the destruction of an FW-190 with Sgt. M. K. Fletcher of Terrace, Ill. Each damaged an Me-109.

Action Fast and Furious

The action was so fast and so furious there were times without number when the Canadians were unable to see the full effect of the damage caused to the enemy.

A unit headed by Sqdn. Ldr. Keith Hodson of London, Ont., accompanied the Flying Fortresses and met stiff opposition en route home. Then it went out into a still more desperate fight on the day's second excursion, when it added five probables or damaged.

Canadians from every province shared in the action.

There was PO. S. Murray of Halifax who watched cannon shells explode from 50 yards in a German's cockpit but the best he could claim was a probable though he followed the Hun a long way down in a deep dive. Another time he drilled machine-gun bullets into an enemy fuselage to claim a damaged.

Tore Away Fabric

Flt. Lt. J. Witham of Edmonton, Flight Commander in the same squadron, was credited with a probable and a damaged.

"Part of the enemy's fabric tore away and also part of one wing," he reported to the intelligence section. "I followed him down to 2,000 feet and saw black smoke pouring from the engine and last saw him still diving."

That was Witham's probable. Another attack got credit for one damaged. PO. Harold Westhaver of Regina also got a damaged.

Flt. Lt. R. W. McNair, D.F.C., of North Battleford, Sask, who recently distinguished himself over Malta, was another Canadian scoring a probable—an FW-190. He took part in the early-morning "umbrella" sweep.

"When we went over with other squadrons of Spits, we met just as many Jerries as over the channel, so we waded right in," said McNair. "From occasional looks at the ground we could see a helluva lot of smoke and plenty of flak coming up."

The Spitfires came back with plenty of battle scars and flak and bullet holes in the wings.

Among the pilots in this Spitfire squadron were Flt. Sgt. Sid Mills, Edmonton; PO. D. Donnelly, Benton, N.B., PO. Charlie Semple, Toronto; PO. Gordon M. Lapp, Medicine Hat, Alta.; PO. J Stott, Ottawa, and Flt. Sgt. Doug Mathison of Edmonton.

The squadron's second sweep provided the first action of the day for young Sgt. Gordon Gray of Toronto, who later served with a convoy escort to troop-carrying vessels returning over the channel.

Must Hav Gone For Tea

"They must have gone home for tea," said Bray, commenting on the absence of Nazi airmen during the final phase of the great operation.

Bray was a tired figure as he munched sandwiches after what he said was the most hectic day of his existence.

"It was most surprising not to see any Jerries about when those ships were stretched for miles across the channel," he said. "I couldn't see much of what happened around Dieppe on our last trip there was so much smoke."

A fighter squadron headed by 22-year-old Sqdn. Ldr. V. Chadburn of Oshawa, Ont., participated in multiple channel dashes, once testing its strength with 15 FW-190s, of which it shot down three and damaged another In a later encounter it damaged six Germans and still later added a single damaged to the toll.

FO. Hollis Hills of Los Angeles gained the honor of being the first Canadian army co-operation pilot to destroy an enemy aircraft.

FO. R. C. MacQuoid, St. Andrews, N.B., returned safely with a badly damaged aircraft, which nosed over. He radioed ahead:

"Here I come, no landing gear, no flaps, no nuthing."

PO. C. H. Stover of Sarnia, Ont., said he managed to elude a Focke-Wulf pack which had seemed to jump at him from above, and added: "They seemed to be in packs of four and I went down so low I didn't notice a cement telephone pole which clipped off half my wing."

Sqdn. Ldr. R. P. Begg of Vancouver, commanding an army Co-OP Squadron, supervised the operations of his crews.

Sqdn. Ldr. Norman Bretz of Toronto, who had just taken command of a well-known Canadian squadron from Sqdn. Ldr. R. E. Morrow, D.F.C., watched his men damage three enemy aircraft

Almost Enough To Go Around

He was heard to announce to the pilots over the inter-communications system, "there are almost enough of them to go around," as the Canadians dived from 8,000 feet onto the German formation.

Flt. Lt. Eric Land of Saskatoon said he was so close to his chosen Hun that the cross of his insignia stood out clearly in his gunsights as he shot off fuselage fragments.

PO. G. N. Keith of Taber, Alta. scrapped with two FW-190s at 100 yards' range and watched one fade away as he narrowly missed colliding with the other.

Sgt. T. A. Decourcy of Toronto, flying with an R.A.F. squadron, counted an FW-190 destroyed and a bomber damaged, and shared with Flt. Sgt. Watson of Toronto in destruction of another.

Sgt. A. R. McDonald of Hamilton, Ont., landed without trouble despite damage to the tail-wheel of his fighter in a brush with a Focke-Wulf.

Maximum Prices For Used Clothing Sold Established

Ottawa, Aug. 20 —(CP)— Maximum prices for used clothing sold in Canada were established by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in an order signed by S. Godfrey, administrator of used goods.

The order, effective Sept. 1, said that the maximum prices for used clothing on the basis of the highest prices charged during the basic period Sept. 15 to Oct. 11, 1941, must be observed. This means that if the prices charged during that period were less than the maximum allowed under the new order, the lower prices must be observed.

Discussing the new order, board officials said it was recognized that it would be difficult or impossible for a purchaser to prove that a particular garment was of the same type or make, or in the same condition, as a used garment sold in the basic period, since the price was governed so largely by style, color and age.

"Accordingly, the board has promulgated a list of maximum prices for the principal garments sold as used goods," a statement said. "The chief markets are in Montreal, Quebec, Toronto and Winnipeg, though smaller quantities are sold in many other centres."

WIDESPREAD OPERATIONS

Bits and pieces required in the making of a 25-pounder field gun comprise 1,286 separate parts and more than 300 accessories. 529 of these are sub-contracted to 70 firms in two provinces. The total equipment of the main plant is worth over $13 million.

Canadians in Dieppe Raid

The commando raid on Dieppe, harbor in France on the English Channel, ranks the heaviest of the assaults yet made against the enemy-occupied territory by troops from Britain. It is noteworthy in that Canadian troops were the largest group and that in this raid they numbered fully one-third of the participants, who included British, American Rangers, a select force of United States troops in Britain, who made the first attack of Americans on German forces in the north-western European theatre of war, and Free French who made the first landing on the coast of France since the collapse of the Republic in 1940, slightly more than two years ago. It was the first time that tanks were used on a commando raid. The powerful air support in which Canadian air squadrons had part was the largest co-operation work by the air force with any commando assault.

The attack on the Hun port and defences was marked by fierce fighting as the enemy put up stiff opposition and it is expected there were severe casualties.

Objectives of the Allies were achieved, destruction of enemy positions, testing of strength, information and experience. The raid may weaken Nazi air strength in Russia.

This is the first important action in which Canadian troops had opportunity to display in quite full measure their mettle and courage, their resourcefulness and training, and the people of the Dominion are assured that they gave a heroic account in their first real engagement.

It was some time since the officer commanding the Canadian Army overseas, Lieut.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, referred to the Canadian army as "a dagger pointed at the heart of Berlin." Thoroughness has marked their training and the army is or will be, according to the commander, the most powerful of armed forces.

In mid-July Canadians figured in the channel in a full-dress rehearsal in practice landings. On that occasion, the Royal Navy and Air Force co-operated in the exercises. That manoeuvre was accompanied by as much realism as was possible by approach to service conditions, even to a huge armada of ships putting out to sea twice during the rehearsal to stage manoeuvres for the success of an assignment so important as that of Wednesday's.

The warning given by the British broadcasts throughout Wednesday to the populace of France that this was a commando raid and not an invasion and that it had no association with the decisions just made at Moscow in the meeting of Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin and Allied military leaders was aimed at protecting the French people against misunderstanding and so protecting them against the enemy.

Hostages

One of the infamies for which Germany will be regarded with horror is the slaughter of hostages. Cold-bloodedly the Huns admit this most atrocious practice. So brutal have the Nazis become that there is no sense of remorse, shame or disgrace, no moral scruple.

To what depths would human life be plunged if the people who practice this method of warfare were to triumph! The United Nations will not wait to see what a Nazi world would be like. If such aggression could dominate, life would be worse than the conditions in Naziz-held Europe for there the fire of loyalty still burns, ready to strike the monster.

The Nazis recently issued a threat that hostages would be shot if persons said to have been involved in a Nazi troop train wrecking near Rotterdam, where Hitlerism and Nazism showed their brutal instincts by the slaughter of many thousands, did not surrender. The Germans now declare that five were shot in reprisal, the beginning of the butchery.

Shooting hostages not only reveals an anti-social instinct but implies weakness of the Nazi rule of life and of the Gestapo's inability to ferret out meet the situation. It implies German recognition of fear, which means that the Germans themselves have fear in their hearts and that fear is one of the ways to their defeat.

Method is the very hinge of business; and there is no method without punctuality. — Cecil.

"FEAR NOT, NOR BE DISMAYED"

Fear not, nor be dismayed,
Nor dread the night,
Behold within your soul
Eternal Light;
I Am—your inner power
Awaits your call,
Ask deeply and receive
For God is all.

Let none say, "I am sick,"
I Am is health,
Nor hold yourself in lack,
I Am is wealth;
Be not afraid to claim
The Divine power
Implanted in your soul,
Your spirit's dower.

No force on earth can hold
In chains your will,
Arouse yourself—I Am
Is master still;
Why clothe your soul in rags,
On pottage feed,
When in your father's house
Is all you need!

The Inner Presence speaks,
You are not clod,
You are triumphant life,
The child of God;
Be valiant then, nor fear
The host of night
The battle is the Lord's
And His the might.

All they who war against
His cause will fail,
The force of evil hordes
Shall not prevail;
With us, the Unseen Host,
With us, His aid,
Be valiant then, fear not,
Nor be dismayed.

THE FIRST TORPEDO

One day in the summer of 1863, when the Federal fleet was hammering Charleston, S. D., Dr. St. Julien Ravenel, a physician and agricultural chemist, had a discarded locomotive boiler loaded on a flatcar and sent to his plantation 30 miles inland.

There, unspied by Northern agents who by night floated information down the harbor in bottles to the blockading Yankees, Dr. Ravened supervised the transformation of the ancient boiler into a strange-looking boat conceived and designed by himself.

It was cigar-shaped, 30 feet long by 5½ feet wide, driven by a small steam engine. From the bow a hollow 14-foot shaft projected forward below the water-line. When taken secretely to Charleston and launched, the boat was submerged except for a 10-inch coaming around the hatch and a small smokestack. It was christened the David, because it was going out to attack Goliath.

On the night of October 5, 1863, Lieut. W. T. Flassel of the Confederate navy and a crew of three took the David unseen down Charleston harbor, past the battered hulk of Fort Sumter and through the Federal fleet to the flagship New Ironsides, then probably the most powerful warship in the world. Running at full speed, the David drove her projecting shaft, at whose end was affixed a contact torpedo, against the flagship's armored flank. As the torpedo struck, a thunderous explosion seriously damaged the battleship.

The David, though nearly swamped, got clear and returned safely to Charleston after the first successful torpedo attack in history. Suddenly and permanently the fear of torpedo attack had entered naval warfare. — Herbert Ravenel Sass.

Letter To The Editor

CO-OPERATION NEEDED

Calgary, Alta.,
August 14, 1942.

Editor, The Ontario Intelligencer,

Dear Sir,—

Because this reader believes that there is nothing which competition can do which co-operation cannot do better, I was keenly interested in that recent story from London, Ontario, (Aug. 1, CP): "Co-operation will supplant competition in the new order of economics that will follow this war, Hon. Frank Langstone, New Zealand High Commissioner to Canada forecast in a visit to this city Friday . . . ."

Along the vital food front the effects of ruthless competition have in past years, been particularly cruel; because —as you well know— we are the least organized section of the business community.

In this latter connection, permit me to quote an editorial note from my home town newspaper here in the West (Hanna Herald, Alta.) indicating that: "Farming is the oldest and most indispensable profession in the world—all other business would collapse if agriculture failed. Still, farming is the least organized industry". ..

I remember, in this connection, a vibrant statement by a famous rural leader on the prairies (the late Henry Wise Wood of Alberta), "Urban people seem to forget that two-thirds of the human family are still down on the farm . . ." In view of this fact it becomes plainer why the purchasing-power of "Agriculture", up and down the world's fields, is the greatest single factor in the economic health of the folks in the cities, towns and villages everywhere.

With due respect, may I just say that I think now is the time for the United Nations (yes, the whole 26 of them!) to get around the conference table and blue-print the essential conditions for "world agriculture" in the post-war years? The thing will have to be engineer-er, i.e., if "private profit interests" are not once more to take the controls, and lead us into another and a greater "depression"". This seems to me to be the clear duty of the respective authorities in the United Nations?

"Agricola".

THE BALANCE

I often say to Nellie: "Well, we've had our times of care,
Our ups and downs to travel and some burdens hard to bear;
We've been stung by disappointment, but who hasn't, now and then?
We have more than once been saddened and shall no doubt weep again,
But the Lord has blessed us richly, often smiled on you and me
And for all the gladness granted we should always grateful be.

"When the days are dark and stormy and the skies are cold and gray
We forget the pleasant mornings that have come and slipped away.
It is easier to turn bitter when some loss has made us sad
Than be patient, brave and grateful for the many joys we've had.
But let's run the past years over, balance loss against the gain
And it's nothing short of weakness if we whimper and complain.

"Care is here and none escapes it; grief is something all must know.
Soon or late men bow to sorrow by whichever road they go.
Life's a blend of sweet and bitter and of victory and defeat
And until we've learned to suffer it can never be complete.
So when heartache is our portion and we're desolate and sad
Let's remember and be grateful all the happiness we've had."

FROM WALLPAPER TO BOMBS

Incendiary bombs dropped on Tokyo by General Doolittle were made by American factories that a few months before were making wallpaper.

Wallpaper, like gunpowder, was a Chinese invention.

The first wallpaper used in England, France and western Europe generally was imported from China.

It was first employed as an economical substitute for the tapestries and other expensive wall decorations popular during the later middle ages.

Isaac Ware, in his "Classic Architecture" published in 1756, laments the fact that wallpaper "has taken the place of sculpture" and other forms of interior decoration.

The American colonists got their wallpaper from England and France.

Until after the Revolution wallpaper did not come in rolls, but in pieces that were sold by the ream.

It was not until 1790 that John B. Howell started the first wallpaper factory in America at Albany, New York.

Nine years later Nicholas Louis Robert of Essonnes, France, invented the first process for making wallpaper in continuous rolls.

In those days wallpaper was generally known as "painted paper" and "printed paper."

Middle-class houses in England in the 16th century were adorned with "painted cloths," which were hung like tapestries. Shakespeare frequently mentions these "painted cloths" and their pictures, often of Biblical scenes.

President John Quincy Adams was severely criticized by the newspapers for his extravagance in spending public money to paper the walls of the White House.

Wallpaper in rolls was not legally permitted in England until 1830 because the government obtained more revenue from the tax stamps required on each sheet of such paper.

It is believed that wallpaper was first used in China for decorating the walls of the tombs of mandarins.

During the war between the States several newspapers were printed on wallpaper in Louisiana and Mississippi because of the shortage of ordinary paper. One of the most famous of these was that published in Vicksburg while that city was under siege.

In the time of Benjamin Franklin's youth wallpapers were sold in New England, New York and Pennsylvania by booksellers and stationers.

It was customary in America after the Revolution to issue commemorative wallpaper when a notable person died.

During the French Revolution wallpaper was widely used for propaganda and advertising purposes.

Sensational Negro Hurler Beats House of David Team 8-1

Toronto, Aug. 20— (CP) — The name of Leroy (Satchell) Paige, the venerable flameball flinger from the canebrakes of the deep south, attracted 12,000 customers to Maple Leaf Stadium last night to watch the Kansas City Monarchs whip the House of Davids 8-1.

The bearded men from Benton Harbor, Mich., were no match for the negroes.

Despite the fact that, after the second inning, the game, from competitive angle, reminded one of a gent shooting tame ducks, the 12,000 customers remained in their seats to the very end. Incidentally 10,000 paid the usual tariffs, and [illegible] associates admitted men of the services free of charge.

Spy Suspects Rounded Up

Rio de Janeiro, Aug. 20—(AP)—The sinking of five Brazilian coastal ships recently, which has brought Brazil near to conflict with the Axis, was the result of "brazen operations of Nazi spies who informed on planned troop movements," a high fficial of the Government Navigation Line said today.

While Brazilian authorities indicated this country's intention of battling Axis aggression but refraining from an outright declaration of war, a general roundup of spy suspects was pressed in coastal cities.

Among those held was Wilhelm Koenig, head of the German Tourist Bureau in Brazil and regarded as one of the most important Nazi operators in Brazil.

News of Dieppe Raid Quickens Soviet Hopes

Moscow, Aug. 20 (AP) — News of the Allied raid on Dieppe, quickening Soviet hopes of a second front in western Europe, was displayed prominently in the Moscow press.

Communiques on the action were printed at the top of foreign-news pages.

There was no official comment immediately, but the population read the reports eagerly.

The papers also published British and American reaction on Prime Minister Churchill's meeting with Joseph Stalin, emphasizing that results of these talks would soon be apparent.

The Washington Post was quoted as saying "a strategic diversion in the west" would be the best way to aid Russia.

Field dispatches said the Russians were manoeuvring southward toward foothills of the Caucasian mountains, evidently as a prelude to a swing westward for the protection of Novorossisk and other Russian-held Black Sea ports.

THE WAR TODAY

By GLENN BABB
Associated Press Staff Writer

We have had our preview of the second front. Yesterday forces of the Western United Nations, Canada, Britain, the United States and the fighting French, broke into the defences of Naziland at Dieppe, maintained themselves for nine hours on the soil of Hitler's new Europe and returned to base on schedule.

For the first time an Allied landing on the continent has been carried out under the conditions, that will obtain when the commandos are followed by the great transport fleets filled with the army of Europe's liberation.

Goebbels' Propaganda machine, trying to convince the Germans and their slave peoples that Dieppe was the real thing and that it failed disastrously, pictured a mythical transport fleet lying offshore in the channel mists yesterday. But that was only a figment of the Goebbels' imagination; when it becomes reality the Nazis will have to invent new myths to explain the opening of a new and dreaded phase of the war.

This preview of the second front is at once an inspiration and a warning of the cost of the grim task that must be undertaken and carried through. The United Nations have done what Hitler has never dared attempt—even when Britain reeled almost helpless after Dunkerque—they have crossed the channel and landed with all the weapons of invasion of the enemy coast.

Dieppe was Dunkirk in reverse, with a mighty canopy of planes covering an offensive operation, not a retreat. It showed vividly how greatly the war situation has changed since the black days of June, 1940, for not even the dangerous position of the Russians in the Caucasus or the threat to Suez cah obscure the growing accumulation of evidence that the initiative is passing from Hitler's hands to the forces bent on his destruction.

Canadian army troops have fought on the continent for the first time since 1918. This landing, of course, was under far different conditions from those under which the stream of Canadians flowed through friendly ports when nearly all France was a beachhead for the Allies.

This time the re-establishment of the continental beachhead is a necessary preliminary to a march to the Rhine and beyond. Dieppe was the dress rehearsal for that vast and costly operation.

Yesterday's landing was admittedly costly. The Canadian people, whose sons formed the bulk of the landing forces—grimly welcoming the chance after two years of waiting and preparation — have been warned by the Dominion government to expect heavy casualties. Nearly 100 Allied fighter pilots were lost, with at least 68 pilots, a heavy toll even though offset by at least equally heavy German losses, which some experts estimated accounted for a third of the Nazi air power in the western coastal zone of operations.

The layman may ask for the justification of this expenditure of life and costly weapons. It is simply that so tremendously important an operation as the invasion of Naziland can not be undertaken without every bit of knowledge and experience that can be gathered—knowledge of the enemy's permanent fortifications and tactical dispositions and plans, experience of what the enterprise requires in the way of weapons, manpower and training.

The Dieppe raid was invaluable in its contribution to the Allies' fund of military wisdom. It tested their ability to land in daylight on a hostile shore, to maintain themselves throughout a day of bitter fighting on a hotly-contested beachhead and, most important of all, they proved the ability of their Air Forces to maintain over the narrow seas the powerful cover of fighter planes without which the invasion will be impossible.

PROPOSAL ENDORSED

Chicago, Aug. 20 (AP)—A proposal for "meatless Tuesday" in homes, clubs and public eating places was endorsed yesterday by the International Stewards and Caterers' Association at its annual meeting. The plan, suggested by the Federal Department of Agriculture as a means of combatting the current meat shortage, was approved "enthusiastically" and a meatless day in each of the next eight weeks will be held.

WEDDINGS

FLINDALL—GARBUTT

Christ Church was the scene of a very interesting wedding on Friday, August 14, when Doris Isabelle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Garbutt, Belleville, became the bride of Ernest Hilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Flindall, Belleville. Rev. G. G. Wright officiated.

The bride was charming in a powder blue sheer street length dress and matching accessories. She carried Sweetheart roses. Miss Florence Tap was bridesmaid in pale pink sheer, her dress being in the same style as that of the bride. Mr. Fred Ellis was groomsman.

A reception was held at the Queen's Hotel. Mrs. Garbutt, mother of the bride, in navy sheer and Mrs. Flindall, mother of the groom, in Monterey rose, received. Later the happy couple left for points east. For travelling the bride chose an ensemble of beige and brown with matching accessories. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Flindall will reside at 90 Gordon Street.

A big choice is available in the hat section, with something for every type and occasion. A large hat of beige suede jersey has a shallow brim curved up-out either side with a trimming of purple velvet grapes and green velvet leaves. Fine purple veiling.

You will note many more fabric handbags this winter. Designed for next season is a big handbag in heavily corded bright red faille made with a narrow closing flap held by a large gold buckle.

Removing Sunburn Blemishes

Lots of soap and water will help recondition the skin

By HELEN FOLLETT

STRAPLESS evening robes and off-the-shoulder-formals are going like a house afire, so the pretties must survey their throats, shoulders and backs. Of course, they can't see their backs, but mama can and will give a report. She will probably tell daughter that sunburn and tan have done some damage, in which event the young lady will have to appeal for help, have cream rubbed on and a sprinkling of boric talcum atop it as a whitening, softening pack.

This is the beginning of the skin reconditioning season. Lots of soapy water, plenty of scouring with a bath brush, plenty of creaming. Arms, legs, back, chest, must all be treated since bathing suits are as brief as the law allows. A tonic lotion used after the bath will help remove discolored skin scales.

If the back is to appear at best advantage the body must be carried tall. That's good for shoulder pose as well. It lifts the chest. Poor posture is the cause, many times, of sagging breasts.

Swinging Indian clubs will do a world of good to undeveloped breasts, flat chest and arms that are not up to the beauty mark.

After the bath, friction with cocoa butter. Begin at the fingertips, rubbing the oil into the cuticle around your nails. Then treat the knuckles, thumb the wrists, sweep up and down from shoulders to fingertips with the palm of the hand.

Dont wash away the oil. Remove it with cleansing tissues.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Bridal Pictures

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1.—It seems to be the accepted procedure for brides to pose for formal studio photographs a few days before the wedding, and then to have informal "shots" taken of the bridal party at the church and at the reception. Do you approve of this procedure.

2.—Is it consideed "unfashionable" for the bridal party to have studio photographs taken immediately after the ceremony? If, so why?

M.A.

1.—Yes, I favor this sensible procedure. The bride arranges to have her bridal photograph taken after the last fitting of her wedding gown. The photograph may be taken at the photographer's studio or he is engaged to bring is special lights either to the bride's home or to the store where she is having her bridal dress made.

At the actual wedding, either a friend (there usually is a good photographer among one's friends) or a hired professional takes "candid" shots of the bridal party and guests leaving the church and during the reception.

2.—Is it considered "unfashionable" to have formal photographs taken of the bridal party either immediately before the ceremony or before or after the reception. But it is going out of favor because, first, it usually isn't so convenient, and second, because of the greater popuarity of the 'candid' snots, which do not require any exhausting posing.

Proper Dress for Ballet

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to a ballet performance in the evening soon. I am fifteen years old. Would it be proper for me to wear a formal evening dress, if my guardian wears a street-length afternoon dress?

L. E.

Since your guardian is planning to wear a street-length dress to this ballet performance, it is undoubtedly her judgment that you too should wear a street-length afternoon dress. And I agree with her, for you will find that most of the girls and women in the audience will be in informal dress. In these War days, informality seems, in general, to be the inclination in dressing.

Picton and District

Military Honors Accorded Flyers

Picton, Aug. 20—Military honors were accorded two of the fliers who lost their lives is a plane crash on Friday near Point Petre, here this morning. The third victim of the crash was buried previously in Ottawa.

The last body was recovered Wednesday near the scene of the crash as it came to the top of the water.

The funeral was of a quieter nature than usual due to the effect on the morale of other students. A procession of airmen marched to Glenwood cemetery, with the flag-draped caskets on a truck. The service was at the graveside and conducted by Squadron Leader J. M. Wright, station chaplain. The Last Post was sounded and a volley was fired by the guard of honor as the two young British airmen were laid at rest in the shade of the great trees.

There were a number of floral tributes from the station as well as one from the Picton Legion Ladies Auxiliary.

13-Year-Old Boy Guest of Premier After Cycling From Worcester, Mass.

Trenton, (Special to the Ontario Intelligencer)—A most interesting guest of Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn, during the past few days has been a youthful adventurer from Worcester, Mass. The Intelligencer representative had an interview with this young chap in Niagara Falls just previous to his leaving for St. Thomas and found him to be a most interesting and intelligent young traveller though only thirteen years of age.

He had left home at the close of the school term, after coaxing since last January for permission from his parents to make the trip. His father is a Congregationalist minister in Worcester, and though he was quite favourably disposed towards his son's adventurous inclinations, the mother was, as most mothers are, much harder to persuade. However, with his bicycle in good shape, seven dollars in his pocket, and a few cooking utensils and equipment thirteen-year-old Richard Todd, who could easily be mistaken for a young Britisher, left his home to see what could be seen of Canada and the United States in the two months' holiday at his disposal.

Learned to Cook at Camp

He travelled straight north through the New England States where he encountered a school of girls camping, and knowing nothing whatever of cooking Richard stopped off for a few days to take lessons in cooking from these girls, which greatly helped him for the balance of his trip. Crossing below Quebec City, he visited Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton and Niagara Falls, where he was invited by the Ontario Police Convention to be their guest for three days during which time repairs were made to his bicycle. He informed the writer that he had visited many towns and cities along the way, travelling as much as 126 miles per day on his bike, and had spent each night during his trip in some Y.M.C.A., hotel, tourist camp, or had been a guest of some kind acquaintance.

"On reaching my stopping point for the night", said Dick, "I first went to a Y.M.C.A. if possible and if not I immediately got in touch with a police officer to ascertain the best place to put up. I kept in touch with my parents by writing each day, he said, and each week they sent me along another $7 addressed to a point where I expected to arrive".

Introduced to Premier Hepburn

While a guest at a banquet tendered the Police Association by the City of Niagara Falls, Dick was formally introduced to the Premier of Ontario, who being particularly interested at all times in children, invited the youthful traveller to visit him at his farm at St. Thomas. After spending a few days there Dick intends leaving for Detroit where he will cross into the United States and return to his home in time for school opening.

Asked how he identified himself to obtain the money sent along each week by his parents, Dick said "Oh that's easy with all the cards one is obliged to carry, registration card, bicycle licence, sugar rationing card, etc., nothing to it", he said. By the time he had reached Niagara this lad had done over 1,200 miles on his bike and was keenly looking forward to more than twice that amount of riding before he would reach home again.

Some thrilling tales will no doubt he told his pals on his entry into High School when he returns.

Hot Weather Beauty Hints

After washing with a stiff brush friction the legs with witch hazel

By HELEN FOLLETT

CONSERVING stockings is no hardship. You dispense with the garter girdle, which is no hot weather treat. Anklet hosiery is easy to slip on and off.

The bare-legged cult is bigger and better than at any previous season. Its members range from the baby in the go-cart to grandma on her way to market.

This adds one more beauty chore to the list we always have with us. When legs are in the critical public eye they should look presentable. Walking and bicycling are normalizing contours to a greater extent than we realize. Both these health-giving exercises tend to reduce fatted calves and to fill out spindle shanks.

The unsheathed limb, exposed to the elements, sometimes takes on an unbecoming blush. Not a pretty pink glow, but an array of red speckles known as gooseflesh, which is not decorative. To combat this blemish, scour the skin every night with warm soap suds and a heavy brush, rinse thoroughly, dry briskly, friction with high quality witch hazel.

No girl likes to have fur on her legs. These unsightly growths can be removed by the application of the depilatory. Make a test, spreading a small amount over a surface the size of a half dollar. While the average skin is not irritated by these preparations, the exceptional one may have an allergy.

Hair on Legs

Superfluous hair can be bleached if one prefers that treatment to extermination. Beauty shops use what is called white henna, but isn't for the very good reason that there never grew an herb called white henna. Take two heaping tablespoonfuls of magnesium carbonate, mix with it enough peroxide Vol. 17 to form a paste the consistency of whipped cream. Spread on a fairly heavy film. Remove in half an hour with warm water. If the little shafts aren't white, repeat the treatment next day.

Don't be a demon sun worshipper. Not to the extent of getting tanned until the legs look leathery. Use a sun-tan oil freely, especially if you are a beach lounger. Excessive tanning tends to thicken the skin and to make it coarse.

Some Facts that are Known About About Cancer

Despite the fact that the cause of cancer is unknown, physicians know so many things have been discovered about cancer that its cause should soon be found. Fortunately enough has been learned that thousands of lives are now saved every year because early cancer can be cured by radium, Xrays and surgery.

Some of the definite facts now known about cancer are stated by Dr. William Cramer, St. Louis, in The Journal of the American Medical Association.

One of the first facts learned was that whether the cancer is in a mouse or a man, it takes a certain percentage of the life span before the cancer cells appear.

In a mouse, coal tar produces cancer in six months and fifteen years in man.. With a life span of twp years for a mouse and seventy years in man (66 is now average), six mouse months represents one-fourth of the life span of a mouse and fifteeen years nearly one-fourth of the life span of a man. This means that it takes a long period of time in the life of a mouse and man for the normal cells to gradually turn to cancer cells.

Another fact is that of a group of nine living on the same food and amid the same surroundings, a few will develop cancer at or after the age of six months and the rest will not. Similarly with man, some develop cancer after a certain time and other do not.

This means then that both mice and men have an inherited tendency to cancer for if the tissues of mice and men are irritated, some will develop cancer and some will not.

Further, cancer does not appear in mice or men at the same age. Thus while it is usually after six months in mice and fifteen years in men, cancer appears earlier and later than these ages, thus cancer is found in a child and in a man or woman of seventy.

While Dr. Cramer mentions other factors, it would be well for us to remember those above mentioned. First, it takes time for cancer to develop. Second, there is a family tendency. Third cancer still may not devolp unless there is irritation of the cells by outside or inside conditions, even when there is a family tendency.

The thought then is that even if the cause of cancer is unknown, the above facts should keep us alert. Early cancer is curable.

Oxygen Treatment Relieves Disorder of Elderly Persons

Old people sometimes suffer from excessive gas in the bowel. A new idea as to what might cause this uncomfortable and annoying condition is presented by Dr. Joseph Felsen of New York City. Dr. Felsen believes that these older people suffer from hardening of the arteries which supply the intestine with blood which, in turn, causes the excessive gas.

The symptoms which these older persons have consist of swelling of the abdomen, constipation, indigestion and cramps after eating. The symptoms, it would appear, occur because not enough blood is brought to the intestinal wall. Then the muscles in the walls of the intestine lose their strength and the passage of gas from the bowel into the blood and back is interfered with. To relieve the symptoms, Dr. Felsen suggests treatment given with oxygen by passing a tube into the intestine.

To help in making a diagnosis of the condition of the blood vessels in the bowel wall, Dr. Felsen suggests examination of the bowel through an instrument known as a sigmoidoscope, made up of a tube with lights which makes it possible to look directly into the part of the bowel known as the sigmoid.

In addition to the giving of oxygen Dr. Felsen believes that the treatment should also consist of rest periods after meals. The diet should be made up of easily digested foods and it is better for the patient to eat five small meals a day rather than three larger ones. The food should be well chewed and slowly eaten.

To keep up the vitamin content of the diet vitamin concentrates are employed. Dr. Felsen suggests also that one fast day a week with the diet on that day consisting only of water, milk, broth and fruit juices, may be helpful. This fasting would give rest to the digestive system. To relieve the swelling in the abdomen he thinks that suction through the sigmoidoscope may be of value. This suction may also act to massage the bowel wall and increase the tone or strength of the bowel muscles.

In giving the oxygen treatment, an oxygen tank is used, together with a rubber tube. This tube is inserted into the lower opening of the bowel and the oxygen is allowed to flow into the bowel for a period of ten minutes at a time. The treatment is given one to three times a day. The oxygen is warmed by passing it through a warming device before it enters the bowel. This treatment seems to be easily carried out in the physician's office or even in the patient's home.

Thus it would seem that there is a method for relieving a troublesome condition which occurs in older persons.

No Extra Sugar Allowed For Pickling, Sauces

The frequency with which requests for extra sugar to be used for the home preparation of pickles and fruit sauces are being received by retailers leads the regional office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board to believe that the regulations in this respect are not properly understood.

Extra sugar is obtainable by means of sugar purchase vouchers only when it is required for the home production of jam, jelly and preserves. There is no provision in the ration regulations for consumers to obtain extra sugar for any other use.

It is further pointed out that consumers must bring their sugar ration cards with them when they apply for extra sugar for home preserving or canning, since it is necessary to place the number of the card on the voucher that is filled out.

The Program was arranged by Mrs. Frank Smith, secretary of Christian Citizenship and Temperance. Miss Muriel Sine read the Bible lesson and a devotional paper prepared by Mrs. John Holmes was read and it was based on "Jehovah the Lord Will Provide" and the 145 Psalm, "Are we paid these days to lift up the banner of Jesus Christ?" was the challenge. A letter from Mrs. Way of Picton was read.

Mrs. Cyrus Summers was appointed periodical secretary for 1943 and will now gather subscriptions for the new year.

Mrs. Baldwin Reid contributed a splendid elocution number entitled, "How the Train Came for Lillie." Mrs. Cyrus Summers read a selection, "Bible Window Shopping." Farmerettes Rally To Save Niagara Fruit Crop From Becoming A Loss

CHOICE BATCH

And we're not referring to the plums alone. These farmerettes are shown on a fruit farm in the Niagara peninsula, where hundreds are helping this year.

LOTS OF WORK IN FARMERETTE CAMPS

Among the many chores which the farmerette must perform after her day in the fields is her personal laundry. Healthy and full of pep the girls don't seem to mind the extra work at all.

SING SONG

Although the farmerettes who live in camps are allowed two late nights each week, they don't feel much like jitterbugging after the day's work is through. One form of recreation is depicted here, where a group is gathered around the piano for an old-fashioned sing song.

London, Aug. 20 —(CP)— Parliamentary war sessions, with few exceptions, have been held week after week on the same three days, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, but for security reasons the day of a sitting can never be mentioned in advance.

Some members think this is carrying security a bit too far and Sir Herbert Williams (Con.-Croydon South), contending that "any intelligent person in Berlin can ascertain on which day the House is sitting," asked that the regulation be rescinded. The government is considering lifting the ban. . . .

Two of the best known men in British political life rarely receive their correct names. They are Winston Spencer-Churchill (yes, that's a hyphen there) and David Lloyd George (without a hyphen). The present prime minister long since dropped the "Spencer." And just as long ago the nation's leader in the First Great War ceased to be a Mr. George and became instead Mr. Lloyd George. Few of "L.G.'s" admirers know that "Lloyd" is his christian name and not part of his surname.

Bitter rivals in parliament are Lady Astor and David Kirkwood, Labor member for Dumbarton Burghs, but their animosity doesn't extend beyond the floor of the House. Lady Astor closed one "scene" between them with the comment "and to think that I prayed for you to get well"—a reference to an illness from which Kirkwood had just recovered. When they next met Mr. Kirkwood thanked his rival for her prayers.

A new Common Wealth movement has been formed from the fusion of Sir Richard Acland's Forward March movement and Author J. B. Priestly's 1941 committee. Its aims include common ownership of all great resources and service to the community instead of self-interest. Vernon Bartlett, Independent M. P. for Bridgewater, is a member of the executive committee.

The Common Wealth movement, combining two Independent political organizations, is expected to intensify by election challenges. The groups pooled their candidates' lists and plan to contest practically every fight, especially in Conservative and Liberal constituencies.

When you read that only 40 per cent of the electorate vote in a British by-election, it doesn't necessarily mean the voters are apathetic. As a matter-of-fact, 40 per cent is considered "a good show" in war-time because the only voters eligible are those on the pre-war register and in urban areas especially thousands of persons have moved from the constituency since the list was compiled.

Maj. J. G. Morrison, Salisbury's new M.P., is the fifth Morrison in the Commons. The others are Herbert Morrison, home secretary, W. S. Morrison, post-master general, R. C. Morrison, Labor member for Tottenham, and Dr. G. A. Morrison, Liberal-National member for the Scottish Universities. Even the Smiths can't do better than that. There are five of them too.

Capt. Harold Balfour, under-secretary for air, made an unhappy choice of words when he said in the House of Commons that "British forces are never defeated, they sometimes have setbacks, but in the end they always win."

The British press, mindful of Dunkirk, Singapore, Tobruk and other military disasters, scored the minister for his "soothing phrase which will always raise a thoughtless cheer" and warned that "there is no inevitable ordained certainty that we shall 'always win.'"

When it comes to quick retorts the ladies take second place to no one in parliamentary debates. Take, for instance, this exchange between W. J. Brown (Ind. Rugby) and Mrs. M. C. Tate (Con. Frome).

Brown: There is space in the Isle of Man almost as large as in Mrs. Tate's mind.

Mrs. Tate: I am obliged to you for saying I am so broad-minded. I'm sorry I can't say the same for you.

There's a lot of talk about the Conservatives being the "old" party in the Commons and Labor being the "young" but statistics show it the other way around. Forty per cent of the Labor members are over 60 and 56 per cent between 40 and 60. Comparative percentages for the Conservatives are 32 and 53. . . .

Picton Reports Some Good Fishing Stories And Excellent Catches

Picton, Aug. 19 — Waters of Prince Edward County are rewarding the followers of Isaak Walton with some outstanding catches. The largest bass to be caught is that landed by Kenneth Johnson of Cherry Valley who was fishing in East Lake. It was a big-mouth bass and tipped the scales at six and one quarter pounds. It measured 23 inches in length and just under sixteen inches around the girth. He was casting at the time and also landed four other bass which weighed a total of 15 pounds.

The Cooper family seem to have a monopoly on the 'lunge in Picton Bay as they are not only the sole fishermen to get them but they have landed four in six days. The lucky fishermen were J. C. Cooper and his son Billy. The four fish weighed a total of sixty pounds with the largest weighing 18 pounds. All were caught a short distance outside Picton harbor.

While fishing off Cronk's ferry, opposite Deseronto, Reginald Bowden, of St. Catharines got what he claimed to be a record pre-breakfast catch. Five small-mouth black bass weighed twenty pounds.

Not even a hook and line was required by Miss Reta Hagerman of Toronto to land a two and one-half pound bass in East Lake. While swimming with a party of friends she noted the fish and made a grab at it. Luckily, she secured a firm hold and managed to get the fish ashore. Several friends testify to the feat and also partook of the catch at the evening meal.

With a live perch as bait, a local fisherman landed a nice bass off Waupoos, in an odd way. Cast into the water, the minnow swam away and soon there was a jerk on the line. The man hauled it in and found the perch in swimming had hooked the bass in the tail fin so firmly it was safely landed.

Area Target Of Bomb Raids For Months

By EDWARD E. BOMAR

The nervous Nazis probably feel sure now they can guess where the United Nations' effort to set up a second front will be centred.

The powerful surprise assault on Dieppe was suggestively the fourth recent raid by the Commandos on a stretch of the Northern France Channel coast only a little more than 100 miles long.

For months this area directly opposite England has been the target, too, of nightly air bombing and daylight sweeps. Even while the attack on Dieppe was in progress, American heavy bombers hit at a Nazi air field at nearby Abbeville, after having plastered the railway junction of Rouen forty-eight hours earlier.

The Nazis' presumptions are supported of course by obvious military logic, as well as by the direction of preliminary attacks. Dieppe, like the Boulogne-Le Toquet area twenty-five miles from England's Dover coast where the Commandos twice have paid unwelcome calls this year, is suitable as one bridgehead for an invading Allied Army

The ancient port is but a step to the valleys of the Seine and the Somme through which historic drives toward Paris have moved. To the west are the Norman and Breton Peninsulas which invite pinching-off attempts. Their great ports of Brest and Cherbourg ultimately must serve as Allied bases as they did a quarter-century ago. Immediately across the Channel are a string of English port cities from which to despatch the invading masses.

The Nazis let no opportunity pass, however, to point out that this part of the invasion coast, along with the Belgian and Netherlands shores, have been made more forbidding by defensive fortification than any other in Northern Europe.

Before Canadian, British, American and other Allied forces set out across the Channel in full strength with intent to remain on the Continent at any cost, many another hit-run raid can be anticipated, to confuse the Nazis and feel out their defences, to perfect tactics and train men.

If military precedents apply, the permanent second front bridgeheads will be established only after air fields, fixed fortifications, roads and railways have been smashed by aerial artillery barrages more fearful than any that have yet been laid down.

The chief of the United States Army's new transportation corps hinted at this prospect is observing recently that once established ashore the second front forces must expect to rely almost entirely on motor trucks for further movement of supplies, as "the railroads probably will all be destroyed."

The Nazis can never be entirely sure nevertheless about any phase of the second-front outlook, being in the position of a cat watching a dozen ratholes. Any offensive operation is likely to involve numerous diversionary attacks, and the European coast from Norway's North Cape to Spain offers limitless scope to the peculiar talents of the Commandos.

Churchill Surprises Soldiers in Desert By Unexpected Visit

By Edward Kennedy
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

With British Forces on the Egyptian Front, Aug. 20 —(AP)—A resolute civilian figure in sun helmet, grey suit and black bow tie trudged westward one day recently along the desert coast road to El Alamein, within hearing distance of the heavy cannonading.

British army trucks passed and then stopped short.

"Blimey," exclaimed an amazed driver, "it's Winston."

Prime Minister Churchill, on an inspection trip breaking a flight to Moscow, turned, waved and gave the "V" salute.

Mr. Churchill spent most of the day among South African and Australian detachments which make up part of the forces aligned against the German and Italian divisions of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel.

Mr. Churchill had arrived in Egypt by plane at a desert airfield at dawn one day.

He stepped from the plane in the uniform of an air commodore.

Mr. Churchill's arrival as an air commodore eliminated the formalities which would have been entailed if he had come as prime minister.

Later he drove to the Suez Canal area to inspect fresh troops and equipment which had arrived recently from Britain.

SURFACE RAIDER IN S. ATLANTIC

Survivors From Ship Shelled Tell Story on Arrival at Port

A U. S. Atlantic Port, Aug. 20—(AP)— A heavily armed German surface raider is active in the South Atlantic, the United States navy revealed with the announcement of the safe arrival of 10 survivors of an American vessel sunk by torpedoes and shell fire from the German ship.

The second officer of the lost craft, a naturalised American citizen who asked that his name not be used because he had relatives in Germany, said at least 15 of his crewmates were killed by shells or machine gun fire which came from three points simultaneously and that he believed about 20 others were taken prisoners by the raider.

The captain of the ship said he had a theory that the surface raider, a ship of perhaps 8,000 to 9,000 tons had launched motor torpedo boats equipped with machine guns.

Johnny Bawden Hurls 4-Hitter For "Vets" to Defeat I. T. S. And Annex City Softball Title

Cy Barriage and Phil Loft Provide Fielding Sensations in Fine Contest

SCORE IS 4-3

Yes, the Army & Navy Vets are champions of the Belleville and District Softball Association, but it wasn't before they were given equal battle in the final round by the No. 5 ITS "Flyers". Last night in what proved the final and perhaps one of the best softball games played in Belleville in some time, the "Vets" emerged victorious 4 to 3 in a fourth game of a best-in-five series, giving the winners the championship in three successive games, after the Flyers had won the opener. In winning last night the Vets not only annexed the league title and the Bank of Commerce trophy, but gained for themselves the right to represent Belleville in the O.A.S.A. playdowns, which commence here versus Trenton next Monday.

Fires Four-Hitter

The lion's share of glory for last night's victory must go to Johnnie Bawden, the Vets' ace hurler, who although benched for a fortnight with a foot injury, returned to the slab to pitch a four-hit game, allowing only one single base blow after the second inning. Bawden was in rare form and except for Jack Parry's two-run circuit blow in the initial frame was never in trouble as his teammates played sterling ball behind a stellar mound effort, paced by Shortstop Cy Barriage.

The game developed pretty much into a pitchers' battle between Bawden and Al Bell, labouring for the Flyers, but Bell's defence kicked in with two bad miscues and he was touched for nine base hits, four of which were for extra bases. Bawden whiffed seven and walked two, while Bell struck out but two and walked one.

The Play

Hann's single and Bennett's double gave the Vets their first run after the Flyers had scored two in the initial frame on an error and Parry's lusty circuit blow. The Flyers were out in front by two in the top half of the second as the result of Green's single and Bell's double and there was no further scoring until the fifth when the Vets knotted the count when Green drew the only walk off Bell, went to second on Bennett's second hit, a single, and scored on Jimmy Barriage's timely double. Barriage subsequently ramped home on Loft's mighty swat, that went for three bases to tie the count. In the sixth Ethier drove into right for a single and the elusive ball evaded Green for a two-base error and "Shud" waltzed around to third to score on St. Louis's timely hit giving the Vets the winning run.

Cy Barriage Stars

Phil Loft, with a triple and a single paced the Vets on the attacks, while Doug Bennett helped the winners with a double and a timely one-base blow. Bawden held the Flyers to four hits, Parry getting a two-run round-tripper in the first and Bell getting a double to score a run in the second. The fielding sensations were headed by Cy Barriage's one-hand stab of Weir's drive in the first and four assists, while Connelly and Conway made sterling plays in defence for the vanquished Airmen. The game was one of the best contested softball matches played locally in some time and was witnessed by upwards of 700 fans at the Fair Grounds.

OHIO FANS WONDER AS REDS, INDIANS FOLD TOGETHER

Both Teams Will be Lucky to Finish in First Division

CHANGES COME FAST

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

It the baseball fans in the State or Ohio have any knock for solving puzzles, they might use that talent to good advantage by finding the cause of the sudden collapse of their two entries in the major leagues.

Not so many days ago Cleveland Indians were runners-up in the American League and Cincinnati Reds were skipping along in third place in the National loop.

But changes come fast in baseball and today the Indians and the Reds look as if they'll be fortunate to finish in the first divisions.

Each team has lost nine of its last 11 games. The Reds have dropped into fourth place, three games away from the second division. The Indians are hanging onto the third spot in the American League by four percentage points but will find themselves sharing that position with St. Louis if the Brownies win today.

Handed Sixth Setback

Pittsburgh Pirates, gunning for Cincinnati's place in the top half of the standings, handed the Reds their sixth setback in a row yesterday and beat Paul Derringer in the bargain, 9-2. The drubbing left the Reds 5 1-2 games behind the third-place New York Giants, who were idle.

Hank Gornicki, who two seasons in the majors produced only three previous triumphs, held the Reds to eight scattered hits.

Detroit Tigers pasted the third straight loss on the Indians, 6-1, in a twilight game. Virgil Trucks pitched six-hit ball for the Tigers and had the help of a three-run homer by Rudy York, which bounced Jim Bagby in the third inning, and another round-tripper by Ned Harris.

Yankees Divide Twin Bill

Elsewhere in the American League, Philadelphia Athletics shut out Wasington Senators, 8-0, in a night game and Boston Red Sox divided a doubleheader with New York Yankees, containing a stretch duel that would be more interesting if the Yanks were not 11 1-2 games ahead.
